Redmen Cinch 2nd Place In COBL With 7-6 Defeat Of Kingston Monarchs

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

NEAT ONE TO WIN

Just when the Reds had practically econceded the game to the pesky Monarchs and a lot of fans were in the aisles picking their way to the exits, things began to happen last night at the Fair Grounds. The Tribe, two runs down going into their half of the ninth and just to prove that anything can happen in a baseball game and the pastime is not over until the last batter is out, proceeded to dig the game out of the fire. They came from behind twice to run the trick and as a result clinched second place in the Central Ontario Baseball League standing. They have a game left with the Monarchs and that will be played in Kingston on Thursday. The Reds have one game left with Kingston as have the Petes. A Red win and Petes defeat can tie the teams for top spot.

Sammy Mulholland was the hero of the piece last night, his centre-field single scoring the winning run in the tenth innings of a drama-filled game. The Reds were down 5-3 going into their half of the ninth and they tied it up with the only clutch clouting of the night. Monarchs came back to break the tie in the tenth but Pat Gilmour, Red Carson and Sammy came through with the necessary clouts to pull the victory out of what seemed certain defeat.

Manager Jack Carson informed this department last night that Vern Goyer is suffering with a spine injury and may be out of the game for the rest of the season. It appears a vertebra has been affected and X-rays will be taken to ascertain the extent of the injury. If Goyer is out for the season, it will be a distinct loss for the Redmen as well as the CNR Diesels softball squad.

SHOULD BE GOOD

That little post bout schmozzle when Pat Flanagan and Whipper Watson rendered Lord Athol Layton and his hated bodyguard, Lew Pitoscia hors-de-combat with a few playful pokes in the puss last Friday, apparently started something. The Clip and Fat were no end incensed at being subjected to the humiliation of listening to the birdies cheep, if only temporarily, at the hands and feet of the handsome Whip and Pat and forthwith demanded revenge in the form of a team match come Friday. And that is the way it is. Next Friday the foursome will hook up in a team-tag brawl which is just another way of saying "fireworks." The Clip and Fat should make a ferocious pair in the ring and twill take all of the Whip-and-Pat wile and ringmanship to subdue the duo. As an appetizer there's dynamic Ray Villmer matched with the Masked Marvel while Tiger Tasker takes on Sonny Kurgis. A right neat card.

MINOR BASEBALL

The Robb Royals and Victoria Church also swing into midget action for the city championship at Pine Street School. The second game of the best-of-three series is slated for Thursday night at the same place.

In the meantime Ted Schwab's Little Giants are readying for their all-important third game with Ottawa St. Anthony's, being played at the Cricket Field, Kingston, tomorrow afternoon starting at 2.30. It's do or die for the Giants.

MORE THRILLS

Dick Burrows auto stock car drivers swing into more action at the Fair Grounds tomorrow night. The first flood-lit races ever held in the city met with the approval of a large number of enthusiasts last week and Burrows promises even more excitement tomorrow evening. Drivers are pointing for the Pellar Star of Excellence Trophy and there should be some exciting heats before the dust settles on the Fair Grounds track.

KEEPING BUSY

CNR Diesels and the Glen Roy Juniors, not forgetting the Northern Electrics, Belleville aspirants for their respective OASA classification titles are not letting the alfalfa sprout under their tootsies.

Tonight the Diesels take on the Mazdas at Alemite Field starting at 6.30 in a warm-up exhibition game while on Thursday night, at 8.30, same place the "A's" tangle with the Glen Roys in another exhibition feature.

Saturday will be the supreme test for the Glens when they tangle with the powerful Oshawa youngsters in their first of their best-of-three series at Alemite Field starting at 9 o'clock.

According to Cec Perdue of the Peterborough Examiner, there is no intermediate "A" softball team in the Liftlock City, its upper bracket squad playing in senior "B". So that washes out any chance of a Whitby-Peterborough series. Convener Harry Knott could not be reached before deadline, so we're not able to state what team Diesels will play in the next round.

Incidentally the Oshawa Juniors are playing off with a senior team for the city softball championship.

Madoc Juniors will play an exhibition game with Glen Roy Juniors at 8.30 at the Alemite Field tonight.

NEW YORK (AP)—A close friend of Eddie Arcaro says the United States best—and richest—jockey intends to quit the saddle after this year and turn his talents to training. Mulholland Wins Game in 10th After Reds Tie It Up In 9th; Can Tie Petes for Top Slot

SAMMY MULHOLLAND
. . . Klutch-Klout Kid

Sam Mulholland's sizzling single through centre snatched a 10-inning 7-6 victory out of the fire for the Belleville Redmen over Kingston Monarchs and cinched second place for his team in the COBL standing here last night.

Mulholland's game - winning blow climaxed ninth and tenth inning rallies by the Reds after they had trailed all through the the game. Down two runs in the bottom of the ninth tney shoved over two runs to tie the score. The Monarchs came through with a single in the tenth but the Redmen tied it up and Slingin' Sam came through with the winning clout to score Wright.

Billy Richards, Monarch hurler, practically had the game in the bag going into the bottom of the ninth innings. He had held the Reds to eight hits and had a 5-3 lead. He retired Reeves, and Wright who had singled was forced at second. Gilmour went to second when Mulholland walked and came home on Pettitt's blow to centre. Fitz got on on McCormick's bobble and Sammy scored the tying run.

Carnegie's towering fence-touching triple paved the way for the Monarchs run in the tenth, the catcher scoring on Richard's single to left.

Kelleher grounded out in the Reds half of the tenth and Carson drove a single off McCormick's glove. Reeves went out on a ground ball and Art Wright was purposely passed. Pat Gilmour drove a single to right centre to score Carson and Wright galloped home second when Mulholland's drive went to centre field to win the game.

The Monarchs got to Johnny Mowat, Reds starting hurler in the first inning, scoring two runs off Worth's single and consecutive doubles by Levandoski and Scrutton. They added two more in the third on singles by White and Lenard, two walks and a wild pitch.

Their fifth run came in the seventh after Scrutton and Rank had been retired. White banged out a single went to second and third on a stolen base and a passed ball and was waved home when Umpire Whitman, claimed Art Wright, Redman hurler had balked. The Reds rhubarbed plentv oyer the decision, but it stuck.

The Reds got a pair in the third on singles by Reeves and Semark. Gilmour grounded out and McCormick bobbled Mulholland's bid for a hit. Pettitt struck out and Fitzpatrick drove in both runners with a deep centre single. They got the third in the eighth off singles by Pettitt and Fitzpatrick and another Monarch error. Came the ninth and tenth inning rallies and that was that.

Yields 13 Hits

Richards was touched for 13 hits, seven of them coming in the last three innings. He struck out six and walked four besides driving in the sixth Monarch run in the 10th.

Johnny Mowat started for the Reds and gave up five hits for four runs in three innings when Art Wright took over. Wright, the seasonal nemesis of the Monarchs yielded six hits over the rest of the route, whiffing four and walking two. He was credited with the victory.

Tony Pettitt with a double and two singles paced the Red offensive with Gilmour, Mulholland and Fitzpatrick coming through with two each.

Carnegie came through with a triple and single for the Monarchs with White getting a pair of one-basers. Scrutton, Don Gilmore, McCormick and Levandoski each hit doubles.

Yankee Girls In Canadian Tennis Final

OTTAWA (CP)—Carol Wolf of Buffalo, N. Y., and Joyce Pniewski, of Hamtramck, Mich., meet today to decide the girls' singles title at the Canadian junior tennis championships.

The boys' and the junior men's semi-finals will also be decided in the fifth day of the week-long tournament at the Rideau Lawn Tennis Club.

The juvenile boys' and girls' finals have been decided with Gerald Dubie and Phyllis Saganski both members of the Hamtramck Tennis Club, taking the honors.

Miss Wolf, top-seeded in the girls' singles, moved into the finals yesterday when she eliminated Miss Saganski, who moved up from juvenile ranks, 6-0, 6-1, Miss Pniewski ousted Barbara Evans of Rothesay, N. B., 6-4, 6-3.

Fou boys' sinrgles hopefuls meet in the semi-finals today. They are Raul Karman of Havana, Cuba, Carl Norgauer of Yonkers, N. Y., Jim Ionidis of Winipeg and Gerald Daly of Toronto. Ionidis, high-seeded Canadian in the event, will play unseeded Daly.

Defending champion Dudley Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla., will meet Norgauer later in the day in the junior men's singles. The other two battling for final berths in that event are Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N.Y., and Stephen Gaottlieb of New York City.

The junior men's singles turned into an all-American event yesterday when Canada's last hope, John Swann of Vancouver, was knocked out by Norgauer, 6-4, 7-5. The Yonkers player is competing in both boys' and junior men's ranks.

British Columbia's Golf Hot Shots Set Example by Fellow Canadians

VANCOUVER (CP)—The British Columbia hot-shots go to work today in the Canadian amateur golf championship with some inspiring examples from other Canadians before them.

Defending champion Walt McElroy of Vancouver is scheduled to take on Bob Roos of San Francisco while Vancouver's lame-duck Bill Mawhinney, 1950 Canadian titleholder, is to play George Andrews, Port Alberni, B.C., basketball coach.

A Canadian giant-killer emerged from yesterday's first-round matches when 34-year-old Vic Painter of Victoria cut down Pete Bogan of Montebello, Calif., U.S. public links champion, 3 and 1.

"Why didn't they tell me about this guy?" moaned Bogan afterwards.

Painter finished off the Californian on the 17th green by dropping a 50-foot put. He had a two-under-par 35 on the first nine.

The Ontario contingent got down to serious work early. Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener blasted R. E. Hibbertson of Victoria 6 and 5 and Nick Weslock of Windsor floored Vern Goodfellow of Vancouver 5 and 4.

Bob Gray of Winnipeg sank John Wilson of Vancouver 6 and 5 and Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., ousted Brian Hopkins of Vancouver 2 and 1.

Favorites Hop Down

American favorites Joe Gagliardi of Mamaroneck, N.Y., and Dick Yost of Portland, Ore., were sidelined their first time out. Max Teningkeit of Culver City, Calif., bounced Gagliardi, U.S. amateur runner-up last year, 2 and 1, and Frank Hardison of Glendale, Calif., eliminated Yost 1 up.

But another American, Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., gave notice that he will be an extremely tough customer to beat. The 1950 U.S. champion blasted Bill MacPherson of Seattle 6 and 5. He was seven up after nine holes, which he played in 33 strokes, four under par.

Sixty-four 18-hole matches were on the card for today over the hilly, dog-legged Capilano course in West Vancouver.

Golfers hope for a break in the weather. Rain streamed down most of yesterday and low-hanging clouds sometimes fluttered across the course, perched 700 feet on the side of Hollyburn mountain.

Royals Win Pair From Buffalo; Chiefs Nip Leafs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Is Jim Pendleton, the Montreal flash, going to be the next Negro bought up by Brooklyn Dodgers?

First came Jackie Robinson. Then Roy Campanella. They were followed by Don Newcombe and the Dodger grade is Sandy Amoros.

If Pendleton continues his present form there is little doubt the Royals' 26-year-old shortstop will be the next to wear Dodger flannels unless the Brooklyn brass succumbs to the pleas of Branch Rickey and sells Pendleton to Pittsburgh Pirates.

The Dodgers turned down a deal with the Pirates involving Pendleton last winter.

Pendleton went on a batting spree last night as he led the International League's pace-setters to a double win over fifth-place Buffalo Bisons, 3-2 and 11-2.

Perfect Night

In the opener Pendleton's homer provided the margin as Gil Mills, hurling three-hit ball, picked up his third win. Enjoying a perfect game in the nightcap, Pendleton swatted his second homer of the night, a triple and two singles, diving in four runs. He went six for seven in the double-header. Bob Alexander scattered six hits to gain his seventh win in the afterpiece.

An eight-run seventh inning enabled Syracuse Chiefs to come from behind to defeat Toronto Maple Leafs 11-6. The Leafs used six pitchers in an effort to stem the tide. The marathon contest saw a total of 33 players used. Art Hartley gained the win, his eighth. The loser was Stubby Overmire.

Springfield Cubs shaded Baltimore Orioles 5-4 in 12 innings. Baltimore scored one run in the top of the 12th to break the 3-3 tie. But the Cubs scored two in their half on Red McQuillen's bases-loaded single.

Ottawa and Rochester were not scheduled.

Raffensberger, Shantz Leading Major Hurlers

NEW YORK (AP)—Lefty Ken Raffensberger of Cincinnati Reds, who turned in a six-hit shutout against New York Giants last night, has taken over as the National League's earned-run leader.

Averages through yesterday's games show that the 35-year-old Raffensberger has allowed 58 earned runs in 208 innings for a 2.51 mark. The veteran Redleg hurler has a 14-11 record.

In the American League, Philadelphia's Bobby Shantz, with 46 earned tallies in 22 frames, holds the top spot with a 1.81 average. The brilliant southpaw, seeking to capture pitching's triple crown, has won 22 and dropped only four for the four-place Athletics.

Karl Drews and Robin Roberts, a pair of Philadelphia righthanders follow close behind Raffensberger in the National League. Drews has a 2.53 slate while Roberts is third at 2.56.

Allie Reynolds, the early season E.R.A. leader in the American League, still has a chance to overtake Shantz. The 34-year-old New York Yankee righthander is runner-up with a 2.1 average.

Cleveland's Mike Garcia holds down third place at 2.36.

Virgil 'Fire' Trucks Fashions 2nd No-Hitter Of Year In 1-0 Yankee Defeat

Tribe Gains Game On Leaders With 7-2 Win Over Senators; Brooks Take 2; Giants Lose

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Virgil (Fire) Trucks was riding on the clouds today.

The 33-year-old Detroit right-hander, suffering his poorest season in the majors, suddenly finds himself in the pitchers' mythical Hall of Fame, joining Johnny Vander Meer and Allie Reynolds on a pedestal reserved for those who achieve two no-hitters in the same season.

Trucks yesterday held New York Yankees hitless at the Stadium and won 1-0 in a sensational, thrill-packed performance that cut the world champions' American League lead to one game over Cleveland Indians, who defeated Washington 7-2. The classic came just three months and 10 days after he handcuffed Washington Senators without a hit or a run May 15.

Has Tough Luck

The Birmingham fireballer also has pitched a one-hitter, a two-hitter, a five-hitter and two six-hitters. Yet he has only five victories to show for his efforts as against 15 defeats. Only Art Houtteman, a teammate, has lost more.

A seventh-inning double by Walter Dropo followed by Steve Souchock's single off rookie Bill Miller provided Trucks with the winning margin. It was his third 1-0 victory and his first since he hurled a one-hitter against the Senators July . In that game only a lead-off single by Eddie Yost deprived him of a no-hitter.

Trucks also pitched nine scoreless innings against St. Louis Browns Aug. 6, but the Tigers lost 1-0 in 11 innings. The hard-luck pitcher also was on the losing end of two other shutouts.

Even yesterday the jinx was reluctant to leave him. It was not until the Yankees were going to bat in the seventh inning that Trucks learned he had a no-hitter going. Until then he, along with all the players and the 13,442 fans, thought he had allowed a hit in the third inning.

In that inning, Phil Rizzuto chopped a simple grounder to short. Johnny Pesky fielded the ball cleanly and then bobbled it in his glove as he tried to pick it out for the throw to first. After one bad stab, he grabbed it but the toss was low and late and Rizzuto was safe.

Decision Reversed

John Drebinger, official scorer and veteran baseball writer of the New York Times, called it an error immediately, then, after a moment's reflection, he reversed himself. Under the impression that the ball had stuck in the webbing of Pesky's glove, Drebinger changed it to a hit.

Still not satisfied Drebinger telephoned Pesky in the visitors' dug-out as the Tigers came to bat in the seventh and the shotstop readily took the blame.

Drebinger then reversed himself again, ruled it an error and had the public address system announce it to the customers. Trucks worked all the harder in the three remaining innings, retiring the Yanks in order.

It was only the third no-hitter against the Yankees in their 51-year history.

The Indians clubbed Connie Marrero for 12 hits, erupting for three runs in the second and four in the ninth as Bob Lemon registered his 16th victory.

Cards Lose Two

Brooklyn Dodgers just about killed the Cardinals' slim pennant chances, sweeping both ends of a day-night St. Louis doubleheader, 3-1 and 9-5 to boost their National League lead to 10½ games. New York Giants slipped past the Cardinals into second place despite a 3-0 loss to Cincinnati.

Ken Raffensberger blanked the Giants with six hits to register his fifth shutout and his 14th victory for the Reds. Granny Hamner's homer with two on in the 10th gave Philadelphia Phils a 6-3 victory over Chicago Cubs in the majors' only other activity

Canadian U.S. Golf Pros Tangle In International Links Battle

MONTREAL (CP)—Julius Boros and Doug Ford lead off for the United States today against Bobby Locke and Jules Huot, representing Canada in the opening four-ball match of the international team competition between golf professionals of the two countries.

It promised to be a sizzling battle, particularly with the U.S. champion and the British Open champion figuring in the start of the brand new international event. Locke, an honorary member of the Canadian Professional Golfers Association, is permitted to play for Canada under the tournament regulations.

Like all Canadian-born members of the home team, Huot has held the C.P.G.A. championship at one time or another and has been playing in top form this season. He is pro at the Montreal Laval-sur-le-Lac club.

In the other matches, Dave Douglas and Ted Kroll were drawn against Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Pat Fletcher, 1952 C.P.G.A. champion from Saskatoon, and Jack Burke, Jr., American team captain, teamed up with Cary Middlecoff against Stan Horne of Montreal and Gordon Brydson of Toronto.

Kerr to Play

The only change in the lineup for tomorrow's six singles matches will be the replacement of Fletcher by Bill Kerr of the Montreal Beaconsfield host club. Kerr is captain and alternate of the Canadian team and will meet Middlecoff.

What appears to be the big attraction in tomorrow's singles is the Boros-Locke match—U.S. versus British Open champion.

The three four-ball matches today and tomorrow's singles are 36 holes of match play. All matches will be played out because bonus money prizes are awarded on the basis of medal play.

Both teams were guests last night at a dinner given by the sponsor of the tournament, John Jay Hopkins, American and Canadian industrialist.

Dorothy Kirby Launches Defence Of Golf Crown

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP)—Dorothy Kirby of Atlanta, having mastered 146 rivals to capture medal honors, launches the formal defence of her women's national amateur golf championship today.

The tall, drawling girl from Georgia scored a three-over par 76 to lead the qualifiers yesterday. It was the second time Miss Kirby had won medalist honors. She did it in 1946.

The surviving field of 64 hook up today in the first round of match play. The tournament course, Waverley Country Club, measures 6,323 yards, par 36-37—73.

Par was an elusive target for the girls yesterday. Only six managed to break 80.

Yet Miss Kirby's 76 was only two strokes higher than the record for the championship qualifying round. It was set in 13 by Beatrice Barrett and tied last year by Barbara Romack of California and Carol Diringer of Ohio.

Two Canadian women qualified for match play. Babs Davies of Vancouver, who shot an 84 yesterday faces Shirley McFedters of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. J. K. Todd of Victoria who barely got in with an 88, meets Mrs. Betty Rowland of Lexington, Ky.

Thistles Lose To St. Kitts 26-9

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—St. Catharines Athletics finished their 1952 Ontario Lacrosse Association senior schedule last night with a 26-9 victory over Fergus Thistles.

St. Catharines led 3-1 in the first quarter, 8-1 at half time and 17-3 at the end of the third quarter. Leading St. Catharines goal scorers were Doug Smith and John Moore with five each, John Dewar four and Bob Melville three.

For Fergus, John Gear and Ron Landoni scored two goals each.

Fifteen Year-Old School Girl Wins Canadian Amateur Swimming Title

TORONTO (CP)—A 15-year-old school girl yesterday captured the amateur swimming championship for the southwestern Ontario town of Fergus.

Doreen Howatt stroked easily along the Canadian National Exhibition's one-mile lakefront course in water whipped by a stiff onshore breeze in 27 minutes and 45 seconds to win the junior women's national title. Saturday she finished second to fellow Fergus Club member, Shirley Campbell, 16, in the senior women's competition on the same course.

Dorren scrambled aboard the finish barge some 75 yards ahead of 14-year-old Marilyn Bell of Toronto, last year's winner of the women's junior crown.

Twenty-three girls, all under 17 years of age, hit the 61-degree waters of Lake Ontario; only a handful were still in the water when Dorren finished.

The junior men's Canadian amateur champion was 14-year-old Edward Zelinski, Jr., of Hamilton. He finished 150 yards ahead of Ron Gillespie of Toronto in 25 minutes and 10 seconds.

Third place in the men's event went to Jeff Zwicker of Lockport, N.Y., while Robert Berlette of Woodstock finished fourth; Peter Hughes of Toronto, fifth, and Bob Gledhill of St. Catharines sixth.

A United States swimming club, the Radburn Flying Fish, of Radburn, N.J., captured most of the awards in special children's day water races. The 18 children—ranging in age from 8 to 13—took 15 gold first medals and two silver medals for second placers. All races were free style over a 50-yard course.

Boys' results included:

Under 14 years: 1-David McKee, Woodstock; 2-David Sullivan, Radburn; Glen Clark, Tillsonburgh. Time 2:90.

Relay under 14 years: 1-Woodstock Y.M.C.A. Time 2:51.1.

Girls results included:

Under 10 years: 1-Elnora Bredenberg, Radburn; 2-Cynthia Mitchell, Tillsonburg. Time 3:48.

Nnder 14 years: 1-Caroline Hanson, Radburn; 2-Valerie Lewis, Toronto; 3-Peg McKinnon, Fergus. Time 29.5

Relay under 14 years: 1-Radburn F.F.; 2-Toronto Lakeshore; 3-Welland YW.C.A. Time 2.21.0

Relay under 16 years: 1-Fergus SC; Time 2.11.2.

Young Pitchers Go to Pirates

BIRSTOL, Va. (AP)—Two young pitchers who achieved fame in the Class-D Appalachian League may be reunited soon—as members of Pittsburgh Pirates.

The pair are Ron Neccial, 19-year-old strikeout artist who recently joined the Pirates, and Bill Bell, strapping young right-hander from Goldsboro, N.C.

Three months ago the two were teammates on the Bristol Twins Club. Then Neccial set the diamond world on its ears with a no-hit peformance in which he struck out 27 men. He was called to Pittsburgh.

The night after Neccial left Bristol Bell turned in a no-hitter himself, fanning 17 in checking Kingsport, Tenn., 1-0. Four days later, the 18-year-old stopped Bluefield without a hit, 4-0, and whiffed 20.

He was out for a time with a back injury and last night Bell pitched his third no-hitter of the year, a seven-inning 4-0 tiumph over Bluefield.

Betting Increase Of 30 Per Cent At Thornecliffe

TORONTO (CP) — Thorncliffe Raceway concluded its third annual meeting yesterday and officers reported that the season had produced an increase of 30 per cent in wagering over 1951 with corresponding increase in gate receipts.

The directors tentatively announced that they will boost purses again in 153.

The Canadian Cup Race, Canada's richest harness racing purse will be raised to $10,000 next year. The Maple Leaf Cup for trotters will carry a value of $5,000.

Bill Habkirk of Lucknow won the prize for the leading driver at the meeting. Jack Mehlenbacher, National Hockey League referee, finished second in the drivers' contest. Third place went to Keith Waples of Victoria Harbour.

Yearlings Bring $97,200 at Sale

TORONTO (CP)—Forty-five Canadian-bred yearlings were sold for $97,200 last night at the ninth annual sale sponsored by the Canadian Thoroughbred Horse Society.

The average sale price was $2,160. Last year a consignment of 54 horses brought $92,300, an average of almost $1,700.

Frank Conklin was the leading consignor with 11 yearlings from his Midway Farm at Brantford attracting $42,800.

Conklin horses attracted the two top prices. Napinka, a bay filly by imported Reed Mace out of Branca, was sold to J. A. Charlesworth of Edmonton for $7,600 Third Degree-Bonnie went to the W. D. Hatch stables at Niagara Falls for $6,300.

Tennis League Corby Cup Play

Play for the Corby Cup in the Bay of Quinte League will get under way tonight as Trenton meets St. Andrew's-Holloway in the first round at Trenton. RCAF, and Point Anne will get together on the RCAF, home grounds to begin their semi finals.

On Thursday, St. Andrew's-Holloway will play Trenton at Holloway for their 1st round. Pt. Anne meets the RCAF, Thursday at Point Anne.

Thursday September 4th will see Quinte matched with the winner of the first round at the Quinte Courts.

Winner of the first round will be rematched with Quinte on their home court on the 8th of September.

In the finals which will be the best-of-three matches, the first and third match is slated to be played on the courts of the finalist that finished highest in the league standing.

"King Kong" Returns in Amazing Screen Classic

Imagine a giant ape, a lovely but frightened girl of whom he is enamored lying at its great feet, making his last stand against civilized man from atop the tallest building in the world!

A story drawn entirely from imagination is told in "King Kong" now showing on the Belle Theatre screen.

This is the RKO Radio picture which created a world-wide sensation when first released to delight moviegoers and which has been playing at one place or another throughout the globe ever since. Insistent demand on the part of picture patrons has now determined the producers to again present the super-thrill spectacle in the land where it had its birth.

"King Kong" was developed from an idea by Edgar Wallace and Merian C. Cooper, starring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot featured.

As a companion feature on the spectacular dual presentation is the sensational re-release "The Leopard Man" top-bracketed fare for fans who like thrills and chills with their screen romance. Dennis O'Keefe and Margo are featured with Jean Brooks in a third principal role.

Named Archery Champ

TORONTO (CP)—Arnold Glennie of Dunnville yesterday was named Canadian field archery champion in competition at the Canadian National exhibition. Margaret Skramred of Owen Sound took the ladies' title.

Glennie scored 661 in field competition and 945 in broadhead event for a total of 1,606, while Miss Skramred compiled 397 and 680 points for a total of 1,077.

Madoc Defeats Hastings 11-4

In Hastings, Madoc began their quest for the Junior "C" championship, by handing the Hasting Juniors an 11 to 4 defeat behind the steady pitching of Doug Radnor and the timely hitting of Harry Brown and Don Downey.

Brown hit a 3-run homer in the fifth inning to put Madoc ahead to stay. Downey, with two doubles knocking in four runs was the big gun for the talc towners.

Madoc, fielding the smartest team seen in these parts for many years are hopeful of going a long way in search of a championship.

Batteries for last night's game were for Hastings, Ward pitcher, and Wilson catcher, with Shieks replacing Ward in the 9th. For Madoc, Radnor was the pitcher and Downey the catcher.

The next game of the 2 of 3 series will be played in Tweed under the lights next Friday.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR WEDNESDAY, AUG. 27, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Interesting day; will respond readily to intelligent, cautious, systematic efforts. No need to overreach, however.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Much the same as for Aries, except that your personal affairs and regular occupational duties have more generous Venus rays.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Calm, cool planning and bargaining, especially with money, real estate, contracting, is urged for quicker, more satisfactory results.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—If at work, in conference or on vacation, be mindful of health as well as getting on steadily with business. Reason calmly, be happy.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Advice to Cancer can be beneficial to you and, like that Sign, you can help make it a productive period by being co-operative.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Some days are best for retrenching, keeping ambition tightly reined; other days are for all-out venture. Today asks a shrewd combination of both.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—You can be of great assistance to community interests now by lending sound advice; also by doing more than just your tasks. Work well with others.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Overdoing at some periods and a too lax attitude at others will cause strain. It's a benefic day rightly managed, and you can do that.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius) — Finances, bids, contracts, even small promises should be handled with caution. Money gains are indicated. Be watchful, sincere.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Encouraging aspects; be responsive but have no unnecessary anxiety. Don't worry; do your best and keep smiling. Good day on whole.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Promptness, accuracy important, especially in finances, keeping appointments. Day promising for reasonable vocational activities, social interests.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Seemingly intricate matters, difficult propositions will succumb to sensible direction if you have faith in your ability and go forward to achieve.

YOU BORN TODAY: A Leo-Virgo combinations of characteristics and possibilities, the Sun just having left the Sign Leo. You are scrupulous about manners, dress; are kindly, just, innately dependable. Overcome tendency to be timid about capabilities. You have much talent. Many blessings ahead. Birthdate: Jos. Reed, Sec'y. to Geo. Washington; Sophia Smith, founder Smith College; Theodore Dreiser, novelist.

DEFENCE CONSTRUCTION (1951) LIMITED

TENDER

File #122-7-T2-17 Job #2111 Supply and Installation of Extensions to Water Distribution System, R.C.A.F. Station, TRENTON.

Sealed tenders plainly marked as to content and addressed to the undersigned will be received up to 2:00 p.m. E.D.S.T. Tuesday, September 9th, 1952, for the performance of the following work: the supply and installation of extensions to the water distribution system at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, Ontario.

Plans, specifications and contract documents for this project may be obtained by prime contract tenderers at the address shown below. A deposit of $100.00 in the form of a cheque made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited is required with each complete set of plans, specifications and tender documents. This deposit will be refunded if the documents are returned in good condition within seven (7) days after the award of contract.

Each tender must be accompanied by a security deposit amounting to ten per cent (10%) of the tender total if such price is $500,000.00 or under and in addition five per cent (5%) of any excess of the tender price over $500,000.00. The security deposit will be forfeited in the event the successful tenderer refuses to enter into the contract on the basis of his tender when called upon to do so. Security deposits of the unsuccessful tenderers will be returned. A marked cheque on a chartered Canadian Bank and made payable to Defence Construction (1951) Limited or negotiable Dominion of Canada Bonds will be accepted as security deposit.

Sets of plans, specifications, etc. have been made available for the purpose of information to sub-contractors and material suppliers at the following locations: Belleville and District Builder's Exchange, Belleville, Ontario, and at this office.

The lowest or any tender not necessarily accepted.

Men Fail to Quell French Fire

Using a pack-type extinguisher, a volunteer fire-fighter does his bit to stem a raging forest fire in the woodlands region of Antibes, France, that has made hundreds homeless. A truck, caught in the path of the flames, lies gutted at the roadside. More than 100 square kilometers of crops and forest were destroyed before heavy rains enabled firemen to bring the blaze under control. — Central Press Canadian.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma wa thinking thawtful to herself, saying to pop, Nuthing truer was ever said, William, you are known by the company you keep.

That's just what Judge Sparkman of the Juvenile Court was saying on the radio, pop said. Acwidge, as anybody knows who boys that are brought into his court are victims of bad companions. As the old proverb says, one rotten apple can spoil a whole barril. Remember that, Benny, he said, and I said, Sure, pop said, only I'm not an apple.

Yes you are, my little pippin, you're the apple of my eye, pop said, and I said, Okay, pop, if anybody catches me going around with crooks and pockit pickers, I hope they remind me.

That's the proper spirrit, pop said. And while you're on the subject you mite give some thought to staying away from companions who use bad landwidge. There is nuthing more perishable than refined landmidge, as anybody knows who has spent time in the army, he said, and ma said, Anyway, I'm convinced that they were real diamonds in that bracelet Mrs. Bartels wore at the party the other nite.

Isn't that a slite change of subject pop said, and ma said, Not at all, she was wearing that bracelet next to her pearl watchband, and nobody would mix genuine pearls with paste diamonds, so judging by their company, the diamonds must be real.

My dear, it's a wonderful werld, and the most wonderful thing about it is, it all belongs to the women, pop said.

Being what he allways says.

Why We Say..

. . . Are they smart

This purely American term for someone who appears to be above the average social strata is the result of a mistaken idea about the human head. It was believed that a person with a high forehead (brow) was more intelligent than other people because of more brain capacity. However, scientists have debunked this as being unfounded in fact.

MADE GOOD CATCH

BALTIMORE (AP) — Sidney Book knew what he had to do was out for a Sunday stroll and saw a baby crawling along the ledge of a second floor window. He ran across the street and waited underneath. Sure enough, James Kenner Jr., 3, came toppling down and Sidney made a neat catch. Jimmy was unhurt.

SOON ROUNDED UP

NEW YORK —(AP) — Thirty truck horses scampered about yesterday in a brief spell of freedom after a fire in their stable. Police corralled most of the horses with little trouble. But two tried to cross a bridge before police cars surrounded them in a motorized roundup; and two others romped away to Central Park, where they were found grazing contentedly.

Plane Crashes, Burns in Crowded Toronto Section

A former RCAF officer and former member of the Yugoslav air force died in this wreckage of a light plane when it dived into the backyard of a Toronto home near the centre of the city. RCAF officer Charles MacKay was taking Yugoslav immigrant, John Pretner, for a pleasure ride in a converted RCAF trainer when it spiralled to the ground. The two men struggled to get out of the wreckage, but perished when flames enveloped them. — Central Press Canadian.

PICTON

Miss Muriel Pringle, Selby, Winner of Car at Local Fair

PICTON—A 17-year-old high school student, Miss Muriel Pringle of Selby is today the proud possessor of a 1952 Chevrolet. The lucky winner in a draw held in connection with Prince Edward County Centennial Fair at Picton, Miss Pringle is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pringle and attends school in Napanee. The car will enable her to drive the four miles from the farm to school. She purchased only one ticket. Her ticket was drawn by Mayor H. J. McFarland with the tickets being prepared by Fair President E. W. Henderson, secretary Philip Dodds and County Warden Calvin Hughes.

Award of the car climaxed what judges and visitors agreed is the best fair between Toronto and Ottawa, even though its entries except horses, are confined to the island County of Prince Edward. In addition to 95 head of cattle, there were 87 horses 60 calves in junior competitions, 478 poultry, and representative entries in all other classes. In the ladies section, the fair excelled with 103 pies, 89 cakes including 17 anniversary cakes. "I have never seen so much and so high quality baking in all the fairs at which I have judged," stated Mrs. A. E. Webster of Oakwood.

Special Exhibit

With many special exhibits, the huge Bernard and Barry midway, vaudeville imported from the United States, special features to mark the Centennial, the fair proved an eye-opener to the hundreds, who came long distances to attend for the first time. Attendance exceeded the 25,000 mark, and though a complete financial statement is not immediately available, the fair board expects a surplus after a record amount of prize money is paid. It is expected that the fair will attain Class B rating this year.

Growth of the fair at Picton has been amazing, states S. J. Fitzgerald of Shannonville, director for this area of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies.

A photographer who covers the majority of fairs for his firm stated that he had never attended a better one and ran out of film trying to record the many features.

The fair was blessed with perfect weather except for one day when afternoon attendance was reduced by rain.

The first day was devoted to children and junior farmers, the latter making a fine showing with calves, and taking part in a tractor driving competition, and other club work. They also had a special display including a commercial feature on hay.

Prince Edward Cheesemakers had a second commercial feature with a display of round and square cheese.

The Society also sponsored a field crop competition, two calf clubs, grain clubs, poultry club, swine club, tractor maintenance club.

Show Outstanding

The horse show was outstanding, with a four horse team owned by W. F. Scott of Campbellford winning applaure. The showing of ponies was considered exceptional by judge A. E. Webster of Oakwood.

In the Percheron class, Hilton Wood, Cherry Valley, had first prize stallion with Gordon Yeomans, Marysville, second.

Roy Sizer, Sillsville, had best three stallions, mare on halter and team in Belgians. W. F. Scott had top three mares, three years and under four, best registered team, four mares or geldings and best entry of clydesdales. His team also won first in heavy draught class. Walter Demille, Demorestville has best light draught yearling mare or gelding.

6TH SIDNEY

6th SIDNEY —The farm that has been in the family of Mr. J. A. Lott for the past 125 years, has been sold to Mr. Bill Consaul of Stirling and Belleville. Mr. and Mrs. Lott are moving in their Frankford home in the near future.

Presentation

On Thursday evening the neighbors and friends from Belleville, Batawa and Frankford gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lott to spend an evening with them before their departure.

Mr. F. L. Moon, was the chairman for an interesting program and Mr. H. W. Rose most capably conducted the singing of a number of old favorites. Mrs. Harry Phillips, Miss Rea Rose and Mrs. Fred Farmer assisted in the program.

Rev. H. H. Hillis, a former pastor of Sidney circuit, was present, in his remarks, paid tribute to both Mr. and Mrs. Lott for their faithfulness and love of Scott's Church. Mr. H. W. Rose and Mr. Moon also spoke highly of the sterling worth of both Mr. and Mrs. Lott as neighbors and friends, stating how much they would be missed in both church and community life.

Mr. Alton Sine and Mr. Carman Frost made the presentation of a large plate glass mirror also an end table for which both Mr. and Mrs. Lott thanked their friends and neighbors.

All joined in singing "For They are Jolly Good Fellows." Refreshments were served by the ladies to which all did justice.

Mr. and Mrs. Eric Hatfield spent a recent weekend in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. George Armstrong of Hilton and Mr. and Mrs. Smith, of Toronto, were Sunday callers of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott.

Mrs. Jack Scott spent the dinner hour on Friday with Mrs. Fred Farmer.

A number of people from this way spent Sunday at Ivy Lea bridge.

Mr. Eric Hatfield of Eganville, spent the weekend with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lott spent the supper hour on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Sanborn, Batawa.

Mrs. J. A. Loucks and grandson, John Copeland, are holidaying in Peterborough.

Project Pygmalion

By Grey MacMillan

"I'm glad you aren't trite enough to suggest that I find someone else," I told mother. "I have been dating a couple of girls here and there."

"Well, don't push yourself into marrying just anybody," said Mother hastily. "But maybe you could do what I did after Louis died. I tried to find some way to help someone else. I did case work. When you help other people, you turn your thoughts away from yourself, and presently you find that the wound doesn't hurt any more."

"Okay, okay," I agreed. "But I haven't the time, and charity organizations just don't appeal to me."

"Well, then find some individual who is in a worse state than yourself. The way to be happy is to make others so."

I exploded. "Why should happiness depend on other people? I want to be self sufficient, from now on. I won't let myself get emotionally entangled again."

"All joy must be shared or else it isn't joy," she argued. "Why don't you find a project, Hector? Set about it and let nothing interfere. Service to others is your —"

"Advice, advice!" I said bitterly. "Everyone gives me advice!"

"Everyone's just trying to help you, dear."

She stayed two days longer, but we did not bring up the subject again. As soon as her train pulled out, I went drearily back to the apartment.

When I dragged in the door, Karl was kissing Betty, and though they were not embarrassed at being interrupted, I was, for some reason. Karl and Betty had been engaged for more than a year, but couldn't afford to get married. Karl was still interning.

Betty was a librarian. She lived with her family and saved her money. Every evening she parked her little blue coupe outside the hospital, and read by the light of the streetlamp until Karl got off duty; then she would drive him home. She was always bringing him presents — homemade cookies or a carton of cigarets, or a new sponge for the kitchen sink.

The spectacle of Karl and Betty further accentuated my own frustration, and I thought, with Shakespeare, how bitter a thing it is to look into happiness through another man's eyes. For Kathy and I had been the same way.

I cut myself some ham and cake and was wondering what to do with my evening when the phone rang. It was David, wanting to know if he could come by and return the book. I said, "sure come on up."

A few minutes later the buzzer sounded and there he was, without his cap for once, and wearing an orange (yes, orange!) sports shirt and brown slacks. Suddenly, in that moment, my conversation of the other night with mother came back. I decided to act on it: David would be my project.

All unaware of his new role, David slouched into the living room, slapping his heels on the floor, and I introduced him.

"Karl is going to take me over to the park to hear the band concert," murmured Betty. And the way she looked at Karl you would have thought he was taking her to a box seat at the opera and a champagne supper afterward. She was too short, her hips too wide, and she always wore the same mustard-color flannel suit. Yet when she was with Karl, she emanated such a radiance and charm that she seemed a fascinating woman.

As soon as Karl and Betty left, David said perceptively, "You know, that dame's the nuts. She's got no looks. But she's got class —you know? And I'm the kind of guy who don't usually give no second looks to ugly women."

"Plain's a better word than ugly," I said.

"That guy's a doctor?"

"Yes. He has another year of internship at Trinity."

David looked impressed. "Now there's the life. Boy that's a job I'd like. Sit in a nice office all day; people come and wait in line to get in. Nobody tells you what to do. Keep your own hours, be a big shot," and he clicked tongue and teeth together expressively.

A stab of dislike knifed me. Snobbishness, ignorance, materialism—what a job I'd set myself!

Over coffee and cake we discussed Steichen. The pictures he thought the best in the collection were my favorites also. He seemed to have an innate sense of form and composition.

As I cleared away cups and saucers, I thought of music: What records to play for a starter? I settled for the Mozart "Eine Kleine Nachtmusik," and excused myself to wash dishes. When I came back David was reading a comic book, which he had evidently brought along, and chewing gum slowly.

Finally I asked him if he didn't like this music. He reddened, and presently admitted he thought it was awful, if I really wanted the truth. "Ain't got no bounce, no swing," he said.

"That's just what it does have!"

It was the summer of "Chi-Baba, Chi-Baba" and "Old Buttermilk Sky," and he couldn't see my point.

After the Mozart I tried some Strauss waltzes, and these he did like. "But them other things!" he complained.

The August meeting of the Eldorado and Bannockburn branch of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Blatherwick with a good crowd in attendance. Mrs. Clayton Blackburn, president, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Harold Chambers, convener for "Education" took charge of the program which included readings by Mrs. Chambers and Mrs. Ken Bateman, the latter entitled, "Do You Want a Job in an Office," and one by Mrs. George Palmer "How We Teach Our Children to be Chirstians."

Mrs. Clayton Blackburn favored with a contest "Weights and Measures."

After meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

"Only Kidding"

When Junkman Harry Haigh of Victoria, B.C., bought a 12-room Tudor-style mansion next door to the Lieutenant-Governor's house, he announced he would make it a home for down-and-outers. There was an immediate outcry. Haigh then said he was "only kidding" and that he would add apartments in the top floor later when the B.C. city gets around to changing a zoning by-law which now prohibits alterations to homes in the area. Haigh, unsuccessful mayoralty candidate last December, faces a charge of illegally storing junk at his other residence. — (CP Photo.)

Liquor Control Board Under Fire By OTF President

TORONTO (CP)—Gordon Shewfelt, president of the Ontario Temperance Federation, said Mon., the Ontario Liquor Control Board "is today approving liquor advertising which four months ago would have been refused publication."

He said in a statement liquor advertising in newspapers and on the radio violates the letter and spirit of the law.

"Current legislation clearly bans all product advertising of alcoholic beverages in Ontario.

"Some months ago it became apparent that there was a decided cleavage within the Ontario cabinet as to whether or not the ban on product advertising should be lifted. The Temperance Federation took the stand that nothing should be done to increase the already sky-rocketing consumption of intoxicating beverages, especially when the social cost to the taxpayers was also skyrocketing.

"Sufficient cabinet support rallied to that stand that the move to scrap the advertising restriction failed. Foiled in their attempt to alter the government policy by democratic processes, the proponents of all-out liquor, beer and wine advertising now are apparently attempting to gain their ends by deliberately, and apparently with some administrative concurrence, mocking the Liquor Control Board's own regulations."

$4 Canadian Bill Presented by Tourist

PORT COLBORNE, Ont. (CP)—A Minnesota tourist beat the discount on United States currency here Saturday, but he may be out money in the long run.

Refusing to pay the discount on his U.S. money after Mrs. Evelyn Miller had filled his car with gasoline, the visitor produced a $4 Dominion of Canada bill.

Mrs. Miller dubiously accepted it and made change. She checked with currency experts later and discovered the bill, dated July 2, 1900, and bearing portraits of Queen Victoria and her Prince Consort, may be worth as much as $10.

Eighth Army Bares Red Nerve War In U.N. Camps

Guards Meet Challenge With Maximum Force

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—Defiant Communist war prisoners tested the nerves of United Nations guards in a series of incidents this month and guards "met every challenge" with maximum force, killing four and injuring 64, the United States Eighth Army said today.

Most of the casualties occurred at the main U. N. war-prisoner camp on Koje Island of South Korea. It was on Koje last June 10 that U. S. paratroopers broke Red rule over prison pens in a battle in which 40 prisoners were killed and 140 wounded.

An Eighth Army spokesman summed up disturbances in July and August this way:

"In the last few weeks, prisoners of war and civilian internees in their new 500-man compounds have tried out the nerves of U. N. personnel, making trouble to see what force would be used against them. On every occasion we have used maximum force. We have met every challenge."

The amy began yesterday to disclose the prisoner incidents in piecemeal announcements after a Communist broadcast charged the U. N. with mistreating prisoners in August a year ago.

An army spokesman said there had been no intent to withhold information and added that the delay was caused by a reorganization of the camp command.

Reds Charge Slaughter

Gen. Nam Il, senior Communist negotiator at the Panmunjom truce talks, made propaganda capital of the POW troubles at today's truce session. He accused the U. N. of "shameless and cowardly slaughter" of captured Reds.

The prisoner disorders occurred on two islands and in camps on the South Korea mainland. Some prisoners were hurt in free-for-all fights among the prison inmates.

Fighting among prisoners has been common as Communist and anti-Communist factions clash, apparently for power within the stockades.

Pleads Guilty To Six Charges Of Shop-Breaking

OTTAWA (CP)—Police have closed their files on the case of an 18-year-old with an amazing ability for scaling walls. He pleaded guilty in police court to six charges of shop-breaking and one of theft.

Remanded for sentence was Robert Lalonde of no fixed address, dubbed "the monkey boy" by police. He was released from a reformatory last May.

Police say he broke into the offices of the National Film Board on Sparks Street. Finding nothing but a projector and film there, he screened a film for himself before going downstairs to ransack a beauty salon of $85.

Two nights later he returned to the same building, gaining entry after leaping across the roof tops of three buildings and entering offices through ventilating windows seven feet up.

His agility finally trapped him. On a newly painted pipe some 12 feet over the floor of one of the offices, police found a perfect set of fingerprints which matched those of Lalonde in their file.

Gloster Javelin Much Faster Than Sound

LONDON (AP) — The Gloster Javelin, Britain's new jet flying triangle, was described officially today as faster than sound and "the most effective fighter in the world."

An announcement authorized by the R.A.F. said the strange-looking plane, packed with secret radar gear for high speed combat miles above the earth, is alone in its class.

The security veil was partly lifted from the fighter with official approval, by Percy Grabbe, managing director of the Gloster Company which developed it.

The Javelin is the world's first twin-engined fighter of the delta, or triangle, wing design. With its complicated radar equipment it can operate in any weather, day or night.

The plane is 57 feet long and has a wing span of 52 feet. The tip of its tail stands 17 feet from the ground.

Although the Javelin can fly faster than sound—660 miles an hour at sea level—it is "more manoeuvrable and docile at lower speeds than any fighter since the biplane era," Grabbe said.

It is specifically designed, he continued, to fight off jet bombers which in any future war "would carry fantastically powerful atomic explosives and operate from great altitudes."

KID'S CLUB

MONTREAL (CP)—Police Director J. Albert Langlois announced that an anonymous donor has given a "beautiful" 100-acre site to be used as a summer camp for members of the Montreal police juvenile clubs. The estate 75 miles northwest of Montreal is termed an ideal spot for young boys to camp out.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Ideal vacation weather still prevails over Ontario today, but with temperatures reaching ever closer to the 90s and the humidity increasing day by day, conditions are becoming less ideal for those who must stay home and work.

Slightly cooler air has moved into the Prairies and maximum temperatures there were 10 degrees lower yesterday. However, changes in southern and central Ontario will take place slowly. A tendency for increasing cloud and higher humidity will be noticed during the next 24 to 48 hours, and as cooler air begins to approach the regions, the likelihood of showers will increase.

Strict Family System Will Be Smashed by Purge

HONG KONG (Reuters)—The strict family system, on which Chinese society has been based for generations, will be smashed by a new Communist purge campaign aimed at controlling the thoughts of more than 450,000,000 persons.

New plans by the all-powerful State Administrative Council, governing body of Communist China, to extend the informer system were announced yesterday by the Communist New China News Agency.

Every government officer in the country will open a special reception office where Chinese can meet Communist officials and denounce friends, relatives and others for opposing the regime.

Only a few months ago the daughter of a Peiping university professor denounced her father for the crime of "lack of hospitality to the United Stater." He lost his job. Similar denounciations now will become a feature of daily life in China.

HOME TO DIE

CALGARY (CP)—Flash, a leopard in the Calgary zoo from 1939 until last year, came home to die. Flash was sold to a circus last year and died while the show was here recently. He was 23.

Commission POW Has Evidence Russia Holding 2 Million Germans

GENEVA (AP)—The United Nations commission on prisoners of war opened its third session here today confronted with evidence on more than 1,000,000 missing German soldiers of the Second World War.

The Soviet Union, where most of the missing war prisoners of the three former Axis powers are believed to be held, has consistently boycotted the commission and ignored all its appeal to supply information.

Hans R. Hirschfeld, the German federal government's representative, brought 50 volumes of information to the commission's session.

The volumes contained the names of more than 1,000,000 missing German soldiers as well as nearly 100,000 identified prisoners of war who have not returned, and some 750,000 German civilians believed deported to the Soviet Union, including many women and 3,240 missing children.

DULLES SAYS U.S. FOREIGN POLICY IS 'SUICIDAL'

Delivers Sharp Attack Against Democrats

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—John Foster Dulles today rapped United States foreign policy as "suicidal' and proposed a plan to disintegrate "the empire of Soviet Communism" from within.

The Republican foreign policy adviser delivered his sharp attaak in an address to the American Political Science Association.

He called upon the U. S. to pay more attention to the peoples and problems of Asia, Africa and South America, and to abandon as a failure its program of "containing" Communism.

"The empire of Soviet Communism can be disintegrated from within," Dulles said.

"Already it is over-extended, covering 800,000,000 people of what were recently 19 different independent nations. The structure could be cracked by passport to those elsewhere who sought liberty."

"That would happen if our nation would today exert the same type of influence in the world that we exerted during the first century of the republic. At that time we symbolized freedom, and we gave moral and sometimes material support to hose elsewhere who sough libery."

Alternative Is War

The only alternative way to stop Soviet Communism, he said, is by a "frightful head-on collision."

Dulles said the Soviets traditionally believed the "road to victory in the west" lay through Asia—particularly China—and that nonwestern and non-white peoples could not be treated as "second-class expendables" if the west wanted to survive in a free world.

The chief architect of the Japanese peace treaty said present foreign policy involved "race discrimination on a global scale" by concentrating on the defence of predominantly-white western Europe.

Fishing Good To Relieve Tension Says Doctor

TORONTO. (CP)—Dr. Albion Roy King, professor of philosophy at Cornell College, Mount Vernon, Ia., said yesterday that if you drink to escape from frustration and difficulties, a nagging wife or business failures, your chances of becoming an alcoholic are good.

Dr. King told the Intercollegiate School of Alcohol Studies conference that most people use alcohol to satisfy four basic psychological needs: Excitement, relaxation, sociability and escape. Escape, he said, was the deepest motivation and led to the heaviest addiction.

"When the alcoholic starts to live in a daydream world then he's really on the skids."

The four needs, he said, could be satisfied in more healthful ways. Dr. King said his own escape mechanism is fishing.

262 Cases of Polio

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario department of health said today that 262 cases of poliomyelitis have been reported in Ontario so far this year, against 797 for the comparable 1951 period.

This year's polio death toll is nine. At the same period in 1951 it was 29.

Senate Group Says Pro-Red Script Writers Spread Subtle Propaganda Over Radio-TV

WASHINGTON (AP)—A Senate sub-committee report said today that pro-Communist script writers are spreading "subtle" propaganda over radio and television airwaves in the United States.

"The thing is subtle," the report of the Senate Internal Security sub-committee quoted script writer Ruth Adams Knight as testifying at closed hearings.

Miss Knight said pro-Communist writers stop short of "laying down the party line" in their scripts, but skilfully weave into them "a constant derision of the capitalistic system."

In testimony quoted by the sub-committee, Miss Knight and Welbourn E. Kelley denounced Ira Marion, a one-time script writer for Voice of America anti-Communist propaganda broadcasts beamed to Israel. Both swore that in private life Marion is an identifiable pro-Communist.

Says Guild Red

The sub-committee in its own findings, however, treated the Voice broadcasts cautiously. It said simply that members of the Radio Writers' Guild, of which Marion is a former president, "write for the Voice of America and the United Nations radio section," and that the Guild "is controlled by the pro-Communist faction."

In New York the Radio Writers' Guild, part of the Authors' League of America, issued a statement saying it "has never aligned itself with or supported any Communist or pro-Communist organization."

At the same time, Kelley released through the Guild a copy of a letter he sent Senator Pat McCarran (De. Nev.), the sub-committee chairman. Kelley said not all his statements before the group were published today, including "the premise on which my testimony was given."

Kelley said he used the term "pro-Communist" only at the request of the sub-committee's counsel, "who indicated that all of my testimony would remain in confidence." Kelley added:

"I respectfully ask that the statements made by me which somehow were omitted from the records now be made a part of that record—namely, that I cannot say of my own knowledge that any member of the Guild is a Communist."

Kelley said that in an off-the-record discussion, the counsel asked that for purposes of classification Kelley refer to the two Guild factions as "pro-Communist and anti-Communist." Up to then, Kelly said he had described "a certain faction" as "left-wing."

"I demurred at this, stating that there were people in the 'left-wing' faction for whom I had the greatest respect, and who in my opinion were neither Communist nor pro-Communist," Kelley said, and added:

"However, I agreed to use the terms requested on the assumption that what I had to say was in confidence and would remain so."

Kelley said he allowed himself to make "a mistake" and that he fears he has "without intention. . . harmed persons who are innocent.'

The report came on the heels of one the sub-committee released recently alleging Communist infiltration of youth work—including the Boy Scouts—and dropped a hint that the sub-committee also is studying "use of sex" in the Communist underground movement.

It quoted a statement by Richard Arens, the sub-committee's staff director, that the group planned "interrogation respecting Communist tactics, which will involve interrogation of the question of patronage (job dispensing), use of the blacklist against anti-Communists, use of sex."

The report said that "in 1943, pursuant to orders from Alexander Trachtenberg, a Communist leader, there began a systematic infiltration of the field of radio."

Federal Survey Urges Wide Expansion in Hospital, Health Services in Quebec Province

OTTAWA (CP)—Expansion of Quebec's hospital medical and general health services has been recommended by a committee established to survey the province's needs in the field of health.

A 10-volume report containing scores of recommendations was made public today by the federal Health Department. The report represented two years' study by the committee, headed by Dr. J. Ernest Sylvestre of the Quebec Department of Health. The survey was financed by a federal health grant.

Issued earlier were reports of seven other provinces—British Columbia, Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island. Still pending are reports from Manitoba and Newfoundland.

Only two provinces—Alberta and Saskatchewan—have recommended immediate adoption of a national health insurance program.

Would Aid Indigents

The Quebec report made no reference to national health insurance, but it urged greater assistance to indigent persons in need of care. Increases in the staff and facilities of practically all branches of provincial health services were recommended.

Noting that Quebec lacks sufficient hospital beds and that hospital facilities are not available in all regions of the province, the committee recommended that new hospitals be opened in strategic locations. It asked that financial assistance be given so that one hospital in each region could have a special section for treatment of the chonically ill.r

Some parts of the report were devoted to recommendations for the control of specific diseases.

To help control cancer, the committee recommended that financial aid be given to all important hospitals to enable them to establish or improve their cancer diagnostic centres.

The report recommended that the province assist cancer patients and their families, when necessary, by paying hospital and treatment costs and by providing an allowance for the family, especially when the head of the family is the one affected.

On tuberculosis, the report recommended the vaccination of all new-born children and "all persons untouched by tuberculosis."

Average Speed In Double Crossing 605.52 M.P.H.

LONDON (Reuters)—Bitain's Canberra jet bomber flew the Atlantic from Gander, Nfld., to Northern Ireland yesterday at an average speed of 605.52 miles an hour, the Royal Aero Club announced today.

The plane's flying time for the round trip was seven hours 58 minutes 35.18 seconds. Time for the homeward flight was three hours 25 minutes 18.13 seconds, a record.

The east-west record, already held by a Canberra piloted by Wing-Cmdr. Roland Beamont, who piloted the jet yesterday, is four hours and 18 minutes. Yesterday, slowed by powerful head winds, he made it in four hours, 33 minutes 17.05 seconds.

The twin-jet was the first plane to make the double crossing in one day.

Supply Depots Near Pyongyang Heavily Bombed

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Natiron planes oared into North Korea today in a follow-up of last night's heavy bombing of Communist supply depots near the Red capital of Pyongyang and in northeast Korea.

The United States Fifth Air Force said fighter-bombers dropped explosive on Red front-line installations, then unloaded napalm (burning jellied gasoline) in support of Allied ground troops in the first clear weather in five days.

The U.S. Eighth Army said ground fighting was light and sporadic.

Seven B-29 superforts last night dumped 70 tons of high explosives on a Red supply area at Pyongyang. It was one of the military targets the U.N. had warned would be bombed out of existence.

HIGHEST SURPLUS IN FOREIGN TRADE FOR SIX YEARS

$164,000,000 Piled Up In First Six Months

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's surplus in foreign trade climbed to a six-year high of $164,400,000 in the first half of 1952, a marked contrast to a record deficit of $339,000,000 in the similar period last year.

In June, a continuing high level of trade produced a favorable balance of $54,600,000, a reversal of the unfavorable balance of $44,600,000 in June last year, the Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday. The 1952 surplus was the biggest since the $194,000,000 surplus in the first half of 1946.

Completing its half-year estimates, the bureau placed total exports at a peak of $2,114,700,000, a gain from $1,762,600,000 in the first half of 1951 and more than five times greater than the pre-war total of $392,400,000 in 1938.

The 1952 exports record was achieved by a 17-per-cent boost in volume and a 2.5-per-cent gain price. Volume of exports and imports was higher in the first six months than any similar period since the end of the Second World War.

The dollar value of imports slipped slightly in the half year to $1,950,300,000 from the peak of $2,102,400,000. But imports were higher than the $1,453,100,000 in 1950 and about six times greater than the $336,700,000 in pre-war 1938.

The bureau estimated that though volume of imports increased by two per cent, prices slipped by nine per cent.

"Changes from 1951 were greatly influenced by world price movements," the bureau said. Purchasing power of Canada's exports in the first half of 1952 was seven per cent greater than in 1948. In 1951, their purchasing power was only 95 per cent of 1948 power.

"This improvement of almost 13 per cent in the terms of trade made a major contribution to the sharp change in the half-year trade balance," the bureau added.

U.K., U.S. Seek Iran Settlement To Avert Coup

LONDON (AP)—Informed sources said Britain and the United States submitted broad proposals to Iran today designed to settle the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute and avert a possible Communist coup in the troubled Iranian kingdom.

The proposals were said to provide for an emergency U. S. aid program and some important British concessions to the government of Premier Mossadegh in the festering 18-month-old oil row.

G. R. Belleville Facing Charge Against Girl

SUDBURY (CP)—Two Garson men, Gaston R. Belleville, 24 and Charles Piche, 27, have been committed for trial on charges of rape and attempted rape by Magistrate W. F. Woodliffe.

The attacks, involving two women, were said to have occurred Aug. 10 on a lonely road between Garson and Falconbridge just east of Sudbury. Both accused are married and have two children each. Belleville faces a charge of rape and Piche two charges of attempted rape.

Car Seizes Mechanic's Finger Holds Tight for Three Hours

BELLINGHAM, Wash. (AP)—Duane Partlow's automobile grabbed the end of Partlow's finger yesterday and it took firemen, mechanics and doctors three hours to induce it to let go.

The 17-year-old amateur mechanic was working on the engine of his 1937 model car in his back yard. A friend was turning the engine with a crank while Partlow held his finger under a valve lifter.

Snap. The valve came down on the finger. Grease nor tears would loose it and city firemen were called. They couldn't budge the stubborn valve.

A doctor was called and he administered sedatives to the trapped youth. Then, with the youth sitting on the frame and his finger still in the viselike bite, the automobile was towed to a repair shop.

Three hours after the valve snapped down on the finger, the motor's cam shaft was broken and Partlow was freed. He probably will lose the end of his finger.

U.S. Grand Jury Indicts Canadian On Permit Fraud

Border Crossing Permits Being Inspected at Detroit

WASHINGTON (AP)—Attorney-General James P. McGranery today announced a federal grand jury at Detroit has indicted Leonard Lewis Buhle, 30, a Canadian citizen, on chages of obtaining immigration permits through fraud.

He said the indictment was returned late yesterday.

Buhler, who has been living in Detroit, was arrested today by immigration service officers. Arrangements were made for an immediate arraignment.

McGranery said Buhler is accused of supplying the fingerprints of another person in connection with his application for border-cossing privileges, in order to conceal a criminal record in Canada.

The department has been conducting a broad investigation into the status of Canadians living or working in Detroit, who allegedly got their border cards through fraud.

McGranery said recently there was evidence that about 100 such persons got their permits by supplying false information on their financial status.

He said a number of self-styled "visa consultants" operating in the Windsor-Detroit area are involved.

The justice department last week named one such visa consultant as Mrs. Aline Steigerwald, of Windsor, sister of Paul Martin, Canadian minister for public health and welfare.

Consultant Charged

The Detroit grand jury which indicted Buhler also made public a sealed indictment returned last Jan. 15 against William E. Tobin, a visa consultant of Windsor.

The indictment charges Tobin with fraud and false statement. The justice department said he was involved in the Buhler case, and that the grand jury acted against him because his alleged offences were committed before a United States officer at the American consulate in Windsor.

Tobin has not been in the U.S. since his indictment, and officials said there is no feasible way to move against him unless he should enter the United States.

Fewer Passes For 'Ex' Visitors

TORONTO (CP)—Canadian National Exhibition officials today announced a 25-per-cent cut in the number of passes issued for this year's show.

Last year 1,080,604 passes of various types were handed out. A total of 940,000 were issued for children's day and warriors' day. Another 75,000 were given to exhibitors and persons participating in the various functions.

Civic officials previously were able to obtain passes for friends. This year they can draw them for their immediate families only. Many organizations submitting lists of members for passes were refused.

Passes valued at $20,000 for the grandstand show were issued last year. Major cuts have been made this year.

Gas Kills Four

ROCHESTER, N. Y. (AP)—Four men died today after being pulled from a 25-foot deep hole that police said was filled with sewer gas.

Red Hierarchy Cracks Down On Communists

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

NEW YORK (AP)—The Stalinist hierarchy cracked down in earnest yesterday on Communists throughout the Soviet Union to tighten leaks in the Soviet dictatorship.

More than a month in advance of the all-union congress of the Soviet Communist party from which the hierarchy's authority is supposed to stem—Pravda announced a country-wide "broad discussion" of changes in the party statutes which the congress will approve Oct. 5, in its first meeting in 13 years.

When the Communist party newspaper announces a broad discussion of any important issue, it is a danger signal to Communists. They can get themselves into hot water by speaking their minds. They can be roundly bedevilled if they do not. It is a potent weapon for purification of party ranks.

At the same time Pravda published, above the signature of Politburo member N.S. Krushchev a repot which will be approved by the 19th party congress. it purports to explain the changes in the statutes, but it also gives a clear indication of the rocky road ahead for many of the Soviet Union's entrenched Communist bureaucrats.

Moscow dispatches left no doubt as to the importance of Khrushchev's report, which blisters Communists for "faults and abuses."

The indication is that nobody in the party—with the probable exception of the small circle around Stalin—has any reason to feel safe. The announced broad discussion of the statutes calls for "full freedom of criticism," beginning with primary party organizations—cells in factories and farms—and working upward.

The whole tone is one of strict control from the top—probably to be wielded by 50-year-old Georgi M. Malenkov, heir-apparent to Stalin and the fat but tough power behind the scenes in the Kremlin.

U.S. Demands Reds Release Kidnap Victim

BERLIN (AP)—U.S. High Commissioner Walter J. Donnelly sent the Russians a new demand today for release of Dr. Walter Linse, snatched from West Berlin into the nearby Soviet Zone by Communists July 8.

Donnelly wrote Gen. Vassily Chulkov that he is unable to accept a previous Soviet explanation which virtually denied that the incident ever occurred.

There has been no word of Linse, member of the anti - Communist Free Jurists' League, since three East Germans forced him into a car and raced to the Soviet zone.

69th Annual Trip

WATERLOO (CP)—Peter Roose, 86, boarded the bus with the Waterloo Band today for his 69th annual trip to the Canadian National Exhibition in Toronto. He made his first trip in 1883 travelling by box car.

FOR LONG SERVICE

HALIFAX (CP) — Charles A. Gough, who became known to thousands of travellers during his [illegible] years as a sleeping car porter on the Canadian National Railways, has been awarded the Imperial Service Medal. He retired last year after 34 years on the line.

DRIVER REQUESTED TO MOVE CATTLE OFF FRONT STREET

Apartment dwellers in the city hall district of Front Street rubbed the sleep from their eyes in disbelief when early this morning they were awakened by the persistent bawling of cattle.

Investigation revealed the noise was coming from a cattle truck which had been parked on Front Street while the driver caught a late midnight lunch at one of the local restaurants.

Finally a complaint was lodged at the police station and the officer on the beat contacted the driver of the truck and asked him to move his load of cattle.

SCHOOL SUPPLY MERCHANTS EXPECT HEAVY BUYING

School supply merchants are expecting a heavy rush for text books and other school necessities when school opens on Tuesday morning.

Virgel James, proprietor of James Texts said he is not anticipating any long weekend of relaxation. Although the store will be closed Sunday and Monday, the staff will be hard at it making preparations for the expected rush to follow on Tuesday.

Already the list of requirements for the different grades has been published and the buying is on by the school children. However, the big rush is not expected until Tuesday.

NO MAIL DELIVERY ON LABOR DAY

City and rural letter carriers will take a holiday on Monday (Labor Day) with no delivery of mail to take place.

In the city, however, there will be one complete street letter box collection in evening and mails will be despatched and received as usual. General Delivery, registration and postage stamp wickets will be open from 8.30 a.m. to 10.30 a.m. and the lobby from 6.30 a.m. to 6.00 p.m. Special delivery services will be given as usual.

QUEER LOOKING CAR SEEN ON STREETS

All of a sudden the city has-been struck by an influx of queer looking contraptions on wheels.

Over the past week, automobiles have gone from the sublime to the ridiculous. One auto in particular has claimed a good deal of the public's attention. This car doesn't seem to have any name and its vintage is in doubt. Painted a brilliant yellow and with the top sawed off, the relic actually steams up and down Front street.

The crowning glory, is the yellow sedan also around city streets. The real attention getter about this auto is the red polka dots splattered all over the car's body. What next?

OBC Notes

As in other years, Ontario Business College was closed during July. Miss Dorothy Grant, head of the shorthand and typewriting department, went on a trip to San Francisco and Los Angeles, California, and other western points. Principal I. L. Moore and Mrs. Moore motored to the Maritime Provinces and spent three weeks there.

The college re-opened, August 5th. Among the recent arrivals is Mr. Bertrand Osborne, from Montserrat, British West Indies.

Many prospective students have written of their desire to enter O.B.C. soon. Indications point to a great influx of new students in September and October. A letter has been received from a prospective student in Paris, France. A banker in New York City has written for details about the O.B.C. courses.

Mr. Clifford Waugh, of Montreal, visited the college a few days ago. Mr. Waugh is an O.B.C. graduate who attended over fifty years ago.

The demand for thoroughly trained office workers is increasing, and the available supply of O.B.C. graduates has not been sufficient to meet the calls coming in almost daily from business firms.

Golf Country Club Ladies Entertain Visiting Teams

Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the Bay of Quinte Golf and Country Club entertained teams of lady players from Peterborough, Trenton and Picton Golf clubs.

After playing 18 holes of golf, a delicious dinner was served by the caterers.

Guests were welcomed by Mrs. S. Joss, president, while the games captain, Mrs. J. Grant awarded the prizes, which were as follows: low gross for field, Mrs. J. Grant, Belleville, 103; low net for field, Mrs. E. Sheehy, Peterborough, 77; putting, Mrs. H. Chivas, Trenton and Mrs. E. Brown, Picton, tie 33 putts; low net for Picton, Mrs. E. A. Pearce, 82; low net for Trenton, Mrs. H. Herbertson, 90; low net for Peterborough, Mrs. O. Steer, 82; and low net for Belleville, Mrs. C. Dolan, 79.

Old Age Pension Cheques Not Available to County To Pay Indigent Hospital Costs

The fact that the old age pension cheques of indigent hospital patients are not available by the municipality to apply against hospital accounts, was the topic of discussion today by Hastings county councillors at the opening session of their August conclave.

Councillors were told by Clerk-Treasurer Eric S. Denyes that for some years old age pension cheques of indigent patients did go to hospital but this policy had been changed when the federal government gave pensions without a means test to all over 70 years of age.

It was pointed out that pension cheques of indigent patients are now signed by them, the money presumably being turned over and spent by the relatives. With pension cheques of indigent patients not now going to hospitals indigent patient costs to the municipalities have soared considerably, it was stated.

Took No Action

The discussion on pension cheques arose out of resolution from Brant county which called for pension cheques of inmates at county homes being turned over to the townships where the patient came from. At the present time the cheques of county home inmates go to the county with the inmate of the home receiving $5 monthly for his own needs.

Councillors took no action on the resolution feeling that the present set-up was satisfactory.

Council did concur, however, in a city of Chatham resolution calling for enforcement of the Parents' Maintenance Act which would compel children to support their parents, when they are financially able to do so, and also to pay for burial expenses.

"I heartily concur with the resolution," stated Reeve Jack Kincaid of Madoc village. "Children should assume more financial responsibility for needy parents. In many cases in my own municipality I know of cases where children are able to look after their parents but the municipality nevertheless is saddled with the cost of their upkeep."

Council also concurred in a York county resolution approving of the present set-up of the suburban roads committee. The city of London had asked that the set up be changed giving the municipality the right to appeal decisions to a judge.

The current session of county council will be but a three-day affair with Warden Lee Grills noting business on the agenda could be handled in that period.

He welcomed councillors to the session and hoped they had had a pleasant and prosperous summer. He referred to problems confronting the cheese producer and the disappointing returns from cheese sales and hoped for improvement.

Recommendation Laid Over

The report of the agricultural committee was read, the committee recommending the sale of the Actinolite county forest to the Moira Valley Conservation Authority for a sum of $2,500. The recommendation was laid over for further discussion.

The committee also recommended that an option to purchase a 196-acre tract of land in north Hastings be taken up, the property to be used for reforestation.

Zone Forester W. E. Edwards was left with the details of arranging for the county wood lot competition. It was decided that last year's winners would be barred and that pastured woodlots would be exempt this year.

On Same Lines

During the session an agreement for administration of justice between the county and the town of Trenton will come up for ratification. The agreement would be on the same basis as that between Belleville and the county, it was stated.

Warden Grills noted the county committee had met with Trenton officials during the summer when the new agreement had been discussed. The former five-year agreement with Trenton which expired July 31, 1952, saw Trenton pay an annual sum of $4,000 to the county for administration of justice costs. For the remainder of the year Trenton will pay an additional $1,500, the new agreement to go into effect the first of next year.

Under the new agreement Trenton will pay on a prisoner day basis for the upkeep of prisoners, while for salaries and administration costs the town will pay on a population basis. This would work out at about 13 per cent of the costs being paid by Trenton.

YOUNG LIBERALS TO MEET

OTTAWA (CP)—Young Liberals from Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec will gather at Highland Inn, Algonquin Park, for a regional summer conference Sept. 5-6, the National Liberal Federation announced yesterday. Speakers will include Health Minister Martin and External Affairs Minister Pearson.

Seven Winners Of Scholarships Given by Twps.

The South Hastings Educational Association has again this year given scholarship awards to deserving grade eight pupils who are entering Collegiate for the first time this fall. The association received grants from the township councils of Sidney, Thurlow and Tyendinaga to assist them to make these awards to pupils of outstanding scholastic ability, character and industry.

Mr. K.M. Bird, the president of the association, announced that this year all seven applicants will receive part of the scholarship money. Cheques have been forwarded by the secretary of the association to the following winners.

Thomas Ralph Bridges, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges live at Halloway R. R. 2. He attended Eggleton School S. S. 24, Sidney and his teacher was Miss G. Gunter. He plans to attend Stirling High School.

Douglas Brenton is the son of Mr. Charles Brenton, R. R. 4, Stirling. He attended Marsh Hill School, S. S. 20, Sidney, His teacher was Mrs. Isobel Good. He expects to attend Stirling High School.

Asa Copeland, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Copeland reside near Trenton, expects to attend Belleville Collegiate. He attended Quinte View School. The teacher was Miss Mary Campbell.

Joseph Summers is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Summers, R. R. 4, Belleville. His teacher was Mrs. Emily Burtt and he attended S. S. 1, Thurlow. He plans to attend Belleville Collegiate.

James Uens is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lorne Uens. He attended Milltown School, S. S. 5, Tyendinaga and his teacher was Mrs. Hellen Parm. He also will enter Belleville Collegiate.

Thomas Keyworth, whose parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Keyworth reside at Marysville, also will attend Belleville Collegiate. He attended S. S. 10 Tyendinaga. The teacher there was Miss L. Powers.

Helen Milligan is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carman Milligan, R. R. 1 Shannonville. Her teacher was Mrs. Mabelle McLaren and she attended Melrose School, S. S. 11, Tyendinaga. She plans to attend Belleville Collegiate.

Living Quarters Sought For Physical Director

With a new physical director and family of three arriving in the city from Edmonton on Sunday, YMCA officials issued an appeal today for housing accommodation.

The new director was forced to bring his family with him inasmuch as their living quarters in Edmonton are to be occupied by his successor.

The need is urgent, officials stated, and anyone having accommodation for two adults and two young girls is asked to contact Mr. Lorne McDougall at the McDougall Insurance Agencies.

Because the Y over the years has provided accommodation for thousands of young men away from home it is hoped that the appeal from the officials will meet with quick response.

STUDEBAKER ENDS LAYOFF

Many Farmers Already Complete Harvest Work

With long stretches of fine weather allowing uninterrupted harvesting, many farmers in the Bay of Quinte district have already completed their first round of after-harvest cultivation. Farmers say this is the earliest that the first fall cultivation has been completed in years.

Recent rains have greatly improved pasture conditions and should be reflected in an increased flow of milk which dropped considerably during the summer.

The weekly crop report of the Ontario Department Agriculture notes that in Northumberland county the processing of tomatoes is general but the crop is ripening slowly. Blossom end rot has been bad, it is stated.

New Sally Shop Will be Opened On Saturday

A second Sally Shop, to open in this city has its official opening scheduled for this coming Saturday morning at 9.00 o'clock.

Located at 206 Front Street, the new store, ultra modern in every respect embodying the latest designs in store fixtures, will employ 15 local girls. Mrs. Dorothy Reid, formerly of the other Sally Shop will be in charge.

This modern store with its modern fixtures is finished in bleached birch, stained grey. One wall has been painted a coral shade while the rear and other wall are of a mushroom color. The front wall is seafoam green. On top of the display cases are five shadow boxes to be used mainly as decorations. They are pannelled with a dark green background. To enhance the modern aspect of the store, trough lighting set in behind the fixtures adds to the quiet dignity of the store. Aside from the trough lightning, five sets of fluorescent lights run along the ceiling. The floor is of marboleum, green and white in color. The store is also equipped with four fitting rooms at the rear.

Give Away Five Suits

On opening day, the management plans to give away five new gabardine suits. A draw from the sales slips will be made at the close of the day's business to decide the winners of the suits and the results will be published. Harry Fuke, manager of the Bank of Commerce will make the draw. Sales slips may be obtained from the store on request.

The new store, which, according to E. J. Bookalam, display manager for the Sally Shops across Canada, is entirely new in design for the company, and three times as large as the other store in the city.

Sally Shops specialize in hosiery and lingerie, women's sports wear and ready to wear. This shop is the 70th to be opened in Canada. There are 30 such shops situated in other centres of Ontario.

Council Approves Widening Highland Ave., New Base And Wall on Bridge St. Hill

The city council at a special meeting held in the chambers this morning approved a recommendation "that the city comptroller be authorized to call for tenders for —"A" —resurfacing of existing paved roadway on Highland Avenue with sheet asphalt and ex-excavation for and construction of new stone base with asphalt-wearing surface on the West Bridge Street hill and —"B"— excavatiin for and construction of new concrete curb and gutter, new concrete sidewalks and new retaining wall."

Tenders will be called for immediately and the work is expected to be completed before winter sets in. The recommendation was accepted by all members of the council present excepting Ald. Argue. Those in attendance were Aldermen—Thomas, Rollins, Tice, Hyde, McNevin, Argue, Keegan, Smith and Duffy.

A petition was presented by Dr. Harold Craig against the work being done. The petition stated, that Highland Avenue was a beautiful street, that the boulevard added to the beauty, that property would have to be expropriated and that the avenue was capable of handling the traffic that was able to go across the lower bridge and that the residents believed a new bridge across the river and the new four-lane highway would make the work unnecessary.

Asks For Discussion

Mayor Haig thought the members should have a discussion on the question and Ald. Smith led off the debate with the statement, "I have changed my thinking on the matter. At first I was opposed to taking out the seven trees, which will have to come out, but when I looked the situation over and talked to the residents most vitally affected I see no reason why the work should not proceed. It will enhance the beauy of the street rather than detract."

Chief Probert stated that in his opinion in time the proposed change would be most beneficial and would certainly help the flow of traffic. He stated that since the double lane was put in from Oshawa to Toronto, the old road traffic has greatly increased.

"I do not like to see some of the trees removed but everyone has to give a little for progress and it would be a move in the right direction," commented the chief.

Ald. Hyde asked if no parking on either side of the street would relieve the situation and Chief Probert agreed, but Ald. Tice stated there was a number of residents on the west side of the avenue who conducted tourist homes and paid a business tax and it would be depriving them of their livelihood, therefore he could not support the recommendation. Ald. Tice thought the work should be done, but that the trees should be replaced with well-grown trees where possible at the expense of the city. He also stated that several of the trees to be taken out would have to be removed in a few years anyway due to their condition.

Ald. Argue thought that the four-lane highway would help the situation and the congestion he stated was mainly caused by transports, which would be removed by the new highway. He stated he was opposed to cutting down any of the trees. Ald. Thomas said that the member for the riding, Elmer Sandercock, could not guarantee when the new roadway would be started as steel was unavailable for the new bridge across the Trent River.

Ald. Rollins at first disapproved of the recommendation but after viewing the plan and looking at the situation first hand and hearing the explanation of the engineers and other members of council he said he would be willing to approve the work. He stated also he hated to see the trees go.

Mayor Haig said he had been on both sides, but after looking over the district he was convinced that the work had to be done and it should be done, when the work on the hill is done because if it was left over the cost would be much greater. "Certainly the work on the hill must be done and if the other work is not done in conjuction, it will leave a bottleneck at the top of the hill, the very thing we are trying to avoid,' he said.

Permission was granted the Argosy Transport Company and the City Cleaners and Dyers to erect gas pumps on their property subject to the approval of the city engineer and the fire chief. No parking on the west side of Church Street from Bridge Street East to Dundas Street was approved and the Board of Works ordered to put up the necessary signs.

Ald,. Hyde expressed the happy returns of the day to Mayor Haig it being the occasion of his birthday.

IN MEMORIAM

STEWART. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Mr. James O. Stewart, of Foxboro, who passed away on August 27th, 1938.

His memory is our keepsake,
From which we will never part,
God has him in His keeping,
We have him in our heart.
Though out of sight he is ever near,
Still missed, still loved, still ours,
He will live with us, in memories,
Until the end of time.

—Sadly missed by his loving wife and family and grandchildren.

ROSS. — In loving memory of Mrs. Bertha Ross who died August 27th, 1951.

God knew she was suffering,
The hills were hard to climb,
So He closed her weary eyelids
And whispered "Peace be thine."

—Sadly missed by daughters Lula and Eva.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO, (CP)—Prices mixed today in early afternoon stock market dealings after a firm opening. Western oils declined.

Industrials gained slightly from a firm opening and golds also held steady. Base metals slipped in afternoon trading and western oils drifted steadily downward throughout the session.

Trading picked up after a slow opening and broadened from a narrow range of selected stocks to a fairly broad list of issues in western oils and industrials. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,423,000 shares.

Western oil losses outnumbered gains about two to one as leading and minor issues slipped. Sapphire and Del Rio resisted the trend to record penny gains. Albermont, Dome Exploration, Pacific Pete and Royalite slipped.

A few base metal issues traded heavily, mostly for penny losses. Geneva was an exception, gaining a cent in a three-hour turnover of about 33,000 shares.

Utilities were a weak spot in the industrial list but papers, steels, constructions, refining oils and miscellaneous issues made headway. Manufacturing companies slipped.

Active trading in a few junior golds and prospects bolstered a spotty gold list.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario stockyard cattle prices today showed little change in dull trading. Receipts: cattle 170; calves 110; hogs 220; sheep and lambs 180. The holdover totalled 2,300 cattle including 1,200 stockers.

Medium to good steers brought $23-25.25 and common to medium steers and heifers $13-21. Good cows traded from $15-15.50. Bulls were $11-14. Common to medium stockers sold from $15-20 with calves upward to $26.

Calves were steady at $26-28 for choice vealers. Common to medium traded from $11-23.

Grade A hogs brought $26 and dressed sows $16.

Lambs sold at $28 for good ewes and wethers delivered by rail and $27 delivered by truck. Bucks were at $1 discount. A few heavy lambs, 110 pounds and up traded $1 lower. Common sheep were $5-8.

Intruder Walks Into Arms Of The Law

The old order of the policeman going after the suspect was reversed here when the police officer lay in wait and the suspect walked directly into the arms of the law.

As a result Ernest Hawkins, 48, of no given abode, was arrested and faces two charges of house-breaking and theft.

On two occasions during recent weeks a Pine Street home was entered during the night with eatables and other articles being stolen while the owners were asleep. Working on the principle that the intruder might re-visit the scene of his crime a police officer was spotted in the residence.

Sure enough early in the morning the expected intruder arrived and as he entered the house walked directly into the arms of PC William Warring who was lying in wait.

The arrested man has been remanded a week for court appearance.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP)—Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Ample supplies moved slowly today in dull egg market trading. Quotations for eggs in fibre cases were: A large, 58 cents; A medium, 51, A small, 34-35; grade B, 39; grade C, 27-28.

CheeseExchange

Trading was almost non-existent on the Belleville Cheese Exchange last evening with only 532 colored cheese being purchased from a total boarding of 4,917 cheese.

Of the total, 1,939 were specials, 2,170 were white, and 808 colored. The colored cheese sold went at 30 cents a pound. The remainder of the boarding was taken by the Marketing Board.

It was decided to hold another meeting of the exchange next Tuesday evening.

Johnson Wins Four Races At Bayside Track

Clarence Johnson of Belleville had a field day at Bayside Speedway last night, by winning four out of five stock car races to pull himself up to a tie for second place in the Carling Trophy standings.

Sherm Kenny of Trenton won his first race in the new K-9 (Polka Dot Special) by nosing out Dusty Sanford's No. 23 to take first place in the opening heat. The second heat marked the beginning of the usual Bayside excitement. Cliff Stillman of Trenton at the cost of more dints in the already well-battered cars, finally pulled an inside pass on Sherm Kenny. Kenny, made such a desperate bid to regain his lost position that two laps later his hot cornering ripped his right rear wheel clear of its bolts and forced him to retire from the race.

The third heat saw the beginning of what promises to be a pitched battle between two very well matched cars. Bruce Kemp of Belleville in No. 25 and Bob Byrd of Belleville in No. 24 were never more than a car length apart and swapped positions at least once per lap throughout the entire race.

Wins Tag Race

The tag race was won by Clare Johnson in the 18th lap when the only remaining uneliminated car Dusty Sanford's No. 23 couldn't catch Johnson's roaring Bob Wellar Special.

In the feature race, Cliff Stillman of Trenton driving Dube's 8-Ball spun out in the second lap and Clare Johnson following close behind plowed into him head-on. Johnson backed his car out of the tangle, and finding that there were enough parts left to keep going, roared out after the pack. He then proceeded to pass cars one after another, and finally brought the battered No. 47 home in first place for his second feature win at Bayside in as many weeks. Dusty Sanford lost his right front wheel over the fence on the last lap, but managed to bring his car in to fifth place on three wheels.

Race Results

1st heat—Sherm Kenny, Trenton; Dusty Sanford, Belleville; Bruce Kemp, Belleville.

2nd heat — Clare Johnson, Belleville; Cliff Stillman, Trenton; Dusty Sanford, Belleville.

3rd heat — Clare Johnson, Belleville; Bruce Kemp, Belleville; Bob Byrd, Belleville.

Tag race — Clare Johnson, Belleville; Bruce Kemp, Belleville; Bob Byrd, Belleville.

CRUSHED BY TRACTOR

MAPLE (CP)—Eric Oslen, 34, who arrived from Denmark three months ago, crawled from beneath a tractor which rolled over on him yesterday, walked 15 feet towards some men working in a field and dropped dead. Coroner Dr. G. W. Williams said Olsen had suffered a crushed chest.

Wildcat and Snake Enliven Fishing Party in N. Hastings

"There are strange things done,
'neath the northern sun,
But the strangest I ever did see
Was that morn, about one,
when I fired just for fun,
And a wildcat fell out of a tree."

The above, to paraphrase Robert W. Service, is the gist of an experience related by Bill Carr of this city while on a trip to the North Hastings hinterland.

It seems Bill lived in the barren country deep in Monteagle township. Neighbors were as far apart as the teeth of the proverbial hen. However the hunting and fishing were good.

Bill, with three pals, started on a fishing party during a visit this summer and took along their guns, "just in case."

They hiked through woods with their gear and decided to sleep under a tree, rise early in the morning and go after the elusive trout.

The deep silence of the north woods was broken in early morning by the plaintive mewing of what seemed to be a cat.

Overhead, the leaves of the large tree rustled as the animal moved about. Carr wakened, as did one of his companions, and shouted at the midnight disturber.

The noise grew louder. The animal sounded closer.

Then Carr, impatient and a little annoyed at the thing, grabbed his gun, pointed it at the branches and fired.

A second later the dead body of a wildcat flopped down on the prostrate body of one of the party.

And just to top the story off, one of the party awoke the next morning, reached in a hip pocket for a handkerchief and disturbed the slumber of a small black snake that had taken advantage of a free night's lodging.

Hold Parade In Interests Of Recruiting Drive

A combined operation which brings together representatives of the Royal Canadian Air Force and the Royal Canadian Navy will appear on the streets late this afternoon when the two branches join in a parade which will highlight a recruiting drive for both the air force and the navy.

Accompanied by the air force band from Trenton, the groups will muster at the Bridge Street Armories for a parade that will take them west on Bridge to Front Street, north on Front St. to Station Street to the Cenotaph where he parade will circle the monument and give a salute before returning along the same route to the Armouries.

DOUGHTY ANGLER

ARNPRIOR, Ont. (CP)—Fishing from the Madawaska River bridge, Merril Heise hooked a fine big pike and had hoisted it to the bridge when it slipped off the hook. The fish was stunned when it hit the water and Heise dived 50 feet to grab the big fellow and bring it ashoe.

MINISTER HAS PROPER PROTEST

In a Sunday sermon in Toronto, Rev. Gordon C. Smyth of Yonge Street United Church, raised a protest on a matter that has become of no little concern lately to a great many adherents of the largest Protestant denomination in Canada. Mr. Smyth made the charge before his congregation that the United Church has become "ignominiously" associated with the Canadian Peace Congress and the Toronto Peace Council.

Both of these organizations are known to be Communist-front groups. Both are headed by James G. Endicott, former United Church missionary to China. In the eyes of most Canadians today Mr. Endicott is a renegade churchman who has become an apostle of the godless gospel of the Kremlin.

Mr. Smyth stated Sunday that four or five United Church ministers in Toronto are opening their churches to meetings of the Red-sponsored "peace" groups. The purposes of these meetings, of course, is to permit Mr. Endicott to preach the Communist party line — a pursuit which has already brought him dangerously close to charges of treason.

It is quite true that Mr. Endicott resigned from the United Church ministry when he retired from his missionary charge a few years ago. The thing that distresses many members of the United Church, however, is that his erstwhile colleagues of the cloth have not in any formal way, whatsoever, taken occasion to completely dissociate themselves from his views.

It is all very well to defend Mr. Endicott's right to hold and express any ideological views he chooses to embrace and expound. It is quite another thing when every utterance of his is linked with the name of the church he once served and has now abandoned to serve Stalin.

By far the great majority of the adherents to the United Church and, of course, the great majority of its ministers, repudiate Mr. Endicott and his specious propaganda. And there is a deeply held feeling among many that there should be some formal acknowledgement of this stand from the higher councils of the church.

VAGARIES OF EXCHANGE DEALINGS

Have you counted the change in your pocket recently? It's an even bet that you got slightly "short-changed" the last time you bought something.

W. L. Clark in the Windsor Star reports that he made a purchase in a store which had a sign stating that four per cent would be deducted from American money. He tendered a Canadian dollar and received 69 cents in change. Of this, 52 cents was American silver. Technically his loss was about two cents, but he would have no difficulty in using his change without being charged a discount penalty.

The exchange situation may be a boon to Canada on the whole, but it has provided many headaches this summer for those who share largely in the American tourist trade. At border points especially, and among those catering particularly to visitors from the south, simple courtesy has prescribed acceptance of American money at par to a large extent. Others, however, have insisted upon taking the current exchange rates into account.

We are inclined to go along with the business-like attitude of the hard-and-fast school and we do not think that there is anything discourteous about insisting upon the premium value of the Canadian dollar. The good neighbor policy probably had much to commend itself this year in view of the complete reversal of money values between Canada and the United States, but another year, if a similar situation prevails, it would seem only good sense on the part of Canadians to discount American funds at the going exchange rates.

Actually there is more to this than "the principle of the thing" which, to our mind, is that we should show justifiable pride in the knowledge that Canadian funds are now the most highly esteemed in the money markets of the world; there is also the matter of a penalty which is unwittingly paid by the Canadian every time an American is given par value for his dollar.

What actually happens when a merchant accepts American money at par is that the visitor is given a discount of four per cent on his purchase while his regular Canadian customer continues to pay the full price. This aspect of the exchange situation is almost completely overlooked.

Canada has no fewer than 11 lakes which each have a surface area of more than 1,000 square miles.

On the centigrade thermometer freezing point is at zero, compared to 32 degrees on the fahrenheit scale.

Total railway mileage in Canada in 1860 was only 2,065 miles, mostly in separate divisions.

MAN AT PEACE

Out of the corner of my eye
I saw him as I hurried by,
And he was fishing; from the shore
A quarter of a mile or more,
His line into the water thrown,
At peace with all the world—alone.

From all distinctions he was freed.
Away from color, race or creed,
Republican or Democrat,
There as a fisherman he sat.
And this I knew as past I went,
He was for a few hours content.

Some day upon a busy street
It's possible that we may meet,
But should that happen to our eyes
Much that divides us may arise.
The man whose mind from hates was cleared
While fishing, will have disappeared.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 27th., 1932.

The Bateman family annual basket picnic was held recently at the park in Tweed. The attendance this year exceeded all other years there being 252 present including some from Alberta, New Jersey, Ohio and California. The oldest member present was Mrs. Anson Brown, Eldorado, and the youngset was Doris Bateman of Tweed. The officers are, President, James Bateman, Jr., Thomasburg; Secretary - Treasurer, Ross Bateman, Belleville; Committee, John Bateman, Stirling; Ernest Bateman, Tweed; Mrs. N. White, Springbrook; Stanley Bateman, Tweed; Jack Morrison, Harold; Phil. Vance, Harold; Burton Bateman, Bonarlaw; Kenneth Bateman, Eldorado; Mrs. Alice O'Rourke, Queensboro; Alex. Bateman, Springbrook; W. J. Tanner, Harold; Mrs. Roy Thompson, Frankford. The next picnic will be held at Springbrook.

Reg. Hinchey, Bandmaster of the Belleville Municipal Band, has written a march especially for the Belleville Fair which will open on August 30.

30 YEARS AGO

August 27th., 1922.

The employment situation in Belleville is in good order; there is work for all. Building activity and a bountiful harvest are largely responsible for the great demand for help.

Mr. John Chase and family and Mr. John Heckman of Detroit, Mich., are guests at the home of Ald. Thompson, Catherine Street.

Mr. Alex Ray has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto and Hamilton on business.

Mr. Mac Farrell is visiting in Toronto and taking in the exhibition.

Mr. Charles Dalrymple is spending a few days in Montreal.

40 YEARS AGO

August 27th., 1912.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Gunn, Jr., Trent Road, are spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. D. Holt is visiting friends in Toronto.

The Ontario Government patrol boat Nevarch, Capt. Fleming, Master, arrived in port here today after a patrol trip down the Bay of Quinte and river St. Lawrence as far as Brockville.

The steamer Belleville was in port here this morning enroute east. Many passengers were on board and she carried a large amount of freight.

50 YEARS AGO

The popular steamer Varuna took the teachers, children and friends of Gilead Sunday School to Massassaga Park today.

Mr. John Martin is home from Ottawa on a visit.

Mr. James B. Reeves has left here to reside in Oshawa.

Crew Members Aboard Bomber Scooped from Sea

PANAMA CITY, Fla, (AP)—Two airmen who twice cheated death were scooped up out of the stormy Gulf of Mexico by a Coast Guard minesweeper yesterday and brought to hospital here.

There were crew members aboard an ill-fated B-17 bomber shot down by a rocket fired by mistake by a new-type automatically controlled jet fighter Monday.

Sgt. Charles D. Jones, 31, and airman Peter R. Rosing, 22, were the only known survivors of the crew of eight aboard the bomber.

An air force C-47 spotted the two in a life raft bobbing about in the Gulf 60 miles southwest of Panama City, and directed the minesweeper U.S.S. Seer to the spot.

One Badly Burned

Both came aboard under their own power, although Rosing had severe burns of the face and hands caused when the plane caught fire. Before the rescue they spent 24 hours being tossed about by 15-foot-high waves.

The air force refused to give up hope for the remaining crew members. It speculated that heavy tides might have carried any other survivors several miles from the spot where the plane came down.

The rocket which sent the B-17 plunging into the Gulf was fired by the pilot of an F-86D.

The air force said the pilot, Col. Arthur R. Debolt, 39, apparently mistook the B-17 "mother" plane for an uninhabited radio-controlled drone which it was guiding. The drone, which was to have been the target, was about 1½ miles behind. Debolt, described as "an exceptional officer," was grief stricken at the error, and said he was unable to explain it.

For security reasons, newspaper men were not permitted to ask the rescued airmen about the accident which caused their plight.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIVING IN WONDERMENT

I am very sure that if I understood all in nature about me I would soon become bored and lose my interest, no matter how wonderful my discoveries, but the facts are that we know next to nothing about what goes on in the earth right under our footsteps. The chemical changes that are forever at work, and the mysterious formations that have given us coal, oil, minerals and precious stones, are only a part of the wonders that are concealed from us, awaiting our discovery.

As it is we cannot enter a forest, or kick our toe into the ground without setting some force to work or disturb one already in action. It's an amazing world in which we live and have our being. How can we help but live in a sustained wonderment?

With my field glasses I have sat for hours this summer studying the habits of a variety of birds, especially the smaller ones that are in such abundance on my island, because of the fruits and berries that they consume with such glee. My favorites are the small warblers, of which there is a variety throughout the summer. They are so friendly I have given them a feed box and now they are happier than ever. And every once in a while I note a hummingbird dart like an arrow, to one of the flower beds, and then disappear in the forest.

There isn't a thing that grows that doesn't have some interest to it. It was created important, or it wouldn't have been created. Everything was put into this world for a purpose. It is this fact that increases our wonderment, especially as we learn more about nature and become tuned to the beauty and spiritual significance of everything.

Never should we cease to wonder! It is like being in love and spreading good will and happiness all about us. Nothing is so contagious as wonder, happiness, and love! And where they are all combined, you have the picture of a healthy human being. An ideal worth striving to gain!

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is generally in the spring of the year that light-hearted people, the sort who would be interested in the sight and sound of small wild birds, think of putting up nesting boxes around their gardens or summer cottages. But spring is too late. Now is the time, as the days draw near for the closing of summer home and the ridding up of garden, to erect nesting boxes for the hotly singing wren, the eye-blinding bluebird and the various other characters who can add to the living beauty of a man's surroundings. If nesting boxes are put up now, they will have the winter in which to become nicely weathered the way the birds like them.

Nesting boxes can be made of almost any old bits of wood. The size of the entrance hold is important, and can be found in the government book on Canadian birds by Taverner or in other familiar books of the kind. But a man I know, who has more birds sharing his property than any other of my acquaintance, pays no attention to the rules and just hides all sorts of containers, such as flower pots, plastic cans and cocoanut shells in the expectant looking places amid the shrubbery and trees; and lets nature take her course. He bores an inch hole in a cocoanut shell and nails it to a tree trunk, five to ten feet up. He gets wrens, tree swallows and, on one remarkable year, a nest of chickadees in that type of nest. He bores a four inch hole in an old nail keg, hoists it up into a crotch of a tree fifteen feet aloft, and has a wood duck accept it for a nest. None of his nesting boxes are the ornate handicrafts to be seen in stores or in books. Many of them are made of what you and I would call kindling wood, old bits and pieces of shingle, bark and broken up food boxes. Apparently paint is no addition to a bird box except in the eye of the householder or gardener. The more weathered the premises, the better the birds like them.

And since the birds arrive at the summer cottages weeks ahead of the humans, it is at the end of the summer season that the accommodation should be set up for them. By such a small concession to wild nature, a summer home can be trimmed with a sort of ornament that cannot be bought at any price.

35-Pound 'Lunge Hooked In Lake St. John

TORONTO. (CP)—A 35-pound, 51-inch muskellunge was caught in Lake St. John near Longford Mills during the weekend by George Smith of Toronto. Smith and his wife were trolling when the muskie hit. After a 15-minute fight they beached the boat and pulled the muskie up on shore.

The fish is believed the largest muskie caught in the Severn area in 20 years and the second largest taken in southern Ontario waters so far in 1952.

The season's largest in provincial waters is a 42-pounder taken July 2 in Cameron Lake near Fenelon Falls by Bruce Heron of Toronto. It measured 53 inches.

DREDGE NEARLY SINKS

COBOURG (CP)—Dredging of Cobourg harbor was halted last night when the dredge Howard Ann tilted and started to sink. None of the crew was injured. The dredge, owned by the MacNamara Construction Company, finally came to rest with one side of the deck under water. Crew members said one of the spuds—legs used to stabilize the craft during dredging operations—had slipped.

TIC DOULOUREUX

Trifacial neuralgia is bad enough when the pain is confined to the forehead, cheek or lower jaw (areas to which the three branches of the trifacial or fifth cranial nerve are distributed). The trouble is much worse when the steady pain of neuralgia is accompanied with spasms of great intensity—this is tic douloureux.

In neuralgia of the upper branch the pain is felt in forehead, eye and root of nose. Neuralgia of the second branch is felt in cheek, upper gums, side of nose, upper lip and temple. Neuralgia of the lower branch is felt in ear, lower jaw, lower gums, chin and tongue.

Glaucoma has been mistaken for trifacial neuralgia in some instances because the condition developed rapidly with considerable pain in the eye. Glaucoma is a kind of hardening of the eye with atrophy of the retina and impairment of sight.

In obstinate trofacial neuralgia, particularly where the lower branch is affected, a possible cause worth investigating is impacted molar tooth. No matter whether all visible molars have been extracted or not, an X-ray film by the dentist may reveal the buried undeveloped molar, and if so it should be surgically removed.

The practice of extracting teeth which are not decayed beyond repair, in the blind effort to relieve neuralgia, is reprehensible. Good physicians and good dentists do not follow such practice today.

Medical diathermy applied by a competent therapist often brings relief, not necessarily at once but after several daily applications.

If I had tic douloureux and half a dozen applications of diathermy failed to bring relief I'd want injection treatment, either a weak solution of a local anesthetic in alcohol or just alcohol into the branch of the nerve involved.

Some good physicians have reported that some patients obtained complete relief and some partial relief by inhaling trichlorethylene—twenty drops on a piece of gauze three times a day. Although trichorethylene is available only through prescription it is nontoxic and, when it does stop the pain it does so without producing anesthesia.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Not Idiots?

My children are not idiots, but three and five year old children often are undecided about heat and cold—that is what parents are for, don't you think? (Mrs. H. E. M.)

Answer — If children don't know when they are comfortable, yes, I suppose parents or guardians must decide. But my advice is that normal children be encouraged to wear as little clothing as they like in all ordinary circumstances.

Lemon Juice Nonsense

Read in one of your little lessons that lemon juice is good for arthritis. Is lime juice as good as lemon juice for arthritis? (R. A. C.)

Answer—How the dickens such nonsense got into the little lesson I don't know—orange, grapefruit, lemon, lime or any other citrus fruit or its juice is wholesome food for any one who likes it, but it is no better for joint disability than other wholesome foods.

Doctor Exploded

When my daughter informed the doctor she wanted her husband to be with her when her baby comes, the doctor exploded. He said "You probably got that crazy idea from Brady...In my cases the husbands stay where they belong, on a nice sun porch ..." (Mrs. M. C. A.)

Answer—Well, don't mess around with the old timer. Surely there must be some 20th century doctors in a city of the size of yours.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

RECREATION OR WRECK-REACTION?

Are you getting ready for the Labor Day week end? Pack the lunch basket, get out the old buggy, fill up its horsepower with gasoline, and start doing a little home-work on the road map.

But what do you hope to get out of this holiday? Take every precaution against getting mixed up in an accident. The other fellow may be careless or intoxicated or throttle happy with nothing more than a couple of beers. Better see to it that your mind is clear and alert.

Wouldn't it be a good thing to ask whether or not a holiday which ends up late Monday night, going along at two miles an hour bumper to bumper, has been worth the effort? The restlessness of modern man, his desire to be any place other than where he is may be an alarming symptom of social degeneracy. Holidays are great if they really leave us refreshed and rested. But there can be no doubt that much of the frenzied pursuit of goals never attained, in which millions seem to be involved a half-dozen times a year, leaves a vast section of our population exhausted, irritable, and disgusted with life in general.

Ask yourself what you really want to do this coming holiday. Make it a matter of family conference and considerable reflection. You may be amazed at the choice of some simple pleasures in which you and your loved ones may all take delight.

Weddings

O'DONOHUE—UPPER

The marriage took place on Saturday, August 23, at ten a.m., in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, of Miss Maureen Frances Upper, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Boyd Upper, and Mr. Melville Joseph O'Donohue, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene O'Donohue, of Toronto.

The Nuptial Mass was celebrated by the bridegroom's brother, Reverend Vincent O'Donohue, of St. Catharines. He was served by Peter Upper, brother of the bride, before the altar decorated with all-white gladioli.

The wedding music was played by Miss Dorothy Grant. The soloist, Mr. Robert Flurey, sang "Ave Marie", "Panis Angelicus", and during the signing of the register, the traditional, "On This Day O Beautiful Mother".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was beautiful in her original gown of white French lace and nylon tulle over ice-white taffeta. The molded bodice of lace with narrow taffeta insert, was fashioned with a round, high neckline, and long, fitted sleeves ending in points below the wrists. The full circular skirt was floor-length. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion and lace was caught to a close fitting lace cap. She carried a white prayer bock centred with white button poms, stephanotis and long, white satin streamers.

Miss Diane Upper was maid of honor for her sister. Her floor-length strapless gown of cerulean blue nylon tulle and taffeta featured a shoulder cape of matching lace with mandarin collar. Her headdress was a tiny cap of blue lace to match her mittens. She carried a hand bouquet of shrimp shade glamellia with button poms.

The bridesmaids, Miss Mary Lou Purvis and Miss Alma O'Donohue, both of Toronto, wore identical gowns of nylon tulle over taffeta in shrimp shade, with matching headdresses and mittens, similar to the maid of honor. They carried hand bouquets of blue glamellia with white button poms.

Mr. John O'Donohue, of Toronto, was his brother's best man. Mr. Frank O'Donohue, also of Toronto, with Mr. Boyd Upper, brother of the bride, were ushers.

At the reception, which was held at the home of the bride's parents, Mrs. Upper, wearing midnight blue crepe with matching accessories, and corsage of Talisman roses, received the many guests. She was assisted by the groom's mother, who was gowned in Wedgewood blue crepe and lace, with pink accessories, and corsage of pink Delight roses.

For the wedding trip to the Laurentians, the bride chose a navy blue suit and tiny feather cap, with matching accessories and corsage of red Rubrum lily and white poms.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. O'Donohue will reside in Toronto.

Out-of-town guests attending were from Montreal, Toronto, Sault Ste. Marie, Oakville, Long Branch, St. Catharines and Deseronto.

The bride is an honor graduate of St. Michael's Hospital School of Nursing, Toronto, '51. The bridegroom is an honor graduate in Commerce and Finance, University of Toronto, '46, and graduate of Osgood Hall.

In Toronto, prior to the wedding the bride was guest of honor at a linen shower given by Miss Mary Bass and Miss Josephyte McSloy, at the former's home. Also a miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. J. W. Canning.

In Belleville, Mrs. W. J. Doyle, and Mrs. T. Flurey, were hostesses at a charming afternoon tea and pantry-shelf shower at the former's home, in honor of the bride-to-be.

Pearson Wedding

External Affairs Minister Pearson congratulates his new son-in-law, Walter Hannah, 25, of St. Catharines, Ont., following his marriage to Mr. Pearson's only daughter, Patricia, 22, at Chalmers United Church, Ottawa. Mrs. Pearson (left) smiles approval. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Walter D. Hannah of St. Catharines. He is a medical student at the University of Western Ontario. The marriage was performed by Dr. A. B. B. Moore of Victoria College, University of Toronto. — Central Press Canadian.

TEMPLEMAN—LAPORTE

White gladioli formed the setting in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Saturday, August 23, for the marriage of Marie Blanche Monique Laporte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Laporte, of Corbyville, to Mr. John Donald Templeman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Templeman, of Brantford, Ontario, Very Rev. Dean L. B. Garvin officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a gown of white nylon tulle over white satin, with a brief Chantilly lace bolero. Her fingertip veil of tulle illusion was held by a white satin and tulle Juliet cap trimmed with pearls and she carried a bouquet of white orchid, baby's breath and white feathered carnations with ivy intermixed.

Miss Milda Dandeneau, of Belleville, was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Joan Templeman, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Pauline Laporte, the bride's sister. All three attendants were gowned alike in ankle-length dresses of beige tulle over tangerine taffeta, fashioned with full skirts over crinolines and brief beige tulle boleros. Their headdresses were Juliet caps of pleated tangerine taffeta covered with beige tulle, and face veils. They carried matching bouquets of Johanna Hill roses and white Shasta 'mums intermixed with ivy.

The groomsman was Mr. George Smith, of Haileybury, and the ushers were Mr. Fred Bottome, and Mr. Tony Lee, both of Toronto.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents in Corbyville. The happy couple left on a motor trip to eastern points. They will reside in Corbyville.

HARP—ROGERS

The marriage of Mary Alexandria Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Thomas Alexander Rogers, and the late Mr. T. A. Rogers, to Frederick Steele Harp, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Harp, Orillia, was solemnized in St. Mark's Anglican Church Deseronto, with Rev. Kenneth Blachford officiating.

The wedding music was played by John E. Wilson of Toronto, cousin of the bride, Mr. Eric Ford of Trinity Chapel choir, Toronto, sang "O Perfect Love", "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven", "The Twenty-Third Psalm" and "Lead Us Heavenly Father, Lead Us".

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Mr. W. Richard Rogers, Toronto, wore a gown of white Swiss eyelet embroidery over taffeta, styled with fitted bodice and full hoop skirt. Her fingertip veil of tulle was held in place by a small scalloped cap. She carried a white ivory Prayer book with nosegay of Pinocchio roses and stephanotis.

The bride was attended by her cousin, Miss Peggy Morgan, of Indepedence, Missouri, who wore a white embroidered organdy gown over yellow taffeta, with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her bonnet was of yellow tulle and she carried a bouquet of orchid gladioli and yellow roses.

The best man was Mr. Gordon Harp, of Orillia, brother of the bridegroom and the ushers were, Messrs. Angus MacMillan, of Bayville, and Archie Loukidelis, of North Bay.

The reception was held in the United Church parlors. The bride's mother wore a gown of printed blue silk and corsage of orchids and red rosebuds. The mother of the bridegroom was gowned in a dress of navy sheer with corsage of American Beauty roses.

The happy couple left for a honeymoon in the south. For travelling, the bride wore a dress of aqua shantung with matching hat, navy accessories and corsage of gardenias. On their return they will reside in Mimico.

McLELLAN—SMITH

With the groom's father officiating in the chapel of Deer Park United Church, Toronto, the marriage took place of Miss Myrtle Rowena Smith, daughter of Judge and Mrs. Gerald F. Smith, to Rev. Robert J. McLellan, son of Rev. Charles D. McDellan and Mrs. McLellan, all of Napanee. The bride wore a powder blue gown of nylon net over taffeta, with nylon lace bodice. Her flowers were white stephanotis and pink rosebuds to match her floral wreath. After a short wedding trip, the bride and groom will motor via Trans-Canada Highway to Hudson Bay, Sask., where the groom has been stationed by the United Church of Canada.

Food for Thought

Special-Purpose Menu

By Mary Moore

Nine of us, including all available members of my family, my sisters, and Barb's family, wanted to have a picnic on the weekend before Labor Day weekend. Frankly we wanted to avoid traffic, restaurants, celebrations, games, pageants, exhibitions, fairs, tournaments, television, movies, barn theatres. Call the attitude what you like but we wanted "to be alone"—just like G.G.

We were.

We wound up bogged down in a swamp catching—of all things!—frogs! Then to add to the general confusion we found a wild blackberry patch and got ourselves completely snagged in its thorny branches. But it was wonderful fun and the bonfire meal which followed produced food for the gods.

You see we weren't sure we'd catch any frogs. We weren't sure either that the mosquitoes wouldn't eat us alive in the berry patch, so we had brought along enough steaks and peaches to satisfy the appetites of a small army. We ate the works: frogs' legs, black berries (an 8-lb. honeypail full), steaks, peaches—plus 2 dozen ears of corn, a big potato salad, unnumbered tomatoes, cucumbers and green peppers, and one of Barb's cuisine angel food cakes, and of course gallons of coffee and quarts of milk.

That's the kind of recreation fun is made of—if you are the out-of-doors type. I love it.

Would you like to plan a meal in the wilds for Labor Day?

LABOR DAY PICNIC

Steak on a Stick
Corn on the Cob
Rolls to Toast
Tomatoes and Cucumbers out of hand
Wild Berries or Peaches
Angel Food Cake
Coffee Milk More Coffee

DIRECTIONS:

Steak on a stick has many variations, but you must have good steak cut in 1 1-2 inch cubes that is at least 1 or 1 1-2 inches thick. On your green sticks or proper barbecue forks or spears put alternately a cube of steak, a small square of bacon, a mushroom and a chunk of onion (slices of onion won't do for the rings separate and are apt to fall into the fire); repeat these four items again. Now turn and toast it over glowing coals until it is done to just the right stage for you—then try and eat it without burning your tongue.

If you do not want to afford steak, use the thicker slices of back bacon or fresh pork and sliced chicken livers. Firm underripe tomatoes may be substituted for the mushrooms—quarters of them.

The corn we roasted in the time-honored manner by dipping it in the creek to wet the husks, then tucking them in the coals, turnig them over before the bottoms burns, and extricating them from the inferno before they are a crisp and when they are at the exact stage of doneness. I judge them by thet husk: when it is medium dark brown all over but not black or burned through the corn is cooked. The butter should be in a shallow dish in which you can roll your cob after you have managed to strip it out of the husk.

BARB'S ANGEL FOOD

One and one-half cups sifted cake flour, 2 cups white sugar, 1 1-2 cups egg whites (not cold), 1-2 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 teaspoons cream of tartar, 1 1-2 teaspoons vanilla, 1 teaspoon almond flavoring. Add half the sugar (1 cup) to the flour and sift these 2 ingredients together 4 times. Sift remaining sugar 4 times. Add salt to whites in large bowl and beat until foamy about 1 minute. Add cream of tartar and beat until stiff but not dry. Slowly add the 1 cup sugar. Remove rotary or electric beater and use wire whisk for remaining time. Sift in flour and sugar mixture, 2 tablespoons at a time, and fold until all is used. Add flavoring. Pour into tube pan 10 by 4 1-2 inches that is not greased. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for about 60 minutes. Invert on cake cooler for 1 hour, then loosen cake from sides with spatula. Frost if desired, when cold.

ON SUBVERSIVE TEXTS

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) —Publishers of textbooks adopted for use in Texas public schools this year will have to vouch for the patriotism of their authors, illustrators and editors. The state board of education today authorized Education Commissioner J. W. Edgar to request each publisher submitting books to say whether the authors, illustrators and editors can qualify under terms of the state's non-subversive oath.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A teen-ager with a just complaint

"During this past year," writes a 16-year-old, "I have gone out on just four real dates with three different boys.

"The other evening Danny, my date, came for me and I wasn't allowed to go anywhere, so we just sat in his car. He only put his arm around me, and my father saw us, and now my parents are accusing me of petting. Is it petting to sit next to a boy who has his arm around you? I have never thought it was. That was really all we were doing. He didn't even kiss me and he hasn't ever.

"Mother says I'm too young to go out on dates. She thinks I should wait till I'm 17, just because she was 17 when she started to date. She knows all my friends go out and that they go steady, but if I ever wanted to go steady she would raise the roof.

"I want so much to go out with Danny, who is very nice and a really decent boy. How am I going to explain to my parents that I am old enough to go out?"

Personally, I can't see any reason at all why a 16-year- old girl shouldn't be allowed to go out on a reasonable number of dates. I am assuming, of course, that most girls of this age know how they should behave and that they never go anywhere their parents wouldn't approve; also, that they would always be home at the hour set by their parents and that they would not ask to go out too often and very rarely indeed on school nights. If all these points are observed, it certainly seems to me that girls of 16 have a right to their own social life.

As for the question about petting, for a boy to put his arm around a girl is what I would call a very mild [illegible] I don't think, though, [illegible] good idea for a boy and a girl to spend the evening that way in a parked car. The difficulty is, that sometimes a mild form of petting does arouse emotional reactions that lead to more intimate things, even though the boy and the girl never intended that it should. That's why it's wiser not to sit around in parked cars, and not to let a boy, put his arm around you when you are alone together in the dark.

Right Standards

It rather surprises me that so many parents fail to realize this very thing when they refuse to allow their daughters to go out on dates. To my mind, young people are far less likely to do anything unwise if they are joining in the normal social activities enjoyed by the average teen-ager than if they are forced to make a bored two-some with nothing to do but hang around the house. My idea is that most girls whose parents have given them the right standards and ideals can be trusted to conduct themselves properly under all circumstances, but I can understand that it might put quite a strain in their enthusiasm for these standards if the scope of their activities is unreasonably limited. It also seems to me that parents, who are afraid to trust their young teen-agers out on dates show that they have little confidence in the way they have brought up their children.

Just what good all these remarks of mine are going to do this particular teen-ager, I do not know. What I hope, however, is that some parents who may be reading this—even, possibly, the girl's own father and mother—will give a little fair consideration to what I have said.

As for our teen-agers' specific problem about Danny, I will say once more what I have said often before, which is what she might suggest to Danny that he ask her parents himself if he may not take her out once in awhile. Parents, as I have also said many times, like to get, and should get, some consideration themselves, and I'm afraid many modern young people fall down in this respect. I venture to say that any boy who shows a girl's parents the courtesy of asking their permission to come and see their daughter, or to take her out on a date, will usually win his point.

BEAUTY

Insure against good-looks sorrows

There are women of forty who are young; there are some of the same age who look their birthdays; there are others who are old. It all depends upon what their health and beauty habits have been up to the forty period. Nutrition is a factor, hence the reward of sensible eating habits. Outdoor life contributes, because it is energizing, youthifying. Air conditioning the lungs by deep breathing has a favorable effect upon circulation, and normal circulation puts the pink carnation bloom in the cheeks.

Mental hygiene contributes to good appearance. The worrier is a wrinkle-maker. The cheerful, good-natured woman, ever ready to hand you a smile, will have firm facial muscles and sound tissues that time's cruel fingers can't touch. The down-in-the-mouth expression pulls down delicate fibres that eventually lose tone. Keep your lip-ends up and you give yourself a face-lift.

The mid-channel period is the time when definite figure changes take place. One must have foresight, insure against them. Some facial defects seem to creep up on one overnight—like frowns, the superfluous chin, the vanished waistline. It isn't enough to watch the bathroom scales; one should keep a weather eye on measurements. The woman who finds that last year's frocks won't zip without a chance of bursting a seam should heed the warning. She is on her way to becoming a collector of adipose tissue. Slendor lines will be but a beautiful memory.

Good posture, necessary at all ages, is a means of maintaining the svelte shape. With the muscles in sound condition, fat cells can't get a toehold. Correct carriage aids the functioning of the internal organs, keeping them in place. Sagging abdomen gives no support, and the internal organs fall below their proper positions.

A busy woman, carrying on the job, feeling each night that she has faced her responsibilities, is more likely to retain youthful spirits than the woman who is idle, self-indulgent and consequently bored half to death most of the time. A job keeps one on ones' toes. Every woman should have one, even if she is well supplied with this world's goods. There is plenty of work to be done in the way of charity projects.

MADOC

I. O. O. F., Oakdale Rebekahs Hold Decoration Service

MADOC—On Sunday afternoon Madoc I.O.O.F. No. 179 and Oakdale Rebekahs held their annual decoration services. Headed by the Havelock Kiltie Pipe Band, the brethren marched to Lakeview cemetery, where they were joined by the members of Oakdale Rebekahs for their service. C. I. Ross was master of ceremonies and as the names of the deceased brethren and sisters were read a beautiful floral cross was formed by the members placing the flowers on the I.O.O.F. memorial plot.

The address was given by P. N.G. Leslie Blakely, P.D.D.G.M., assisted by P.N.G. Ernie Lough, with several musical numbers being given by the band.

P.N.G. John Bristol placed a wreath at the cenotaph in Thompson Memorial Park, while Lynn Empey placed a wreath near the floral cross in memory of the departed members, who gave their lives for their country in World Wars I and II. In the evening the Pipe Band gave a sacred concert in Thompson Memorial Park which was enjoyed and well attended.

ISLAND FLOATS

PRESCOTT (CP)—A large island of water weeds and bullrushes, believed to have been torn away from the Thousand Islands area by high waters, is floating in the St. Lawrence River. The mass is about 150 feet square. A watch is being kept to see that the island does not block canals further down the river.

CLERK FOILS GUNMAN

TORONTO (CP)—Clerk Connie MacKinnon, 18, slammed a cash register drawer on the fingers of a toy-pistol gunman who held up a shop in central Toronto. The man, who had been reaching for a stack of $10 and $20 bills, howled with pain and fled, clutching about $7 worth of small-denomination banknotes.

Black and White Day at Fair Biggest Ever

PICTON — One of the finest Black and White Days at which he had judged in many years, was the comment of Norman McConkey, Liftlock Farms, Peterborough, judge at Prince Edward County Centennial Fair at Picton. The quality of the senior classes was particularly high, he stated. There were nine exhibitors showing 79 head of Holsteins, with 117 entries.

Exhibitors were Dunam Foster and Sons, Bloomfield, 34 entries; D. O. Reynolds, R. R. 8 Picton, 27 entries; Monfa Farms, Wellington, 17 entries; F. J. Webster, Picton, R. R. 1, 16 entries; John J. May and Son, 16 entries; James C. Denard of Hillier, Curtis Doxsee and Son, Doxsees, James G. Matthie of Bloomfield, each two entries; Oscar Parks and Son, one entry.

Garry New Faith, sired by Wood Dale Rag Apple Chieftain, and exhibited by F. J. Webster, was awarded the senior and grand championship in an extremely strong class. The reserve senior, reserve grand went to Dorvic Supreme Surprise, a four-year-old cow in milk, owned by D. O. Reynolds and Sons.

Mr. Reynolds, who won the Master Breeder's Shield, exhibited the Junior and Grand Champion bull, Dorvic Crown Royal. The Reserve champion bull was the first prize senior bull calf, Monfa Rocket Boy owned by Monfa Farms.

The Junior Female championship went to J. J. May and Sons and the Reserve Junior championship to James Matthie with the first prize junior heifer calf.

In the group competitions, the senior get-of-sire went to Reynolds, the junior get to F.J. Webster, D. N. Foster, exhibitor of the largest number of cattle, among a number of prizes won the female and one daughter class. The progeny of dam class was captured by F. J. Webster and Sons.

'Bow and Arrow' Army Surrenders In Indonesia

JAKARTA (Reuters)—A captain, two lieutenants and 82 men of the "bow and arrow" army of the self-styled "South Moluccas' Republic" have surrendered to the Indonesian army on Ceram Island, an official spokesman said yesterday.

Thousands of Republican supporters fled from Anboina to adjoining Ceram Island in 1950 when the Indonesian army wiped out Ambon, capital of the island, after a five-week battle.

Amboina and Ceram are the two main islands of South Moluccas, southwest of Netherlands New Guinea, one of the 10 provinces of the infant Republic of Indonesia.

Amboina never accepted Indonesian rule after The Netherlands granted Indonesia independence in December, 1949, mainly through religious differences. The majority of the Ambonese are Christians; most Indonesian peoples are Moslems.

Several thousand last-ditchers got to Ceram and have been waging intensive guerrilla warfare against the Indonesian army ever since, fighting mainly with bows and arrows.

Studies Air Strength

Air Marshal W. A. Curtis, 59, chief of Canada's air staff, is in Europe inspecting air fields allocated to the R.C.A.F. on the continent and studying others suggested for Canadian use. Three squadrons of jet fighters are scheduled to leave in October for Europe. It is the second of four wings Canada has promised to have in Europe by 1954. Air Marshal Curtis was born in Havelock, Ont., and as a fighter pilot in the First Warld War was credited with 13 German planes. Between wars he was in the reserve of the Canadian Air Force. His rise was rapid in the Second World War and in 1941 he went overseas. In 1944 he was made air member for air staff in Ottawa and in September, 1947, he became chief of the air staff.—(CP Photo.)

WOMAN BEATEN TO DEATH

DETROIT (CP)—Mrs. Edna Boscoe, 54, was found beaten and stabbed to death yesterday in her home in suburban St. Claire Shores. Also beaten was her 80-year-old mother-in-law, Mrs. Edith Brewster. Police seek a coal-truck driver.

WOMAN CONDEMNED

MANILA [illegible] Carmen [illegible], yesterday became the first person in Philippine history to receive the death sentence for kidnapping. A court found her guilty of abducting a girl at gunpoint and taking her to a "sex den." the girl later escaped.

Three Chinese Raids on Bunker Hill Repelled

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United Nations infantrymen last night and today threw back three Chinese assaults against Bunker Hill on the Korean western front, killing or wounding one-third of the 800-man Communist force.

The fighting raged for nearly eight hours. At some point troops closed in hand-to-hand combat on the muddy slopes soaked by six inches of rain in 48 hours.

United States B-29 and B-26 bombers again raided supply and communication centres near the North Korean capital of Pyongyang.

The U. S. Eighth Army disclosed that U. N. guards wounded 38 prisoners of war Aug. 11 in putting down a demonstration among "known Communist troublemakers" in a prisoner of war pen on Koje Island off South Korea.

In Tokyo, Gen. Mark W. Clark announced he had reorganized his Far East Command headquarters to give the navy and air force an almost equal voice with the army in over-all planning and policy, including direction of the Korean war and armistice talks. Under Generals Douglas MacArthur and Matthew B. Ridgway, air force and navy staff officers played relatively minor roles.

The Bunker Hill fighting, four miles east of the Panmunjom armistice-talks site, was the only major action along the 155-mile winding front.

SHOOT PORKIES

TORONTO (CP)—The porcupine is not a protected animal, says the [illegible] forests department. In fact the department suggests that when the animal chews seats, chairs, tables, canoe paddles and other wooden articles that absorb sweat from humans, and thus provide salt for the porcupine, the best thing to do is shoot it.

CATHOLICS MEET

KITCHENER (CP)—A wide variety of subjects will be discussed by committees at the fifth annual convention of the Ontario Council of the Catholic Women's League to be held here Sept. 5-8. Among them are education, legislation and citizenship, welfare and health, and immigration.

Overcrowding Lack of Discipline Noted in Survey of U.K. Prisons

By EDWIN S. JOHNSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON. (CP) —Hard-pressed in other fields, Britain now finds herself in urgent need of more prisons.

The disclosure, made in a recent parliamentary report, has brought a demand for improved accommodation and a full-scale inquiry into allegations of "appalling" conditions of overcrowding, understaffing, lack of discipline and violence in the country's penitentaries and jails.

The survey, prepared by a House of Commons select committee on estimates, places the present prison population at about 25,000—highest for more than 60 years. Available accommodation, however, normally would house no more than 12,000 offenders.

Three in cell

In February of this year, 4,500 male prisoners were sleeping three together in cells designed for one, a practice condemned by witnesses as "unhealthy and disgusting." At Wadsworth jail, which reported the severest overcrowding, more than 500 prisoners were sleeping three to a cell.

"While there is no evidence that this situation has resulted in any deterioration in health, the danger of rapid spread of epidemics grows more acute as overcrowding increases," the report says.

Costs £7 Million

The committee discloses that the cost of operating the country's chain of prisons during the current financial year will come to some £7,000,000. It recommends however, that new prisons should be built without delay.

Pending their completion and as a temporary expedient, it is suggested military hutments should be taken over and converted into prison camps. The home office has agreed to test the plan.

It was found that in most prisons there is a hard core of troublemakers, diagnosed as "aggressive psychopaths." Special security measures were necessary to cope with breach of discipline encouraged by these ring-leaders.

Life Too Attractive

As a result the working week in some prisons was reduced as low as 18 hours with an inevitable drop in production.

E. Wathall, secretary of the Parkhurst Prison Officers' Association, reported special privileges were extended to some prisoners under an old act. Their cells, he said, were not locked until 8 o'clock at night and they were allowed what is called a "fry up", from meat and potatoes saved from meals served during the day.

Evidence was given that prisoners spend as much time in leisure, just sitting around, smoking, playing cards, listening to the radio or reading newspapers, as they do at work.

"Prison life is far too attractive," Mr. Wathall observed.

The governor of Parkhurst Prison, P. A. Marriott, said that flogging had never been abolished in jails. It was rarely ordered, however, and the "regular boarders" were aware of that.

Asked if attacks on the staff had became more frequent as a result, he replied: "Yes. Prisoners now would not hesitate that would have hesitated before."

Tries Again

Welder Frank Hayostek, 27, of Johnstown, Pa., arrives in New York from Ireland where he visited Breda O'Sullivan, 23, who found the aspirin bottle containing his name and address which he tossed overboard from a troopship after the last war. No romance developed. Here, Hayostek decided to toss in another bottle, complete with his name and address, into Jamaica Bay, and who knows what will happen to it? — Central Press Canadian.

Australia's Post-War Boom Looks Like a Recession Money Tight 'Down Under'

By GORDON TAIT

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Australia's post-war boom has ended, giving the Australian people the biggest shock since the Japanese came to their doorstep a decade ago.

The country is still prosperous and the people among the best fed in the world, but the change looks like a recession to Australians who thought boom times were here for keeps.

The changing conditions have brought some unemployment, a deeper concern about the future, and a buttoning of pocketbooks.

Until a few months ago Australians were spending freely; importers, trying to meet the demand, spent hundreds of millions of pounds overseas. One result was that Australia spent £550,000,000 (about $1,210,000,000) more than she earned in the 1951-52 financial year.

But no longer can a store, stockbroker or automobile dealer sell anything he can lay his hands on. And no longer can an employee walk out of his job, knowing he will pick up another in an hour.

Family Income Down

Wages for a regular 40-hour work week are higher today than ever before, but the general family income is less. This is because overtime work doesn't come any more as a regular thing; and wives have trouble finding part-time or full-time jobs.

Prices of some types of food such as fruit and tinned foods continue to rise, but the trend is downward for eggs and meat. Clothes, too, are cheaper as stores try to sell heavy stocks.

Prices of automobiles, refrigerators, radios have stayed up, but today you can buy and drive away autos for which there was a theoretical two-year wait a year ago.

A double falling-off in national income—lower wool price and less foreign investment—seems to be the big reason for the money worries of the people.

ESCAPE BRIDGE COLLAPSE

ESPANOLA (CP) — A 240-foot bridge collapsed under a 20-ton tractor trailer yesterday, throwing the truck and two men into the Spanish River. The men, driver Clark Cameron and Ted Polden, freed themselves and swam ashore. The bridge has a five-ton load-limit sign. Espanola is 50 miles southwest of Sudbury.

MOTHER, SON REUNITED

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Robert Will, 36, of Carollton, Mich., yesterday found his mother after a 30-year separation. In a Windsor hospital, bed-ridden Mrs. Mabel Stevens, 54, reached out her arms and said: "This is my son." Will was put out for adoption at the age of five and with the aid of his wife finally traced his mother to Windsor.

London Brewer Leaves $1,575,000 Estate

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—The estate of John S. Labatt, London brewer, today was valued at $1,573,000.

Bulk of the estate goes to members of his immediate family. His widow will receive the income from a trust fund established from the estate and government annuities.

With the exception of $2,000 the remainder will be shared equally by his two sons, John and Arthur and a daughter Mary.

The church of which Mr. Labatt was a member, St. Paul's Cathedral receives a bequest of $1,000 and Beck Memorial Sanatorium, of which he was a director, receives the other $1,000 bequest.

OTTAWA WORKMAN KILLED

OTTAWA (CP)—Joseph Robichaud, 26, was killed yesterday when he fell from the fifth floor of the Bell Telephone Company building at downtown O'Connor and Albert Streets. The building is undergoing construction for a three-storey addition. Robichaud had been unloading supplies from a cable-operated hoist.

One of Richest Coal Deposits Being Worked

WANKIE, Southern Rhodesia (CP)—The roar of lions and the trumpeting of elephants are lost amid the clatter of modern industry as miners seek to expand production from the Wankie colliery, one of the richest coal deposits in Africa.

Eighteen degrees south of the equator and 2,000 feet above sea level, this mining town of about 18,000 white and native inhabitants is hemmed in by the African bush.

Coal was discovered in the area late in the last century by A. Giese, a free-lance prospector, and in the first full year of production in 1904 Wankie produced 51,500 tons of coal. Last year production was 2,401,596 tons, and it is hoped that by the end of 1953 production will have reached 5,000,000 tons annually.

Water Problem

To combat the problem of water supply, the company recently spent about £700,000 on a scheme to pipe 2,500,000 gallons a day from the Zambesi River.

Two collieries now are being worked, and preparations are being made to sink a third shaft. But because the coal is mined at a depth of about 200 feet, the Wankie mines lack the familiar pit headgear. Miners here descend to work on a gentle incline, and the coal is brought to the surface by a conveyer belt or on small trucks.

Fully Mechanised

Underground, mechanical cutters carve great slits in the coal walls and big electric drills drive deep holes in which explosives are placed to blast out the coal. veyer belts.

Off duty, the miners live in large, airy houses, built by the Wankie Colliery Company. These are of uniform design, costing between £2,000 and £3,000 with an electric stove as standard equipment.

Miners' families living in these homes include many who formerly lived near the coal mines in England. Their letters to colleagues back home are bringing hundreds of applications from British miners for jobs at Wankie.

Former Resident Champion Model Aircraft Builder

BRANTFORD (CP) — Howard Allison, 28, a postal clerk here today was named Canadian grand champion gas model aircraft builder.

Allison, formerly of Belleville, scored enough points during zone meets here in July to capture the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs' Association trophy, the Model Aeronautics Association of Canada trophy and the Hiram Walker Perpetual Trophy for open all-round champions.

LONDON MASS FOR EVA

LONDON, (AP) — A Requiem Mass was celebrated at Westminster Cathedral at noon Tuesday for the late Eva Peron, wife of the president of Argentina.

Recent Rains Delayed Harvest Throughout Ont.

TORONTO (CP)—Frequent rains of the last few weeks have delayed harvesting throughout most of Ontario, the provincial department of agriculture said today in its weekly crop report.

Threshing operations in western Ontario have been halted by the wet weather while tobacco harvesting in southern sections is slow because of the moist conditions.

Some Flooding

Although pasture conditions have been greatly improved in central Ontario by the heavy rainfall, parts of eastern Ontario report floods following last week's thunderstorms. Severe flooding took place in the Nation River valley south of Ottawa and much farm land was damaged. Northern Ontario reports most of its harvesting completed although wet weather has hampered threshing. In general, the yield is lower than last year.

Roots, soybeans, white beans and corn are making excellent growth in the Middlesex District while turnips are drawing 85 cents a bushel. The ensilage corn crop in Grenville county is exceptionally good with grain corn growing rapidly.

More Milk

Leeds county reports increasing milk production with pastures in good condition because of the recent heavy rains. A large number of springing dairy cows and heifers are available in Glengarry.

The Northumberland tomato crop is ripening slowly with processing continuing. Late potato blight is reported by some farmers in Muskoka and Parry Sound.

Potatoes are bringing $4.75 a bag in Cochrane North with no sign of blight. Timiskaming's timothy seed is already reaching the cleaning plants with prospects of a bigger yield than in recent years.

Kaspar Gorczak Pays Penalty For Slaying

EDMONTON (CP)—Thirty-four-year-old Kaspar Gorczak was hanged early today at Fort Saskatchewan provincial jail for the New eYar's Day knife slaying in Edmonton of his estranged wife, Staffy.

Gorczak, a Polish immigrant, walked to the gallows at midnight, the trap was sprung at 12:03 a. m., and Gorczak was pronounced dead at 12:15 a. m.

Gorczak, former proprietor of a cafe at Wanham, in Alberta's Peace River district, was twice convicted of murder.

He was first convicted by a Supreme Court jury in Edmonton March 26 and sentenced to be hanged June 27. He appealed, won a new trial and again was convicted and sentenced.

Gorczak's 22-year-old wife was employed in Edmonton as a waitress. The two had not lived together for several weeks preceding the stabbing which followed repeated attempts by Gorczak to arrive at a reconciliation with his wife.

Mutiny Reported Among China Nationalists

RANGOON, Burma (Reuters)—Reports of mutiny and of a change in the command of 10,000 Chinese Nationalist troops in the Burma-China border area circulated here today.

Authoritative sources said about 50 men were killed in a brief fight in which Gen. Li Mi was ousted in favor of Gen. Lu Kuo Chuan, former commander of the Chinese 26th Army.

The sources said Li's abortive attack on Communists in Yunnan province early last year, in which many of the Nationalist guerrillas were lost, caused discontent among the troops.

Li, 54, deputy commander of the Chinese 8th Army during the civil war in China, withdrew his troops to the Burma border late in 1948. Since then, the troops have operated in the mountains on Burma's eastern frontier.

Meanwhile, Karen rebels today derailed a passenger train about 90 miles north of here and attacked and robbed the passengers.

MISSING BOAT FOUND

OWEN SOUND (CP)—A five-day search for a 4-foot Detroit sailboat, the Sea Waif, which put out into stormy Lake Huron from Grand Bend Thursday, ended yesterday when the craft was located at Tobermory, 200 miles north of where it was last seen. There was no indication of where it had travelled during the last five days. Police said the sailboat carried a couple from Detroit.

Large Defence Contracts Let

OTTAWA (CP)—The defence production department today announced the award of a $2,054,000 contract to a Hamilton, Ont., firm for the construction of new steel hangars for the R.C.A.F. at Camp Borden, Ont.

The contract, awarded to W.H. Yates Construction Co. Ltd., was the biggest of some $12,700,000 worth of defence construction orders placed during the four-week period ended Aug. 15.

The department also announced award of some $8,800,000 worth of equipment orders, biggest of which was a 1,500,000 contract to Canadian General Electric Co. Ltd., Downsville, Ont., for repair and overhaul of aircraft engines. Equipment and service orders covered the two-week period, Aug. 1-15.

Other large orders included: W. C. Brennan Contracting Co., Hamilton, $531,000 for an underground steam distribution system.

Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co., Toronto, $589,000, tires, aircraft wheel and brake assembles.

International Harvester Co, Ottawa, $537,000 for trucks.

POLITICAL AMNESTY

MEXICO CITY (AP)—Mexico's government has dropped all charges against 58 opposition politicians arrested after post-election riots last month in which four persons were killed. The 58 were followers of presidential candidate Gen. Miguel Henriquez Guzman, overwhelmingly defeated in the July 6 voting by Alfolfo Ruiz Cortines.

For Normal Driving—It Loafs!

In a Golden Anniversary Cadillac, fifty miles an hour is just a leisurely saunter. As you relax behind the wheel, you can leave highway dramatics to the drivers of other, lesser cars. Because you know—and they know—that you don't have to prove anything. Under every conceivable driving condition, in any company whatever, your Cadillac is in a class beyond compare.

Down under its hood is the most powerful engine ever used in a standard passenger car. There's more power there than you'll ever need—except for emergency.

But don't think that power doesn't work for you—even when you're not unleashing it to its full limit.

It works for your safety . . . because a great reserve of power is a wonderful safeguard in most of the driving emergencies that present themselves.

It works for your comfort . . . because no car rides so well or handles so superbly, as when it "coasts along", with a great percentage of its power still under the accelerator.

And it works for your peace of mind . . . for it is unbelievably comforting to know that you have tremendous acceleration, should the necessity for it arise.

Of course, power has to be harnessed and handled in order to be your friend and servant. So the Golden Anniversary Cadillac has superb new brakes—larger and more efficient—and designed and built to double the span of their endurance.

And those who want the ultimate in easy handling may order at extra cost Cadillac's new power steering that eliminates as much as 75% of normal steering effort.

It would take a volume to tell you all the things that have been done to make this a "car among cars." For this, as you probably know, is a "year among years" in Cadillac's wonderful history—its Golden Anniversary.

But it will take but a mile or a minute for you to sense what it means in terms of pleasure and satisfaction.

It means something wonderful . . . too wonderful, in fact, to miss!

Better come in today—for a look—and a ride—and a revelation.

FRESH Peach Pie
Line a 9-inch pie plate with flaky pie dough or cheese pie dough. Peel, stone and slice fresh Ontario peaches to make five cups. Combine and sift over fresh peaches:
One-half cup brown sugar. One-quarter tsp. cinnamon. One-eighth tsp. nutmeg. One-eighth tsp. salt. One tbsp. corn starch. One and one-half tbsp. butter. One tbsp. lemon juice. One-half tsp. grated lemon rind.
Stir gently until well-coated and place in the pie shell. Cover with a pricked upper crust. Bake the pie in a hot oven of 450 degrees for 10 minutes. Reduce the heat to 350 degrees. Continue baking about 45 minutes.
Note: This pie may be baked without an upper crust. Bake it in a hot oven of 450 degrees for 20 minutes. Sprinkle one cup grated old cheese on top and place in oven again until cheese is melted.

Green Whiffs 22 For New Record, Glens Win 5-0

Bob Green, with some help from the Glen Roy Juniors, defeated Madoc Juniors 5-0 last evening in an exhibition game under the lights at the Alemite Field.

Green had the best night of his pitching career as he struck out 22 men while giving up only six walks, and one scratch hit. In addition to playing catch all night with battery mate P. Green, Bob helped himself to 3 hits in four trips, driving in two of the Glens five runs and scoring another himself.

Bob set a new strikeout record for local softball pitchers a few weeks ago when he whiffed 17 batters in an exhibition tilt with Kingston Alcans, and the fans, sensing a possible new record raised a cheer when Bob claimed his 18th victim last evening. After that it was a matter of seeing how many he could strike out.

The Madoc team, in a splendid tribute to an amazing job, came over and shook hands with Bob after the game.

In addition to the tension generated by Bob's try for a no-hitter and a new strikeout record, the game generated plenty of good entertainment in its own right. The Madoc squad, led by pitcher Doug Radnor, were a hustling ball club that came undone in the third inning when an error in right field let in two runs. Otherwise they fought a fine defensive game but were helpless at the plate.

Lone Hit

The lone single that marred Green's no hitter was a squeeze bunt in the top of the seventh inning with one out and one on. Blakely went down pitcher-to-first to open the inning and Knott walked. Hatch than dumped a bunt down the first base line that pulled the right side of the infield out of position.

The bunt went through the charging fielders for a single. Batchelor, however, recovered it in time to nail Knott going into third.

The Glens scored three runs in the third inning on Radnor's lone walk, five singles, and a two base error in right field.

A three-base error on De-Gray's fly to centre, and singles by Wannamaker and Green pushed over another run in the fourth.

John Batchelor finished the scoring for the Glens by tagging a slow ball for a home run over the fence in deep centrefield, with one away in the seventh.

Batchelor led the winners at the plate with three singles and a home run in four tries. Green had three-for-four and Wannamaker had two-for-four.

Radnor, in going the distance for the losers walked one, struck out five, and gave up 11 singles and a home run.

Diesels Down Electrics 11-1

By JACK BRETT

The league winners in the 'A' section CNR Diesels defeated the 'AA' league winners, Northern Electric in eight innings of exhibition play at the Alemite field last night by a score of 11-1.

The winning team worked three pitchers, Al Adams started, was replaced by Halloran in the fourth who in turn was replaced by Boyle in the eighth. Between the three of them, they struck out five, walked three and allowed one run off eight hits.

Leclerc started for the Northern team and he was followed by Lucciola in the fourth. They walked one, struck out none and allowed 15 hits.

Don Adams drove in two men in the first frame for the Diesels with a double. He scored himself as Rogers singled. They scored again in the second as Fitzpatrick's double brought in Al Adams aboard on a walk to make it 4-0.

For Northern, Young doubled in the Electric's half and was driven in as Day singled to give Northern their only tally of the game.

The Diesels chalked up four more runs in the third frame on three singles and a home run by Wardhaugh. Rogers batted the second homer over the fence in the fifth to increase the Diesels lead 9-1.

Wardhaugh singled in the eighth and scored on a three base error. Fitzpatrick rang up the final tally for the Diesels as he doubled and scored on a fielders' choice.

Lineup

CNR Diesels: Fitzpatrick, 2b; Hunter lf, Sword ss, [illegible] Adams, c, Corbett c, Wardhaugh [illegible] Rogers 1b, Culkin rf, Don Adams [illegible], Boyle cf, Al Adams p, Halloran p, Boyle p.

McPhail Figures 'Yanks The Team'

JASPER PARK LODGE, Alta., —Fresh from selling $195,000 worth of his yearlings at Saratoga, Larry McPhail, former president of the New York Yankees arrived here Sunday convinced that the Yanks would again sweep everything before them.

Mr. McPhail, accompanied by his wife, arrived at Jasper Park Lodge for a brief visit before continuing to Vancouver where they will sail aboard the CNS liner Prince George for Skagway, Alaska.

Mr. McPhail was convinced the Yanks this year again will go through to take the world series. "The Yanks are tough to beat when the chips are down," he claimed adding: "There's something about a Yankee uniform that makes a player just a little better than the others." He didn't think the recent splurge of the Cleveland Indians would bother the New York squad.

With his interest now devoted to raising horses and cattle at his farm in Bel Air, Maryland, Mr. McPhail recently sold 27 yearlings at Saratoga, N. Y., for more than $195,000 and he is currently working on the rebuilding of Bowie Park Midway between Baltimore and Washington at a cost of $2,000,000.

Decide 6 Titles In Canadian Junior Tennis

OTTAWA (CP)—Six tennis championships, including the junior men's and women's singles, will be decided today in the second-last day of the Canadian junior tennis championships.

Defending champion Dudley Johnston of Jacksonville, Fla., meets Stephen Gottlieb of New York on the Rideau Lawn Tennis club's new all-weather court for the junior men's singles title.

A Canadian is sure of taking the junior women's singles title, however, with defending champion Mariette Laframboise of Montreal and Carol Turcotte of Ottawa fighting for the honors.

Also scheduled for finals in the boys' singles, junior women's doubles and boys' and girls' doubles.

Miss Laframboise will pair off with Vonnie Davis of Toronto in the women's doubles in another all-Canadian match. They tangle with Ann Stacey and J[illegible]y Bryson of Halifax.

Carl Nargauer of Yonkers, N.Y., plays Jim Ionidis of Winnipeg for the boys' singles title.

Joan O'Brien and Ca[illegible] Barton of Toronto yesterday moved into the finals of the girls' doubles and that title will be decided later in the day after a semi-final match is completed. Ionidis, boys' singles hopeful, and Frank Kanow[illegible]y, of Winnipeg, will join forces against Raul Karman of Havana, Cubs, and Gerald Dubie of Hamtramck, Mich., for the boys' doubls.

Hamtramck Wins Three

Yesterday Dubie's clubmate, Joyce Pniewski, captured the girls' singles title when she ousted first-seeded Carol Wolf of Buffalo, N.Y., 6-3, 8-8. It was the [illegible] title captured by the young Hamtramck tennis club members, who entered the Canadian title matches for the first time this year. Earlier 11-year-old Dubie and Phyllis Saganski won the juvenile boys' and juvenile girls' singles championships.

Johnston, playing his last year of junior tennis, yesterday defeated Norgauer Johnston, an excitable player but good with placement shots and fast on the court, took the semi-final in straight sets 6-3, 6-0, 6-4.

Gottlieb, a perfectionist who goes to the extreme of checking the net and lines before he plays, ousted Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N.Y., 6-2, 6-2, 4-6, 6-3.

Ionidis moved into the boys' singles final yesterday with a 6-1, 6-3 win over Gordon Daly of Toronto. In the other semi-final, Norgauer defeated Karman 6-0, 6-0.

Marlene, Pal Set Golf Mark

JASPER, Alta. (CP) —An unofficial record in two-ball foursome play on the Jasper Park Lodge golf course was established yesterday by Marlene Stewart of Fonthill, 18-year-old Canadian women's close golf champion, and John Ballard of Fort Worth, Texas.

They covered the 18-mile course in a sizzling three-under-par 68. Paired against them were Miss Ada Mackenzie of Toronto and Harold Staff of Cincinnati, who carded 78.

HIGH PRICE FOR STAMPS

VIENNA (Reuters)—An Austrian stamp, dated 1839 and originally worth a quarter of a cent, will be sold to an unidentified Briton for $49,840, its owners said yesterday. Austrian philatelists have claimed that the stamp is the oldest of its kind in the world, pre-dating by one year Britain's "penny black."

Maxim Suspended Until He Meets Randy Turpin

NEW YORK. (AP)—Light-heavyweight champion Joey Maxim yesterday was suspended by the New York State Athletic Commission until he goes through with a title defence against Britain's Randy Turpin in London.

The 30-year-old 175-pound king and his manager, Jack Kearns, both were suspended indefinitely for their refusal to defend the crown this September under the promotion of England's Jack Solomons.

After hearing testimony from Solomons, Ted Waltham, general secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control, Kearns and others, the commission ruled unanimously that Maxim and Kearns had "refused to honor an agreement" to meet Turpin and declared their action "detrimental to the best interests of boxing."

There had been talk that Maxim would defend his crown against Jake La Motta, the Bronx bull, in Detroit this fall.

"I'm going to talk this whole matter over with a lawyer," said Kearns. "We're not trying to duck Turpin or anyone else."

Wins Closed Water-Ski Title

TORONTO —(CP) — Charlie Blackwell of Owen Sound successfully defended his Canadian closed water skiing championship at the Canadian Exhibition yesterday.

The slim 20-year-old youth piled up 765 points in slalom, truck riding and jumps. The slalom course at the waterfront is marked by brilliant plastic beach balls, while the waxed wooden jump, 24 fee tlong, rises out of the water to a height of five feet.

Russ McIntosh of Bobcaygeon, with a total of 780 1-2 points, missed taking the championship through a Canadian water skiing association ruling which requires a competitor to score in all three events. McIntosh was disqualified in the trick riding and placed ninth.

Royals Moving To Second Flag; Leafs Nip Chiefs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

To win the pennant these days it seems a team must have a good relief pitcher on hand.

Montreal Royals, moving toward a successful defence of their International League title, have such an ace in 29-year-old Jim Hughes. Hughes made his 41st appearance last night and gained his eighth win as the Royals defeated Buffalo Bisons 9-6 in 12 innings.

Coming into the game in the eighth inning with the score tied at 6-6, the relief specialist proceeded to hurl two-hit ball while fanning five over the last four frames.

In the final inning, Joe Lutz doubled with the bases loaded to send Milt Jordan down to his first defeat in five straight relief appearances. Frank Carswell, the league's leading hitter, whacked his 25th homer for the Bisons in the fourth with a man aboard.

Orioles Win Two

Baltimore Orioles won a pair of close decisions from Springfield Cubs, 2-0 and 2-1, to move into fifth place. In the opener, the Orioles scored their two runs in the fifth on a single by Dee Phillips, a triple by Danny Schell and an interference play as Schell rounded third. Those were the only two hits Baltimore made. The Orioles pushed across the winning tally in the ninth of the nightcap on Phillips' single with two on.

Toronto Maple Leafs, clinging to their fourth-place lead by a game, edged Syracuse Chiefs from behind the 6-hit pitching of Red Fahr. Grover Bowers doubled home the Grover bowers doubled home the deciding marker with a double in the seventh.

Johnny Metkowich belted a pair of homers, his second climaxing a four-run outburst in the 12th inning, to give Ottawa Athletics an 8-4 win over Rochester.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK (AP)—It is sad to see manager Al Lopez throw in the towel and, in effect, concede that his Cleveland Indians are out of the American League race.

Al's announcement came the other day in the form of the indefinite benching of Ray Boone, the Tribe's regular shortstop. That was it. From here on the Indians will play out their schedule and the Yankees will decide how to divvy up their fourth straight World Series pot.

Lopez said that, so far as he knew, Boone would be out the rest of the way and that his place would be taken, in a manner of speaking, by George Strickland, a waiver-type shortstop recently obtained from Pittsburgh.

We had been looking for it, wondering at precisely what point the Lopez patience would become exhausted. It was a tough decision to make. He knew that, with Boone playing well, the Indians would have a chance.

One of the first things we asked Lopez at Tucson last spring was whether he thought he could win with Boone, just starting his second full season, at short. It was the question uppermost in the Indians' camp. Otherwise, the club obviously was pretty well set, especially in hitting and pitching.

EASE THE STRAIN

But it has long since been proved that you can't win a flag without a first-class shortstop. You can't single out a club that has done it in modern times.

The record showed that Boone last year, in his first full season after succeeding Lou Boudreau, had made 33 errors while the Indians were finishing second to the Yanks. That was too many. Phil Rizzuto of the champions had made only 24, but that was a comparatively poor season for the scooter.

The previous year, 1950, he had miscued only 14 times. Boone's fielding average last year was .956. Boudreau had averaged .973 for eight straight years.

Lopez said yes, he realized better than anyone else that Boone had been spotty last year, but that he fully expected him to settle down and prove himself a real big leaguer this season.

Cleveland Defeats Bobby Shantz 6-3 In 11; Yankees Retain Game Lead

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

GOOD NEWS

The announcement of Belleville Hockey Association president Jack N. Yanover yesterday to the effect that the association will function again this year was welcomed with figurative cheers along the hockey rialto here.

Following the rumors, plentiful after junior "B" manager Cook declared his retirement from "active duty" that the association would "fold," President Yanover lost little time in calling the meeting. This was perhaps accelerated by the visit here last week of Bob Wilson, chief eastern scout of the Chicago Black Hawks.

Wilson was plainly disappointed at the prospect or possibility of the cessation of the pleasant relations which have existed between the Hawks and the BHA from the junior "B" standpoint and urged that some action take place. He did not, he said, want to go to Chicago and report the breaking of relations between the parent organization and its "best junior "B" farm club."

It was also good news that Manager Bill Cook reconsidered his decision to retire. Mr. Cook, like other humans, has his faults. Perhaps one of them as far as he himself is concerned is an unquenchable interest in junior hockey. Bill didn't acquire this love of sport. It was born in him. And he was one of the main reasons why junior "B" hockey survived the tough years, and is enjoying a high status of popularity at the present. He spent a lot more time and money on his "hobby" than he will admit. But at the same time he was the first to admit he was not indispensable. Be that as it may. If Bill Cook retired this department doubts very strongly if another man could be found to take his place who has the same fiery interest, the willingness to devote time, effort and money, with not a few personal sacrifices thrown in.

The terrific amount of work done each year and which increased commensurately with the junior "B" popularity by Dick Beare, secretary treasurer will be eased. Dick will be back again but only in a treasurer's capacity, a package of headaches in itself. A new secretary will be appointed in the near future.

To get back to Chicago angle. It must be admitted by fandom in general that last season produced the best junior "B" hockey club ever to wear the Belleville colors. The team, augmented by four Chicago Hawks "farmhands," Hector Lalonde, George Jacklyn, Bob Wilson and Henry Therrien, definitely "went places." It reached the provincial round robin semi-finals and was eliminated by the starry Weston Dukes. With a little more depth, and another defenceman or so the youngsters might have won the title.

According to Scout Wilson, the team should be as strong if not stronger this year. Jacklyn and Therrien, should be back and if Lalonde and Wilson do not meet the Galt Hawks' junior "A" requirements, they will be seen in a Belleville uniform. However they cannot be regarded as imports and so the junior Hawks can be augmented with four new faces. And, as Wilson says, they will be the best of the new crop unable to make the junior 'A" grade.

As important as are player strength and administrative and organizational requirements, there is another thing that is equally as important if not more so. And that is public support. True the Black Hawks organization assist somewhat financially, but the bugbear of any sports organization is the raising of the finances necessary to carry its project through to some semblance of a successful conclusion.

The brunt of the financial foundation of the junior "B" set-up for the past few years has fallen on the shoulders of a small group of men in the ranks of the BHA. Some support has been forthcoming from the public, business men, private citizens and very little if any from industrial set-ups.

The cost of operation of a modern hockey team reaches figures that to some would be unbelievable. And while on that subject it should be noted that not one member of the BHA derives one cent for his services from the revenue of projects, donations or box-office. More often it is the reverse. They have to dig in their pockets. Fandom in general, business, industry and the city should remember this when support becomes necessary to finance the hockey set-up.

The BHA will conduct its minor operations the same as last year, President Yanover says. This will be discussed at a meeting to be called directly following Labor Day. Also on the agenda will be arrangements to have ice installed in Memorial Arena so that the Chicago Black Hawks can fill an exhibition date here, October 3rd. Important business is also to be discussed with the Arena Commission.

CLAIM 15 PRISONERS DIE

TOKYO (AP)—The Communist Peiping radio today claimed without confirmation that 15 Korean war prisoners were killed and more than 40 wounded at an Allied prisoner of war camp Aug. 15. The location of the camp was not given. The Red account did not say how the prisoners were killed. There was no immediate comment from United Nations Command headquarters.

Feller's Magic Paces Victory; Bombers Blast Browns 6-3; Brooklyn Step Nearer Pennant

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

"Expendable" Bob Feller may have lost some of his mound magic but he is not ready to act as a sacrificial lamb for anyone.

The former strikeout king was enjoying the last laugh today following one of his better performances of the year in which he teamed up with three other "expendable" teammates to bring an important victory to Cleveland Indians.

Feller came within two outs of winning a hurling duel from the fabulous Bobby Shantz last night before leaving the mound in the ninth inning with the Indians and Athletics deadlocked at 3-3.

Win in Overtime

The Indians went on to capture a thrill-packed 6-3 decision in 11 innings to remain within one game of the American League-leading Yankees, who whipped St. Louis Browns 6-3 in New York.

A two-run triple by Barney McCosky, a Philadelphia discard, snapped the 3-3 deadlock and gave reliefer Lou Brissie the win. Brissie, who also once wore the livery of the Athletics, retired all eight men he faced and struck out pinch hitter Keith Thomas and the dangerous Eddie Joost with the bases loaded and one out in the ninth after relieving Feller.

Manager Al Lopez not only saw Feller pitch one-hit ball for seven innings, but had the satisfaction of seeing George Strickland, his emergency shortstop, clout a two-run homer in the seventh to break up a scoreless duel. Only two days ago Lopez benched Ray Boone and gave the post to Strickland, a throw-in in a deal with Pittsburgh.

Brooklyn's runaway Dodgers moved a step nearer to the National League flag, sweeping the four-game series in St. Louis with a 4-3 success over the Cardinals. The second-place New York Giants remained 10½ lengths behind, winning a 14-7 slugfest in Pittsburgh.

Boston's Braves blanked the Reds 2-0 and Chicago Cubs eked out a 13-inning 3-2 victory over Philadelphia Phillies.

Nats Fourth

Washington moved into fourth place in the American League as Bob Porterfield batted in the only run in winning a 1-0 duel from Billy Pierce of Chicago White Sox. The third-place Boston Red Sox continued to trail the Yankees by 3½ games, vanquishing Detroit Tigers 11-3.

Feller had won 239 big league ball games including three no-hitters but few of them have given him more satisfaction than yesterday's dramatic, albeit winless performance against Shantz and A's.

According to a Cleveland writer Feller, assigned to oppose Shantz in place of Mike Garcia, the Cleveland ace, was being sacrificed to the 22-game winning Philadelphia southpaw.

"Feller will be in there tonight because he's expendable," wrote Ed McAuley, sports columnist of the Cleveland News. "If the fabulous little Bobby Shantz is to win his 23rd game at the expense of the Indians, it will hurt less if he wins it from Feller."

For seven innings Bob outpitched the league's No. 1 pitcher, limiting the A's to one safety. In the seventh the Indians moved in front when Strickland smashed his first hit for his new team, a homer with a man on base.

Rosen Homers

After Philadelphia bounced back to tie it up in the eighth, Al Rosen put the tribe in front 3-2 with a ninth-inning homer. The A's tied it in their half on Gus Zernial's single and Cass Michaels' double. Feller gave up a walk and another hit to load the bases before Brissie came in.

The Yankees also had a squeaker, winning in the ninth when Joe Collins smashed a home run with two out and two runners on base to hang the defeat upon Satchel Paige, the ageless Brownie relief pitcher.

Rookie catcher Sammy White batted in five runs with a pair of doubles and a single as the Red Sox unleashed a pair of five-run innings to clinch their 15th victory in 18 meetings against the last-place Tigers.

A two-base wild throw by catcher Del Rice on a dribbler hit by George Shuba just 10 feet in front of the plate allowed two Brooklyn runners to score in the eighth, enough to give the Dodgers a 4-3 decision over the Cards.

Batting: Barney McCosky, Indians—clouted a two-run triple in the 11th inning as a pinch hitter to break a 3-3 tie and lead the Indians to a 6-3 victory over Philadelphia Athletics.

Pitching: Bob Porterfield, Senators—pitched a four-hit shutout and singled in the only run of the game as Washington nipped Chicago White Sox 1-0 to move into fourth place.

Galt Eliminated By Panthers; Majors Edge Sox

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Kitchener Panthers, who finished the regular season at the top of the senior Intercounty Baseball League standings, last night eliminated Galt from the playoffs.

The Panthers defeated the Terriers 7-2 in the sixth game of their best-of-seven series. Two Galt players, Irv Schupp and Charlie Moore, injured in an auto accident Monday night, were not in the line-up.

In the other game; London won its first game with Brantford 6-5 on a home run by pitcher Bob Brake in the 11th inning.

Round-Robin Starts

Kitchener, Brantford and London each will play a round-robin series of double home-and-home games. The team with the best record for the round-robin series will then be declared league champions.

The largest crowd of the season, 3,000, turned out for the last game at Galt.

Kitchener won the game in the third inning when Hal Rockburn, pitching his third game in six days, lost control. Three walks, an error by Mike Pontarelli, a homer by Freddy Thomas and singles by Don Gallinger and Ross Doherty netted five runs.

Thomas homered again in the ninth. In the second inning right fielder Dick Welker also homered. Tex Kaiser homered for Galt in the second.

Mel Duncan was the winning pitcher, allowing six hits. Hal Rockburn went the route for Galt, giving up eight hits. Only three of Kitchener's seven runs were earned.

London took a 2-1 lead in the first inning and added single counters in the second, fifth and seventh before Brake won it with a homer in the 11th.

Brantford got one run in the first, two in the fifth, two in the ninth and threatened in the 10th when Brake retired the side with the bases loaded. The side went down when he struck out Lipka after the count was three balls, no strikes.

The league's final statistics released today showed that Brake allowed only 22 earned runs in 109 innings to be the most-effective hurler of the season. Chuck Fedoran of Kitchener won the most games, 12.

Russ Even, veteran London player, had a 34-point margin over Don Butler, St. Thomas, in winning the league's batting honors. Evan hit .361, Butler .327.

Evan also led in R.B.I.'s with 44. Pat Seerey of Guelph set a home-run record with 11. He also was second to Evan in the R.B.I. department with 31.

Greco Retrieves Welter Title From Savoie

MONTREAL (CP) —The Canadian welterweight title and veteran John Greco are back together again.

This came about last night when the 29-year-old Greco defeated fellow-Montrealer Armand Savoie, getting a unanimous decision in the 12-round title bout at the Forum.

Greco weighed 147, Savoie 139.

More than 8,000 fans contributed to a gross gate of $23,000 to see Greco force the fight all the way and win by a wide margin. The veteran was on the offensive contniually, landing repeatedly to pile up the points while 23-year-old Savoie was never able to get along.

Holding Charged

Referee Tommy Sullivan awarded two rounds to Greco, charging continuous holding on the part of Savoie but the decision had little effect on the fight as they were rounds in which Greco had a margin.

In an eight-round, semi-final, Young Junior, 142 1-2, Springfield, Mass., scored a technical knockout over Bryant Kelly of Niagara Falls, Ont., in the fifth round.

Kelly, 138 1-2, was apparently injured when the two fighters' heads collided in the fourth and suffered a gash under the eye. The referee let the fight go on until the end of the round but then halted the bout.

Rabid Sports Fans Threaten Spanish-Portugese Relations

By LUIS TEIVES

LISBON. (Reuters)—Just when it seems that Spain and Portugal have made friends, along comes an international soccer or hockey game, and the Spaniards and Portuguese start acting like Giant and Dodger fans at a ball game.

Handshakes and amicable exchanges are the order of the day in diplomatic relations between the two countries, but these give way to hisses and boots when the Spaniards and Portuguese meet in the sports field.

Diplomats of both countries are coming to the conclusion that there can be no lasting bond between Lisbon and Madrid until Spanish-Portuguese sports contests are banned.

The issue came to the fore again recently at Oporto over the game of hockey on roller skates, which is becoming almost as popular as soccer in both Spain and Portugal.

Spain had won the roller-skate hockey title from Portugal in last year's championship at Barcelona, and Portuguese fans were determined that their team should regain the crown.

For weeks before the game, newspapers and radio stations implored Portuguese fans to be sporting and applaud the Spaniards. But when the big event took place, the crowd of more than 50,000 shouted abuse at the Spaniards and Portugal's 2-1 victory was celebrated as a national event.

As a result, the pro-government newspaper "Diario da Manha" of Lisbon commented:

"Are sports matches between Portugal and Spain worthwhile? We gain only mutual ill will. Is it fair that the permanent work of two governments should be impeded among the masses by an annual football match in Madrid or Lisbon, or by a hockey game in Barcelona, Oporto or Lisbon?"

The policy of strengthening the ties of friendship between Spain and Portugal started in 1936, during the Spanish Civil War, when Portugal gave full support to France.

This was followed by a treaty of friendship and non-aggression between the two countries in 1939, which was renewed for another 10-year period in 1948.

Friendly relations between the two countries have increased in the last few years—except on the football field and the roller rink.

McElroy, Defending Champ, Defeated As Canadian Amateur Field Narrows

VANCOUVER (CP)—The favorites were beginning to find their way to the sidelines today as play continued in the Canadian amateur golf tournament.

The field of 64 was to be pruned to 16 in the third and fourth rounds of the week-long club social over the mountainside Capilano course in West Vancouver.

Walt McElroy of Vancouver, the defending champion, joined a small, select group of also-rans after yesterday's second 18-hole match-play round. Previously sidetracked were Joe Gagliardi of Mamaroneck, N.Y., runner-up in the U.S. amateur last year, Pete Bogan, U.S. public links champion, and Dick Yost, U.S. amateur semi-finalist at Seattle last week.

A fairly large group gave signs they are able and willing to step into McElroy's shoes, among them Canadians Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., and Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver; and Americans Sam Urzetta, 1950 U.S. champion from Rochester, N.Y., Ed Johnston of Towson, Md., Bill Campbell of Huntinton, W.Va., Frank Hardison of Glendale, Calif., and Bob Roos of San Francisco, who eliminated McElroy 3 and 2.

Weslock Wins Easily

Weslock swarmed all over Mike Banks of Seattle, 9 and 8, and went on to fire an eight-under-par 64, two off the course record of 62 set by Al Mengert of Spokane, Wash., two years ago.

Johnston crushed R. W. Porter of Vancouver 10 and 8 in the most one-sided match so far. Both he and Weslock had eagles, Weslock on the par-five first and Johnston on the par-five fifth.

Some of the matches scheduled for today include those between Bill Shields, New York state champion, and Phil Farley of Toronto; Urzetta and highly-regarded Jack Ellis of Vancouver; Eddie Draper, Washington state champion, and Jim Harper of Edmonton; and Dave Edgell of Vancouver and Silverberg.

The fifth and sixth rounds will be run off tomorrow, leading to the 36-hole semi-finals Friday and the 36-hole final Saturday.

Legion Juveniles Defeat Trenton

Belleville Canadian Legion juvenile baseballers took the first game of their best-of-three OBA series from the Trenton Kents by an 8-3 score. The second game is slated for Batawa on Saturday starting at 6 o'clock.

Legion scored four runs in each of the third and fourth innings with Trenton getting two in the first and one in the third.

Faulkner on the mound for the Legion whiffed a dozen and gave up four hits. Bill Mitts hurled for Trenton and gave up five clouts but six errors afield did not help his cause.

Walsh of Trenton got a triple, double and single, while Canning of Legions was good for a pair of singles.

Winnie Leuszler Starter In Women's Swim

TORONTO (CP)—Winnie Roch Leuszler was back at the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront today as usual—but this time on business.

The 26-year-old St. Thomas, Ont., housewife and mother of three children, who last year became the first Canadian woman to swim the English Channel, is out to take $1,500 first-prize money in the three-mile women's world professional championship swim.

Winnie is expected to find her toughest competitor in Shirley Campbell of Fergus, Ont., 16-year-old Canadian women's amateur champion. Shirley streaked along the one mile C.N.E. course Saturday in 26 minutes and 44 seconds to take the amateur title. The tiny blonde champ displayed a sure-steady stroke that is expected to stand up well against the St. Thomas veteran's 46-to-the-minute. Interviewed yesterday at the waterfront, her habitual haunt during the first four days of the exhibition, Winnie said she wasn't too worried about the youngsters among the expected 15 starters.

"These kids aren't interested in training once they turn professional," she said. "Why should they for one race a year?"

Defending champion Vivian King, 21, of Winnipeg will not hit the 65-degree water with the starters. She's too busy honeymooning in Vancouver, having married Alex Thompson of Winnipeg Friday.

Blondé and freckled, Winnie first caught the public's eye when she placed second in the C.N.E. swim in 1947, just two months after the birth of her first child. She placed third the next year and six months later gave birth to her second child.

A year and 12 days ago when the stocky housewife slipped into the water off Cap Gris Nez, France, £500 waited at the end of the gruelling 14-hour swim—enough to buy tickets for herself and her coaching father, Ed Roach, back to Canada.

Today's $1,500 prize money will go, she says, as a down payment on a new home in St. Thomas, where her husband is stationed with the R.C.A.F.

'Walcott Pitching, Rocky Catching' Says Champion

HAWKINSVILLE, N.J. (AP)—The world heavyweight boxing champion said yesterday: "The batteries Sept. 23 will be Jersey Joe Walcott pitching and Rocky Marciano catching."

Walcott, training here for his title defence at Philadelphia's Municipal Stadium next month, vowed that Marciano, the unbeaten Brockton, Mass., challenger, "won't hit me with those roundhouse swings."

"They tell me Rocky used to be a baseball catcher," said the champ. "Well, when he delivers a punch, he still looks as if he is throwing to second. I can see the punches from the stands."

Walcott said he hasn't fought a fellow in years as easy to hit as Marciano. The champ, after making his daily battle statement, then drove to Atlantic City to review an Elks parade.

Ashby's Edge Northern Girls

Peterborough— Ashby's opened their girl's softball league inter. final series with Belleville at the Bowl and edged the Quinte colleens 7-6. The second game will be staged in Belleville tonight and the third, if necessary, there on Friday night.

Both teams finished strong last night, Ashby's getting three runs in the ninth on five hits, including a homer by S. Partridge; and Belleville using three hits and an error to fashion two runs before Young struck out. Belleville got but eight hits off Brown while the winners got a dozen off Corneal and H. Reeves, though the latter pitched well and Corneal was good in fielding. H. Reeves led her side at bat with three for four and Waite hit a triple.

E. Brown pitched fine ball for Ashby's, the fielding being fair on both sides. E. Simmonds led the victors in fielding while Jordan, Thompson and Partridge got two safe blows each, one of the latter's being the circuit clout. Ashby's also pulled off a double play.

Yankee Pro Golfers Favored To Take Match from Canucks

By W.R. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP)—Riding along on a comfortable point margin, the six-man team of American professional golfers was heavy favorite today to win the first international match against Canadians.

The Americans piled up 7½ points to Canada's 1½ in the three four-ball matches yesterday. Six singles are carded in today's windup, the feature match bringing together Julius Boros, U.S. Open champion, and Bobby Locke, British Open titleholder.

It promised to be a torrid match, with prestige as well as points at stake.

Posts Low Score

Locke, the South African golfing master, posted low medal score among the 12 players in the four-ball matches. He shot a nine-under-par 135 for the 36-hole distance over the Beaconsfield course, while a gallery of 4,500 applauded

Locke was team with Jules Huat of Montreal and the two took one point in three in their match against Boros and Doug Ford. They were one up after 18 holes but surrendered the lead to Boros' hot putting in the afternoon and the Americans went on to take the second 18 by a three-hole margin and win over the 36-hole distance two up.

Stan Horne of Montreal, playing with Gordie Brydson of Toronto, put together a pair of 34s in afternoon play to hold Jack Burke, Jr, American captain, and Cary Middlecoff even. The Canadians trailed by six holes after the morning round but by keeping the afternoon round all square split the single point that goes with each 18 holes.

The third point in each match goes to the 36-hole winner. Dave Douglas and Ted Kroll of the United States raced off to a five-hole lead in the morning play against Stan Leonard of Vancouver and Pat Fletcher, Saskatoon, and added two more in the afternoon to trounce the Canadian pair seven up.

Best Putters

The Canadians' field game held up well enough with the Americans but in putting the Yanks were far more deadly except for Locke's great showing.

Bobby licked par consistently although he went one over at three holes. His putting repertoire included a sensational 45-footer and in the afternoon round he holed out a 100-foot pitch shot for an eagle three at the 28th hole.

Boris, whose 66 in the afternoon was low 18-hole medal score of the day, had a 36-hole medal of 136, only one stroke off Locke's score.

Horne's sensational putting in the second round brought him a 68 and 36-hole score of 139.

The American power was evident in every match. Each of the six Americans was under par in at least one of the 18-hole rounds. At the finish their worst score for the full day was 144—even par—by Dave Douglas.

A 67 by Jack Burke and a 79 by Middlecoff in the morning was too much for Horne and Brydson. But Jackie fell off to a 75 in the afternoon, three over par, and Middlecoff, although still under par, picked up on the 34th after twice slicing his tee shot behind a barn. He was given no medal score for the hole.

Horne's medal of 139 placed him second among the Canadians. Leonard had 147 and Fletcher with 17 pars in the morning, 148. Brydson posted 150 and Huot, off his usual steady game, had 77-78 for 155.

Fletcher, who won the Canadian Professional Golfers' Association title last month, is back in the singles competition draw today.

In the original draw announced Monday night, he was left off the singles line-up, his place taken by Bill Kerr, of the Beaconfield club, alternate and captain of the Canadian team. Fletcher was "damned mad" at the selection. He said he thought the C.P.G.A. champion belonged on the team throughout.

There were reports during yesterday's play that a further change had been made and the high-scoring Canadian in the four-ball matches would drop out. This arrangement didn't materialize and late last night Kerr announced he would not play in the singles. He said his mates had done well and he wouldn't break up the six-man team.

Pat still wasn't too happy over the affair last night. He said he thought the situation was one that should not have occurred in the first place and that it may have affected his game in the four-ball matches. He was fourth in medal score among the Canadians, with 148, four over par.

Larks, Riders Raise Curtain On Grid Season

MONTREAL (CP)—It's Ottawa Rough Riders and Montreal Alouettes in the curtain-raiser here tonight of the Big Four football season.

Alouettes, the big question mark of Canadian competition, got into action under a new ownership and management set-up. Since last fall, when they won only three games, the Als have been to the dry cleaners.

Coach Doug Walker, new to Montreal and the Canadian game, has picked Sam Etcheverry, 23-year-old former Denver University grid star, to do the quarterbacking against the Grey Cup champion Rough Riders.

Only eight members of the ill-fated squad of 1951 are back, Of the eight U.S. imports to be in uniform, only Ray Cicia has been around before. Another, Frank Nagle, sits it out tonight while Etcheverry works but Nebraska boy isn't out of the hunt for the quarterback spot and will get his chance before the import squad is pruned Oct. 1.

The Als have almost a half-dozen players on the sidelines with injuries. Even at their healthiest last year, they couldn't cope with Ottawa and there's no indication that coach Clem Crowe hasn't as good a club as in 1951.

Ottawa's big loss from the line-up is the husky tackle and long-range placement booter, Bob Gain, but despite this Rider fans insist the team is considerably strengthened.

Choo Choo Roberts and Bill Chambers, members of last year's Als, are among the Ottawa additions. Two good-looking imports are Harry Ulinski, centre, and Gino Mazzanti from Toledo University,

THE Ranger PROTECTS THE FORESTS FOR THE BENEFIT OF EVERYONE

Holiday week-ends mean
Danger for the Fire Ranger

The danger of forest fires is multiplied by thousands as people head for cottages and camps on holiday week-ends. It's a danger period, and it's no holiday for the Fire Rangers who must be at full strength with all look-outs manned, patrols covered, equipment and transportation ready for emergencies. You can help by preventing forest fires. See that camp fires are properly built and thoroughly doused before you leave. When motoring never throw cigarette butts or matches from the car . . . and be equally careful when walking or working in the woods. Forest fires are expensive and dangerous. Keep it in mind—keep fire out of our forests.

The Kibitzer

The boys were having an argument. When I left they were still talking to each other and to themselves. For all I know, they are still at it. The subject was the north hand shown here.

♣A 3

It seems that the bidding went like this:

South	North
1 D	1 H
2 C	3 H
4 C	4 H

South passed the bid of four hearts and it was discovered that a slam in diamonds was so easy, a child could have made it. So, a blaming contest started; each accusing the other.

North contends his jump should have told south to go to slam in something. South insists that he could not see slam until he found out which suit of his should be trump. He had a singleton heart.

In making a decision here, I am not influenced by the result of this or any other isolated case. My interest is only in what rule says in all cases. Which is the proof of what is correct.

The third bid in hearts by north was absolutely wrong. His heart suit is not re-rebiddable. On the other hand, south bid two suits and rebid one of them. This is a demand for a choice.

Such south bidding orders north to select which of these two is their best combined trump suit. Such demand for a choice may be ignored only if north has a truly re-rebiddable suit that can stand alone.

When south bids four clubs, north should say four diamonds. His jump tells of tricks enough to indicate slam. His preference for the diamonds will tell south which suit to make their final trump. South will then probe for slam with the ace and king convention.

Nothing could be wolse than denial of a choice.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—The film studios are supposed to be betting only on sure things these days.

But there is one exception to this movement to satisfy the known public demands for orthodox film entertainment. Oddly enough, the picture is being made at M.G.M., home of glossy musicals and star-packed spectacles.

The film is called "See How They Run." It is the first non-musical made by a major studio with an all-negro cast. Its producer is Sol Fielding, former newspaper artist and foreign correspondent.

Teacher Writes

The project began in the mind of a young negro school teacher, Mary Elizabeth Vroman of Montgomery, Ala., who wrote a short story concerning the experiences of a teacher in a negro school. She sent it to the Ladies Home Journal. The magazine printed it.

Last year M.G.M. bought the story. Signed for leading roles were night club singers Dorothy Dandridge and Harry Belafonte, plus Philip Hepburn, an 11-year-old veteran of Broadway shows, including "Finian's Rainbow."

" 'See How They Run' is the story of a boy in the third grade," said Producer Fielding. "It could take place any place and to a boy of any race. But some of the events have more significance because they happen in a negro community. There will be only one white actor in the cast, a doctor.

Capsule Review

"The Devil Makes Three" is an okay treatment of the familiar situation of an American caught in the midst of foreign intrigue. Gene Kelly plays an ex-serviceman who gets involved innocently with a gang of German smugglers who are aiming at revival of the Nazi regime. The bad ones are done in after some exciting chases over the German scenery.

Battles 6 Hours With Devilfish

BALBOA, Calif. (AP)—Gail Humphreys, employed by a sports fishing concern here, conquered a half-ton manta ray in a 6 1-2 hour battle off the southern California coast, but he wants no more of them.

The 34-year-old fisherman is still resting from his weekend bout with the devilfish.

Humphreys and three companions were trolling for marlin in a 30-foot power boat when they sighted the great bat-like fish. The fisherman scored with a harpoon and the fight was on.

During the first 4 1-2 hours, it was man against fish. The ray was too powerful to permit tying the strong line to the boat. During the last 1 1-2 hours, with the line secured, the devil-fish pulled the 8,500-pound boat and its four occupants backward. Humphreys estimated the speed up to five miles an hour.

When the ray was pulled close enough to the boat, about 100 rounds of .45-calibre ammunition was fired into it with no apparent effect. And just when it appeared the battle was won, the monster whipped sideways and the harpoon came loose.

Humphreys quickly tossed another spear into the thrashing body, and soon the ray was a prized trophy.

The monster measured 13 ft. six inches across and was about 12 feet in length. Humphreys estimated its weight at about 1,250 pounds.

AT THE BELLE

Kong, immense prehistoric ape who is the menace in the fantastic RKO re-release, "King Kong," featuring Fay Wray, Robert Armstrong and Bruce Cabot is one of the most terrifying villains that ever made a camera man shudder. Certainly he is the largest.

He is 50 feet tall. His tread shakes the earth and his hands are capable of crushing an airplane to matchwood. His strength has flourished since before man was born, and he ruled, by the right of might, a lost island that had been left behind in the windy track of the centuries. But the thing that bewildered Kong, king of his realm, was the never-before experienced emotion of tenderness that thrilled him when he saw beauty for the first time in the form of a blonde white woman. It led him into battle with prehistoric monsters for her and it led him to his doom when he tried to lay New York low, in the climactic scene of the fantastic production.

Also on the same program is "The Leopard Man, a vivid mystery drama about a killer who selects only beautiful girls as his victims. Dennis O'Keefe and Margo are co-starred in the RKO re-release.

Both attractions are currently playing at the Belleville Theatre today and Thursday.

CANCER EXPERT DIES

NEW YORK (AP)—Dr. Michael Levine, internationally-known cancer researcher, died yesterday in Montefiore hospital of the disease he had studied for nearly 40 years. His plant laboratory at Montefiore, established in 1916, became famous throughout the world.

"HOME TOWN STORY"

Jeffrey Lynn, war veteran, returns to his home town to assume editorship of his uncle's newspaper. He has been defeated for the state legislature by the son of the town's biggest industrialist, Donald Crisp. He slashes at big business in his newspaper after he reads that Crisp's company has shown a $200,000,000 profit and he even hints that the son is a senator because of his father's enormous profits. Later, Lynn's little sister is trapped in a mine cave-in and all of the industrial company's strength is brought in to save her. After she is rescued, Crisp's private plane flies the girl to the big city hospital where an operation saves her life. Lynn now realizes that big business is responsible.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

BY FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR THURSDAY, AUG. 28, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—We suggest practical businesslike effort to get top returns today. Good period of expansion in many fields and professions. Home and artistic interests ask extra thought.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Feel your way early part of day. Be painstaking in financial and business activities. However, don't strain or try pushing too many matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Some unexpected benefits may grace your day. Keep disposition even. There may be a few problems in a.m., but smart restraint can alleviate these.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—An all-out day for you who will be keen diplomatic. Don't let your heart run away with your practical sense. Business catering to the masses can move ahead now.

July 24 to Aug. 22 (Leo) — The day's vigorous tendencies could easily be misused if you aren't judicious. Rays benefic for most difficult tasks; trends that have evidence of being right.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—Competitive day may be turned into fine results for you conservative folk. New gains in sales. Heart interests favor more attention.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra) — Promising day this encouraging period for Libra's stability and instincts. Essential activities, work, military, government matters rate high.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio)—Swing into daily duties as if they were fun. Most personal and home matters are on upgrade.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 22 (Sagittarius)—Ideal period for most endeavors that have purposeful, helpful outlook. Sports, hotels, restaurants, resorts under favorable returns.

Dec. 23 to Jan. 21 (Capricorn)—General business, real estate, manufacturing, small concerns have generous prospects. Be ready to capitalize rightly at any turn of events.

Jan. 22 to Feb. 20 (Aquarius)—Planetary outlook auspicious, but warns against accepting suggestions without study. Sudden changes in things running satisfactorily unwise.

Feb. 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Wholesale, generous possibilities. Rays stimulating for your style of endeavor, for necessary work and healthy recreation. Don't endanger health!

YOU BORN TODAY are under the constellation Virgo which is distinctive through the presence of the bright star Spica that serves partly to govern the peculiar indications of Mercury. You are an excellent reasoner, take the middle ground in most activities, avoiding silly extremes. Be not too critical of self and others. Birthdate of: Sir Edw. Burne-Jones, noted painter, designer.

LOGY, LISTLESS, OUT OF LOVE WITH LIFE?

Wouldn't you like to jump out of bed feeling fine?

Not up to par? . . . you may suffer from an upset system. If you are constipated your food may not digest freely—gas may bloat up your stomach . . . all the fun and sparkle goes out of life. That's when you need Carter's Little Liver Pills. These mild vegetable pills bring you quick relief from constipation and so help promote the flow of digestive juices. Soon you'll feel that happy days are here again thanks to Carter's! Why stay sunk? Get Carter's Little Liver Pills. Always have them on hand. Only [illegible] from any druggist.

LI'L ABNER — By Al Capp

SOB!—MAH CUZZINS TH' UGLIE-SCRAGGS MOVED IN WIF US!!
AH DRUTHER LIVE WIF A HERD O' WILD HAWGS, EF AH HAD MAH DRUTHERS—FUNNY THING IS, NO MATTER WHUT THEY DOES, LI'L ABNER DON'T LOSE HIS TEMPER!!
THASS BECUZ THEY IS YORE RELATIVES—AN' HE LOVES YO'. BUT THET BOY GOT A BREAKIN' POINT!!
PATIENT THOUGH HE BE, THAR'S ONE INSULT HE CAN'T TAKE!!
D-DOES YO' KNOW WHUT IT IS?
NATCHERLY!! BUT AH MUSTN'T TELL YO'!!—YO'LL FIND OUT, FO' YORESELF!
YAS'M. (—"OH WHUT IS THIS ONE INSULT LI'L ABNER CAN'T TAKE?")

BLONDIE — By Chic Young

DADDY, CAN I GO TO THE MOVIES WITH EMMY?
YOU'LL HAVE TO ASK YOUR MAMA
DADDY SAID WE SHOULD ASK YOU IF IT'S OKAY
WELL, YOU GO RIGHT BACK AND ASK HIM IF YOU CAN GO
SHE SAID TO ASK YOU
YOU TELL HER THAT I SAID YOU SHOULD ASK HER
THEY FINALLY SAID YES
NOW WE'VE GOT TO GO THRU IT ALL OVER AGAIN AT MY HOUSE
CHIC YOUNG 8-27

PENNY — By Harry Haenigsen

RANDOLPH IS NO BETTER THAN DOODIE, PENNY!
JUST REMEMBER, PRINCESS, THAT ALL MEN ARE BORN EQUAL!
YES, FATHER, YOU'RE ABSOLUTELY CORRECT...
...IT'S THE WOMEN WHO ARE SUPERIOR!

RUSTY RILEY — By Frank Godwin

SO THAT SWELL LAYOUT IS MILESTONE FARM! IF MY NEPHEW RUSTY WILL PLAY ALONG, WE CAN PUT THE SQUEEZE ON QUENTIN MILES—BUT GOOD! I'LL PHONE RUSTY FROM TOWN.
BEFORE MY MOM DIED SHE USED TO TELL ME ABOUT UNCLE RUFUS. SHE SAID HE WAS AWFUL SMART.
I NEVER KNOWED ANY O' YOUR FOLKS WAS ALIVE, RUSTY. IT'S GONNA BE SWELL TO HAVE YOUR UNCLE HERE.
LAN' SAKES, RUSTY! YOU HAVEN'T TOUCHED A SPECK O' FOOD ALL DAY. EXPECTIN' YOUR UNCLE SHOULDN'T MAKE YOU THAT EXCITED.

FISH MORE POPULAR

REGINA (CP)—The people of Saskatchewan ae taking their place in the national picture as fish-eaters. The Provincial Bureau of Publications says per capita consumption during 1951 was 6.4 pounds, compared to about 11 pounds for the rest of Canada. Consumption of domestic fish had been as low as two pounds a person in former years.

Stevenson Blasts Communism In Fighting Speech

WASHINGTON (AP)—Governor Adlai Stevenson in effect launched his campaign today with a fighting speech that blasted Communism as "the death of the soul" and called for a strong national defence.

The Democratic presidential nominee's address this afternoon before the American Legion convention in New York was his first major address since his nomination, and touched off his initial big drive for votes in the east.

It temporarily took the political spotlight away from his political opponent, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who spoke before the same convention two days ago and who today announced his first big campaign tip — a visit to 14 cities in 10 states starting Sept. 2.

The major theme of Stevenson's prepared addess was patriotism, with a plea for feedom of thought, a warning to veterans not to exert too much pressue on him with "excessive" demands if he is elected, and a surprise, thinly-veiled blast obviously aimed at Senator Joseph McCarthy (Rep. Wis.)

Raps Reds

Communism is a threat, he said, but over-zealous patiots are threatening freedom of thought in their efforts to wipe it out. "Do not burn down the barn to kill the rats."

He said the attackers of Gen. George C. Mashall are hiding under a cloak of patriotism — "The last refuge of scoundrels." Although he did not mention McCarthy by name, he left no doubt that the Wisconsin senator was one of his main targets.

McCarthy has accused Marshall, former secretary of state and of defence, of being party to a plot against the security of his own country. Stevenson said such an attack on Marshall was a "shocking example" of the type of "patriotism" he warned against.

U.K. Briefs

ESHER, England (CP)—Librarian H. R. Boulter says the art of "browzing" is dying. "Britons nowadays ely too much on the opinions of book societies, newspapers and publishes' advertisements," says Boulter.

MARPLE, England (CP)—For half an hour 12 firemen tried to rescue a six-month-old pig from mud in a drained mill race. Then one fieman turned on a hose, aimed the full jet beneath the animal's body, and pushed it to the bank.

OCKLEY, England (CP)—Remains of an iguanodon, a kind of dinosaur, have been found by workmen at a brick and tile works where it lay about 100,000,000 years.

GLASGOW (CP)—When the first British Overseas Airways Comet jet airliner returned from its maiden trip to Colombo, it planned to land at London. Mist prevented this, however, so the Comet whistled 337 miles noth to Prestwick, Scotland, in less than an hour.

LONDON (CP)—Robert Beatty, Canadian stage-screen-radio star, has been cast in the movie "The Net" to be made by J. Arthur Rank. Also in the production is James Donald, Montreal-educated star. Phyllis Calvert of "Mandy" fame will play opposite the Canadians.

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP)—Sixty-two firemen punished after "spit and polish" strikes last year will be restored to their former ranks with full seniority. Pay stoppages will be refunded. They waited nine months fo ther decision.

LONDON (CP) — Denouncing "Chistians with a pagan hangover," the vica of All Saints Church said: "Baptism has become in many people's minds a form of superstition. They regard it as a kind of symbol bringing good luck to the baby."

HOUNSLOW, England (CP)—Houses were evacuated and the area cordoned off when an object believed to be an unexploded bomb was detected beneath a gravel pit here. A bomb-disposal squad found the object to be an old boiler.

FEDERAL SURVEY

Another recommendation read: "That the hospitals, when they admit any patient, proceed to the systematic detection of tuberculosis through chest X-ray examination and tuberculin tests and also to the systematic blood tests for the detection of syphilis."

Why We Say--

. . . Changing expression

This is an example of a changing expression. It used to be thought that the shucks of corn were worthless, but new corn shucks have been put to many uses although the expression persists.

YUGO-SLAVS SEEK REFUGE

TRIESTE, (Reuters) — Five Yugo-Slav refugees yesterday crossed into the Anglo-American zone of Trieste and asked for political asylum. Another refugee was shot while trying to escape, an Italian report said.

UTILITY'S SURPLUS

SASKATOON (CP)—The City Electric Utility's surplus for the first six months of this year was nearly $500,000. Officials expect the surplus will pass the $1,000,000 mak before the end of the year, establishing a record.

WANDERING GOPHER

GRANDE PRAIRIE, Alta. (CP)—Moore Perry walked into the county office with a gopher he caught in a trap. Agricultural officials said gophers had hitherto been unknown in the Peace River country.

Project Pygmalion

By Grey MacMillan

Copyright 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

After this David began to drop in frequently—at first two or three times a week and gradually oftener still — sometimes every night. In the beginning he used to say each time, "Don't wanna bother you, but I finished this book, and I was thinkin' maybe you had another one just as good you could lemme borrow for a couple of days."

And I'd say, "Come in! I was just working on a sketch. Here dip into this book for awhile. If you like it, you can take it along."

So he'd sit down and say, "well, but I gotta push off pretty quick tonight." And the minutes would pile up into hours. That reading chair of mine was an old over-stuffed hulk— the cording was frayed and the upholstery dirty—but sitting in it had a mesmerizing effect. You wanted to stay sat.

I kept the record player going full tilt, so that conversation would have been difficult even if there had been anything for us to talk about. He read and I painted. I experimented with some new ideas, and often bored in so deep that I forgot David was there. It wasn't like being alone though. I seemed to work better with that wordless, toil-hardened hulk bracketed in the reading corner.

One night about 10.30 I was cleaning paint off my brushes with turpentine, when the phone rang. I bumbled into the kitchen to fnid a rag to wipe my fingers.

"Never mind," said David, jumping up. "I'll catch it."

He turned down the volume on the record player and picked up the telephone. I heard him say hello, and then, "Yeah, so what!"

Amazed, I came back into the living room, still swabbing my hands. Who was he talking to?

His face and muscled neck had turned a dark red, and his eyes were narrowed to slits. I stood there open-mouthed, watching him.

"Listen, it's my time — I'll spend it how I like, see? I don't go telling you where to go. If you ever took any advice off me it'd be a cold day in July."

I retreated into the kitchen, conscious that I'd been eavesdropping. I turned the water on and began splashily washing my hands in the sink, curiosity foaming in my thoughts. I could hear him speaking still, but I couldn't distinguish any words.

When I came in and picked up my brushes again, he was sitting still as stone in the reading chair He was breathing heavily, and still red in the face. He wasn't seeing a line of the book in front of him. After a short interval he left.

Several weeks sped by and the quiet evenings took on the quality of routine. Sometimes I'd bring him a napple or a glass of wine, and he'd nod his thanks and keep reading.

After one of these evenings when we had scarcely exchanged a word, he muttered, "I sure wish I could say thank you for all this. You been nicer to me than anybody ever was."

"You're a comfortable guy to have around, and I get lonesome" I hedged.

"I hate to keep barging in; But these here books I been readin'—they hit me where I live. I didn't even know things like this was writ down on paper."

Once he brought me a bottle of Scotch. Another time—to my utter astonishment—the Beethoven Sixth Symphony on long-playing records. He'd heard me mention I'd like to have it, and he secretly wrote down the name on a scrap of paper. Though he had spelled it Batehovin when he wrote it, and when the clerk showed him the album he was alarmed because he thought it wasn't by the same guy!

Whenever other friends dropped in, David made as if to leave, but each time I insisted he sit back down and talk awhile. What happened, of course, was that the rest of us would talk and David listen.

One night, however, a cruel thing happened. I had an acquaintance, Hill Beaumont, who was a violinist in the Symphony Orchestra. Hill was talented, but self-entred, opinionated and bombastic. I usually got pretty sick of him after enduring him for an evening, but when one night he stopped over, I was glad, thniking perhaps David might be induced to go to symphony concerts.

True to form, Hill talked about Hill Beaumont and music and Hill Beaumont and art and Hill Beaumont and the international situation. He had the floor to himself most of the evening. Finally Karl and Betty, awed by the flood of Beaumont went out on the fire escape to neck. Hill, finding his audience narrowed, made two or three attempts to draw David out, then prepared to depart.

David carried some glasses and ash trays to the kitchen, and I escorted Hill to the door. He gestured with his thumb and sneered, "What are you doing—playing Pygmalion?"

I held up a warning finger and said goodnight loudly. Hill shrugged and clattered off down the stairs.

David asked "What's this here Pygmalion he was talking about?"

"Just a play by Shaw," I said imagining I had properly evaded the issue. The next night David telephoned. He had got Shaw's "Pygmalion" from the library, read it. "Listen here, I'm no kind of a street urchin. You're no better than me!" And he hung up.

CAMPBELLFORD

Chief Constable, George H. Hardy Enters Hospital

CAMPBELLFORD—Chief Constable George H. Hardy has been taken to Kingston General Hospital where he will remain for a week or so under observation for a heart condition.

The chief was advised by his doctor to take a much needed rest after he suffered a seizure in his office. He has been granted a leave of absence until a thorough check can be made as to his condition.

In the absence of the chief, the town is being policed by Constable W. E. (Fred) Cargin, who is working both the night and day shift. Constable Cargin formerly looked fater the night patrol when the chief was on duty during the day.

Air and Ground Forces to Have New Commanders

OTTAWA (CP)—Two important new faces will show up in Europe late this year to take command of Canada's Atlantic Pact air and ground forces.

The R.C.A.F. expects to name this fall a commanding officer for the 12-squadron 7,000-man air division Canada has pledged for joint defence of Western Europe by 1954.

Half of the 12 squadrons will be overseas by the end of October and Air Vice-Marshal Hugh Campbell, a 44-year-old native of New Brunswick, may be named to boss them.

Brig. Geoffrey Walsh, 42, is scheduled to leave the command of the army's 27th brigade in Germany before the end of the year and bring up the rear in a homeward trek of 1,900 married members of the brigade.

The army hasn't decided who will succeed him but the name of Brig. J. E. C. Pangman, 44, of Toronto, figures in headquarters speculation.

Expert on Pact

Neither has the air force finally decided who will get the big job of commanding the air division but conjecture pivots on the name of Air Vice-Marshal Campbell.

He is an expert on the Atlantic Pact generally after a couple of years in Washington as head of Canada's military mission and as Canada's spokesman to the standing group, the No. 1 military body in the Pact setup. His assignment to Washington is due to end this year, making him available for the operational posting.

Brig. Walsh, a native of Brantford, is an engineer and is generally considered to have done a sound job in whipping the 27th brigade into shape out of the thousands of men who came in off Civvy Street in the early summer of 1951. The brigade now is in shape to fight on a few hours' notice.

Brig. Walsh is expected to be named to a post in Canada.

NO STEAKS, NO RACE

ABERYSTWYTH, Wales (AP)—A team of French cyclists dropped out of the 1,487-mile "Tour of Britain" cycle race yesterday. They complained they could not get enough beefsteaks "to build up stamina for such a race." Meat is rationed in Britain, but meat-starved Britons are in the lead in the race.

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was smoking in back of the paper and I was walking around the living room looking inside things and underneeth things hunting for my postage stamp, and after about my 5th time around pop said, Are you lost, or did you lose something?

Did you see anything of a postage stamp, pop? I said, and he said, Not that I recall, but in case I do I'll be glad to tern it over to you. Can you give me a breef discription of it? he said.

It was just a ordnerry stamp with musilidge on one side, I said, and pop said, I'll keep my eyes open for it. What side was the mucilidge on? he said,

On the wrong side, of course, I said. Jimmies, pop, what other side could it be on? I said, and pop said, Well, I remember one time when you got together with some postage stamps that you were sent to buy, and about a week later they were found in your pants pockit with the musilidge on both sides.

Aw well, anyways, if I'm not going to find it, there's no use even writing the letter, I said, and pop said, What letter, or is it too personel?

No sir, I was going to anser an avvertizement in my Boys Buddy Magazine, I said. It was about how to make a lot of money raising pidgins on your own roof, I said, and pop said, Yee gods, you better forget that letter whether you find the stamp or not.

Aw heck, pop, why, I said, and he said, Because while you were raising the pidgins you'd also be raising my few remaining hairs to an angle of 90 degrees. Let's liquidate this bizzness deel. I'll give you 10 cents for the stamp on condition that it's my property when and if it's ever found, he said.

NO GLASSES, NO CASE

TORONTO (CP)—Joseph Lockwood of nearby Streetsville didn't bring his glasses to court yesterday, so Judge F. G. J. McDonagh adjourned the case for nine days. Lockwood, trying to get possession of his Toronto home, couldn't read his own signature on a document clearly enough to identify it.

EX-MAYOR BACK IN OFFICE

PETROLIA (CP)—Merchant E.D. Fletcher, who served as mayor here in 1949 and '50, was returned to that post yesterday by acclamation when five other candidates for the mayoralty failed to qualify. Mr. Fletcher replaces former Mayor F. T. Portsmouth, whose resignation because of ill health in July forced an unprecedented mid-term nomination meeting.

TO LAUNCH BIG LAKER

PORT WELLER (CP)—Premier Frost will be guest of honor here today when the grain-carrier John O. McKellar, largest ship ever built in Canada, is christened and commissioned. The ship, which is 678 feet long and has a carrying capacity of 750,000 bushels or 23,000 tons of ore, is expected to make her maiden voyage to Fort William for grain within a few days.

Deputy Foreign Minister Zorin Chief UN Delegate

Russia Says Malik Going Home for Rest, New Job

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia has named Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Z. Zorin, who staged the Red coup in Czechoslovakia, as her chief delegate to the United Nations. Jacob A. Malik, the present delegate, is going home for "rest and reassignment."

U. N. officials announced last night that the Soviet government told them of the forthcoming change in a note addressed to the international organization's secretariat. Zorin is expected to arrive by Sept. 15, just a month before the general assembly opens its fall session.

Malik, who has been suffering from a heart ailment for some time, was originally scheduled to return to Moscow on leave early this summer. He cancelled his passage twice, but the Soviet announcement of his replacement came as a surprise which observers could not immediately evaluate.

Zorin has spent most of his foreign diplomatic service in eastern Europe. Born in 1902, he became a deputy foreign minister before he was sent to Czechoslovakia in 1948. He arrived in Prague just before the Communist coup over the Czech government. Zorin is generally credited with having managed the seizure, although the Red Czech government insisted his presence in Prague was purely coincidental.

Housing Bad Says Judge In Ordering Eviction

TORONTO (CP)—Judge F. G. S. McDonagh said yesterday during an eviction hearing that within one-half mile of City Hall there are housing conditions no better than in devasted areas of Europe.

The judge granted an eviction order against two old age pensioners, aged 77 and 75, who have been on relief for 16 years. They had admitted that another tenant used the wash toilet in their flat, making their premises a lodging instead of a self-contained dwelling. In the case of a self-contained dwelling six months' notice and a logical reason have to be given before eviction.

They agreed to vacate the premises by Nov. 15. The wife described the place as a "grave." There was only one window in all three rooms and no bathroom.

Many B.C. Stores Refuse to Accept American Silver

VICTORIA (CP)—Growing confusion is reported over United States silver coins circulating here.

While a few large stores and hotels are still treating U.S. coins like Canadian money, many other establishments are either refusing to accept U.S. silver or are discounting it, a survey showed.

The Victoria Post Office announced yesterday it will refuse to accept any U.S. coins.

Postmaster John B. Sinclair said the reason was that the banks are charging an eight-per-cent discount on all U.S. silver.

U.S. coins are being discounted at the Canadian Pacific Railway ticket office here at the rate of four cents on the dollar. Express drivers for the C.P.R. however, have instructions to knock seven cents off each dollar in American silver.

Cashiers at Canadian National Railway ticket offices are discounting the U.S. dollar at seven cents.

Tourist silver is being accepted at par at the C.P.R.'s Empress Hotel, and a spokesman for the T. Eaton Company said the store is treating U.S. silver the same as Canadian.

Meanwhile, the general public is refusing U.S. coins in change.

Most small merchants, restaurant operators, taxi drivers said they are taking a seven-per-cent discount.

Bank officials explained that most customers now are refusing to accept U.S. coins, so the banks have to ship them to Seattle. It costs more to send the silver than notes. That accounts for the large discount on coins as against 4.25 cents in banks on U.S. dollars.

TOO HOT; NO SPECHES

HALIFAX (CP)—Governor-General Vincent Massey climaxed a one-day whirlwind visit to Halifax last night by attending a state dinner where no speeches were made because of the "unseasonable heat." Premier Angus L. Macdonald told the guests, sweltering in 90-degree temperatures, that speeches had been waived because of the heat.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP) — Synopsis: Southern Ontario stubbornly refuses to relinquish her fine warm weather, though an area of thundershowers near Lake Superior is pushing slowly southeastward, and a rain area in North Carolina and Virginia is pushing slowly northward. Northern Ontario, however, is being overrun by the advancing cloud, and cooler air will push into this area Friday.

Skies were clear Wednesday night in all the forecast regions except the extreme northwest. With the help of cloud, White River, the traditional cold spot, remained at 64 during the night, comparable with Toronto's 65 and Windsor's 63.

Dog Is Killed, Skinned, Parts Scattered About

HAMILTON (CP)—The S.P.C.A. disclosed today that a collie dog has been killed, skinned and the head, skin and feet scattered within a radius of about 100 feet somewhere near the village of Stoney Creek. No trace of either owner or killer has been found.

The remains were still warm when reported to Stoney Creek police, but the body of the collie has not yet been found.

Describing the slaughter as "shocking" and "the work of a sadist," Charles Napthali, manager of the S.P.C.A. says that it will be just too bad for the killer if he is ever traced. "It is a challenge to us that such people are around," he said.

Canberra's Record-Breaking Crew Says Everything Went off On Schedule

LONDON (AP)—Britain's record-breaking Canberra jet bomber nearly beat the sun across the Atlantic Ocean, but the three-man crew was too busy flying the 10-mile-a-minute craft to keep an eye on their solar competitor.

The crew did have the startling experience of watching the sun rise over Ireland at the 6:34 a. m. take-off Tuesday, and of seeing it again just peeping over the horizon in Newfoundland at 6:38 a. m. local time.

The sun beat the twin-jet Canberra's Ireland-to-Newfoundland flight of four hours 33 minutes 17.05 seconds by about an hour.

But speeding back to Ireland again, the sleek black jet was helped by terrific tailwinds and actually beat the sun's time by about five minutes.

The entire round trip took just seven hours, 58 minutes, 35.18 seconds flying time.

Wing Cmdr. Roland Beamont, 32-year-old test pilot who captained the flight, told reporters: "Everything went off so amazingly to timetable that I don't believe it."

He said the weather forecast just before the take-off was bad. "We were told we must expect to meet headwinds in the form of a jet stream at 40,000 feet blowing at over 100 miles an hour right on our nose for half the 2,000-mile trip," he said.

"We levelled off at 40,000 feet. We never saw the Atlantic either way but had sunshine and a clear sky above the clouds as we scudded along like riding on a magic carpet, averaging 450 miles an hour over the water despite those tremendous headwinds.

"Few aircraft, and those only jets have as yet flown at 40,000 feet on long journeys.

"We tried to contact the two weather ships on our journey. But while there was nothing wrong with our radio, one of the ships evidently was having reception trouble because we heard several other airliners trying to contact it without success."

"But thanks to the skill of Sqdn. Ldr. D. A. Watson, our navigator, the bomber kept dead on course and we made landfall at (Gander) Newfoundland exactly when and where expected. . ."

Beamont said the navigator had estimated four hours 35 minutes for the journey.

"Peter Hillwood, the co-pilot, took over for the homeward run. "We were now racing against the sun, but with this jet stream on our tail we were propelled along at a fine 600 miles per hour and all felt we were sitting pretty on top of the clouds. . .

"The weather thickened as we neared the Irish coast. We began our let-down from 40,000 feet while still 200 miles away. We plunged through the clouds to 10,000 feet and shot across the airfield at Aldergrove just after 4:35 p. m. without seeing the field.

"We were told by radio we were over it and had shot past it and we did a quick turn to come back and cross the finishing line just over 10 hours after we had left it in the morning.

"We ate nothing during the journey in the air, nor did we smoke because all three of us were wearing oxygen masks. All we wanted was a cup of tea."

AIR FORCE, NAVY CARRIER PLANES HIT TARGETS

Red Power Plants, Supply Depots Hit

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—United States bombers rained new destruction last night on Communist supply centres near Pyongyang, capital of North Korea, after planes from three U. S. Navy carriers bombed Red power plants in the northwest.

The fury of the aerial strikes was in sharp contrast to light action along the battle front. The U. S. Eighth Army's evening tactical summary Thursday was the shortest of the war—21 words:

"U. N. patrols engaged enemy units up to a platoon in strength, as action continued light along the eighth Army front."

The navy said three U. S. carriers sent up 222 flights that dumped explosives on the huge electric plant at Chosen and other facilities from Kojo to Chongjin. Farther south, the British carrier Ocean sent planes north of Haeju Peninsula.

In a raid on Sohung, 50 miles south of Pyongyang, 15 B-26s unloaded destruction on a Communist supply centre after civilians had been warned to flee. Pilots reported 25 fires and three large secondary explosions in the target area.

The U. N. command announced in Tokyo that its aircraft losses since the war began 26 months ago now numbeerd 1,572 planes, against confirmed Communist losses of 642. An additional 143 Red planes probably were shot down and 620 damaged, the Air Force said. The navy claimed its pilots damaged 88 red planes. That would make a total of 1,493 Communist planes destroyed or damaged.

Suffers Injuries

AMHERSTBURG, (CP)—Twenty-two-year-old Walter Hammon of nearby Harrow, Ont., suffered broken ribs and internal injuries when a truck crashed into his panel truck after the panel truck turned over at a highway turn five miles east of here.

Walter Serbanivich, 19, of Windsor, driver of the truck, told police he rounded a turn to see Hammon's truck lying on its side in the road. He had no time to stop and his truck crashed into Hammon's, crushing in the cab.

12 DIE IN TRAIN CRASH

LONDON (Reuters)—Twelve persons were killed and 108 were injured when an express train was derailed in Czechoslovakia last Tuesday night, Prague radio said. The radio said the locomotive engineer went through a signal.

Senate Probers Hit Gadgets, Gimmicks, Indecision Which They Charge Slowed Build-up

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senate defence investigators said today an excess of gadgets and top-level indecision had slowed military aircraft production and prevented the development of adequate air defences for the United States.

The highly critical report was the latest of a series from the Senate Armed Services Preparedness sub-committee headed by Senator Lyndon B. Johnson, Texas democrat.

In order to speed aircraft production to meet a possible Russian atomic attack, the report suggested appointment of a full-time production czar by the president and an overhauling of present basic defence legislation.

Indecision 'Amazing'

Johnson said the airpower build-up has been slowed by a "capacity for indecision which at times has reached amazing levels."

Although the Defence Department did name a production czar, Johnson said, "he did not receive the necessary authority and eventually was reduced to the status of a job holder part-time."

Aides of Johnson said this was Clay Bedford, industrial leader who was named special assistant to the Secretary of Defence.

The report was critical of constant changes in models and additions of gadgets and gimmicks to aircraft designs. It said there was a need for design freezes and mass production.

"A tendency toward 'gimmickerie' has loaded some of our planes with gadgets to a point where their effectiveness has been decreased," the report said.

No such delays face Soviet Russia, the report indicated.

Great New Port on Adriatic Tito's Alternative to Trieste; To be Biggest Post-War Work

By RONALD PRESTON

BELGRADE (Reuters)—Plans to give Yugoslavia a major part on the Adriatic other than disputed Trieste will be put into operation next year when Tito's government plans to begin work on the country's biggest post-war engineering project.

The plan calls for developing the resort town of Bar, on the southern Adriatic coast, into the country's second largest seaport, and connecting it to Belgrade with a 310-mile railroad through some of Yugoslavia's most backward and desolate territory.

Nearest point in Yugoslavia to overseas markets, the new port will cost over $4,000,000 and is scheduled to handle about 1,500,000 tons of commerce a year.

Already nearly 400 feet of breakwater have been constructed and plans call for the port of Bar to be able to handle ships of all sizes by 1954.

Six Year Project

Construction of the Belgrade to Bar railway is expected to take up to six years. It will have to be driven through the rugged mountainous terrain of south Serbia and Montenegro. Tunnels will cover about 50 miles, or 16 per cent, of the route, with the longest extending about five miles.

The new railway will cut the distance from Belgrade and the grain areas of the Vojvodina to the Adriatic by 84 miles, from eastern Serbia by 200 miles, from Macedonia and southwest Serbia by up to 264 miles.

Yugoslav experts estimate that the new railway will in a short time handle about 2,000,000 net tons in the direction of the sea and 1,000,000 tons net in direction of Belgrade every year.

The railway will open up thousands of square miles of wild Balkan country which now has not a single mile or railway and only the roughest of roads.

The railway will permit the full exploitation of rich timber areas and potentially-rich agricultural and fruit growing regions.

The coal basins in the Kolubara Valley and round Plevlje will also be opened up with the railway moving an estimated 500,000 tons of coal from there to Belgrade every year.

In Montenegro, there are substantial deposits of bauxite plus lead and zinc mines and large areas of virgin forests. Oil has been struck near the Bay of Bar.

Eventually, the Yugoslavs claim the new railway will make possible the building of 23 hydro-electric plants along the swift flowing river Lim, adding another annual 2,000,000,000 kilowatt hours to the country's electric power resources.

Falconbridge Net $1,542,443

TORONTO (CP)—Falconbridge Nickel Mines, Ltd., had net profit in the first half of the year of $1,542,443, a decrease of $28,663 from the same period last year.

Gross profit was $4,102,561, compared with $3,198,195 in the first half of last year; development and pre-production expenditures written off were $831,955, compared with $401,000; and provision for depreciation was $870,000, compared with $245,916.

Net current assets at June 30 were $5,470,708, compared with $6,509,966.

Musicians Add Color to Scene At Exhibition

TORONTO (CP)—Wooden platforms today mushroomed throughout the Canadian National Exhibition grounds for a musical invasion.

Dozens of bands and choirs swept into the fair and set it rocking to the rhythms of marches and European folk songs. National groups in Ukrainian, Finnish, Latvian, Lithuanian, Dutch and French costumes stamped out native dances.

Every corner became a stage as the some 200,000 fairgoers paused in their tours of the busy grounds. Troubadors in groups from three to five persons wandered along the paved streets singing as they went.

One of the most popular events on Music Day is the Old Time Fiddlers' competitions. Age groups for the contest run from under 30 years to 75 and over. Charles Dyer, 82, was back to defend his honor as top hoedown artist. Large crowds were also expected for the square-dance contest which includes a class for dancers more than 50 years old.

Dr. Leslie Bell, noted Toronto musician and director of the Leslie Bell singers, will be the guest speaker at the daily directors' luncheon.

Sheep and cattle judging opened for the Oxford Downs and Lincolns; Ayrshire, Guernsey, Holstein Jersey breeds.

Some 209,500 persons visited the exhibition yesterday for Food Day. Although one of the largest crowds in the first five days of the fair, there were some 65,000 fewer than turned out on the same day last year.

Windsorite Says He Saw Flying Saucer Take Off

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—A Windsor man told today of seeing luminous disc-shaped "object" 30 feet in diameter in a field south of this city.

Gabriel Durocher said he was walking home about 1.30 a. m. when he saw the object in the field. "It was sort of blue all over and glowed like phosphorus."

He ran to within 30 feet of the object and "started yelling at it," he said.

"Then I saw these sparks come out of one part of the sides. They were blue and yellow and red. The saucer started spinning and there was a sort of blue mist formed under it and it went straight up and away."

Four other persons said they saw "something" hovering over that area of the city where Gabriel said he saw his object.

NAMED TO BENCH

OTTAWA (CP) —F. G. McKay Q.C., of Owen Sound, has been appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario and member of the Ontario appeal court, replacing the late Hon. C. W. R. Bowlby. The justice department made the announcement today.

FOREIGN TRADE SURPLUS NEARS $200,000,000

Sales and Purchases Down from Last Year

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada's mounting foreign trade surplus neared the $200,000,000 mark during July as exports continued to outpace imports. Both sales and purchases, however, were a shade down from last year's levels.

The Bureau of Statistics, in a preliminary estimate yesterday, reported July's exports at $375,700,000, down slightly from $378,600,000 in July last year.

Imports, however, also were down to $342,900,000 from $370,600,000, resulting in a favorable foreign trade balance of $32,800,000, boosting the seven-month total to $197,200,000. The monthly surplus was four times as great as the $8,000,000 favorable balance in July last year.

Probably one of the weakening features of July's foreign trade was the trend in transactions with the United States.

Shipments to that country declined to $192,000,000 from $204,900,000 in July last year, but imports jumped to $247,500,000 from $234,700,000. This increased Canada's deficit in U.S. trade to $55,500,000 for the month—almost double the $29,800,000 in July, 1951.

Exports to the United Kingdom also showed signs of slipping. Shipments eased to $69,400,000 from $74,100,000 last year, after significant gains all through the first half of the year.

Imports from the U.K. slipped to $34,000,000 from $43,300,000. This gave Canada an Anglo-Canadian trade surplus of $35,400,000 for July, up from $30,800,000 last year.

Attorney-General Named Chairman Of Commission

OTTAWA (CP)—C. Rhodes Smith, attorney-general of Manitoba, today was appointed chairman of a new three-man anti-combines commission to help administer tightened-up combines legislation.

The stiffer regulations, adopted by Parliament at the last session, become effective Nov. 1.

Justice Minister Garson, former premier of Manitoba, announced that besides Mr. Smith, members of the new combines body, to be known as the Restrictive Trade Practices Commission will be:

Guy Favreau, Montreal lawyer, who has represented the federal government in several combines cases, and,

A. S. Whiteley of Victoria, B. C., deputy combines commissioner.

Appointment of the new commission follows a general overhaul of the combines investigation organization.

T. D. MacDonald, current combines commissioner, will become known on Nov. 1 as the director of investigation and research.

Appointment of the new commission was recommended by the MacQuarrie committee on combines which spent two years making a general study of Canada's combines laws.

The commission will give alleged offenders an opportunity to defend their actions in private hearings before the director makes a report to the justice minister on the investigation.

Car Thrown 150 Ft. Family Is Unhurt

TORONTO (CP) —A 22-year-old automobile was hurled 150 feet across a north-end field and through the wall of a tool shed last night when sideswiped by a car police said did not stop.

But Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Allen and their five children climbed from the crashed car with only cuts and bruises.

S. African Chicks, Chimpanzees Bothered by Jets Super Swoosh

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—Do jet planes cut down on a hen's laying powers and do chimpanzees have special ability to detect a jet's approach?

These questions are agitating South Africa since the Air Force has been equipped with jet fighters and Britain's jet Comet airliners have been swooshing in from London three times a week.

Chicken farmers near airports claim their hens aren't laying so well since jets came. Some blame the noise; scientists aren't sure it isn't supersonic waves set up by the jets.

Scientists also are studying the behavior of Jack and Jill, chimpanzees at the Pretoria zoo.

Long before humans can see or hear approaching jets, the chimpanzees utter wild cries, climb to the top of their cages and scan the still-empty sky.

Child Found Alive After Spending Three Days In Bush

3-Year-Old Keeps Strength By Eating Blueberries

ROUYN, Que. (CP) — Two-year-old Richard Turcotte was found alive today after being lost three days and three nights in bear-infested bushland 15 miles southwest of here.

Weakened, sunburned and badly bitten by black flies, the child was rushed to hospital at nearby Youville. He was also suffering from a skin allergy thought to have been caused by a diet of blueberries.

Weary searchers discovered the child lying in a haystack in a farmer's field at the edge of the bush. They were attracted by his cries of "papa."

The child, apparently little the worse for his experience, kept up his strength by eating blueberries.

Searchers said high temperatures the last three nights helped the boy survive.

The boy, found by three searchers about 8:30 a.m., wandered into thick bush at Beaudry, 15 miles south of here, Monday. His mother Mrs. Wilfred Turcotte, had placed him on a rock while she picked blueberries in a wild wasteland of rock and muskeg.

About 250 men, aided by an airplane, searched for him. They feared he had been carried off by one of the bears that visit the blueberry patches at this time of year.

Some of the searchers carried rifles and shotguns as protection against the bears.

The boy was adopted. His 29-year-old foster father helped lead the search.

Found By Garageman

The child was found by a Rouyn garageman, Jean Proenther, and two Beaudry district farmers, Philip and Euclid Tanguay, just as a fresh search party set out with little hope of finding him alive.

The searchers were attracted by the boy's cries of "Papa." He was weakened, sunburned and badly bitten by black flies. A nurse sent to the scene ordered his removal to hospital.

Provincial Constable Ralph Allen of Rouyn said the boy's body had broken out in a rash which could have been caused by his diet of blueberries.

"He's lost plenty of weight, but we're sure he's going to be all right," the officer said.

Grief turned to joy for the child's foster mother when she she nor her husband had given up hope that the youngster would be found.

Neighbors of the Turcottes were determined the search would be continued until the boy was found. One of them, Magloire Bellsie, said earlier today that he was going into the bush and not coming out until the child was found.

Plan Shopping Centre at Cost Of $3,000,000

TORONTO (CP) — A $3,000,000 north-end shopping centre is to be built here by next spring.

Construction of the huge block at Lawrence avenue and Bathurst street will start next week for the Toronto firm of Principal Investments Limited. The area is said to have a population of 30,000.

More than a dozen retailers, including several chain store firms, have already signed for space in the building.

Largest Ship Built in Canada Is Commissioned

PORT WELLER (CP)—The John O. McKellar, flagship of Colonial Steamship Lines and the largest ship ever built in Canada, was christened and commissioned at this Lake Ontario terminus of the Welland Ship Canal yesterday.

Charles A. Ansell, president of the Port Weller Dry Docks which built the freighter, announced at the canal-side ceremony that construction of a ship for Colonial larger than the John O. McKellar will start soon.

Premier Frost told the 2,000 persons at the ceremony:

"This ship is a forerunner of great things for Canada.

"The S.S. John O. McKellar has been built to take advantage of the St. Lawrence Seaway when that project is completed."

He said the ship will carry grain from the Lakehead to Sept Isles in the St. Lawrence, returning with Labrador iron ore.

Big Step Forward

"This vessel represents one more step in Canada's economic development," the premier said.

The 678-foot carrier, which has a carrying capacity of 750,000 bushels of wheat or 23,000 tons of ore, was sponsored by Mrs. John McKellar. The vessel is named for her late husband, long-time partner of Capt. Scott Misener, president of Colonial.

The vessel will soon make her maiden voyage to Fort William.

More than a year ago, the Scott Misener was commissioned here at a similar ceremony. Then the largest Canadian ship built, she has broken several grain-carrying records in the last year.

CBC at Odds With Networks On TV Programs

OTTAWA (CP)—CBC television stations will carry some United States network programs, but negotiations for programs of two American networks have "broken down."

A.D. Dunton, CBC chairman, said today that discussions have broken down with two networks "regarding the proportion of money paid by the sponsor which would go to the United States networks and the CBC."

He declined to name the networks.

Negotiations with the two networks may be resumed some time in the future.

Because of the breakdown in negotations, Canadians will not see programs which some sponsors wished to have shown in this country.

The CBC is completing arrangements with two U. S. networks for some of their programs.

The programs mainly will be carried by the CBC's new television station in Toronto, to be opened officially Sept. 8.

There is a network link between Toronto and Buffalo. A network link between Toronto and Montreal, where a station will be opened Sept. 6, will not be completed until early next year.

STOCK CAR TAKES TOW CAR TO RACES

There is rather an embarrassing story going around today following last night's stock car races at the Exhibition Park.

When the drivers of the race cars transport their cars from home to the track they are forced to hitch onto another car and be towed to the track. A certain car operator was moving along in the prescribed manner on his way to the races last night, when his tow car ran out of gas on the west hill. The ultimate result was the stock car taking the tow car to the races.

Just for the record, the stock car operator's name is "Dusty" Sanford.

MISS MARY PICKENS NEW HEALTH NURSE

The medical officer of health, Dr. A. M. Breuls announced today that the department has accepted the application of Miss Mary E. Pickens, formerly of Peterborough, for the position of public health nurse.

The department has been in need of a public health nurse since Mrs. Fox resigned. Miss Pickens replaces Mrs. Fox on the staff. She will take up her duties on October 1st.

Two Services Seen on Parade In Recruit Drive

With His Worship Mayor McLean Haig taking the salute at the cenotaph, representatives of the Royal Canadian Navy and the Royal Canadian Air Force passed in review yesterday afternoon in a parade to publicize a recruiting drive now being held in Belleville at the Bridge Street Armouries.

Seventy-eight crew members of two Frigates which came to Belleville from Hamilton to take part in the show, comprised most of yesterday's street show. Marking their third workout for the day after performing at the commanding officer's parade at Trenton and a fair at Brighton, the R.C.A.F. band from Trenton supplied music for the parade which had its start at the Armouries, west along Bridge Street to Front Street then north to Station Street to the Cenotaph.

Flanking the Mayor as he took the salute from a raised platform were representatives of the three services. These representatives included Commander F. R. K. Naftel, commander of the two Frigates; Flight-Lieutenant L. J. Hubbard, representing the R.C.A.F., and Lt.-Col. R. H. Widdifield, incoming officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

Youngster's Bike Undamaged But New Car Dented

A small boy took a leading role in a mechanical David and Goliath clash this morning.

[illegible] rode his bicycle through a red light, not noticing an oncoming 1952 model automobile.

Came the inevitable crash.

Seconds later, the boy picked himself up unhurt, and gazed with some surprise at his undamaged bike.

With the motorist it was different. The force of impact had dented the front fender of his car deeply into the wheel.

Homemaking Club Members Hold Achievement Day

On Tuesday, 52 Homemaking Club members met at the town hall at Ivanhoe to complete the Home Garden and the Milky Way projects. Girls from Cooper-Remington, Queensboro, Chapman, Ivanhoe, Plainfield, and Philipston-Zion exhibited record books, custards and vegetables and also did menu building and answered a vegetable quiz.

A program of exhibits, skits, and demonstrations was presented in the afternoon. Patricia Moore, Betty Alexander, Marlene Carter, Mary Bertrand, Donna Ray and Connie Sills, who were completing their third year as Garden Club members, gave comments on their garden exhibits.

"The Milk Bar" was the topic chosen for club exhibits by Ivanhoe, Philipston-Zion, and Plainfield. The commentators for these exhibits were Joyce Reid, Connie Sills and Getha Joslin.

Eva Martin and Barbara Blakely demonstrated "Let's Can Tomatoes"; Cooper - Remington and Plainfield gave skits entitled "Let's Grow Good Vegetables." Ivanhoe and Philipston-Zion did skits on "Milk on the Invalids' Tray," while Plainfield presented this topic as a demonstration. Chapman chose "Milk the Child's Delight" for the topic of their skit.

Twenty-three girls met at St. Paul's United Church Sunday School room in Stirling on Wednesday to take part in the same program. Clubs represented were Bonarlaw, Rylestone, Wallbridge, Uniondale and Stirling. Donna McComb, Shirley Fisher, and Jean Frost commented on their garden exhibits, while Donna Carlisle of the Stirling club commented on their exhibit, "The Milk Bar." Rylestone presented a skit entitled "Play Safe With Milk."

Certificates Presented

Certificates of achievement were presented to girls who had completed 2 homemaking projects. Marlene Carter, Donna Ray, Shirley Fisher, Jean Frost, Claire Holmes, Pauline McMurray, Shirley McCoy and Ruth Milne received County Honor Certificates for having completed six projects. Provincial Honor Certificates, the highest award given for club work were presented to Betty Franklin of the Queensboro Club and Marilyn Hodgen and Joyce Lott of the Plainfield Club who had completed 12 projects.

Miss Elsie M. Irvine, Home Economist, was in charge of these Achievement Days and she was assisted by Miss Eileen Ness, Miss Jean Noble and Miss Catherine Gillespie. Mr. Allan Francis, assistant agricultural representative checked the garden exhibits and arranged the vegetable judging classes.

POLICE BLOTTER

A night intruder attempting to gain entrance to the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. F. Terry, 269 Station Street, made good his escape last night when he escaped from Mr. Terry who sought to detain him.

The intruder broke away from the householder and escaped after being chased a short distance.

Provincial police at Napanee located a 12-year-old boy last night at midnight after he had been missing from his home in the city for several hours. It was reported the lad had left home after being scolded by his parents. He rode his bicycle to Napanee.

Mrs. C. Mills, R.R. 4, Belleville, complained of the theft of a vacuum cleaner which she said had disappeared from her car while it was parked at a local service station.

Obituary

MRS. S. P. DODDS
(Picton)

A widely known resident of Prince Edward County, in the person of Mrs. Samuel P. Dodds, passed away Tuesday afternoon at her home in Cherry Valley. She had been ill for some time.

Funeral service is being held from her late residence to Cherry Valley United Church for service at two o'clock Friday afternoon.

Formerly Sara Ann Gee, Mrs. Dodds was born in Derbyshire, England. Coming to Canada 45 years ago, she had lived at Bloomfield, Cressy, East Lake and Cherry Valley. Though a member of the Anglican Church, she was also a supporter of Cherry Valley United Church and active in its organizations. Greatly interested in the Women's Institute work, she was president of Cherry Valley branch for several years and was hostess at 35 consecutive November meetings. She served two years as county W. I. president and during that time did much to promote the teaching of music in the schools. An addition to Cherry Valley Hall was made under her leadership.

A gifted singer and speaker, Mrs. Dodds for many years was active in political campaigns and assisted at concerts.

Her love of children found an outlet in the Children's Aid Society of which she served several years as secretary. She made a home for two wards of the society who today live useful lives. The needy found in her one responsive and sympathetic.

With three sons in the First World War, the war work had her full support. She was one of those instrumental in having the war memorial erected and at the dedication ceremonies raised the flag on the new pole. Her poems, written in wartime, were widely copied. Having trained in England as a nurse, in earlier years she helped bring many children into the world when doctors could not be present and she was a source of help and comfort in time of sickness and sorrow. Her home was a hospitable one and her circle of friends extended across Canada.

Fond of travelling, she made several trips to England and Europe and to the Canadian west coast.

Her husband passed away in August, 1938. She was the last surviving member of an old English family who lived in Derbyshire, England.

Survivors are four sons and four daughters, Samuel P. Dodds, Woodrous; Brian Dodds, Picton; Philip Dodds, news editor of the Picton Gazette; Ralph Dodds, on the Cement Karrier; Mrs. S. C. Southgate, Toronto; Mrs. (Dr.) W. E. Smart, Penetanguishene; Mrs. Fred C. Jay, Cherry Valley; Mrs. E. L. Potter, Vancouver, B. C., also two grandchildren, Arlene and Margery Dodds, Picton.

W. J. HAROLD SAYERS

The funeral of W. J. Harold Sayers was held from the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home on Tuesday afternoon. Rev. Duncan McTavish conducted the service in the chapel and the last rites at Moira Cemetery.

The bearers were: Bruce Bell, Harold Harns, Douglas Rendall, Kent Jones, B. Humphries and H. Schamerhorn.

JOHN GIBSON

The funeral of John Gibson was held from the Pinkston Funeral Home on Wednesday afternoon. The service was conducted by Archdeacon Arthur Smith, who also said the committal prayers at Belleville Cemetery.

The bearers were Ernest Smith, Gerald, Carman and Charles Bailey.

FLORENCE BEATRICE MAINPRIZE
(Trenton.)

The funeral of Florence Beatrice Mainprize of 361 Dufferin Avenue, Trenton, was held from the Weaver Funeral Home at 2:00 p.m., on Tuesday.

Mrs. Mainprize died in Trenton Memorial Hospital last Sunday. She was 64 years old at the time of her death. Daughter of Mrs. Henrietta Gunter, of Shuter Street in Trenton, and the late Joseph Gunter, she was born in Cashel township and had been a resident of Trenton for the past 12 years.

Surviving are her husband, Nelson Mainprize; her mother, Mrs. Henrietta Gunter; one daughter, Mrs. Earl (Gladys) Holland; one son, Gerald Mainprize in Western Canada, and one grandson. She was predeceased by a son, Gordon, four years ago.

Mrs. Mainprize was a member of the United Church. Rev. W. R. Mackie conducted the service.

Bearers were Lambert Whaley, Bernard Webb, Jack McDonnell, Orval Ward, Ernest Connie and John McCormick.

Interment was in Stockdale Cemetery.

ATOMIC CIVIL AID

LONDON (Reuters)—About 60 per cent of Britain's atomic research work is devoted to civil applications of atomic energy, a report issued yesterday showed. Sir John Cockroft, research chief, made the estimate in a report to the government expenditure committee.

County Council Votes to Sell Forest at Actinolite to Moira Conservation Authority

Re-considering its decision at an earlier session this year when a similar recommendation was turned down, Hastings County Council Wednesday voted to sell its county forest at Actinolite to the Moira Conservation Authority for the sum of $2,500.

The question of selling its reforestation plot of over 200 acres along the banks of the Skootamatta north of Tweed was the subject of considerable discussion but the concensus was the plot would be better maintained if it was sold by the county. When acquired by the Authority the plot would be maintained by the Department of Lands and Forests.

Several councillors pointed out the reforestation plot had been originated with the idea of setting an example to encourage planting of trees and not for any possible financial gain. Therefore the same purpose would be served whether the forest was owned by the county or by the Authority.

The Authority already has over 900 acres of property in the Actinolite area and this almost surrounds the county plot, according to T. C. Graham, reeve of Tweed village.

"It is our desire to create interest in reforestation and I feel the Authority could do a better job of maintaining the property than could the county," he said.

The recommendation to sell the plot came from the Agricultural Committee, members of which felt maintenance of the property in future years would be heavy. The amount of $2,500 was set as approximately the cost to the county since the forest was started back in 1945.

The county will attach a rider to the sale calling for the property to be returned to the county should the Authority be discontinued at any future time.

Pilot of Record-Breaking Jet Bomber Pal of Belleville Man

It is a far cry from the cockpit of the fastest jet bomber in the world, to a swivel chair in the office of the welfare department at city hall, but Wing Commander Roland Beamont, who on Tuesday established the world's record for speed in a jet bomber by flying the Atlantic and back in 10 hours and welfare director George Whitman, together between a period of 1942-45, flew 350 operational sorties over Europe during the past war.

Close friends for many years, these two fighter pilots spent many of their off duty hours together as well as in their aircraft.

In speaking of his friend's accomplishment Mr. Whitman said, "it is with great personal pride that I read of Roland's flight for we were friends together for many years. So often, the fine men who become "great" during a war are forgotten and I am very pleased to see that Roland through pure ability of being a good pilot, still remains "great" years after the war is ended."

While overseas, Mr. Whitman, also the deputy co-ordinator of civil defence in Belleville and district, was commanding officer of Number 3, RAF fighter squadron. Beamont was the wing commander. According to Mr. Whitman, Beamont has 10 aircraft destroyed in the air to his credit and 32 flying bombs. He also was awarded the DFC and bar and the DSO and bar. The civil defence co-ordinator himself destroyed seven enemy aircraft and 14 flying bombs and possesses the DFM.

Speaking of his friend again, the welfare director told how the wing commander led Nos. 1, 2 and three wings which spearheaded the invasion of France on "D" Day in 1944. He told of Beamont's escape from Germany in 1945 after being shot down.

George Whitman has another reason for remembering Wing Commander Beamont. On Friday 13th of Sept. 1944, while strafing a German destroyer in the English Channel, Squadron Leader Whitman was shot down. His friend, in the midst of heavy enemy fire, circled directly above him and radioed an emergency message to the coast and Squadron Leader Whitman was picked up. "It was primarily through his efforts," said the welfare official, "that I was rescued."

Junior Farmers Have Busy Year

Junior Farmer activities have reached a peak in Hasting's County this year, according to A. O. Dalrymple, provincial agricultural representative for the county.

Speaking briefly to county councillors at their current session yesterday Mr. Dalrymple noted that over 200 boys were engaged in junior work this year, roughly 50 over the number of last year.

Achievement days were being held at all the county fall fairs with the exception of two centres where no junior clubs were operating.

Although no fairs were scheduled for this week it will be a busy one for junior farmers: Seventy boys are being taken to Peterborough and will visit the Blewett farm where contour farming is practised. They will also visit the Canada Packers and Quaker Oats plant. Another 50 boys this week are visiting the Canadian National Exhibition, he said.

PLAYED SANTA, JAILED

Four Charged With Several Counts of Theft

Charged on several counts of theft of chickens, tools and furniture, four Shannonville district young men appeared in county magistrate's court before Magistrate T. Y. Wills today and were remanded for court appearance on September 18th.

The men, Thomas Brant, Lawrence Brant, Robert Brant and Arthur Barberstock were given their liberty on bail.

Offenses for which the men are charged allegedly took place last May when the house on the Little Estate near Shannonville was entered and a sewing machine and other articles were taken. At the Speedway Park, a jacket and a clock were stolen, while at still another place tools were taken.

Provincial police apprehended the men last week. In addition to the four men a juvenile is involved, police stated.

Foxboro-Madoc Road Still In Hands of County

Hastings county will continue maintenance of the Foxboro-Madoc road a few years longer, members of county council learned yesterday from a letter from the Ontario Highways Department.

At their last meeting in March councillors passed a resolution asking that the above stretch of road be taken over by the highways department but in the letter read at yesterday's session it was made clear no more new roads would be taken over at the present time.

At the present time there are requests from counties calling for roughly 3,500 miles of road to be taken over by the department, it was stated. Under the circumstances there was no point assuming more road until the present mileage was brought up to standard.

Reeve Jack Kincaid of Madoc village said he was a bit disappointed that the request had been deferred, but he said the committee had been assured the Madoc road would be first when any new road in Hastings was taken over by the department.

"It may be one year, two years or more, but at least that's encouraging," he said.

ARRESTS BUS LOAD

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP)—A bus driver and 41 passengers yesterday were sentenced to 72 hours in jail for insulting a motorcycle cop. The passengers and driver were having an argument when the cop tried to intervene. All then turned on him. The cop took the whole load to court.

Market Prices Remain Steady, Heavy Offering

Potatoes, long at a premium on the farmers' market here where they have consistenly sold at $5.00 per bag during recent months, were not being offered today as potato growers apparently assumed a "let's wait" attitude for the establishment of a lower price. In Toronto, off-truck potatoes were offered today at $3.50 per bushel.

Elsewhere on the market prices remained steady with previous offering, tomatoes dominating the market and continuing to sell for 40 to 50 cents for six-quart baskets. Corn continues in good supply and is offered at 40 to 50 cents per dozen for top quality ears.

Importers of peaches from the Niagara district sliced a nickel off of their prices today, satisfied to take 65 cents in exchange for a six-quart basket of good-quality peaches. Pears also sold at 65 cents for six-quart baskets.

Appearing on the market in greater quantity, silver skin onions suitable for pickels sold for 40 cents per quart.

Prices on carrots, beets, beans, and onions were unchanged.

Watermelon and cantelope were being offered today at slightly reduced prices, watemelon ranging from 35 to 75c cents, while cantelope started at five cents and the price increased as did the size of the cantelope.

Five cents continues to buy one table-size cucumber while dill-size cucumbers are being sold for 75 cents for six-quart baskets. Vegetable marrow sold at 15 to 25 cents, depending on size.

A price of 62 cents per dozen for Grade A large was established on the egg market, when the market opened.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO (CP) —Beef cattle prices were not established today in slow Ontario stockyard trading. Receipts: cattle 190; calves 20; hogs 170; sheep and lambs 80. The holdover, including 900 stockers, totalled 1,700 cattle.

A few common to medium stockers traded from $16-23.

Calves were steady at $26-28 for choice vealers and $16-23 for common to medium.

Grade A hogs brought $26 and dressed sows $16.

Lambs sold at $27 for good ewes and wethers and $26 for bucks. Common to medium sheep were $6-13.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices moved irregularly in early afternoon stock market trading today as industrials and western oils rose and golds and base metals slipped.

Industrials gained strength after an early weakness while western oils rose steadily. Oils yesterday fell to their lowest point on the exchange's index since March 7. Golds slipped from a firm opening and base metals drifted lower each hour.

Trading was moderate and broadened to cover a fairly wide list of western oils and industrials. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,268,000 shares.

Leading western oil issues held firm and losses outnumbered gains about two to one. Kroy traded heavily for penny gains and Del Rio and New Superior also advanced.

Steels and utilities added strength to the industrial list and agricultures, banks, refining oils and miscellaneous issues also were firm. Foods weakened.

Gold losses were almost balanced by gains with leading issues dropping most. In the junior producers list, East Malartic lost pennies but Anglo Rouyn gained in a turnover of about 100,000 shares.

New Refueling System to Aid Bomber Aircraft

WASHINGTON (AP)—Development of an in-flight refueling method for carrier-based aircraft was announced today by the U.S. Navy.

In-flight refueling of relatively short - range fighters will give considerable tactical advantages, the Navy said.

Long - range offensive missions, made up of carrier-based attack and bomber aircraft, can be escorted all the way to and from target areas. Combat air patrols can be kept going for long periods, and armament loads can be increased if fighter aircraft carry minimum fuel at takeoff.

The Navy said the in-flight refueling is modelled after the British "drogue and probe" method. The pilot fighter flies his plane, equipped with a refueling lance, to engage a probe in a funnel device at the end of the hose on a tanker aircraft.

BELLEVILLE BOWLERS WIN AT PETERBOROUGH

One of the most sought-after bowling trophies in Eastern Ontario is the Phillip Black Memorial cup, which is competed for annually at Peterborough. On Wednesday, eight mixed doubles rinks from the local club journey to the Liftlock City and as usual Belleville bowlers came home with some of the prize money. Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Vince were fourth three-game high winners in the tourney, while Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Edwards were second two-game high. This is a fine record for the local club when one considers there were 96 rinks in competition. Percy Skitch and Mrs. J. Stevens of Lindsay were the winners of the handsome trophy, while Mr. and Mrs. Morley Galt finished close behind in second place. Fred Thorne and his wife from Brighton were third while Dick Edney and his wife of Kingston were in fifth place, and Sam Netley and Mrs. W. Conn of Brighton finished in 11th place.

Other rinks from Belleville in attendance were William Anderson and Mrs. Mary Colling, J. W. Davidson and Mrs. Carm Mott, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Price, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Argue, W.B. Vandervoort and Miss Margaret Fairbairn and Gerald Hyde and Mrs. Charles L. Hyde.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices were unchanged in quiet trading. Quotations for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large, 57-58; A medium 51; A small 34; grade B 39; grade C 27-28. Wholesale to retail: A large 62-63; A medium 55; A small 38; grade B 45; grade C 34.

Endorsing Resolutions County Ponders Own Lack of Initiative

Hastings county councillors are either slipping or are growing up, according to Reeve Charles Buskard, of Deloro village.

The comment was made by the reeve of the northern village yesterday after council members had spent much time in considering resolutions forwarded from other counties in the province.

"How is it we never send out any of these things and yet here we are spending hours considering resolutions from other counties?" he asked.

He was informed by Clerk-Treasurer Erle Denyes that Hastings council at one time had sent out resolutions.

"Then we must have grown up," was the rejoinder.

One of the resolutions considered was from Wellesley township in Waterloo country asking that something be done to control the tent canterpillar menace.

Caterpillar Damage

Reeve Anderson of Faraday, agreed that something should be done as the catterpillar was proving a menace to the poplar in his district. Trees were stripped of foliage every year and the trees would eventually be killed with resultant loss in pulpwood production.

Reeve Tracy Adams of Dungannon said much could be accomplished by destroying the tents of the caterpillars in the scrub fruit trees but this was doubted by Reeve Parks of Limerick who as a highway patrolman said he doubted whether work of destroying tents along the highway amounted to much. Control of the pests was a lands and forests job, he felt

W. E. Edwards, zone forester, spoke up noting there were two species of tent caterpillars. One he termed forest tent caterpillars which worked among the poplars, while the other type attacked fruit trees.

He assured that the Department of Lands and Forests was not asleep on the job, but pointed out a spraying program over miles of timber would be impossible. However, he said, there were natural controls being developed by the parasite laboratory. Caterpillars were at their peak in cycles and this has been a peak year, he said.

Councillors concurred in a resolution from Waterloo county asking that all feeder cattle leaving the Ontario stockyards be sprayed for warble fly before shipment.

Endorse Floor Prices

They also concurred in a three-barrelled resolution from Grey County calling for maintenance of present floor prices on beef and hogs; for a floor price on different grades of beef, and for bacon from other countries being clearly marked so it could be positively identified by the consumer.

Concurrence was also given to a Welland City resolution calling for compulsory insurance for automobile owners.

Warden Lee Grills said that in his opinion compulsory insurance was the answer. "If a man can afford to own a car or a truck, he can afford insurance, and the public has a right to be protected," he said.

Under the recent federal legislation allowing federal property to be taxed for certain purposes, Sidney township will this year receive $2,227 in taxes from the Trenton air station, while the county will receive $1,119.

Both amounts are based on rates in the township and in the county, exclusive of educational costs, and on assessments which applied prior to the property being taken over by the Department of National Defence.

In return for the tax payments the county will have to assume any Children's Aid Society costs; hospitalization costs and costs for administration of justice.

Dry Grass Fire Threatens Farm

A brush fire which threatened to get out of control as it raced through the dry grass toward a farmer's house and barn caused city firemen a run to the 2nd concession of Tyendinaga Wednesday afternoon.

Leslie Cole had been burning brush on his farm when the blaze caught into the grass and was racing toward his farm buildings. While fighting the flames he was overcome by smoke and exertion. Mr. Cole was resting in the house when firemen arrived and put out the grass blaze.

STORM LASHES ATLANTIC

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—The season's first tropical hurricane lashed the Atlantic Ocean into towering waves yesterday 1,000 miles east southeast of Miami. The 85-mile-an-hour winds do not offer an immediate threat to any land areas.

Reports Equalized Assessment Plan Working Out in Hastings

Re-assessment of townships and separated villages in the Central High School district of Hastings County will be completed this year, county councillors were told yesterday by county assessor Cecil Geen of Thomasburg.

Mr. Geen was making his first report to council since his appointment about six months ago and said that assessment in the Central High School district is well progressed with Madoc village and Rawdon township being nearly completed.

Tweed village Elzivir and Grimsthorpe and Huntingdon were completed last year he said, while the remainder of the township is about three quarters finished.

Mr. Geen went on to say that most taxpayers were taking the re-assessment "very well." There had been some criticism, but this was mostly due to misunderstanding.

As result of the re-assessment the total assessment of the municipality was generally up, but this should mean a lower tax rate with very little difference in the amount of taxes.

The count assessor idea he felt is giving township assessors the opportunity to break away from the old system; it gives assessors more authority and assessments are being raised where deserved.

The job of the county assessor is to see that each municipality is equalized with the other. He felt this was being accomplished.

PATTERN OF GROWTH UNIQUE

No one has to be told that the past decade has brought about remarkable changes in population and industrial growth in Belleville and the Bay of Quinte district. It is not new or startling. The same sort of progress has been seen in other Ontario centres.

In one respect, however, the pattern of development in this area has been unique in the province. The employment index in this Quinte region has trebled since 1941, yet the population increase here has been less than the over-all gain for the province in the ten-year period.

The August Economic Review of the Ontario Bureau of Statistics and Research points this out as a notable exception among those centres which reflect expanding industrial employment in relative increases in the population. In the province as a whole the population increased 21.4 per cent, the highest recorded in any 10-year period since 1871. In the Toronto, Hamilton, London and Windsor areas population increases have kept pace with the rapidly rising employment indices. In the Quinte region (including Frontenac, Hastings, Addington and Prince Edward) our total gain in population has been only 17 per cent — somewhat less than the province as a whole — but the employment has increased three times.

The obvious conclusion from these figures is that Belleville and neighboring counties have achieved the unique and enviable position where local opportunities exceed those which in other years led the youth of this area to more attractive fields of employment far beyond their homes.

In all other areas where industrial employment has shown unprecedented gains new population has been drawn to them at the expense of other centres. Here, three times as many persons are engaged in industrial employment as there were in 1941 but 83 per cent of the working force has been drawn from the local region.

The actual population gain of Belleville and the immediate suburban area was higher, of course, than 17 per cent, but in this recognized community of Quinte we have a re-distribution of population that has not been seen anywhere else in the province.

A SPECIAL PLEADING RECALLED

With the death in Windsor a few days ago of Major James H. Clark, Q.C., there were many fitting tributes to him as an eminent criminal lawyer, a distinguished soldier and former Speaker of the Ontario Legislature.

Major Clark was a renowned counsel for the defence. He defended more than twenty persons charged with murder and none of them was hanged. He had a reputation also for civil court practice. But no one seems to have recalled a special case he pleaded one afternoon in Queen's Park when the Legislature was considering a bill to designate a floral emblem for Ontario.

We doubt that it is very widely known outside of the school classrooms of this province but since 1937 the trillium grandiflorum or, if you will, the modest trillium of our back concession woodlots, has been the official floral emblem. It was all made very official by the Ontario Legislature following a debate that was made memorable by the contribution of Major Clark.

The second reading of the Government bill to designate the emblem would have been a perfunctory formality had not the member for Windsor-Sandwich risen to address the House on behalf of the lowly dandelion as a more fitting floral symbol. No prisoner at the bar was ever defended with more fervor than that which Major Clark displayed after snickers had greeted his nomination of the renowned nuisance bloom so familiar to every lawn and wayside of the province.

In the eloquent pleading of Major Clark the dandelion had its moment. Unfortunately there was no Hansard report of Legislature debates 15 years ago to record it for posterity. It was addressed formally as the Taraxacum taracum, celebrated by the French as the dent de lion or, the lion's tooth. It was described as Nature's vivid yellow complement to the summer's greensward. It was extolled as a buttonniere and as a cherished wand of magic in the hands of young lovers when it has turned to seed and becomes the arbiter in crucial decisions of "loves me, loves me not." It was hailed for its sheer beauty and for its undisputed claims to predominance.

That afternoon the solons of the legislative chamber were almost persuaded. But Major Clark did not propose an amendment. Had he done so we are sure that the trillium grandiflorum would have had a contest.

The Columbia ice field in the Canadian Rockies covers an area of 110 square miles.

"Siwash," a word of the Chinook jargon meaning an Indian of any tribe or race, is believed a corruption of the French "sauvage."

The skunk, when annoyed or frightened, may throw its jet of powerful scent as much as 15 feet.

MISSED

I stayed in town and missed the rise
Of sun that gilded eastern skies,
And many a curious thing that flies.

I missed the moon upon the lake,
The noise that banging screen doors make
And having fish instead of steak,

I missed the hammock 'neath the trees.
I missed Lake Huron's cooling breeze,
The paper napkin on my knees.

I missed the cottage that I sold.
I missed the joys it used to hold;
The morning paper, three days old.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

QUOTE FAME

Alexander Smith, author of "Dreamthorp," that priceless book of essays "written in the country," once confessed that his only hope for fame was to be "occasionally quoted." That wonderful book was published nearly a hundred years ago and endless quotations have been made from it, and the other writings of this gifted author.

Many a fame rests upon a single sentence that is quoted again and again. Robert Louis Stevenson, Shakespeare, Whitman, Abraham Lincoln, Dr. Johnson, W. H. Hudson, Longfellow, Emerson, and an endless number of the world's great, are quoted time without end. There are books, increasingly in number, that are published with nothing but quotations in them, and they are indeed inspiring books to have in one's home. Great thoughts, like the old soldier, "never die."

Take that friend of Dr. Johnson's, Edwards by name. Upon meeting Johnson after many years, since they were students together at Pembroke college, he addressed Dr. Johnson thus: "You are a philosopher, Dr. Johnson. I have tried to be a philosopher, but I didn't know how. Cheerfulness was always breaking in!" That saying is the only one recorded of this man Edwards.

A big book could be made up of nothing but the wise sayings of Emerson, Stevenson, or Thoreau. In many an anthology you will find quotations from such great thinkers as Montaigne, Aurelius, Goethe, Tolstoy, John Burroughs, Goldsmith, Thomas Gray, and others. Great sayings from the heart came from Abraham Lincoln. His speeches and messages to Congress spark with them.

In these Talks from day to day, you will note that I quote quite freely, because it is my desire that readers may take the suggestion and read more, and learn more about those great ones from whom I quote. The Talk is not written in vain if you who read get a path suggested to a great mind! That great one may turn out to be a valuable friend, as has so often happened with this writer. A mind filled with great thoughts is a happy mind.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

People who get excited easily live far deeper, wider and higher lives than those of us who go calmly about our affairs. This declaration is in complete defiance of all the wisdom, the proverbs and the teaching of the past. But a little reflection and a little observation of your friends and neighbors will possibly win you over to that point of view. The advice to keep cool and calm is good. But it would be a pretty grim world if everybody took it.

Most of our faculties are designed to help us get excited. Our sight, hearing and feeling are attached to nerves that are intended to jump like grasshoppers. Hidden about our anatomies are small gadgets called glands, some on the top our heads, others reposing insignificantly down amid our liver and lights, whose function is to pour out into our system the elixirs of excitement, which cause our blood to race, out pupils to distend, our nerves to coil and leap like whip lashes at the slightest warning of danger, whether it be a furnace exploding or somebody going to take a dollar off us.

Nature have designed us and intended us to get excited, it appears to be part of man's great program of conquering nature that he should solemnly propound grave principles for the ignoring, controlling and defying of his own sensenses, nerves and glands. It is not only impossible, it is nonsense. People who get excited have far more mun than their calm brethren. They are gayers, happier, unhappier, more grief-stricken, more easily victimized, victimize others more easily, ride enthusiasm like a jet fighter, are doused in gloom to a degree unceived by their unnatural fellow beings who, as the saying is, have got to control themselves. They live life from top to bottom, and as wide as they can reach.

A summer steamboat made a bad landing in a gale of wind up at a resort wharf this week. A friend of mine who is the calmest and most collected man I know, and who prides himself upon it, watched all the excited people on the wharf scampering madly to safety as the lumpy little steamer walloped into the wharf. He stood fast, cool, collected. The steamboat's smoke stack broke loose and fell on him putting him in bed for the second half of his holidays. Excited people are safer than others, too.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

THE BLOOD CARRIES OXYGEN TO THE TISSUES

Red blood cells are manufactured in the red bone marrow. You might have noticed—in a butcher shop—that the marrow is yellow in the shaft of a long bone and red at the ends. The red blood cells contain a pigment —hemoglobin — without which the blood would be colorless. The purpose of this pigment is to carry oxygen from the lungs to the various tissues of the body and to carry carbon dioxide back to the lungs.

Hemoglobin is a complex compound consisting largely of a protein—globin—combined with substances containing iron. It has the ability of absorbing oxygen, carrying it to the tissues and, having delivered its oxygen, picking up or absorbing carbon dioxide, a waste product of the tissues and carrying the latter back to the lungs for elimination in the expired breath.

The normal amount of hemoglobin in the blood is denoted as from 90% to 100% as determined by comparing the color of the blood with a standardized color shade. A quick estimate can be made on a piece of paper and comparing it to a printed color chart. A more accurate method involves placing a drop of blood in an electrically lighted instrument where it is compared with standardized colors.

Deficiency of hemoglobin constitutes a type of anemia. In simple anemia the deficiency of hemoglobin parallels a deficiency of red blood cells. In pernicious anemia the hemoglobin may be considerably higher than the deficiency of red blood cells would ordinarily account for.

Nature provides ample facilities for supplying the hemoglobin with oxygen. A person with one lung or a person with two lungs riddled with tuberculosis has no difficulty in passing sufficient oxygen to the blood under ordinary circumstances. However, all of the oxygen passed to the hemoglobin is derived from the lungs. The foggy notion that the skin "breathes" and thus assists the respiratory apparatus is one for the birds.

When cargon dioxide accumulates in abnormal degree in the blood, the excess acts as a stimulant to the respiratory centre in the brain. Thus, carbon dioxide which is picked up just as readily by the hemoglobin as is oxygen is often used to stimulate breathing in cases of partial asphyxia. The presence of carbon dioxide in the blood is normally a large factor in determining the depth and rate of breathing.

Very little damage results from inhaling large amounts of carbon dioxide, although convulsions may result from it. Likewise, no damage results from sustained inhalation of oxygen. When the normal oxygen level of the hemoglobin is exceeded, nature acts to lessen the depth and rate of respiration, thus largely preventing an overdose of oxygen to the tissues.

Oxygen consumption by the tissues is created by demand. A person at ease requires far less than when in activity. To a lesser extent, hemoglobin is determined by demand. Physical activity serves to stimulate the production of hemoglobin.

Hemoglobin readily picks up gases other than oxygen or carbon dioxide. Carbon monoxide—a deadly poison—is more readily picked up by the hemoglobin than is oxygen. Smoking imparts some carbon monoxide and other volatile impurities to the hemoglobin.

A hemoglobin "reading" below normal indicates the need of further examination to discover the cause of it. Very little knowledge can be gained by the reading alone—as to cause.

Strength for the Day

A BOOK TO BE DEVOURED

The prophet Ezekiel had a great vision of the angel of the Lord. The angel extended a scroll —ancient format of books in those days— and commanded the prophet to eat the scroll. This scroll—or book—was the book of the law of God. Ezekiel ate the book, and to his amazement it became sweet as honey in his mouth.

There is a tremendous symbolism in this vision. The Book — which we call the Bible today— is being extended to us as it was to the prophet Ezekiel. We are to devour it until its teachings are assimilated as food into our natures. At first it seems like bitter food. It is law, denial, commandments that we put ourselves aside to the glory of God and to the welfare of others. It speaks of self-control. It offers us (to use a modern term) "blood, sweat, and tears."

But when we make it part of us, it becomes sweet as honey in our mouths—in our minds, in our daily work and conversation, in our thoughts, in our aspirations. It tells us about ourselves, about God, about the world around us —and how these are interrelated.

The Word of God is the Book of life. Devour it and find out.

Bridge Collapses

The 240-foot bridge at Espanola, Ont., 50 miles southwest of Sudbury, collapsed under a 20-ton tractor-trailer, throwing the truck and two men into the Spanish River. The men, Clark Cameron, driver, and Tel Polden, operator of the trailer, freed themselves and swam ashore. The bridge had a five-ton load limit sign posted. Engineers from the highways department will repair the structure and a Bailey bridge will be erected temporarily. — (CP Photo.)

News of Trenton

Will Written on Note Paper Accepted by Toronto Judge

TRENTON (Special) — The last will and testament of a former Trenton soldier written on a piece of Canadian Legion note paper was accepted for probate by Judge Samuel Factor in Toronto on Wednesday after the signature had been proved.

Dr. Walter Reginald Little, who died at his home on Du Maurier Ave, Toronto, wrote his will on the note paper in pen and ink, during World War Two, while on active service overseas. There were no witnesses. Dr. Little was born on the York Road, west of Trenton, the son of Mrs. Andrew Little and the late Andrew Little. He left a widow, Mabel Little, a two-year-old son, George and a daughter Victoria, 6, a brother Orliff and a sister, Mrs. Irene Gonyea of Carrying Place.

Dr. Little's estate was valued at $112,053 and made up chiefly of $81,635 in stocks, $11,103 in bonds and $8,815 in cash. At the time he made his will, Dr. Little estimated his estate would be valued at $50,000. He left 75 per cent to his widow and the remainder to his sister, Irene.

Dizzy Trout Hurt

BOSTON (AP)—Boston Red Sox yesterday lost the services of pitcher Dizzy Trout for about 10 days as the result of an ankle injury in a locker-room accident.

The veteran right-hander said his spikes caught in the flooring, adding:

"If I'd fallen I'd have been all right. But the spoke caught and I felt something snap."

Beauty Contest Will be Held By Lions Club

TRENTON (Special) — Calling all pretty femmes from all parts of the country.

Here is your chance to win $200 in cash and merchandise.

The Trenton Lions' Club officials are searching for a beauty to name "Queen of the Quinte." hey don't care where she comes from, as long as it's in Canada, and there is no age limit. Dress is optional too, which means a fair maiden can wear her bathing suit or house dress if she wishes.

The judging of the queen is going to take place in Trenton this Friday. Earlier there will be a dog derby and again the entries can be from out-of-town places and be young or old; big or little. The race starts at Alyea's coal dock and ends across at the new government dock on the west side of the river. All entries will be given a prize. There will be plenty of room for boats at the starting line.

And the Rhythm Ranch Riders will be riding high for the dancers in the evening.

The proceeds from this worthy effort go toward Trenton's only band—the Lions' Club band.

HARBOR LITERALLY FILLED

The harbor was literally filled with boats last night. Besides a number of cruisers and launches two navy Fairmiles from the H. M. C. S. Star at Hamilton docked here just at dusk. Civilians were allowed on board to look around with the navy reserve boys as their hosts. The ships had earliner docked at Belleville.

ADEQUATELY STAFFED

While the police and firemen were engaged in their most important meeting of the year last night there was only one call to the police station and none to the firehall.

Most members of both forces went down to Bayshore Park to play ball or watch but the police office and the firehall were adequately staffed for any emergency.

TO PRESENT SPRINKLER

On Friday, Dr. C. K. Hertz of the Bata Shoe Company will officially present on behalf of the company an ingenious lawn splinkler named the "Rainmaster" to the Trenton Memorial Hospital Board. Mayor Kenneth J. Couch and other Trenton dignitaries will be present at the ceremony. The machine is now installed and in action and can be seen operating in the late afternoon and up until dark watering the spacious lawn in front of the hospital.

For Eczema— Skin Troubles

Make up your mind today that you are going to give your skin a real chance to get well. Go to any good drug store and get an original bottle of MOONE'S EMERALD OIL—it lasts many days because it is highly concentrated.

The very first application will give you relief—the itching of Eczema is quickly stopped—eruptions dry up and scale off in a very few days. The same is true of Itching Toes and Feet, Barber's Itch, Salt Rheum and other skin troubles.

Remember that MOONE'S EMERALD OIL is a clean, powerful, penetrating Antiseptic Oil that does not stain or leave a greasy residue. Complete satisfaction or money back.

Trend Towards 2 Week Vacation

OTTAWA (CP) —The Labor department today reported the trend towards longer paid vacations is continuing in Canada.

A report from its economics and research branch says an annual vacation of at least a week now is almost universal practice in manufacturing. There appeared to be a trend towards two weeks' vacations after a year or less of service.

STANDARDIZATION

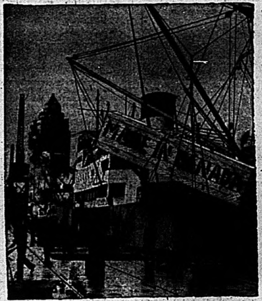
Trade Balance Hits Peace-Time High



In the first six months of 1952, movement of goods out of and into Canada has been the greatest since the war. And the favorable trade balance for Canada stands at $164,000,000. Last year, during the same period, there was an unfavorable balance of $339,000,000. Volume of Made-in-Canada exports, shipped by cargo vessel, railway and air, increased by 22 per cent. — Central Press Canadian.

Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Pringle and son, of Trent Road, Belleville, are guests at Jasper Park Lodge, in the Canadian Rockies.

* * *

Mrs. William Wheeler, 23 Pine Street, is resting nicely in the Belleville General Hospital, after a recent operation.

* * *

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Miller, of Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Portt, of Shannonville, were in Toronto, on Tuesday, attending the Canadian National Exhibition.

WEDDINGS

SMITH—SOPHA

Pastel-tinted gladioli and ferns formed a lovely background in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on Monday, August 25th, at 11:00 a.m., for the marriage of Mary Doreen Sopha, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Sopha, to Ronald James Smith, of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Smith. The Rev. J. J. Buckley officiated. White satin bows designated the guest pews.

Miss Mary Flurey, organist, provided the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was charming in her bridal gown of white lace and net featuring a strapless net bodice over satin with jacket of lace buttoned down the front, with Peter Pan collar, long, tight-fitting sleeves ending in lily-points over the wrists, and bouffant skirt of net over satin, fashioned with an insert peplum of lace. A heart-shaped headdress of white satin and lace held her full length veil of nylon net, and she carried a shower bouquet of scarlet glamellias intermingled with stephanotis.

Mrs. Gertrude Smith, of Belleville, aunt of the bridegroom, was matron of honor, gowned in yellow satin brocade featuring a scalloped neckline, short sleeves, and full skirt. She wore a matching Juliet cap and carried blue baby 'mums and adiantum fern.

The bridesmaids were Mrs. Dorothy Button, of Belleville, and Miss Joan Sopha, sisters of the bride, wearing matching gowns of blue and cerise satin brocade, fashioned with strapless bodices and full skirts, short capes with Peter Pan collars, tied at the neck. Juliet caps and matching mitts completed their ensembles. The former carried white single 'mums and the latter, yellow baby 'mums.

Mr. Barney Smith, Belleville, uncle of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Laurie Button, of Belleville, and Mr. Samuel Morgan, of Cannifton, acted as ushers.

The reception was held at Golden Acre Inn, Kingston Road, which was attractively decorated with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells. The bride's mother received, wearing grey nylon taffeta with black accessories and corsage of pink glamellias. She was assisted by the bridegroom' mother, who wore sand color nylon with black and white accessories and corsage of yellow glamellias.

Toasts were made by Father Buckley, Messrs. Laurie Button, Barney Smith and Ernest Collier.

For the wedding trip to points west, the bride travelled in a grey suit with black velvet hat, black gloves, pink shoes and purse with corsage of pink Sweetheart roses. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside on Trent highway upon their return.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, St. Catharines, Glen Miller and Toronto.

Previous to her marriage, the bride was the guest at showers given in her honor: a linen shower at the home of Mrs. D. Button, 234 Charles Street, Belleville; and a china shower at the home of Mrs. M. Broad, 51 Chatham Street, Belleville.

Couple Honored With Many Gifts

"Coming events cast their shadows before," so runs the old adage, and this was well born out last evening, when a large number of young people and friends of the Alliance Tabernacle met again within the space of a few days at the Alliance parsonage to honor another young couple, Miss Margaret Benn and Mr. Paul Delaney, for whom wedding bells will chime early next month.

Mr. Bob Brown was chairman of ceremonies, and led the assembly in the singing of several lovely hymns and choruses, after which Mr. Arthur Breach led in prayer.

The evening was spent in mirth-provoking games in which the men vied with each other in pillow-slipping; three of the women in their novel descriptions of the mechanics of an automobile, with special emphasis on how gasoline provides the motive power, the answers, proving unique in many cases, gave the sterner sex much enjoyment. This, however, was compensated for by the recipe by three of the men, who gave their versions of a cake mix called the "Bride's Special", which augurs none too well for the future benedict.

Following the games, a table, topped with a beautifully decorated parasol in white and mauve, the favorite colors of the bride-to-be, surrounded by lovely flowers in white, mauve and yellow, was carried in and placed before the honored guests, whose smiles, as well as their gracious thanks, showed how deeply they appreciated the gifts showered upon them.

After the gifts had been opened and duly admired, a lovely bride's cake, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom took the place of the parasol and the many gifts. A bride's book was then passed for the signatures of the assembled guests. Bounteous sandwiches, freshie drinks, and dainty cakes, brought the evening to a happy conclusion.

Avondale Neighbors Aid Enjoys Picnic

A most enjoyable afternoon was spent at the cottage of Mrs. H. Thrasher at Bayside, when the Avondale Neighbors' Aid held their annual picnic and potluck supper.

After a brief business period, the remainder of the afternoon was spent outdoors, where a program of games and contests had been arranged by Mrs. T. Anger and Mrs. L. Reid.

Everyone entered heartily into the activities and many received prizes for their efforts.

The bountifully laden supper table was the highlight of the afternoon and with appetites whetted with fun, and the fresh breezes from the Bay, the ladies did full justice to the delicious food.

As no meeting was held in July, the birthday draw for that month was held, and Mrs. Ada Reed was the lucky name drawn. The August prize went to Mrs. Ethel Day, and "Happy Birthday" was sung in honor of these ladies.

The September meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Earl Bush.

A vote of thanks to the hostess for her wonderful hospitality, and to her sister, Mrs. Sills, who assisted her, concluded another happy get-together for the Avondale ladies.

Women's Institute

BETHEL-ZION W.I.

On Thursday evening the August meeting of the Bethel-Zion Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Arthur Ray with an attendance of 27 women and five children.

Correspondence was read by the secretary, Mrs. Clifford Ray and included a letter from the department approving the change in the name of the Institute branch. An invitation was received from the Foxboro branch to join with them in their course in "Home Crafts".

This Institute has invited Roslin and Plainfield branches to unite with them on September 23, when a representative will discuss "Brightening our Home With Color."

Fair Receipts $833.40

The treasurer, Mrs. C. Ray reported $833.40 as the receipts from the Institute tent at Belleville Fair with a profit of approximately $450.

The president, Mrs. Earle Ray, thanked the women for the fine spirit of co-operation shown in this work. Thanks also go to the Deline and Walker stores for materials supplied.

A list of paid members was read by the secretary.

The Rev. Mr. Kersey, whose message was based on the Bible verse ". . . . and he pitched his tent, and there he built an altar to the Lord", noted the fact that the fundamental needs of men in today's world still remain the same as in those days of Abraham. "Modern men must have a home instead of a tent, but most important, they too, must have an altar by which they may shape and measure life.

Altar Not Recognized

"This has always been a passing generation, but this latter need, that of an altar, is not universally recognized today. If our people, our homes and our country are to advance, every home needs an altar. If our civilization survives, religion must be revived. The home is the key institution in our civilization where characters are molded for the world of tomorrow. In our children, we must instil virtues of honesty, courage, wisdom and understanding and the best way for us to impart these virtues, is by our own example.

"Today, the world is tremendously interested in homes for the bodies, but we must become more anxious and interested in altars for our souls."

"Your Institute," concluded the speaker, "is comprised of women of all creeds, who are worshipping one God and working for the betterment of mankind."

The meeting closed, after which refreshments were served by Mrs. Ray and her assistants.

Mrs. Floyd Ray will be the hostess in September for the Institute meeting.

They will live in England and in Hamilton. — (CP Photo.)

Women's Activities

GILEAD W.M.S.

The August meeting of the Gilead W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Fred Yorke, with 19 members and one visitor present. Call to worship was taken by the president, Mrs. Gerald Swan.

A letter was read from Miss Ruth Saunders, Reg.N., telling of her work in Battle River Hospital.

Mrs. E. Yorke took charge of the devotional part, the theme being "Christian Stewardship of Time". Verses of Scripture were read by several ladies, showing when and how this should be used. Explanation of hymn, "All the Way My Saviour Leads Me", was given by Mrs. E. Yorke. Mrs. Belcanquel gave a reading "Be Strong". Solos were sung by Mrs. Bertrand and Mrs. F. Yorke. A reading "Pleasure of Your Company" was given by Mrs. Wilfred Clare.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

ST. ANDREW'S W.M.S.

The August meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church W.M.S., was held at the home of Mrs. Barton Haggerty, West Huntingdon. The president, Mrs. Morley Haggerty opened the meeting. Mrs. John Hassal read the Scripture lesson from Deut. 1-1-10. The talk on the keyword "Life" was given by Mrs. John McInroy.

Mrs. Harry Thompson gave a reading 'The Teamster's Sermon'. Mrs. Arthur Hassal contribtuted a solo, "Jesus is All the World to Me". Mrs. Harold Thompson read an article on "Therefore Choose Life". A piano solo was given by Mrs. Lindsay Sills. Mrs. Don Haggerty gave an item "Beetles That Are Quick to Hear".

The Glad Tidings news was brought by Mrs. Chester Sills.

The busines period followed. An invitation to visit Moira W.M.S. on Thursday, August 21, was accepted.

After the meeting closed refreshments were served by the hostess and co-hostesses.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

A philanderer is incapable of being "deeply in love" with anyone

Dear Miss Fairfax:

At 19, I have been married not quite a year.

In that time my husband has shown interest in several other girls, and now he tells me he has fallen deeply in love with one he recently met.

I have done everything in my power to please him and make a happy home for him ever since we were married, but he doesn't seem to understand or care anything about me, and he quarrels with me violently if I do the least little thing he doesn't like. I have tried to convince myself that I would be better off to just let him go, as he wants me to do, but I'm afraid I love him too much to be willing to do that.

What do you think would be best for me to do? I am very lonely and heartbroken.—L. W.

Dear L. W.:

There could hardly be a more heartbreaking and disillusioning experience for a wife of less than a year to find herself married to a philanderer. For that, it seems quite clear, is exactly what your husband is. I do not believe he is "deeply in love" with his present girl friend any more than I can believe, from what you tell me, that he was very deeply in love when he married you. He appears to be a very weak character whose shallow emotions will be swayed by one girl after another and never long concentrated on any one.

It's a little hard to understand how you can still be in love with such a man, but even though you are, I don't think you're going to get anywhere at all by trying to hold on to him. It seems to me you would be wise to tell him that if he wants to go you won't stop him. I doubt if you would be able to anyhow, and you might better preserve your own dignity and self-respect by not clinging to a man who wants to discard you.

He keeps postponing their wedding day

Dear Miss Fairfax:

For over two years I have been going with a man who is now over 25, and we have been engaged for several months. I am 22.

We have discussed wedding plans a number of times, and twice have set the day, but in each case after a week or so he has talked me into postponing the date. One time he made the excuse that it would be too hard to find a place to live, and the second time he said that he wants to reach a certain salary before we are married. His mother tries to tell him what to do, and keeps warning him that he is too young to marry, and I am beginning to think she is responsible for the way he has been acting.

What do you think of this situation?—M.S.

Dear M.S.:

I am afraid I would be a little suspicious that a man who acts this way is not very anxious to get married. Of course the reasons that he gives you—that it may be hard to find a place to live and that it is wise to be as secure financially as possible before marriage—are entirely valid. But at the same time, if he is not doing anything to solve the problems except to talk about them, then one can hardly help feeling he may simply be stalling. If I were you, I would have a very frank talk with your fiance and insist that he tell you just exactly how he feels about things. If his enthusiasm for marriage is really cooling off, you'd better know it as soon as possible.

Food for Thought

For Serious Pickle-Makers

By Mary Moore

You've got me in a tizzy. When I opened the mail this afternoon 18 of your letters asked for pickling instructions. Some of you want all the dope on long process brining and curing. Others of you want quick methods that don't take all summer. Others have shrivelled pickles, soft pickles, hollow pickles. . .

First thing I want to say to all pickle makers is that it is a science and you have to obey all of the principles if you hope to have bright, crisp pickles in your jars that are comparable to the wonderful products we can buy in the store.

Now brace yourselves: the pickle makers cure their cucumbers for from 6 to 8 weeks. Can you take it? Actually it is very simple—for all you need is patience and a firm belief that you will live that long! Your undivided attention is needed for the initial step, but the succeeding steps take only a matter of minutes once per week.

These are long instructions and the newspaper hasn't the space to give me to print this more than once per year, so be smart and cut this out if you are pickle-minded.

How to Brine Cucumber For Pickles

Cucumbers which have been cured in brine from 6 to 8 weeks make better-flavored, crisper and darker green pickles than those brined for shorter periods.

1. Select firm cucumbers that are 2 or 4 inches long, wash them and dry them.

2. Place in clean stone crock or new wooden keg.

3. Cover with a brine made of 1 cup non-iodized salt and 10 cups water (preferably soft water—clean rain water strained through triple cheesecloth). Be sure to use a measuring cup for your measurements.

4. Cover with plate or clean round board inside rim of crock or keg and put heavy weight (clean stone is fine) on top to keep cucumbers submerged.

5. Pour 1 3-4 cups salt on centre plate or board the second day after putting cucumbers in brine. Do not put salt directly in brine.

6. Place 1-2 cup salt on centre of plate or board on the 7th day, and each succeeding 7th day for 5 weeks. Skim off scum from brine as it forms at top. Keep cucumbers under brine.

7. At end of second week test brine by placing an egg on it—if egg does not float a little more salt than the amount mentioned should be placed on plate or board.

8. At the end of 5th week test with blue litmus paper. (Buy this at the drug store.) If the litmus paper turns pink the brine is acid enough for the cucumbers to be removed. If the litmus paper does not turn pink leave cucumbers in brine and test each day until it does turn pink. The pickles will then be olive green throughout.

They are now ready to process into any number of types of pickles. The one you ask me for most frequently is

SWEET CUCUMBER PICKLES

Place cured, processed cucumbers in a stone or glass jar, cover with a 4 to 6 per cent vinegar. (This is indicated on the bottle—it reads "40 to 60 grains.") Too strong vinegar causes shrivelling; too weak vinegar causes softening. Let stand 10 days. Drain. To 6 cups of the vinegar drained off add 2 cups sugar, 1 tablespoon whole mace, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 2 tablespoons stick cinnamon. Boil this vinegar syrup 15 minutes gently. Strain or not just as you wish and pour over pickles and let stand overnight. Drain off vinegar in the morning boil for 10 minutes and again pour over pickles. Let stand 2 hours. Now boil pickles in syrup for 10 minutes when they will become firm and bright. Cool as quickly as possible in covered pan. (A good idea is to stand the pot containing hot pickles in ice water to hasten chilling.) Pack pickles in jar, cover with spiced syrup, and seal.

For those who haven't the time and patience for this I will give a short-brine process tomorrow.

Sisters Who Never Seen Each Other Are United

CALGARY (CP)—Two sisters who had never before seen each other were united here with the arrival of Mr. and Mrs. Axel Larsen of Quebec City, when Mrs. Larsen met Mrs. Elizabeth Darling of Yorkton, Sask.

The father of the two women came west from Quebec in 1916 but his eldest daughter—now Mrs. Larsen—remained in Quebec City and was married there. His younger daughter, Mrs. Darling, was born after her parents had settled in Alberta. She married in the west and has never travelled east.

Occasion for the trip west and the long-awaited family re-union was the recent retirement of Mr. Larsen, sea captain husband of the Quebec sister.

GOOD MANNERS

Step-by-step suggestions on how bride thanks for shower presents

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to be married soon, and it's been 'hinted' to me that friends and neighbors are planning to give me a shower. I would appreciate it more than I can say if you would give me in your column a speech the bride should say to thank the guests for their shower presents.—M. M.

There's indeed a gracious art about showing your appreciation of a gift that is handed to you. The idea is not to think much about making a "speech", but to put your thoughts on the manner with which you receive the present. Your manner of expressing your appreciation can be more 'telling' than your words-of-thanks.

Let's imagine you're at the shower, and a guest is handing you a shower present. . . or you are asked to take a present from a decorative container holding all the presents. Take the present into your hands with a gracious manner and a smile of delighted anticipation. Open the package eagerly. . .but not too hastily. . . and don't carelessly throw aside the decorative paper and ribbon, as though having no thought for the packing-gesture to which the donor probably gave such devoted attention. (We all know how we try to give a really artistic touch to our packaging of such a present as a shower present!)

You look at the enclosed card . . . look enthusiastically at the present. . . say first a word or two of general appreciation, and then (most importantly or course) comment enthusiastically on special features of the article: "Sallie dear, how good of you to bring me such a beautiful present! I so much wanted a kitchen clock of just this type, and it's just the color for the kitchen we are assembling. It's perfect. Thank you, so very, very much."

Note 1—Take your time opening gifts and thanking for them . . .don't give that unfortunate impression given by so many brides-to-be. . . that they are so over-anxious to see what the next present is, that they don't say enough appreciation for the present-in-hand.

Note 2—Be sure to write a nice thank-you note to each giver, a day or so after the shower.

What to do when you receive a formal marriage announcement

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please inform me what is the proper procedure when one receives a formal announcement of the marriage of a relative or friend.—L. W.

Actually we are not 'required' to respond to a formal marriage announcement. But making no acknowledgement whatever of such a thoughtful gesture does seem to me to be lacking in graciousness. If the announcement announces the marriage of an acquaintance, we may, appropriately, write just a sentence or two to express our thanks for the thought of including us in the list, and our best wishes; "How very kind of you to include me in the list of those to be told the happy news of your marriage. Thank you. .and I send you both all good wishes for your happiness always."

If the announcement brings the news of the marriage of a relative or a friend, we may write a note of good wishes, worded according to the closeness of relationship or friendship. And we may, if we are so inclined, send a present, if the wedding is that of someone particularly dear to us, and for some reason there has been a small wedding, to which only families and attendants have been invited.

DRAGGED TO DEATH

Danese, W. Va. (AP) —Hattie Lou Bragg, 7, was playing in front of her home yesterday, a 10-foot rope tied to her wrist. The free end caught on the front of a passing automobile. The girl was dragged 150 yards. She was injured fatally.

FRANKFORD

Hundred Attend Memorial Day Parade, Service

FRANKFORD — Frankford remembered its gallant dead on Sunday in traditional Memorial Day sincerity and reverence, as Branch 387, Canadian Legion held their annual Decoration parade and service.

Hundreds filled the little Memorial Park on Mill Street, as veterans from a dozen neighboring towns from Tweed to Cobourg marched side by side with Frankford veterans from the C.N.R. Station to the Park, led by the color party with music by the Peterborough Salvation Army Bany and the Frankford Citizens' Band.

In the park Reeve George Spencer acted as the chairman. Following the singing of "O Canada," Reeve Spencer welcomed everyone for the day. Rev. R. MacEachern brought the call to worship, following which "O God Our Help in Ages Past" was sung.

Lieut. George Heron, of the Picton Corps of the Salvation Army, read the Scripture passage. Major Roberts of the Peterborough Corps led in a prayer of remembrance.

Last Post

Last Post was sounded, followed by a minute of silence, the Reveille. Wreaths were placed by the Legion, Legion Auxiliary, Township of Sidney, Village of Batawa, Frankford Citizens' Band, Frankford Lions Club, and a number of wreaths by private citizens who lost loved ones.

Reeve Spencer introduced a number of visiting dignitaries in turn, and each spoke briefly.

The address was given by District Zone Commander Jack Burnett. Comrade Burnette outlined the aims, and the obligations of the Canadian Legion, and the work which they are continually doing, which does not meet the eyes of the average citizen.

Pastor G. F. Pierce pronounced the benediction. "God Save the Queen" was sung.

The salute for the march past was taken by Col. B. C. Donnan, E.D. Following the service, a band concert, featuring the Salvation Army Band and the Frankford Citizens' Band was enjoyed in the park.

Women Who *KNOW Say: "You can cut food costs at Dominion!"

"We're buying INSURANCE with the Savings!"

—says one housewife

* In a recent survey of housewives, many women who do all their shopping at Dominion said they believed prices are generally lower at Dominion.

One shopper put it this way: "My husband and I wanted the protection of more insurance for our little family. To get it, we had to economize on other things. You'd be surprised how much insurance we can buy in a year with the pennies I save on food every time I shop at Dominion."

Have YOU tried DOMINION lately?

Do it today! Do all your shopping at Dominion for a month. You, too, will discover what many other women know?

"You can cut food costs at Dominion!"

Sandy Sez:
"If you save a cent in twenty. Add it up and you save plenty!"

The president, Mrs. Wesley Farrel, opened the meeting with Mrs. Nelson Welsh at the piano. The president gave the address of welcome.

The scripture reading by Miss Bessie Holbert was taken from Hebrews 8:1-9. A duet was given by Mrs. Lainson and Mrs. Grant accompanied by Mrs. Lindsay Sills at piano; piano solo, by Mrs. Bruce Stapley, a talk on "Missions" by Mrs. W. S. Shaw; piano solo by Miss Barbara Brough; solo by Mrs. Arthur Hassal, accompanied by Mrs. Sills at piano; duet by Mrs. Gordon Foster and Mrs. Floyd Raye, accompanied by Miss Ilda Ketcheson, and solo by Mrs. Angus Mumby, accompanied by Mrs. James Vandewater.

Guest Speaker

The guest speaker, Mrs. Giffin, of Foxboro who was introduced by president gave an interesting talk on "Young People's Camp at Quin-Mo-Lac." Collection was taken by Mrs. Blake Ketcheson and Mrs. George Foster.

A vote of thanks was tendered to each one taking part making it a successful meeting. Refreshments were served by Moira ladies.

E. German Police Seek Sanctuary In Allied Zone

BERLIN (Reuters)—Twenty East German policemen — the biggest group yet to seek asylum in West Berlin — arrived here yesterday, police headquarters announced today.

So far this month 168 East German policemen have sought refuge in the west. More than 1,600 have fled to West Berlin since January, 1951.

Most of the recent police deser- of increased military training and other "unbearable conditions."

Little Benny's Note Book

Pop was late for supper, and ma was walking around nerviss looking at the time on the clock and talking to herself mad, and pop came home looking gilty, saying to ma, I know appeerances are agenst me, my dear, and I should of telefoned, because I realize it's an unwritten but often spoken law that I'm always to telefone you when I'm going to be late, but circumstances alter cases, so wait till you hear my side before you cast me into outer darkness.

What happened for land sakes? ma said, and pop said, Some men would pleed urgent bizzness and unavoidable last minute complications, but I would be ashamed to hide behind any sutch selfish excuse, even if it were true.

Well I should hope so, ma said. If a man's wife doesn't come before his bizzness, the werld must be sinking to a new level, she said, and pop said, I agree, my dear. You always come ferst as far as I'm concerned, and I only wish every other man could say the same about their poor wives. And what's more, I'm not going to tell you that I was unable to reach you because your telefone line was bizzy. Nuthing is ferther from the fact, he said.

I could of told you that myself, ma said. Our telefone has been as idle as if it had never been invented. And now I'd appreciate knowing exactly what did happen, she said, and pop said, That's what I'm about to tell you.

Well what, for land sakes, what? ma said, and he said, to come to the point in a frank, manly and straightfallward manner, my dear, I completely forgot all about the time.

Oh, sutch a man, come and eat your dinner, it's a roast of lam, ma said.

Which it was.

STIRLING

STIRLING W.I.

Stirling—Mrs. George Megginson was hostess to the ladies of Stirling W.I. Thirteen members and five visitors were present.

The meeting was under the leadership of Mrs. S. Kirky with Mrs. J. Bronson, president, conducting the business part.

The secretary, Mrs. McMurray read thank-you notes.

Mrs. Elliott, of West Huntingdon, Mrs. Dora Brown, from New Liskeard, Mrs. Stevenson of Stirling, Mrs. McMurray, secretary and Mrs. Tulloch were thanked for planning the bus trip to Belleville to visit the Home for the Aged and the Bell Telephone. The trip was much enjoyed.

Correspondence was read and bills dealt with. The treasurer, Mrs. West, reported a good bank account. Money was sent for silver Maple Leaf pins to be worn next year when the Associated Women of the World will meet in Toronto in 1953. A dozen red roses were sent to a chartered member and her husband who are celebrating their 60th wedding anniversary. A bus trip was partly planned to be completed at the next meeting.

The business being completed, Mrs. Kirky took over for the program. Mrs. Pryor was called on to tell of her trip to Brandon, Manitoba, by car, a new one from Windsor factory, which she drove herself. She returned home by train. Everyone enjoyed her talk on her trip.

Mrs. H. Cooke put on a contest, "The Business Men's Name of Stirling." Mrs. Tulloch's group won a box of candy. The topic was on "Agriculture", "Bees Working in Alfalfa."

There was an exchange of flower slips to bulb roots. Refreshments were served of sandwiches, cheese, pickles, fruit, jellies, cake and taffy tarts.

Mrs. Tulloch moved a vote of thanks to the hostess and lunch committee.

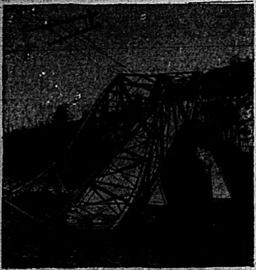
Sce Dream Realized When Old Bridge Collapses



Half of a 40-year-old $150,000 steel bridge which carries traffic into Espanola, Ont., is seen lying in Spanish River after it had collapsed. A giant tractor-trailer on the span at time was thrown into the river but the driver, Clark Cameron, right, of Espanola, and a passenger escaped serious injury when they managed to swim ashore. One of the most heavily travelled bridges in the Manitoulin area, the Spanish River bridge, in addition to heavy commuting traffic, carries a large number of tourist cars. The collapse brought secret satisfaction to many Espanola residents who have been agitating for a new bridge for many years as old one was considered a hazard. — Central Press Canadian.

125 Million Dollars Waiting Alfried Krupp if Government Accepts Plan of Reinstatement

16-Year-Old Girl Fells Armed Thug With Pop Bottle

June Oxley, 16, wasted no time when she saw her uncle, Robert Oxley, felled by a thug with a pop bottle in a Highland Creek, Ont., service station. She first hit the thug with a fishing pole, and when that didn't have the desired effect she knocked him uncinscious with a pop bottle. — Central Press Canadian.

Held by police is Lloyd Irvine, 22, on charges of attempted armed robbery. Robert Oxley said the robber pointed a gun at him, pulled the trigger several times, and when it failed to go off, hit him on the head with a pop bottle. Police took the suspect to jail after June/ felled him. — Central Press Canadian.

WOMAN'S LOGIC

MARYLAND, England (CP)—A court witness raised her left hand to take the oath. Told to raise the right hand, she replied: "This is my right hand; I'm left-handedl."

BOBB, Germany (Reuters)—A staggering $215,000,000 is waiting for Alfried Krupp, Germany's steel king just out of a war crimes prison, if the West German government accepts an Allied plan to reinstate him as one of the world's richest men.

Allied High Commission officials indicated this yesterday when they outlined some details of their plan to reorganize the Krupp industrial empire. A huge portion of it goes back to Alfried, 44, as sole heir.

Krupps is the firm that armed germany for two world wars and which has been a dominant factor in the German economy for three generations.

To Break Monepoly

The Allied idea has two aims: To break up the industrial monopoly the name of Krupp has always signified, and to get the Krupp family out of the munitions business for which it has always shown a talent.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government is expected to announce the plan this week and to approve it without major revision.

A yearly income of at least $4,000,000, deriving partly from a 2½-per-cent royalty on the sales of four coal mines the family owned and part from fixed-interest non-voting bonds he will get as compensation for other coal and steel interests, plus his salaries as director of the other firms he will continue to control.

About $15,000,000 in bonds and shares of the Rheinhausen steel plant at Essen, more coal mines and ore fields, all of which will be taken out of Krupp control.

At least $10,000,000 for a group of iron ore fields in the Sieg and Lahn River areas, which he will sell to the Rheinhausen company.

Despite all this Krupp will not find himself a dispossessed man with only an astronomical bank account to occupy his mind. The collection of engineering firms, locomotive and motor works, shipyards, trading companies and real estate which will be returned to nis ownership and management was recently valued at about $70,000,000.

Always Busy

Krupp never has taken his finger from the industrial pulse, even while he was serving his 12-year sentence (later reduced to 2½ years) for exploiting slave labor, looting plants in occupied countries and "illegal spoilation."

He and six of his directors—who were with him in Landsburg's allied military prison—held board meetings regularly, complete with cigars and expensive fruit.

The Allies had confiscated his property, but he was allowed to continue functioning as a "trustee." Officially, his prison job was locksmith, but in addition to his board meetings he made toy pistols out of aluminum.

Canada's Training Flotilla Visits Dieppe

Amon gthe many European ports visited by the Royal Canadian Navy's Atlantic command training flotilla was one particularly close to Canada's heart: Dieppe, where the aCnadian Second Division of 5,000 men suffered appalling casualties in their assault of August 19, 1943. British Reply Will Go Sept. 3 To Mossadegh

TEHRAN, Iran (AP)—A government spokesman said today Britain has agreed to reply by Sept. 3 to the Iranian offer to discuss compensation claims arising out of nationalization of the $1,500,000,000 Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

The spokesman said this promise was made yesterday during a three-hour conference of United States Ambassador Loy Henderson and British Charge d'Affaires George Middleton with Premier Mossadegh.

The spokesman would make no other comment on the conference. Informed sources in London said Henderson and Middleton sought to break the long-standing British-Iranian deadlock with proposals involving U.S. economic aid to Iran, a lifting of the British blockade on Iranian oil sales abroad and negotiations on the compensation claims. Iran wants prompt payment of $140,000,000 in disputed oil royalties as a condition to openiing any talks.

Middleton called on Henderson today shortly after the American Ambassador had an hour-long talk with the Iranian finance minister, Bagher Kazemi. There was speculation that Henderson and Kazemi talked about a possible loan.

Polio Cases Down But Death Rate Is 'Very High'

LONDON (CP)—The number of proven polio cases in southwestern Ontario this year is only about one-tenth as great as in 1951 but since most cases are the extreme bulbar type, the death rate is "very high," Dr. C. A. Harris, medical health officer, said yesterday.

The death at Victoria Hospital Tuesday night of a 24-year-old Lions Head district housewife was southwestern Ontario's fourth fatality.

Dr. Harris said there have been 10 or 12 cases altogether.

"With four deaths though, the death rate is very high," he said.

Company Fires Four Guards

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brink's, Inc., yesterday fired the four guards who were lunching while a bakery truck driver made off with $65,000 from the armored car they were supposed to be protecting.

Violation of orders, said Otto Blank, vice-president of Brink's.

The four were at lunch Monday when Ray E. Farmer, 26, a former Brink's guard, unlocked the armored car, took the $65,000 and drove off.

'A hunch' by Police Chief Robert V. Murray resulted in Farmer's arrest. Farmer, admitted the theft and drove police to the lonely park area where he had buried the money.

Wasn't Worried

Vance Gilson, five, lost himself in hazardous, thick bush and marsh land near Elmvale, Ont., but says he wasn't worried a bit. With him was Duke, a dog as tall as himself. Vance scratched himself on thorns and thistles but clung to Duke who led him to a highway where they were picked up by searchers. — Central Press Canadian.

Eastern Lines Ready to Buy 50 Jet Airliners

LONDON (AP) — Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker said last night Eastern Air Lines will buy 35 to 50 Comet jet airliners if the planes can be delivered within three years.

Rickenbacker, president of Eastern, toid reporters that the delivery date of the 500-mile-an-hour Comets is the biggest snag.

Rickenbacker proposed that the Comets be built in the United States if the manufacturers—De Havilland Aircraft Company—cannot turn them out fast enough to meet Eastern Air Line's requirements.

Eastern's proposed order would give the airline the world's biggest fleet of commercial jet airliners and bring Britain about $75,000,000 in badly-needed foreign exchange.

A spokesman for De Havilland aircraft company said last night the "series three Comet cannot be ready until near end of the 1950s and Captain Rickenbacker knows it."

He said series three—the Mark III—is a super Comet now in the early stages of design. The price is estimated at $1,500,000.

The spokesman added, however, that if Rickenbacker is interested in series two—on test since last February—"then we certainly can talk business and we can speak of quantity deliveries from late 195 onwards."

He said "we cannot give him earlier delivery than that because all deliveries before that are naturally going to those who had the foresight to order earlier."

The spokesman said series two will be the "world" airliner carrying 44 passengers and freight over long distance hauls of 2,000 miles and more.

NEW LINER

VLISSINGEN, The Netherlands (CP)—Princess Sibylla of Sweden will christen a new 22,000-ton liner here Oct. 18. The Swedish American line ship is being built to accommodate 800 passengers.

Britain Still Losing Battle Against Disease

LONDON (Reuters)—A government report yesterday indicated that Britain is still losing the scientific battle against foot-and-mouth disease.

The Agriculture Ministry has found no alternative to its policy of ordering immediate slaughter of all cattle affected with the disease, it said.

The report outlined the work of the Pierbright research station, set up outside London in 1940 to devise vaccines and cure for the disease which swept Britain last winter and this spring.

At a press conference Sir William Slater, secretary of the Agricultural Research Council, said that though progress had been great "the end of the road is not in sight."

Pierbright has experimented on 5,000 cattle, developing and testing new vaccines during the last 10 years. The best of these provides immunity for only about four months, the report said.

Stevenson Calls For End of 'Poison Gas Attacks'

NEW YORK (AP) — Governor Adlai E. Stevenson called bluntly yesterday for an end to "poison gas" attacks on U.S. public officials as Communist sympathizers.

The Democratic presidential nominee told the American Legion convention that those he said had hidden behind a cloak of patriotism to attack Gen. George C. Marshall have sought "the last refuge of scoundrels." Marshall was U.S. Chief of Staff in wartime.

In his first major address in the east since he was nominated in Chicago, Stevenson took sharp issue with his Republican opponent, Dwight D. Eisenhower on the progress of U.S. preparedness.

The Illinois governor, conceding that "all is not perfect," said "it is true that today the fight for preparedness is going well."

Eisenhower had said from the same platform three days ago that the U.S. is in "dire peril." He blamed "a dismal decade of false starts, fractional measures, loud policies and faint deeds" under Democratic administrations for losing many American friends in the world.

In an obvious thrust at Eisenhower's proposal that the Kremlin be told the United States will not rest until the enslaved countries are freed, Stevenson said "security cannot be won cheaply by some clever diplomatic manoeuvre or by propaganda."

On the Communist issue, Stevenson said public officials always will make enough mistakes to "keep our critics well supplied with standard ammunition," adding:

"There is no need for poison gas."

Truman's Budget Size of Big City Phone Book

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Truman's farewell gift to congress will be a government budget the size of a big city phone book, important sections of which are likely to become waste paper within three days.

It isn't Truman's idea. A 1950 law requires him to give Congress a detailed estimate of federal income and outgo within 15 days after the opening of a regular session.

The new, 83rd congress, most of whose membership will be determined in the November elections, convenes next Jan. 3. The budget message must be at the Capitol by Jan. 17. At high noon on Jan. 20 a new president takes his oath.

At the same moment, the odds are heavy that key sections of the Truman budget will start heading for the Congressional waste baskets. Regardless of who wins the presidency, it is unlikely he will agree 100 per cent with his predecessor's fiscal plan for the government accounting year which starts next July 1.

Long Under Way

This particular financial estimate has been under preparation by the Budget Bureau since last May. Long before that, each department was instructed by the White House to state its needs for fiscal 1954.

A vast number of items represent continuing appropriations which cannot be cut.

However, it is the appropriations and authorizations for such matters as defence, foreign aid and veterans' benefits that add on the top billions, that the incoming president would find the most fertile ground for revision.

Rubber Workers Reach Agreement With Company

CINCINNATI (AP)—Representatives of B. F. Goodrich Co. and the C.I.O. United Rubber Workers last night announced an agreement to end a strike of 16,000 rubber workers in nine cities.

The agreement, which must be submitted to the various union locals for ratification before the 10-day strike ends, provides:

A 10-cent-hourly general wage increase, bringing such pay to $1.95 an hour; provision for a full union shop; an improved provision which the parties believe will reduce illegal work stoppages; and double time for holidays.

ON GUARD, GIRLS!

WOODFORD, England (CP)—The vicar of Woodford, Rev. D. C. Mumby, suggests in his church magazine that parish girls guard against letting girls from other districts romp away with the men. "Although we have lots of attractive girls we have only one or two weddings each quarter," he complained.

5,000 Soldiers at Wainwright Fighting Korean War On Rolling Alberta Wheat Fields

By JIM SHERBANIUK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WAINWRIGHT, Alta. (CP)—To 5,000 soldiers at the Wainwright army camp, the Korean war is being fought on the rolling Alberta wheat fields.

Buffalo 3, one of the largest army manoeuvres in Canada since the end of the Second World War, is testing the next Canadian brigade to see action in the Korean threatre.

For four days, soldiers and equipment have been swarming over the 140,000-acre training camp, largest in Canada.

War Canditions Prevail

The manoeuvre, culmination of three months of rigorous training, is being carried out under the nearest thing possible to actual battle conditions.

The principal force taking part is the 25th infantry brigade replacement group, commanded by Brig. J. E. C. Pangman. The group includes the 3rd battalion of the Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry, the Royal Canadian Regiment, the Royal 22nd regiment, the Royal Canadian Horse artillery and supporting units.

The object of the scheme is to practise night manoeuvres, defensive actions and withdrawals. No action takes place during the daytime.

Exercise Buffalo 3 officially began last Saturday night with a 20-mile march to mid-battlefield where the main force dug in and set up headquarters. Hardened veterans and green recruits shivered in split trenches and munched meagre rations.

The tactics of the "enemy" forces include sabotage and persuasive propaganda leaflets. Troops moving into a new sector find the territory littered with pamphlets promising cold beer and a clean bed. Others read: "How does your wife look in black?" A honey-throated female voice, nicknamed "Wainwright Rose," tempts the soldiers with visions of civilian luxury.

Planes Harass Troops

"Superior" enemy air power—two Tiger Moths—harass the troops constantly by day. Anyone violating the strict camouflage order is pelted with bombs filled with flour.

On the battlefield, soldiers are tapped on the shoulder by umpires and informed that they have just suffered serious injury.

Medics rush the soldier off to hospital.

Engineers and mechanics cope with imaginery breakdowns in communications and equipment. Others build and blow up bridges. An airfield was constructed in less than 18 hours.

But the exercise is not all make-believe. The wind and the cold are all real, as well as the gnawing hunger when rations fail to arrive, or an all-night march in pitch blackness over rugged terrain.

Maj.-Gen. Chris Vokes, exercise director, said: "This is a very gruelling exercise for all troops patricipating—it is an endurance test. There is little sleep and much hard work, and on some occasions very little to eat."

He added:

"They are beginning to act like well-seasoned troops."

Says He Saw Flying Saucer On the Ground

Millions of people across North America have come forward with reports of seeing "flying saucers" but here's one, Scoutmaster J. D. Desvergiers, who claims not only to have seen one of the "things" but to have had an encounter with one of them in the woods near West Palm Beach, Fla. Desvergers is shown pointing to the singed hair on his forearm as evidence of his close contact with the saucer. Mr. Desvergers, 30, a scoutmaster, said he was "blasted by a ball of fire" from the object when he investigated flashes of light near a country road. He was quoted as telling a reporter that he knows what the object was, but added, "It's better for me not to go any further, for the public good, because it might cause panic." — Central Press Canadian.

Faces Deportation To Czechoslovakia

Serving with the U.S. Signal Corps in Korea, Pfc. Ernest Ebner, of Ridgeway, S.C., ponders the fact that he faces deportation to Czechoslovakia on his discharge from the army when he returns to the U.S. Ebner entered the country on a three-month visa in 1948 to visit his parents in Chicago. He overstayed his visit during which time he was married and the immigration service ruled that he would have to leave the country and apply for re-entry. Now the state department has ordered him to leave the country within 30 days from his discharge, expected around September 19, or else be deported. — Central Press Canadian.

Two Men Are Held in Connection With $30,000 Fire Near Barrie, Ontario

Firemen are seen fighting a hopeless battle to save a wooden grain elevator from destruction in the village of Phelpston, 12 miles north of Barrie, Ont. The $30,000 fire, which began in the empty 80-foot elevator, threatened the entire village, but fortunately firefighters from three neighboring communities were able to prevent flames from spreading. Police are holding two Toronto men in connection with blaze, after they were seen leaving elevator and getting into a car shortly before fire broke out. A citizen jotted down the licence number and police broadcast a province-wide alarm for the car and its occupants. — Central Press Canadian.

CAMPBELLFORD

rs. W.S. Haney Gives alk on 'Mothers' llowances'

Campbellford — "Mothers' Al-owances" was the subject of a alk given at the Campbellford Rotary Club on Monday when Mrs. W. S. Haney of the Department of Public Welfare was the est speaker.

Mrs. Haney extended her compliments to the Rotary Club on the fine work that has been done locally by them, and expressed her gratitude in being invited to tell of her work in the Welfare Branch of the government.

The Mothers' Allowance Branch is 32 years old, being started as a result of private agitation by the Hearst government and passed by the Drury administration. Since its formation approximately 100 million dollars has been spent without any scandal whatsoever directed at this branch of the government.

Based on Need

The act, when passed, was simple, and based on need. Today a widow with six children under 18 years of age receives $100 a month plus grants of $20 for special emergencies, plus a fuel grant for 8 months in the year. Those eligible include widows, the wife of an unemployed and a divorced wife where the husband's whereabouts are unknown. By order in council a mother whose husband is in a penal institution with 2 years or more to serve may benefit. The age of dependent children was raised from 16 to 18 years. In this way the children may be kept at school and indirectly, the province as a whole may be made better as care of our younger generation pays off in citizenship. Many beneficiaries of the plan have become professional men and women and the highest types of citizens. The department expects above all, that the mother preserve highest standards of morality. This is the chief concern of the board and it has been found that only two per cent of mothers are ever cut off because of unseemly behavior. Even if cut off, a mother, on good behavior and recommendation may be reinstated.

At the present time, the Ontario department pays out about half a million dollars a month, plus fuel allowances in winter, to 8,000 widows, 17,000 children, 800 unemployed and about 300 foster mothers.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Wib, of Kingston, and thanked by Rotarian Fred Rutherford.

A former member, Capt. Alex Turnbull, of London, led the singing and renewed acquaintances in the club.

Chinese Leper Spends 5 Days In Montreal

MONTREAL (CP)—A Chinese leper spent five days in Montreal harbor last week aboard a Swedish ship but authorities kept his presence secret to avoid public panic, it was disclosed today.

Officials of the Swedish consulate identified the leper as Su Sung Fu, who joined the vessel as a sailor two years ago. It was not until the vessel's last voyage that the ships doctor discovered he was suffering from leprosy.

The Chinese was refused admission to Canada and the ship, the Sven-Salem, sailed for Hamburg.

Canada has eight lepers under treatment in isolated hospitals, three on Bentwinck Island near Vancouver and five at Tracadie, N.B.

Johnston Wins Feature Event Before 1500 Fans

Apparently Gene Bett of Picton believes in the old adage of "Two cars are better than one." Anyway as the story goes, Bett now has two cars or two halves. His car, number 21, is now plural, car 2 and car one. The automobile was halved in a collision in the feature race at Exhibition Park last night.

The feature event, eventually won by Clarence Johnston of Belleville was a real donnybrook. A total of 14 cars started, a total of seven finished. Charley Gordon of Trenton had the most fun of all. Somewhere in the back stretch, his speedy 13 went out of control, into a spin and rolled over. he car didn't stop rolling, it rolled back onto its wheels again and kept going.

Still in the feature race, Morley Shephard of Trenton, holding down sixth place lost a wheel. When one of those autos lose a wheel at the speed they go, the driver might as well look for the wheel a few miles from where he lost it.

Earl Handley was back in action again. Presently second in place for the Pellar Star of Excellence Trophy, he came came out of semi-retirement last night to drive Jack McCrory's number 47. Earl placed second in the feature event and took a first in the second qualifying heat.

Last night, according to official figures, 1,500 excited fans watched the drivers perform. Visibility is good at Exhibition Park. Unlike Shannonville speedway, there is no dust.

First qualifying heat: Jim Edgar, Napanee; Bud Young, Odessa, six laps, 3:55.

Second qualifying heat: Earl Handley, Cherry Valley; Bruce Kemp, Belleville, six laps, 3:49.

Third qualifying heat: Gene Bett, Picton; Howard Sanford, Belleville, six laps, 3:49

Match race: Gene Bett, Picton; Earl Handley, Cherry Valley, four laps, 2:30.

Team match race: Howard Sanford, Belleville.

Consolation: Morley, Shephard, Trenton; Bud Harper, Kingston, eight laps, 5:14

Feature: Clarence Johnston, Belleville; Earl Handley, Cherry Valley, 14 laps, 8:57.

The English Thoroughbred

David Livingstone - Learmonth, editor of 'The British Racehorse,' describes in London Calling the famous ancestors from which every thoroughbred in the world today is descended, and discusses one of the most puzzling questions in bloodstock breeding—the rise and fall, for no apparent reason of great lines.

When all is said and done, the British Isles is the nursery of bloodstock and every thoroughbred in the world has a British origin. A great deal has been made of the fact that every stallion in the world today descends from one of three imported Arabs: the Byerley Turk, imported in 1687; the Darley Arabian, brought to England in 1704; and the Godolphin Arabian, brought over from Paris (where he almost certainly did not pull a water-cart, as has been stated) in 1729. But this is really only of academic interest, for it can only be by pure chance that these three male lines alone have survived.

The amount of the blood of any of these foundation sires in any contemporary horse is so small as to be infinitesimal, while he has through his many female ancestors the blood of numerous other sires who, although they did not found continuous male lines, have contributed largely to present-day pedigrees—in some cases to a greater degree than any of the three horses I have mentioned.

There used at one time to be two lines in England descending in tail male from Herod's grandson, Buzzard. Both of them disappeared, but one returned when the late Mr. Eric Kennedy bought a horse called Roi Herode. After this there began a most remarkable though short-lived revival. Roi Herode was far from an exceptional racehorse and, whatever may have been his chief characteristic, it certainly was not speed. yet he sired that phenomenally fast horse, The Tetrarch. It seemed, when this horse sired two winners of the St. Leger, much to everyone's surprise, and also the very fast Two Thousand Guineas winner Tetratema, that the Herod line in England had a new lease of life. As a matter of fact it is now to all intents and purposes again dead.

The other Herod line from Buzzard was lost when The Flying Dutchman was sold to France. It has proved one of the pillars of Monsieur Boussac's stud, through his great sire Tourbillion, and Britain has recently been able to purchase a few representatives, the most noteworthy of which is the Two Thousand Guineas winner, My Babu.

This rise and fall of lines is one of the most puzzling things in bloodstock breeding. A lot was written during the last war and just after it about the excessive amount of Phalaris blood in the country: how our pedigrees would become saturated with it, and what difficulty we should have very shortly in finding suitable mates for our mares. Exactly the same thing was written when St. Simon's influence was at its height, yet not so many years afterwards the St. Simon line was practically dead in England and Ireland and had to be resuscitated by importations from France. Possibly the same thing will happen with the Phalaris line.

At the same time much was made of the Phalaris-Gainsborough cross, by which correspondents meant Fairway on a Hyperion mare, or vice versa. This was considered to be doubling the danger, more so than might normally be the case owing to the exceptional success of such matings. As a matter of fact this proved either a mare's nest or a snare and a delusion, whichever way breeders cared to take it. The cross, though proving a good formula for a time, has not proved as all-conquering as its admirers or detractors surmised.

I mention this because Monsieur Boussac is now concentrating on the Phalaris-Tourbillion cross, the blood of Phalaris being represented by his stallion Pharis. It has had a great many successes, but in my opinion it is quite possible that it may not last very long owing to the large number of horses unsound in front and wrong in the wind produced by Pharis. On the other hand, these weaknesses may be bred out in time.

Let us turn to the distaff side. There are so many thoroughbreds in the world today that some form of quick reference to the various families is very desirable. Australians will remember that about the end of the last century one of their countrymen, Bruce Lowe, divided the female lines into some forty families. It may be of interest to survey briefly those which have held the limelight in England since the war.

The first which comes to my mind illustrates very remarkably how a family—and I am talking now of the smaller divisions, not complete Bruce Lowe families—can be all-conquering, fade into obscurity, and then, after a number of years, rise up again for no apparent reason. In the 1860s the Leviathan breeder and owner was Lord Falmouth. His success was quite extraordinary, and may be judged by the fact that at one time he had no fewer than six classic-winning mares in his stud, all bred by himself. For some reason, never satisfactorily explained, Lord Falmouth decided to give up racing and dispose of all his stock. It looked as though he were throwing away a fortune.

Yet hardly anything materialized from this galaxy of mares, and within twenty years their great lines of blood had sunk absolutely into oblivion. Then about 1890 the late Mr. George Lambton bought for Lord Derby Venus's Looking Glass, a great-granddaughter of one of Lord Falmouth's Oaks winners, Queen Bertha. Little happened until 1917, nearly sixty years after the birth of Queen Bertha, when a granddaughter of Venus's Looking Glass produced a mare named Marchetta who in turn bred a useful handicapper. Since then descendants of Marchetta have gone from strength to strength and number since the war such great horses as Alycidon, Sayani, My Babu, and Monsieur Boussac's Ambiorix.

Exceptionally successful has been the line from the Hampton Court mare, Quiver, through her daughter, Memoir. Many of the Aga Khan's most noted winners come from this family, which has done better than Quiver's other great daughter, La Fleche.

Last year, however, Pretty Polly held the field as an ancestress of winners. Thirty-three of them won no less than £95,000 in the British Isles alone, and included Supreme Court, which was not engaged in the classics but won the premier race of the year—the King George VI and Queen Elizabeth Stakes—in which he easily beat the French champion Tantieme.

Kinsmen Peewees Defeat Boyces 15-5

The Kinsmen peewee softballers took the first game of the city championship best-of-five series at Firemen's Park last night, defeating Boyces' Garage by a 15-5 score. The second game is scheduled for the Park next Monday night starting at 6.30.

Ronnie Pointer went the route for the Kinsmen giving up 10 hits, striking out one and walking two. Restrick on the mound for Boyce's yielded 17 hits, struck out two and walked three.

Hubert Pointer and Westfall led the Kinsmen attack with three hits each with Donevan getting a home run. Regent hit a round-tripper for the losers.

Kinsmen committed three errors while Boyce's miscued five times. The games are all seven-inning affairs.

LONDON (AP) —A London movie company has been given royal permission to make a 70-minute documentary film of the life of the Queen, to be released shortly before the coronation next June.

Weslock, Silverberg, Canada's Hopes In Amateur Golf Championships

VANCOUVER (CP)—Six Canadians, most of them outsiders in the pre-tournament betting, joined 10 Americans today as the Canadian amateur golf championships neared the pay-off stage.

By tonight, there will be only four competitors left, paving the way for tomorrow's 36-hole semi-finals.

Canada's chief hopes in today's fifth and sixth rounds are tall, amiable Doug Silverberg, 19-year-old former Canadian junior champion from Red Deer, Alta., and Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont.

The other four Canadian survivors are Bob Gray of Winnipeg, Colin Brown of London, Ont., and Herb Jantz and Jack Reynolds of Vancouver. Judging how the mighty have fallen in the tournament so far, some of them could still be in there at dusk.

Silverberg ran up against Sad Sam Urzetta, 1950 U.S. champion, who, with other U.S. entrants, has given the Capilano course par a beating this week.

Weslock Has Chance

Weslock was drawn against Larry Bouchey of Inglewood, Calif., probably the most unorthodox golfer in the lot.

Gray, who stunned favored Jerry Kesselring of Kitchener, Ont., 3 and 2 yesterday, was pitted against Jantz, a week-end golfer who scored two mild upsets in the third and fourth rounds.

Reynolds, son of a millionaire lumberman, drew Ray Weston of Spokane, Wash., and Brown, who dumped experienced Tom Rirr of Montreal yesterday 4 and 3, ran into Robert Roos of San Francisco.

Ashby's Defeat Electric Girls To Win Title

Northern Electries bowed out of the Peterborough Ladies Softball League finals last night at Alemite Field dropping the second game of the best-of-three series to the Peterborough Ashbys by a 14-3 score. Ashbys are the 1952 champions of the loop.

Although leading by 7-2 score at the end of the seventh inning the Peterborough gals made doubly sure of victory with a seven run explosion in the 8th. They pounded out eight hits before Electrics were retired.

Each side blasted out 12 hits off opposing hurlers but eight errors on the part of Northern paved the way to defeat. Ashby's played fine defensive softball erring but once.

Brown and Morgan, starting hurlers went the route for the Ashby's and Northern's respectively. Both yielded a dozen clouts with Morgan walking three and whiffing one with Brown striking out three and issuing six passes.

Ashby's took a one-run lead in the first and were never headed. They added a brace in the third, three in the fifth a single in the seventh and the eight-run deluge in the eighth.

Electrics pushed over single runs in the fourth and fifth and added another in the ninth. They were extremely weak at hitting in the clutches.

Butler had a double and three singles for Northern with Young getting a pair. Boyce hit a homer and single for the winners with Partridge, Smith, getting two each.

News of Trenton

Firemen Victors Over Policemen In Softball Game

TRENTON (CP) — The Trenton Firemen are again champions over the local policemen. They hit harder and fielded steadier to hand the constabulary a 21 to 11 defeat in the annual benefit game at Bayshore Park last night. After the fifth inning the players performed under the lights. A good crowd was on hand to watch the much-talked-about battle

The firemen went into the lead in the first inning and in the last of the second increased it another six runs. Volunteer "Jiber" Ellis dropped a Texas leaguer in behind third base that gave the hook and ladder boys two of the half dozen.

But the policemen showed they had recuperating power in the first of the third and hit right back with a five run splurge.

Then Provincial Police Constable Tasker performing on the mound for the Trenton bluecoats held the rambunctious firemen scoreless for three innings while his teammates counted once. The score was 7 to 6 in favor of the firemen as the game went into the last of the sixth. That was when the firemen reached Tasker hard and often. They poked out four runs and gave two in the first of the seventh and then went on the rampage again gathering five in the last of the seventh. By this time the policemen were a bit groggy but not out. They made one last stab in the first of the ninth collecting three runs while their opponents coasted on a whale of lead.

Joe Hastings clinched the match for the firemen in the fifth when his double cleared the bases sending three counters across the plate while he pulled up at third when a cop fumbled.

In the absence of Mayor Kenneth Couch and Councillor Claude Graham, Fire Chief Harry Filion and Councillor Cliff Gunter officiated. It was Gunter to Filion with Chief Jack Taylor behind the bat as catcher in the official opening performance.

A sum in the neighborhood of $125 was raised through the efforts of both police and firemen for Christmas baskets for the town's needy.

Gate prizes were won by L. Seely, Claude Smith and Reg Mitts.

Both teams thanked officials Sam Ellis and Al Steenburg for lending a hand without pay.

Teams

Policemen — Tasher p, Ormshaw lf, Westfall 1b, Gainforth 2b, Healy 3b, Carley c, Jeffery rf, Bradshaw cf, Graham ss.

Firemen — C. Drake cf J. Thompson rf, G. Coughlin c, C. Ellis ss, J. Hastings 3b, L. Coughlin 2b, H. Lewis 1b, B. Burtt p, B. Mitts lf; subs M. Mitts, E. Stacey.

Officials: Behind the plate, A. Steenburg; on bases, S. Ellis.

QUEEN SELLS HORSE

NEWMARKET, England (Reuters)—The Queen yesterday sold one of her racehorses, Windsor Forest, for £1,000. It was bought at the annual bloodstock sales here by Scottish trainer P. T. Dodd.

Water-Ski Winner

TORONTO (CP) — The boys' closed water skiing championship at the Canadian National Exhibition waterfront was won yesterday with 1,305 points.

Don McCauley of Toronto was second with 898 and Larry Freeborn of Bobcaygeon third with 84.

PUBLIC DANCING BANNED

THRE RIVERS, Que. (CP)—If you want to go dancing in nearby Louiseville in future, you'll have to do it at home or in a friend's house. The town council, on the petition of religious bodies and social organizations, has banned all dancing in the town's public places except for particular events, such as weddings, birthdays, banquets and conventions.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WIND-UP TONIGHT

The television fever has struck the Kingston Monarchs, Central Ontario Baseball League entry and tonight the Scrutton crew is giving away one of the look-see-and-hear sets free to some lucky ticket holder. The television idea pulled in some 5,000 customers to the Peterborough games, 1,300 to Belleville, an it should work some kind of an attendance miracle down Roddenville way.

Lest we forget, the diamond opposition to the Monarchs will be the Redmen who will trot out there for their final scheduled appearance this season. Last Monday night the Reds, thanks to some timely clutch-clouting especially by Slingin' Sam Mulholland whose single to centre wrecked the second-spot aspirations of the Monarchs and clinched it for the Tribe, pulled victory out of what looked like certain defeat.

The Monarchs have a game left with Peterborough and that will be played in the Liftlock City next Saturday night. A victory for the Reds in Kingston tonight will give them a tie for top slot with the Petes, if they lose to Kingston.

Just what Coach Ralph McCabe will toss at the Monarchs tonight is problematical. Babe Stinson, who has been a jinx to the Reds all season will likely get the nod for the Monarchs. Art Wright who has been poison for the Scruttoners all season grabbed another win last Monday after taking over from Johnny Mowat, and it could have been that McCabe might toss him back at them.

In any event, the two-of-three semi-finals get under way next Tuesday and will be played on consecutive nights, with the weather the only preventative factor. President Jack Devine has so ordered and that's the way it will be, unless a final standing brings about a first-and-second place tie.

GOOD JOB, WELL DONE!

Well-deserved tribute to a job well done was paid to the minor division of the Belleville Baseball Association the other night by Mayor A. McLean Haig. His Worship drew attention to the fact that the organization and administration of some 277 boys from peewee to juvenile age has done wonders as a deterrent to juvenile delinquency or words to that effect. And he was so right.

Chairman Frank Grandame and his assistants of the minor division have done an excellent job. It is no sinecure to get nearly three hundred boys under some sort of organized control and expect to wind up with no grey hairs, a full complement of sanity and the same amount of avoirdupois as you had before the season opened.

Messrs Grandame, Art Keegan, et al must have used a barrel of aspirin during the season and playoffs. For there were headaches galore, and at times they could scarcely have been blamed had they tossed in the sponge and called it a day.

But they reared back on their figurative haunches, took the bit in their teeth and practically defied the jinx to beat them. There was difficulty in securing the right type of managers and coaches. This wrinkle was ironed out and there cropped up a dozen and one other minor difficulties. But the boys stuck to their guns and the result was a tremendously successful season, even if no provincial championships were garnered (so far).

Sponsors rallied to the cause and to them goes a major portion of the credit. People like Ted Schwab, Paul Haggis, Larry Buck, Malcolm Robb, Don McNevin and many others who through their financial support of their various teams contributed in no small measure to the season's success.

OFF AGAIN, ON AGAIN!

Mike Aquafreda and Vel Smith are having quite a time these golfing days trying to nail that Branscombe Cup to a lengthy stay atop a Bay of Quinte Country Club mantel. On Saturday they retrieved the silverware after a rousing tussle with Jack Ford and Harold Webster of the Napanee club, winning the links tilt 2 and 1. The game was closer than your next breath and the boys received the well-earned plaudits of their pals, not omitting Quinte president Clare Morgan.

Now comes another challenge this time from Port Hope. Bill Rowden, Hoper links ace and a pal will try to wrest the mug from the Aquafreda-Smith duo on the Quinte course next Sunday starting at one p. m. Should be quite a tussle since the Port Hope pair are as determined to grab the silverware as much as Mike and Vel are to keep it.

ONE-MAN TEAM

A sensational young pitcher named La Chapelle practically beat Ted Schwab's Little Giants singlehanded in Kingston yesterday. The best the Giants could do was a bunt and a "blooper" and after that La Chapelle had them "hogtied." Schwab gave full credit to the young hurler. "He's nothing short of sensational," Ted said, "and I doubt if there's a peewee team in Ontario who can beat him." The kids lost 7-1 but, we are informed, the second game played in Ottawa has been thrown out and ordered replayed. However Schwab does not agree with the OBA that the game be replayed in Ottawa due to inconvenience and in addition, should the Giants win, they will have to go to Niagara Falls Saturday to play in the finals. That will incur heavy travel and heavier expense. A decision will be reached some time today.

NICE TRY

Jerry Mahoney's Northern Electric lassies were defeated in the second game of their Peterborough Ladies Softball League finals here last night bowing to the Peterborough Ashbys in two straight tussles. However, the Electrics were, by no means disgraced. They played a fine brand of softball all season and were good enough to reach the finals series, a no mean feat in itself considering the number of district teams entered. Northern Electric should be proud of its girl softball representatives.

Bombers Blast Brownies 12-7 As Tribe Bows to Athletics; Giants Slice Brooklyn's Lead

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

It would not be surprising to find the faces of General Managers Joe Cronin of Boston Red Sox and Hank Greenberg of Cleveland Indians a bit red today.

Their discomfiture can be laid to Ray Scarborough, a 35-year-old pickle salesman from Mt. Olive, N.C., who is currently employed as a pitcher by the American League's pace-setting New York Yankees.

Fans in Boston are asking why Cronin sold Scarborough to the Yanks. Those in Cleveland must be wondering why Greenberg passed him up.

Trims Browns Easily

Scarborough embarrassed the front office chiefs yesterday by gaining credit for the Yanks' 12-7 victory over St. Louis. The triumph enabled the Yanks to stretch their lead to two games over the second-place Indians.

The Indians dropped back by bowing 6-5 to Philadelphia. Boston's third-place Red Sox remained 3½ games astern as Mel Parnell shut out Detroit 5-0. In the remaining American League game, Chicago White Sox defeated the Senators 4-1.

Brooklyn stubbed a toe in its march to the National League pennant by dropping a 10-5 decision to Chicago Cubs while the runner-up New York Giants sneaked by Pittsburgh 5-4 to reduce the Dodgers' advantage to 9½ games. In night games. Philadelphia smeared St. Louis 7-2 and Boston downed Cincinnati 12-7 in 10-innings.

Scarborough was obtained by the Yanks from Boston Aug. 22 for the $10,000 waiver price. All other clubs in the American League had a chance to hook him before the Yanks, but none nibbled.

Scarborough's record with Boston made one wonder if he wouldn't be better off selling pickles all year round. He started eight games and gained one victory in six decisions.

Relieved Reynolds

The latest Yankee entered the game in the third inning in relief of Allie Reynolds, who was tagged for five unearned runs in the second inning. Scarborough limited the Browns to three hits in four innings and was awarded the victory when the Yanks came up with four runs in the sixth to take a 10-6 lead.

Yogi Berra slammed a pair of homers to boost his output to 27 and tie Cleveland's Larry Doby for the league lead.

The A's spotted the Indians a 4-0 lead in the first inning and then roared back with one in the fourth on Gus Zernial's 25th homer and five more in the fifth to beat Mike Garcia.

Broken Drain Causes Incidents At Race Track

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — A broken drain under the surface of the Yonkers raceway trotting track touched off a series of incidents last night that finally cost the management $58,236 in refunds to customers. Some 34 spectators got out on the track and held up the program 38 minutes.

A hole developed in the track over the drain at the finish line just before the first race, but workmen patched it up and a soft spot was marked by a stake. Drivers were warned to avoid the spot.

However, four drivers apparently crowded, and Rhythm Withem fell about 40 yards from the start, causing the favored Prince Donna, to break stride. All but Rhythm Withem finished and winner May Cardinal paid $7.00.

Although the track announced a refund would be made on the horse which fell, several spectators jumped over the rail and refused to clear the track.

The State Harness Racing Commission ordered a refund on Prince Donna, but the track said it would go further, and give refunds to holders of all losing tickets on the race.

Track police later arrested one man, the first to go onto the track.

Dorothy Kirby Ousted By Edean Anderson

PORTLAND, Ore. — (AP) — Youth takes over for the departed champion today as eight players hook up in the quarter-finals of the women's national amateur golf championship.

Dorothy Kirby, the 1951 winner, left the ranks, beaten 4 and 3 by long-hitting Edean Anderson, the current Canadian champion from Helena, Mont.

Dorothy's departure left the championship wide open, and the field dominated by young golfers.

The age ladder listed 17-year-old Barbara Snook of Portland; three 19-year-olds, Pat Garner of Midland, Tex., Barbara Romack, Sacramento, and Pat Lesser of Seattle; Shirley McFedters, Long Beach, Calif., 21; Miss Anderson, 22; and two more mature players, Claire Doran, Cleveland, and Mrs. Jacquline Pung, golfing mother from Hawaii.

Pretty Miss Garner knocked off two of the best golfers in the country—Marjorie Lindsay 4 and 2, in the second round, and Mary Lena Faulk, of Thomasville, Ga., in the afternoon, on the 19th hole.

Miss Faulk had ousted the last Canadian Mrs. J. H. Todd of Victoria, 4 and 3 in morning play.

Timbermen Down Fergus Thistles

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Peterborough Timbermen wound up their Ontario Lacrosse Association senior schedule last night, defeating the last-place Fergus Thistles 24-5. The victory gave the Timbermen a first-place margin of six points over Mimico.

The Petes, last year's senior and national champions, now advance into the Eastern Canadian playoffs. The top six teams of the league are in the playoffs—Peterborough, Mimico, Hamilton, Toronto, Owen Sound and St. Catharines.

Peterborough will meet St. Catharines in one of the three best-of-five quarter-final rounds. The eastern Canadian titlist will advance against the Western champs for the Mann Cup.

Win Soccer Game

EDMONTON (CP)—New Westminster Royals, opening up for five goals in the second half, last night defeated Edmonton Legion 6-2 in the first game of a best-of-three Dominion soccer semi-final series.

Turner Paces Ottawa Rough Riders To Initial Victory Over Alouettes

MONTREAL (CP)—The defending champion Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four Football League got off on the right foot in the league's opening match with Montreal last night, dropping the Alouettes 32-28.

Ottawa led 6-5 at the end of the first quarter and showed a 26-11 advantage at half time. The Als put on the pressure in the second half and the score at the end of the third quarter was Ottawa 26, Montreal 22.

In the last quarter, each team scored a converted touchdown to wind up Ottawa 32, Montreal 28.

Turner, O'Quinn Score

Howie Turner set the pace for the victors with a pair of major scores while Red O'Quinn crossed the line twice for the Alouettes.

All in all, the teams were fairly even in the statistic line: Ottawa made 28 first downs and Montreal 25; the Rough Riders completed 24 passes in 43 attempts and Montreal completed 41 of 59 attempted. Ottawa gained 573 yards on the ground, Montreal 328.

Bill Stanton sent the visitors into the lead in the first quarter, taking a 43-yard pass from Tom O'Malley to cross the Montreal line standing up. Buck Rogers converted.

Montreal then marched up the field and Ed Salem carried the ball over. The convert didn't click.

In the second quarter, Tommy Manastersky was caught and a safety touch resulted. Then came the first of Turner's two majors. O'Malley next hurled a pass to Turner who went 65 yards for a touch. Both were converted by Rogers.

RIDERS SCORE AGAIN

O'Malley then set Bob Rumball up for another major, Rogers again converting.

Montreal came back with Sam Etcheverry sending O'Quinn over, Salem adding the extra point. Etcheverry then crossed the line himself on a quarterback sneak, Salem converting, and Virgil Wagner scored a major before the quarter ended.

Al Baldwin put the Rough Riders further ahead with another major, converted by Rogers, a score wiped out when O'Quinn got a converted major.

United States Trims Canada For International Golf Title

MONTREAL (CP)—Bobby Locke won what was heralded as the world's golf championship and the United States ran up a point total of 20½ to Canada's 6½ yesterday in the first international meeting between professional golfers of the neighboring countries.

Locke, the South African who holds the British Open title, won what ordinarily would have been a 3-and-2 victory over Julius Boros, United States Open champion.

Playing for the Canadian six-man team, Locke had a two-hole margin for the full distance of 36 holes. For scoring purposes and bonus money prizes for low-medal scores, all holes were played out.

3 Up in Morning

Locke finished his morning 18-hole round with a three-hole lead. Boros had a one-hole margin in the afternoon. Through the 34th, Locke was still three up but lost the 35th, the odd hole in five won by either player in afternoon play.

Six singles matches wound up the two-day competition. The United States scored heavily in Tuesday's four-ball matches, 7½ points to 1½ for Canada.

Locke came out of his tussle with Boros with two points for Canada, but Stan Leonard of Vancouver bettered this with the drubbing he gave Doug Ford.

Leonard, with only average luck in putting but hitting some of the best shots he ever pulled off in major competition, romped off to a seven-hole lead in the morning round and grabbed off two more holes in the afternoon.

He was the only player on the Canada team to collect a maximum of three points, one for each 18-hole round and one for the 36-hole match.

Jack Burke, Jr., American team captain, shot the low medal score of 132 yesterday in the singles. It was 12 under par for 36 holes over the Beaconsfield course. He also won $300—in addition to the $750 each player received—as low-medal man for the 72 holes. He had 272 for his play in the four-ball matches and singles. Locke was closest with 274, two strokes off Burke's 16-under-par.

In the singles yesterday, Burke ran wild over Jules Huot of Montreal, cutting loose with 12 birdies, an eagle and 21 pars. He had Huot five down after the morning round and added eight more holes to his collection in the afternoon.

Three other Americans scored three points in the singles but their job wasn't as easy as that of Burke's.

Brydson Fights Hard

Gordie Brydson of Toronto fought out each round bitterly with Ted Kroll, losing out by a hole in the morning and by the same margin in the afternoon, shooting a medal 145 to Kroll's 142.

Pat Fletcher of Saskatoon, Canadian Professional Golfers' Association champion this year, hung grimly to Cary Middlecoff after a morning-round deficit of two holes. He caught up with Middlecoff once but lost out by another two-hole margin in afternoon play.

Dave Douglas took three holes from Stan Horne of Montreal on each round and was never behind in the match.

16 Year-Old Fergus Stenographer Wins Women's Swim Championship

By RON EVANS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Shirley Campbell, 16-year-old stenographer from Fergus, gambled for high stakes and won yesterday in the women's world professional championship swim at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The $1,500 first prize waiting at the end of the three-mile swim was more than enough to pay off the mortgage on her widowed mother's home but, as she told reporters: "I was afraid that if I lost I would lose everything." Besides first-place money she won an extra $150 in lap prizes.

It was the first professional appearance for the pretty Ontarian who in four years of competitive swimming captured many of Canada's top amateur honors. Saturday at the exhibition she won the Canadian women's amateur title in a one-mile race.

U. S. Girl Second

More than 150 yards behind the tiny champion—she stands just two inches more than five feet—as she scrambled aboard the finish barge was 20-year-old Kathleen Clark of Akron, O. The United States long distance champion took $750 as second prize while Lies Putt, 26, of Montreal, finished third to collect $500.

The 7,000 spectators who lined the lakefront course were disappointed by the performance of Winnie Roach Leuszler. The 26-year-old St. Thomas, Ont., housewife, mother of three children, plodded over the course to finish eighth among the 15 starters. The 46-to-the-minute stroke which carried her across the English Channel last summer left her almost a half-mile behind the young stenographer who set a blistering 66-68 pace.

Winnie, too, was counting on that prize money. She planned to put a down payment on a home in St. Thomas where her husband is stationed with the R.C.A.F.

Shirley climbed from the water smeared with oil one hour, 1 minutes and 41 seconds after the starting gun. Her time was 17 seconds short of the record by Lenore Kight Wingard of Homestead, Pa., in 1937.

Ernest Vierkoetter, veteran marathon swimmer and Toronto swimming instructor, said Shirley owed her win to her superb flutter-kick. Shirley practised her kick more than a mile daily during training this summer under the Fergus Club coach, Bert Crockett, who has guided her swimming career since she was four years old.

Coach Feared Water

Crockett expressed fear before the race that Shirley would be troubled by the water temperature.

"I don't know how she'll go in three miles of lake water," he said. "She's used to a swimming pool at 75 degrees."

Following her victory yesterday in the 65-degree water he had no doubts of her ability. "There's only one Canadian girl who can beat her and that's Gladys Priestley," he said.

Miss Priestley, 14-year-old swimmer from Montreal, represented Canada in the 1952 Olympics at Helsinki.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—An official scorer broke into the news the other day when he changed a decision in the seventh inning and made it possible for Virgil Trucks of Detroit Tigers to go on and pitch a no-hit, no-run game against New York Yankees.

We heard some criticism of this next morning. Fellow seemed to feel that Trucks' no-hitter was tainted. Since when, he wanted to know, was it possible for a pitcher to give up a hit in the third inning and then, four frames later, have it changed into an error by his shortstop?

The answer was, and is, that it happens a good deal more often than you think, and that no blemish attaches to the starry Tigers' feat.

Many a time during the season an official scorer does some careful checking on a particular play, becomes convinced he was in error in his original decision, and changes it before he sends the master box score into league headquarters.

After the game, if there is a doubt in his mind, he goes to the dressing room and talks to the man who was involved in the play. Perhaps he asks the opinions of other players. Maybe he even asks the umpires whether they thought it was a hit or an error.

If the scorer changes his decision, the corrected version might not appear in the papers next day, but it will in the official averages. In the Trucks case, the scorer thought it only fair to make a quick check before the game ended.

The official scorer always is a working baseball writer who follows some club throughout the season.

Next to an umpire who calls him out on a close play at first, the ball player's greatest natural enemy is a scorer who robs him of a base hit. If he reaches base he is convinced it was a hit, even if an infielder first juggled the ball and then threw it into the dirt.

Scoring, therefore, has its disadvantages. The players invariably know who is in the chair, and they do not hesitate to tell him what they think of some of his decisions.

Little Giants Bow to Ottawa By 7-1 Score

Marcelle LaChapelle, an oversize peewee hurler practically defeated the Belleville Little Giants at th Cricket Field in Kingston yesterday by the power of his strong right arm, and won the game for the Ottawa St. Anthony's by a 7-1 score in the third game of the series for the OBA Eastern Ontario peewee championship.

However, Manager Ted Schwab states that the OBA has tossed out the second game played in Ottawa last Sunday, and has ordered a replay in Ottawa next Sunday. This decision was met with some argument by the Little Giants officials and at time of writing the matter was not decided.

LaChapelle restricted the Giants batters to two hits, one a bunt and the other an infield "blooper." He was practically invincible otherwise, striking out 10 and walking four.

Three consecutive home runs in the fourth off young Johnny Elliott spelled doom for the Giants. Up to that time the young Belleville hurler had matched shots with his Ottawa opponent in a thrilling duel.

The lone Belleville run was the result of a perfect squeeze play. Coe drew a walk, stole second and third and raced home on Dick Hurst's perfect bunt.

Ottawa scored six runs in the fourth, three homers, and the other three off two hits and two Giant errors.

Elliott went all the way for the losers giving up 13 hits walking one and whiffing eight.

Raymond, Chiarelli with three hits paced the winners with LaChapelle contributing a pair.

Teams.

Belleville Giants: Downes, Coe, Hurst, Elliott, Rushlow, Walters, Dickey, Chick O'Neill, Sopha, Schwab Kelleher.

Ottawa St. Anthony's: Raymond, Post, Chiarelli, Budzi, LaChapelle, Moore, Donegan, Clarke, Aldridge, Riopelle.

Montreal, New York Youngsters Win Canadian Junior Tennis Top Titles

OTTAWA (CP)—Mariette Laframboise of Montreal and Stephen Gottlieb of New York City yesterday captured the top titles of the Canadian junior tennis championships.

Miss Laframboise, 16-year-old daughter of a Montreal policeman won a 6-2, 6-4 victory over Carol Turcotte of Ottawa to take the women's singles.

The husky blonde captured the title for the second year in a row with a barrage of drop shots and terrific placements. She teamed up with Vonnie Davis of Toronto to take the women's doubles championship.

Gottlieb, 16, ousted defending champion Dudley Johnston, 18, of Jacksonville, Fla., 6-0, 7-5, 6-2. Lighter by 20 pounds than Johnston, the New Yorker had it all over the top-seeded American with well-planned volleys and a good net game.

'Peg Player Loses

Earlier in the day Carl Nargauer, 15-year-old Yonkers, N.Y., player, swept the boys' singles title from Jim Ionidis of Winnipeg 6-1, 7-5. Ionidis was no match for Nargauer's serves and overheads.

Raul Karman of Havana, Cuba, and Gerald Duble of Hamtramck, Mich., combined to take the boys' doubles championship in the final match against Ionidis and Frank Kanowsky of Winnipeg, 6-1, 6-4. Earlier in the week Duble captured the juvenile boys' singles title.

Joyce Pniewski and Phyllis Saganski, both Hamtramck players, won the girls' doubles title, ousting a Toronto team of Joan O'Brien and Carol Barton 6-2, 6-2.

This rounded out an impressive showing for the Hamtramck players, entered in the tournament for their first year. Earlier this week Miss Pniewski won the girls' singles and Miss Saganski the juvenile girls' singles.

Miss Laframboise and Miss Davis ousted a Halifax team of Judy Bryson and Ann Stacey, 7-5, 11-9, in a hard-fought final for the junior women's doubles title.

Sport in Brief

NEW YORK (AP)—A record field of 128 players, including 35 foreign stars, was drawn yesterday to fight it out for the men's singles title in the United States tennis championships starting tomorrow at Forest Hills and continuing through Sept. 7.

For the first time in the long history of the event, there will be no byes for the seeded heroes in the opening stages of play. Even Frank Sedgman of Australia, the defending champion, and Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, the No. 1 ranking American whom he defeated in last year's final, will be required to stretch their legs in the first round.

Sedgman, as befitted his unmatched status in the amateur tennis world, was seeded No. 1 among the foreign contingent, followed by Ken McGregor, Australia; Mervyn Rose, Australia; Philippe Washer, Belgium; Kurt Nielsen, Denmark; Felicissimo Ampon, Philippines; Ken Rosewall, Australia; Lewis Hoad, Australia; Gustavo Palafox, Mexico, and Jacques Brichant, Belgium.

Brendan Macken of Montreal will be the only Canadian.

DURHAM (CP)—Durham Huskieslast night defeated Mount Forest 8-2, winning the series 4-1 and the Western Ontario Athletic Association intermediate A baseball championship. Durham now enters the Ontario baseball playoffs, probably meeting Mitchell or Clinton.

TORONTO (CP)—Wrist watches will be presented by the city to Toronto canoeists Don Hawgood and Ken Lane who placed second in the 10,000-metre tandem event at the Helsinki Olympic Games. Board of Control agreed upon the presentations yesterday.

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Football Union will send an all-star soccer team to Montreal Sept. 18 for a benefit game against a representative Quebec football union eleven, it was announced yesterday. The game, sponsored by the Kiwanis International, replaces the annual rugby football game previously staged between two well-known Canadian football squads.

Buffalo Edges Montreal 3-2; Leafs Dunk Chiefs

(By The Associated Press)

Who said pitchers can't hit? Ken Johnson of Buffalo Bisons disproved that old saw last night.

Not only did the 29-year-old hurl brilliantly in defeating the front-running Montreal Royals 3-2, but he drove in the deciding marker with a double in the seventh inning.

Johnson struck out 13 Royals and scattered nine hits. He fanned everyone in the line-up at least once with the exception of his opposing moundsman, Ed Roebuck.

The Montreal righthander clipped Johnson for a triple, double and single. It was Johnson's third win without a defeat.

Rookie Bill Tuttle led the Bison attack on Roebuck by smashing a double and an infield out netted the first two runs for Buffalo in the second. Royals ruined the Bison left-hander's bid for a shutout in the eighth by pushing across a pair of runs.

Leafs Wallop Chiefs

Johnny Heiki fired a three-hitter and struck out nine as he blanked Syracuse Chiefs for an 11-0 Toronto Maple Leafs victory. Ed Stevens cracked a home run as he led the Leaf offence with three hits. Lynn Lovenguth, the starter, gave up six of the 11 passes issued by four Syracuse pitchers.

Mario Fricano, ace of the seventh-place Ottawa Athletics, turned in a five-hitter in stopping Rochester Red Wings 4-2. The right-hander registered his 14th triumph. Jack Littrell and Neal Watlington pounded homers for the A's and Steve Bilko connected for the Wings.

Pantless Golfer Makes Shot

VANCOUVER (CP)—Joe Leblanc of Montreal sliced off the 15th tee in the Canadian amateur golf tournament yesterday, the ball landing in a shallow creek.

Leblanc removed his pants, waded in and blasted out. His opponent won the match 2 and 1.

There were no spectators.

Indian Archer Breaks Records

TORONTO (CP)—Reg Hill, Indian school teacher from the Six Nations reserve at Ohsweken was busy smashing archery records again yesterday at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The Indian marksman scored 1,660 for 240 hits to break the mark of 710 points for 80 hits set by Bruce McDonald of Toronto in 1948. Second place in the Canadian men's double round went to Milt Obediah of Brantford with 1,539 points while Frank Bonnett of Winnipeg was third with 1,267.

B SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The fact that you learn rules does not prevent you from taking a chance. Rules simply tell you what is most correct. Your ability and conscience can take it from there.

SOUTH

♠K 10 7
♥A K Q
♦A K
♣K J 10 7 5

NORTH

♠A J 9 8
♥9 8 5 3
♦J 7
♣Q 9 2

The bidding could go like this:

South	North
1 C	1 S
3 C	4 C
4 NT	4 C
6 C

The first reply from north admits three tricks. But it was not a raise in number. So, although he has admitted a holding of at least three tricks, he has not yet consumed the third.

Only a raise in number consumes the third trick. This north does when he raises to four clubs over three clubs on the second round. And from this must south count the number of tricks in the pair.

South has eight tricks. Even though north may have more, no more than three were promised there. So, if north wants to go to a slam, he is taking a chance on finding his pair one trick short.

In answer to four no-trump, five diamonds is the signal for the showing of one ace and no kings. From which south learns that an ace and no kings are in the opponent hands.

So much top control gives a player early chances for manoeuvres if he is skillful in play. So, despite a count of only 11 tricks, an experienced player would probably go to six clubs.

Although the opening of one club is more correct, an opening of two no-trump could not be criticized. But what I most want to know is: Do you know the rules that determine how to play this?

RAWDON

Bethel Community Presents Young Couple With Numerous Gifts

Rawdon—Last Friday evening a large number of folk from the Bethel community and relatives from Belleville, Marsh Hill, Mount Pleasant and other points gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John A. McMullen, fifth concession, Rawdon, to extend best wishes and congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Bazil Campny, (nee Gertie McMullen) on their recent marriage.

Program

Mr. Stewart Brady who was chairman for a short program spoke briefly, voicing appreciation of Gertie who had grown up in the Bethel community and attended public school, later going to Belleville to take up a position.

Mrs. Will Heath played for a singsong of old favorites also rendering a pianoforte solo.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen contributed two readings, "Josh Winks Lecture," and "Two Important Words." Mrs. Walter Warren sang "When I Grow Too Old to Dream"; Mrs. Frank McGee read a poem entitled "Dreams"; Mr. John Mulheron sang a couple of Harry Lauder's Scotch songs; Mrs. Leslie Thompson read a humorous poem "The Kick Under the Table"; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Broadworth with guitar accompaniment sang "I'll Walk in the Light of God", and "A Negro Spiritual."

Mr. B. C. Tucker brought greetings from the Bethel community to the newlyweds.

Address

Mr. John Mulheron read an address of appreciation which was signed by Loretta Preston, Myrtle Brady, Marguerite Sine, and Annie Warren.

A large array of china, plastic, glass, linen, kitchen utensils and other miscellaneous gifts were opened by Mrs. Charles Ross and Mrs. Sid Demorest. The bride read the names from the gift cards and Gertie and Bazil each expressed grateful thanks for gifts and program. They invited one and all to visit them when they are settled in Belleville.

Mrs. Earl McMullen convened the kitchen and she with several assistants served refreshments.

The wedding gifts also gifts received at a pre-nuptial shower in Belleville were on display.

The guests extended best wishes for happiness to the newlyweds as they departed homewards.

AT THE BELLE

The strangest role ever played by a woman was assigned to Fay Wray in RKO's imperishable King Kong which is currently playing on the Belle Theatre screen after sensation runs in New York at the Palace theatre and other situations.

Miss Wray is captured in the jungle by a giant ape 50 feet tall, and while it holds her between its fingers as a boy would clasp a captured beetle, the gigantic thing becomes spellbound by her loveliness. Her struggles to escape from the monster, who is willing to destroy the world for her protection, form the production's incredibly adventurous background.

On the same program another vivid mystery drama is presented in The Leopard Man starring Dennis O'Keefe and Margo. Both attractions play for the last time today at the Belle Theatre.

FLIER SUFFOCATED

BERLIN (Reuters)—An R.A.F. flier killed in a crash last week died—not from injuries—but from being buried alive in a pile of earth thrown up by the impact. A coroner's court reported yesterday that Flt. Lt. Frederick Pickard, 33, was found with only his feet protruding from a heap of loose dirt.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Perhaps you think of John Payne as the bare-chested gent who slices up pirates while grasping the heroine with a protective arm. Well, the same guy is perhaps Hollywood's most accomplished salesman.

He spent three months on the road last year, visiting 62 different cities. In three years he has touched 225 United States cities, selling films such as "Caribbean" all the while.

He performs these chores as principal star of William Pine and William Thomas, the 'Dollar Bills,' producers who are both former press agents. They and their stars hit the hinterlands with hoopla to hoist the profits of their epics.

Paying Apprenticeship

"It has been great experience for me," Payne admitted. "I've learned how a picture is exploited, and I'm going to make it pay off. I'm making two pictures as partner with Edward Small. I'll be out there on the road selling 'em, believe me.

I've learned that two-thirds of this business is not in Hollywood . . . Hollywood has neglected the selling end too long."

Aside for a distaste for down-beat stories, the public has no particular concern about cycles, Payne said.

"I read that musicals are on the way out right now," he observed. "That's nonsense. A good musical will always sell tickets, and so will a good western or a good adventure. But they have to be good. That's the difference between the business done by a five-day western and something like 'Stagecoach' or 'High Noon.'"

MR. AND MRS. — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoo ver

EACH YEAR OUR GARDEN SEEMS TO LAG BEHIND EVERYBODY ELSE'S
WELL, I DON'T KNOW WHY IT IS
BUT I KNOW YOU NEVER GET ANY TOP SOIL
OH, GOSH! NOTHING'S THE MATTER WITH OUR SOIL
THAT'S WHAT YOU SAY EVERY YEAR— AND THEN NOTHING BLOOMS
WELL, GOSHAMIGHTY —DON'T YOU LIKE THE SIGHT OF JUST NICE GREEN LEAVES?
IT STARTED WITH PREHISTORIC MAN—
LOOK! OUR GARGANTUAS ARE UP ONLY TEN FEET! THEY'RE ACTUALLY STUNTED!
ARE YOU SUGGESTING IT'S MY FAULT?

HERE WE ARE ON THE 5th TEE, AND I'M NINE STROKES UP ON YOU. I GUESS YOU CAN KISS YOUR VACATION GOOD-BYE. HEH, HEH!
WELL, SEE!
OOOH! MY DRIVE ROLLED INTO THAT STEEP SAND TRAP!
TOUGH LUCK!
*!!&##— RIGHT DOWN THE MIDDLE!
SIX!
IT'S NOT POLITE TO COUNT YOUR OPPONENT'S STROKES OUT LOUD!

TIPPIE AND "CAP" STUBBS — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoover

WELL, MEBBE I CAN GET THESE THINGS BETTER FOR MILLIE IF I GO SHOPPIN' BY MYSELF!
LE'S SEE— I'LL MATCH TH' MATERIAL FOR HER DRESS FIRST—AN' THEN LOOK FOR TH' CURTAINS, AN'—
NO, THAT'S NOT QUITE TH' RIGHT SHADE— HAVEN'T YOU ANY-THING ELSE??
DID YOU BRING HOME ANY CANDY—??
CANDY!? I HAVEN'T EVEN BEEN ABLE TO MATCH MILLIE'S MATERIAL YET!!

PENNY — By Harry Haenigsen

WE WERE HAVING FUN, FATHER, UNTIL MR. JETSAM RAN US OFF HIS PROPERTY.
THE LANGUAGE HE USED, WAS SIMPLY SCANDALOUS.
IT'S ONE THING TO PUT YOU OFF HIS PLACE...
BUT IT'S QUITE ANOTHER TO USE FOUL LANGUAGE. I'LL GIVE HIM A PIECE OF MY MIND, BELIEVE YOU ME!
YOU REALLY SHOULD.
HEAVENS, YOU'D THINK HE'D NEVER BEEN HIT BY A MOTOR BIKE BEFORE.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR FRIDAY, AUGUST 29, 1952.

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Nothing lost by being friendly, amenable, in fact, much to be gained, including winning others' confidence in you. A good day.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Sort of day in which you steady-going, reasonable and very capable Taureans can make real progress and at same time solidify present position, holdings. But don't flounder.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Before embarking on new ideas, propositions, try to finish matters started and those needing immediate attention. Prepare for a clean slate next week.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—We normally like better that for which we have to fight and win than gain without much effort. You may have to hustle some today, but it will be worth the while.

July 24 to Aug. 22 (Leo) — Please heed Gemini advice now. Tone down over - enthusiasm, keep demands within reason but push forward rightly with hope and faith. Enjoy weekend sensibly.

Aug. 23 to Sept. 23 (Virgo)—Favorable influences prevail, particularly for worthy interests, sound business management. Heed your conscience, also health essentials; take time for needed rest.

Sept. 24 to Oct. 23 (Libra)—Be your well-balanced, reasonable self and have less difficulty getting through day's program—If you need warnings, and cheerfully accept responsibilities.

Oct. 24 to Nov. 22 (Scorpio) — A little unction, added healthy ambition, plus fairness, and you should net a pleasant, productive day. If your occupation or other demands are exacting, keep cool, you can achieve.

Nov. 23 to Dec. 22 (Sagittarius)—Team up your mental astuteness with your capable physical prowess and you have a combination that can handle a swell job, add to your laurels. Fresh opportunity now.

Dec. 23 to Jan. 21 (Capricorn)—New and unusual propositions, some of value; new materials and methods equally favored with everyday routine and familiar activities.

Jan. 22 to Feb. 20 (Aquarius)—Heed Scorpio now and you can benefit. Must speed up notably in occupational duties but don't go in for unnecessary changes. Quickly clear up unfinished tasks.

Feb. 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Avoid extremes and profit more in achievement. A keen but even disposition can make this a beneficial day. New and familiar matters both favored.

YOU BORN TODAY: Excellent reasoning faculties; you are innately purposeful, constructive, intelligent. Usually take middle of the road in decisions. High imagination, intellectual powers; Virgoans make able journalists, critics, analysts, politicians, actors. Birthdate: John Locke, famous philosopher.

Why We Say--

. . . He's inferior?

Originally a bachelor was a soldier who couldn't afford to lead a group into battle . . . The word meant a person of inferior rank. For this latter reason, the name was applied to unmarried people because it was thought that they were inferior socially.

Project Pygmalion

By Grey MacMillan

Copyright 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

Karl and Betty drifted in. I told them what had happened, and they were both sympathetic.

"David blames Hill's attitude on me, somehow."

"Here," said Betty. "Have some cocoa and cheer up. You know, Mark Twain says if you pick up a starving dog and make him prosperous, he will not bite you, and that is the principal difference between a dog and a man."

Two weeks went by, and I went into a slump again alternating between frenzied activity and fatigue. I kept on teaching students to paint.

There was one wistful little thing in my class, named Jill Ormond, who seemed shattered by my presence whenever I bent near to look at her work. I would see her tense brown hands begin to shake, and I'd be careful to criticize gently lest I unnerve her completely.

My off hours passed drably: eating dinner with a book propped in front of me, practising golf shots on a driving range, doing the laundry and the weekly house cleaning. It was brutally hot. I stopped painting in the evenings. Kathy was in every fold of the drapes, in every shadow on the wall.

One stifling August afternoon I was up in Gallery 2, which had been newly redecorated with gray burlap walls, giving a gallerytalk on Gauguin to a group of perspiring people. Suddenly on the fringes of the group I noticed David, his hair matted with sweat and his orange shirt clinging to him. I paused in mid-sentence. Several people turned to follow the direction of my eyes, and David reddened.

I finished my talk hastily, and worked my way over to where he stood. "Look, David," I said. "Please get it straight. I need somebody to help me, just as bad as you need somebody to help you."

I held out my hand, and he shook it. We were on a firm footing at last. "It's my day off," said David. "Wanna eat dinner?"

We stopped at a grocery store, where David bought an outrageously expensive piece of steak and an ice cream roll. We let ourselves into the apartment with gasps of exhaustion and put the cream into the freezing compartment.

After my shower, I turned on the bedroom fan. While I dressed David lounged in the doorway discussing Dickens' "Great Expectations." He'd just seen the movie.

Suddenly he paused. "Do you use deodorant?" he asked, as though he had caught me eating live goldfish.

"Sure," I said. "Men need it more than women, you know. They sweat more." I was glad I'd had a chance to tell him.

When I went back to see how he wanted his drink, he was standing in front of the fan, half-dressed and he turned to me uncertainly. "My clothes are so sweaty—" he began.

"Well, here, put on some of mine," I said pulling open drawers and rummaging around. "Matter of fact, I have two shirts here that I haven't been able to wear since I got out of the service."

They fitted him fairly well, so I gave them to him.

As I was setting out a wooden bowl of potato chips, he came sauntering into the living room. He was starched and gleaming and indolent, and looked like a college boy on the way to his first class of the morning.

We sat down and David said, "You know, you said back there in the Museum that you needed helping. You've got everything so good—how can you possibly have any troubles? Bet you've got a lot of dames, too."

I made myself lean back and speak quietly. "But I don't want all of them. Variety doesn't appeal to me."

"So it's a dame! It's always a dame!"

Abruptly I began to tell David the story of Kathy.

Sometimes I got embarrassingly poetic, particularly when I was describing her night black hair, her translucent skin, the aloof way she carried her head on her proud slender neck. And the pictures she painted, that were always so much better than mine. And the implacable hatred her parents held for me, for daring to be in love with their only child; the agony of our many quarrels, the love-making when we made up. The kisses and hopes and plans for the future that never came.

And then the final break-up, when she told me about the art scholarship in New York; with her parents standing in the doorway, her mother triumphantly venomous, her father mutely apathetic. And the peculiar thing her father had said to me, fixing me with his faded blue eyes: "I don't think you'd be happy with her son. Better put her out of your mind."

She sent me, parcel post, a box containing all the letters I'd ever written her. I let it stay under the bed for two months before I even opened it. And when I did and lifted out the thick packets of letters, I felt as if I were dissecting the corpse of my love affair.

I took them into the living room and started a fire, in spite of the June day, and burned them. At first I re-read each one then I began burning them in chunks.

And it was the next day that I first saw David at the Museum.

Felt Tired, Rundown Back Ached; Stomach Rebelled

Is Delighted With Improvement in Health and Recommends Syntona to All Who Suffer Similarly — Says Stomach Felt Better From Few Dozes. Nerves Calmed Down. Pains Went Away.

"For a long time I was troubled with a dull aching pain in my back and became nervous, tired and rundown, but since I've been taking Syntona I am delighted with the improvement in my health," said Mrs. Gertrude Fritsch, 136 Hunter Street West, Hamilton, Ontario, in a recent report.

"I couldn't seem to get my proper sleep and felt worn out almost from the time I got up in the mornings. Food that I ate often gave me indigestion, gas and heartburn. I was subject to headaches and dizzy feelings and many days my limbs, joints and muscles were very sore and painful.

"I heard of so many people who had used Syntona with good results that I finally decided to try some and almost from the first few dozes my stomach felt better. My appetite improved and I could eat without gas, indigestion or heartburn afterwards. As I continued taking this medicine my nerves calmed down, gradually the backache and other pains went away and now I sleep better, I feel more rested in the mornings and am free of headaches and dizzy feelings.

"You may use my experience if it will help others who suffer similarly to get relief as I did."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Belleville at Dolan The Druggist. Find out how it can help you, too.

PYONGYANG HIT BY HEAVIEST BLOW OF WAR

British Claim "Best Fighter"

The "only fighter plane in the world capable of destroying an atom bomber" is the British Air Ministry's description of the Javelin a flying triangle equipped with jet engines. Though built and tested months ago, the plane was recently released to public view. Details of its performance are still secret but its makers claim it to be capable of performing at high and low altitudes. — Central Press Canadian.

Report of Russian Spy Ring In Montreal Denied by Head Of RCMP Subversive Branch

OTTAWA (CP)—Superintendent George McClellan of the R. C. M. P. subversive branch today denied a Montreal newspaper report alleging the existence of a Russian spy ring in that city.

In a press conference he disclosed that one of the sources of the story published by the Montreal Gazette was Dr. Jiri Mares, former Czechoslovakian consul-general in Montreal who broke with the Communists and decided to seek refuge in Canada.

Greatly Agitated

Dr. Mares appeared at the press conference in a very agitated state and said the story as far as he was aware was "utterly false."

Dr. Mares said one of the reasons for the story was an apparent distortion of statements made to the Gazette reporter, Karl Gerhard, by Dr. Mares and his wife, Juliette.

Dr. Mares also said another reason lay in the fact his wife was under high mental strain and had made statements to Mr. Gerhard which were in themselves exaggerated.

The story published in The Gazette yesterday alleged that a Russian spy ring had asked immigrants for information about Montreal defence plants.

Dr. Mares explained to newspaper men that last Tuesday he invited Mr. Gerhard to his home to talk about the Gazette attitude toward the resigned Czech consul-general.

Dr. Mares said it seemed to him that while the interview was going on Mr. Gerard "raised questions in a sort of private conversation to which my wife and I listened."

Stories Misinterpreted

"Then my wife told stories of previous experiences and these were completely misinterpreted and distorted by Mr. Gerhard."

Dr. Mares said his wife told the reporter of an alleged kidnapping last spring when she was taken by two men to the Montreal harbor and detained there for political reasons.

However, Dr. Mares said he himself had believed this story had been exaggerated and although he did not pass this information along to the reporter, he believed it was evident to newspaper men that the story was not entirely true.

The Gazette story spoke of a Polish immigrant employed at Canadian Vickers Limited offering one of the newspaper's informants, a girl, data on defence orders for transmission to "headquarters."

Dr. Mares said that during the interview, the reporter was told of how a German acquaintance of the Mares family had stated that the security of the plant was so lax that anyone could sneak secret plans out of it.

Knows of No Ring

But that was all the reporter was told. Dr. Mares said he knew of no Russian spy ring in Montreal. And though, since his resignation, he had received several phone calls from anti-Communists doubting his deflection from the Reds, he had no fear of reprisals from the Communists themselves.

"The Montreal report is completely false." he said.

At another point, Dr. Mares was questioned about a Montreal Gazette story appearing in today's issue saying that despite lack of information from the R. C. M. P., and Ottawa sources, the news of the existence of a Russian spy ring operating in Montreal was given new credence by former office.

Dr. Mares said the report seemed to indicate that again the source was the former Czech consul-general ,this report, he said, appeared to be "extremely exaggerated."

Want to Apologize

He said he wanted to apologize to the Canadian government and to the Canadian people for what had occurred. He hoped it would not compromise his status in this country.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO. (CP)—Synopsis: A narrow line of cloud with few accompanying showers moved into central Michigan and central Ontario with cool air behind it and warm humid air to the south. There is a difference in temperature of about 15 degrees between the very warm air in southern sections and the cool air to the northwest.

Skies will be mainly sunny, except from Georgian Bay to eastern Ontario today and Saturday with a gradual warming of the cooler air.

Jump from Harvards to Jets Too Much For Students Say Training Experts

LONDON (CP)—More than 70 fatal accidents involving jet aircraft this year have convinced training experts that the jump from Harvards travelling 200 miles an hour to jets doing 500-600 m.p.h. is too much for students.

The gap, they say, should be bridged by 300-400 m.p.h. low-powered jet trainers specially designed for basic training.

The toll of jet students has caused concern in official circles lately, although the air ministry claims the accident rate is lower than it was when slower planes were used.

Young men selected as pilots receive their original training in piston-engined Prentices and advanced training in piston-engined Harvards.

All of a sudden, observe training experts, the young men are behind the controls of jet craft with an intensely stepped-up speed. The pilot must be able to make split-second decisions in emergencies.

The experts say a piston-engined craft responds at once to the throttle while the jet lags slightly. This adds to the pilot's responsibility in having to anticipate emergencies. They think the meteor trainer is too big—that a smaller, slower machine should be developed to overcome the high rate of accidents.

17-YEAR-OLD BOY FACING CHARGE OF MURDER

Said to Have Stabbed His Stepmother

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., (CP)—Carl Alexander Bell, 17, was charged with the murder of his stepmother early today after Mrs. Dorothy Bell, 32, died in hospital shortly after midnight.

Police said Mrs. Bell, mother and stepmother of nine children, had been stabbed in the back.

Bell was arrested as he wandered along a street, four blocks from the scene of the stabbing.

Mrs. Bell, second wife of trucker Alan Bell, was found by police face down on a couch in the living room of the Bell home. She had a deep knife wound in her back. Police were sent to the home after an anonymous telephone tip from a neighbor that there had been a stabbing.

Hear Argument

Neighbors told police there had been sounds of an argument within the Bell home just before the boy and Mrs. Bell ran out of the front door.

Police found a knife with a six-inch blade in the living room.

Mr. Bell was not home at the time of the stabbing. He is the father of six children, one of them the youth who is charged with the stabbing, by his first marriage and three by his second marriage.

All the children live at home and several of the younger boys and girls were asleep upstairs when the stabbing took place.

Man Is Killed, Second Injured In Dynamite Blast

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—One man was killed and a second critically injured in a dynamite blast late Thursday in North Korah township, two miles from here, where they were clearing a drainage ditch.

Provincial police who still have the accident under investigation said Albin Kinnonen, 72, owner of the bush lot, was apparently killed outright. George Renfors, 43, a transient worker whom Kinnonen had hired on Thursday, is too badly injured to be questioned.

The two were clearing stumps and clay from a drainage ditch. Kinnonen's wife became worried when they failed to return last night. A brother and friends discovered the accident at midnight. An inquest was ordered.

Gunman Takes $3,430

TORONTO (CP)—A cowboy-garbed gunman last night locked four employees in a soft-drink firm's office vault and made off with $3,430, the day's receipts. He wore a cowboy shirt and blue jeans.

The masked gunman forced two salesmen, a helper and a woman cashier into the vault and locked it.

Employees who saw the gunman released them after the cashier called out the combination.

Investigators Charge Justice Department 'Most Dilatory' In Handling of Prosecutions

WASHINGTON (AP)—Investigators from the House of Representatives today charged that the justice department has been "most dilatory" in some prosecutions and cited a Detroit war fraud case as "a typical example."

Counsel Robert A. Collier laid before a judiciary sub-committee a number of documents dealing with the Norman E. Miller and Associates, Inc. case which came up in 1944 and was closed in 1951 without prosecution or recovery of government funds.

Collier said Miller was indicted July 14, 1944, on six counts alleging fraud in that he had "knowingly and fraudulently charged indirect time as direct time for his employees in performing under certain government contracts."

In addition to the indictment, Collier said a civil suit was filed by the government seeking recovery of $36,000.

"Despite the fact that in is early phases the case was described by the justice attorneys as 'one of the best' that the department had," Collier said, "action was delayed through various devices for over six years at which time both suits were dropped."

Collier told the committee that its staff, after a review of numerous cases in justice department files, decided "it is to the best interests" that it demonstrate publicly how dilatory the department has been.

The committee turned to the war fraud phase of its inquiry after hearing charges that justice department officials interfered with a tax-scandal probe.

High Court of Parliament For S.A. Declared Invalid

CAPETOWN, (Reuters)— South Africa's Courts-vs-Parliament struggle was given a new twist today when the Cape Province supreme court declared invalid an act establishing a high court of Parliament.

The unanimous judgment emphasized the sharp division of opinion between Prime Minister Danziel Malan and the country's courts on who should have the final say on the validity of acts of Parliament.

At Malan's behest, Parliament, dominated by his supporters, set up the high court which claims powers to over-rule the normal courts on matters relating to legislation.

The high court, composed of members of Parliament, held its first session this week and proclaimed the validity of an act which had removed voters of mixed blood from the common electoral role. Opposition members boycotted the session.

The Voters' Act earlier had been declared invalid by the South African Supreme Court. It was this judgment which prompted Malan to set up the high court of parliament.

Seventeen Cars Are Rerailed Near Ottawa

OTTAWA —(CP) —Seventeen cars of an eastbound freight train, loaded mostly with oats and barley, were derailed yesterday on the Canadian National Railways' main line 23 miles east of Pembroke, CNR officials said today.

The derailment damaged the line, and subsequent trains have been re-routed over CNR lines around Pembroke. The line is expected to be repaired and ready for normal operation tonight.

There were no injuries.

Police Stress Safe Driving Over Holiday

TORONTO (CP)—As Labor Day week-end traffic started to move today, motorists were urged to use extra care and courtesy to keep their holiday trips safe.

Said Highways Minister Doucett: "There is a tragic likelihood that not fewer than 25 persons will be killed and some 500 injured in motor accidents this week-end in Ontario."

The Labor Day week-end traffic toll was 27 deaths in 1950, 25 in 1951.

Commissioner W. H. Stringer of the provincial police warned against speeding and said more than 1,000 members of his force will be on duty to control week-end traffic.

Navy Names Rear Admiral In Promotions

OTTAWA (CP)—The navy today added a new rear admiral to its list with announcement of the promotion of Commodore James C. Hibbard, 44, D.S.C. and bar, of Victoria and Ottawa, to be acting in that rank.

The oppointment becomes effective Sept. 1 along with promotion of three other senior naval officers to the rank of acting commodore.

Promoted to acting commodore are:

Capt. H. R. Spencer, 45, of Port Alberni, B.C., and Ottawa, superintendent of the dockyard, Esquimalt, B.C.

Capt. W. H. G. Rogers, O.B.E. 50, of Hamilton and Halifax, electrical engineer-in-chief at naval headquarters, Ottawa.

Capt. Rowland Baker, O.B.E., 50, of Ottawa, naval constructor-in-chief, naval headquarters Ottawa.

Good War Record

Rear Admiral Hibbard is a native of Hemison, Que., who joined the naval volunteer reserve in 1924. During the war he commanded the destroyer Skeena and won the D. S. C. for fighting U-boats on convoy work. In September, 1941, his convoy was under attack for 66 hours and 17 ships were lost.

Later he commanded the destroyer Iroquois and took part in the Murmansk run. In action before and after D-day the Iroquois participated in the sinking of 21 enemy surface craft in the English Channel and Bay of Biscay and her commander was awarded the bar to the D. S. C. He also was decorated by France and Norway.

Tribal Farmer Piles Trouble On United Nations

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—A tribal farmer in Central Africa piled 20 or more cows today onto the United Nations agenda, already burdened by complaints of donkey-cart owners in Somaliland fighting high taxes and licence fees.

In letters signed by thumb-print, the complaints have made their laborious way here from Bigiraneza, a former chief of the Mwami Mwambusta tribe, in Usumbura, Belgian Ruanda-Urundi.

Bigiraneza says he left the cattle in the care of a fellow tribesman named Vyambambi, who later died. Relatives refused to return them.

Citing other misfortunes in a second letter, the farmer wound up:

"If you can do nothing for me, say so and I shall commit suicide rather than die, . . stripped of all my goods and seeing my high-born children reduced to poverty."

RENT CONTROLS IN 708 DISTRICTS MAY BE LIFTED

Give Councils Six Months to Decide

TORONTO (CP)—Rent controls will be removed from 77 per cent of Ontario municipalities March 2, 1953, unless the municipal councils concerned ask that controls be retained.

Travel and Publicity Minister Cecile announced yesterday that the provincial rentals committee had sent a list of 708 municipalities to be decontrolled and 215 on which controls will remain.

The move came as a result of an unanimous decision of the all-party select committee of the legislature. At its last meeting, the committee listed municipalities on which they thought controls should be kept or abandoned. Letters were written to the councils telling them the committee's opinion and giving them an opportunity to comment.

The letters were worded in such a way that if there was no reply, the council knew that the committee's designation would be recommended to the cabinet. Only 49 of the 923 questioned requested a change, 33 asking that controls be left on and 16 volunteering that controls be removed.

The Order-in-Council was passed by the Cabinet yesterday but the municipalities have six months in which to change their minds, at the end of which the order, amended if necessary, will go into effect.

Some Surprises

The biggest surprise in the list was announcement that the Toronto suburbs of Leaside, Port Credit, Pickering township and Forest Hill Village had requested to be decontrolled. The remainder of the Toronto area will remain under controls.

Among centres to be decontrolled are: Chesley, Port Elgin, Southampton, Wiarton, Hepworth, Lion's Head, Lucknow, Mildmay, Paisley, Ripley, Tara, Teeswater, Tiverton, Aylmer, Port Burwell, Vienna, Durham, Meaford, Thornbury, Chatsworth, Dundalk, Flesherton, Markdale, Neustadt, Shallow Lake, Caledonia, Cayuga, Jarvis, Seaforth, Blyth, Brussels, Hensall, Chatham, Erieau, Erie Beach, Highgate, Thamesville, Wheatley, Forest, Alvinston, Arkona, Grand Bend, Oil Springs, Thedford, Watford, Wyoming, Grimsby, Beamsville, Parkhill, Strathroy, Ailsa Craig, Glencoe, Lucan, Wardsville, Delhi, Port Dover, Port Rowan, Waterford, Tillsonburg, Embro, Norwich, Tavistock, Stratford, St. Mary's, Listowel, Mitchell, Milverton, Ayr, Bridgeport, Harriston, Mount Forest, Palmsteron, Drayton, Elora, Erin, Fergus;

Orangeville, Grand Valley, Shelburne, Acton, Bronte, Uxbridge, Beaverton, Cannington, Port Perry, Bolton, Port Credit, Streetsville, Hawkesbury, Rockland, Vankleek Hill, Alliston, Stayner, Beeton, Bradford, Coldwater, Creemore, Elmvale, Port McNicoll, Tottenham, Victoria Harbour, Wasaga Beach, Bala, Bracebridge, Gravenhurst, Huntsville, Port Carling, Port Sydney, Windermere, Kearney, Parry Sound, Powassan, Trout Creek, Burk's Falls, Magnetawan, South River, Sundridge;

Desoronto, Brancroft, Deloro, Frankford, Madoc, Marmora, Stirling, Tweed, Bath, Newburgh, Campbellford, Brighton, Colborne, Hastings, Millbrook, Lakefield, Picton, Bloomfield, Wellington, Bobcaygeon, Fenelon Falls, Omemee, Sturgeon Point, Woodville;

Planes From Four Allied Countries Take Part In Raid

4,000 Gallons Flaming Gas, 597 Tons H.E. Hit Targets

By SAM SUMMERLIN

SEOUL-KOREA (AP)—Planes from four Allied countries today hit Pyongyang, capital and largest city of Communist North Korea, the mightiest blow of the war.

Three waves of land and carrier-based fighter bombers bombed and strafed the big Red nerve centre in a record 1,403 individual flights, the United States Fifth Air Force and Navy said.

Black smoke poured from the factories, supply dumps and troop billets at the outskirts of Pyongyang, forewarned of the raids by radio and leaflets.

A returning United Nations pilot said the city "was blowing up all over."

Planes from three U.S. aircraft carriers off the east coast of Korea flew 210 sorties over the Red capital.

Some 420 planes poured 4,000 gallons of flaming gasoline and 597 tons of high explosives on more than 40 Communist targets during the dawn - to - dusk raids. They sprayed 52,000 rounds of machine-gun bullets on the area, the Air Force said.

Until today, the biggest single air blow of the war had been July 11, when more than 500 fighter bombers and Superfortresses poured 1,400 tons of bombs on Pyongyang during 1,063 sorties.

Today's first wave of jet and prop-driven planes battered Communist anti - aircraft defences, which pilots said threw up a heavy curtain of flak. Other waves concentrated on stockpiles, barracks, industries and airfields used to bolster the Communist war effort.

South African, South Korean and Australian planes joined U. S. Air force, Marine and Navy pilots in this fifth attack on the Red capital since Aug. 1.

In the morning smash alone, 420 fighter bombers strafed and hurled 100 tons of bombs at two airfields, a power plant, factories, anti-Aircraft batteries, and some 40 other vital military targets at the outskirts of the city that had a population of 342,000 in 1942.

Four large explosions ripped the area after the bombs hit.

In the afternoon, 345 planes went back to hit the reds again.

The Air Force said pilots destroyed 24 troop and supply buildings, damaged 30 buildings and destroyed or damaged 14 gun emplacements.

U.S. Jets moved in first to knock out the anti-aircraft batteries surrounding the targets. Then the fast jets unleased their 1,000 pounders on the choice targets.

South Korean and South African pilots flying propellor-driven Mustangs joined the big air assault. Navy and Marine flyers flew Panther jets and prop-driven Corsair and Skyraider bombers.

Allied air losses, if any, were not announced.

Fast Australian Meteor jets and U. S. Sabre jets, flying protective cover, tangled with 16 Russian-built MIG 15s in three brief dogfights, but inflicted no damage.

More than 500 bombers hurled 1,400 tons of bombs on the Red Capital July 11, in the greatest single air blow of the war.

Soldier Taken from Ship Speeding Him to Nebraska Home and Tragedy

NEW YORK (CP)—A Coast Guard mercy plane today plucked a soldier from a troop transport in the Atlantic to help speed him to his tragedy-filled Nebraska home.

The two-engined seaplane—the second to attempt the mission—flew to the side of the Navy transport Gen. Alexander Patch, about 500 miles northeast of New York, and about an hour later began its return flight to the coast guard air station at Salem, Mass.

Heavy Atlantic waves yesterday crippled an Air Force plane sent to pick up Sgt. Charles R. Buggy and fly him to his Winnebago, Neb., home.

One of his two children is dead of polio, his other child lay ill of the same disease, and his wife—suffering from a serious spinal ailment—faced critical surgery.

The first mercy plane landed near the transport but collided with a lifeboat lowered from the ship to secure a line between the two craft. The plane's propeller was damaged.

Two of the transport's crew were reported injured after plunging overboard in an apparent effort to aid fellow seamen in the lifeboat.

Buggy has been stationed in Germany. His four - year - old son Charles Jr. died two days ago at Sioux City.

Pravda Issues Bristling Attack On Eisenhower

MOSCOW (AP)—Pravda gave its top editorial position today to a blistering attack on Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's speech this week before the American Legion convention in New York.

The organ of the Soviet Communist party termed the Republican party nominee the "most energetic propagandist of the hate, contempt and enmity of the American aggressors and warmongers."

Democratic party nominee Adlai Stevenson has been attacked similarly in the past.

Pravda said Eisenhower announced his intention of "including in the American empire" Soviet Latvia, Lithuania, and Estonia, as well as Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Rumania, Hungary-Albania, Eastern Germany, Eastern Austria, China, the Mongolian Peoples' Republic and the Korean Peoples' Republic.

"Fascists of Hitlerite persuasion ought to open their mouths in amazemen," Pravda asserted. "their appetites were enormous enough but even they did not decide to include among their 'flesh and blood' the Mongolian, Chinese and Korean peoples."

(Eisenhower in his speech on Monday said the United States should tell the Kremlin: "never shall we rest content until the tidal wave of aggressive Communism has receded within its own borders)"

Infant Egyptian King Will Be Educated in Egypt

CAIRO (Reuters)—Prime Minister Aly Maher announced today that the infant King Ahmed Fuad II will be educated in Egypt so that he will grow up among his people.

"The return of King Fuad is of vital importance," the announcemen said. "He must learn to understand and love the people he will one day rule."

The seven-month-old king now is at Capri, Italy, with his father, former King Farouk, forced into exile by Gen. Mohammed Naguib in a coup that established Maher as premier.

Under Islamic law, Fuad will remain with his mother until he reaches the age of seven.

STUDENT INCREASE AT SCHOOL FOR THE DEAF

An increase of 10 students is expected in the enrolment at the Ontario School for the Deaf when classes resume for the fall term on Thursday, September 11, it was learned today. Last year's student population at the school totalled 360, a slight increase over the previous year. Students will register on the Wednesday preceding the formal commencement of classes.

25 HARVEST HANDS LEAVE FOR WEST

A second group of 25 harvest hands from the Belleville area left by rail last night for Winnipeg where they will be assigned temporary farm jobs on the prairies to assist in harvesting this year's bumper grain crop. Two weeks ago the first contingent left Belleville and today Herbert H. Reed, manager of the local office of the National Employment Service, said an additional 50 men had volunteered for farm jobs and will be dispatched west as soon as transportation is arranged.

DRIVER OF TRUCK TO FACE CHARGES

George Fraser, Cataraqui, and his companion, Dave Adams, are in Belleville General Hospital with lacerations and abrasions suffered last evening when they were struck from behind while riding on a motorcycle on Highway No. 7, six miles east of Madoc.

The two were proceeding east on Highway 7 when they were struck from behnid by a truck driven by Earl Goode of Harlow. Goode has been charged with dangerous driving and driving while his ability was impaired.

The accident happened about 8.00 p.m. last evening and was investigated by Provincial Police Corporal Hatch of Madoc and P.C. Gould.

POLICE BLOTTER

That there is still ample time to get in a bit of fishing must have been the idea of a sneak thief who last night stole a fishing rod and reel from the car of Hubert Shortts, 15 Starling Street. Mr. Shortts' car was parked in his driveway when the rod disappeared.

Two young boys were seen taking milk bottle money by a West Bridge street resident who happened to look out her window near midnight last night. She called police but the boys had made themselves scarce by the time officers arrived on the scene.

Wounded by Bullet

TORONTO (CP)—Clifford Maracle, 28, was wounded in the left foot by a bullet fired by police who broke up what they termed an attempt to blow the safe in a theatre candy firm.

Police said they arrested Maracle on a nearby street after he had been shot by Constable Murray MacDonald. A second man escaped.

English Channel Full of Egyptians Swimming Strait

DOVER (Reuters)—The English channel was full of Egyptians today, all swimming manfully in the direction of France.

Six of them formed a relay team and took turns at churning their way across the 10-mile gap. They are trying to beat their record of 11 hours 11 minutes.

Another Egyptian, said Al Arabi, 36, is trying to make the crossing solo. He set out a few minutes behind Dr. George Brewster, 61, a Londoner who is making his 16th attempt to swim the tide-ripped Channel.

Replacing Glen Miller Bridge Likely As County Councillors Ask Engineer for New Report

Possibility of some definite action with respect to replacement of the Glen Miller bridge over the Trent River was seen Thursday when county councillors moved to instruct their road engineer to revise estimates and provide other information with the view of including the the work in 1952 estimates.

Plans for replacement of the outmoded span which connects the two sections of Glen Miller across the Trent were drawn several years ago and then the project was dropped when it was found steel was not available.

Deputy Reeve Harry Morrow of Sidney Township yesterday wanted to know why no action had been taken.

"I understand that the matter was discussed in council and plans for the new bridge were drawn several years ago and then the matter was dropped," he stated.

Discussion on the advisability of replacing the bridge took up considerable time during the afternoon session and ended with the motion from Deputy Reeve Morrow for the county engineer to revise estimates and provide other information in time for the December session. The motion called upon the engineer to ascertain if the necessary steel was available for construction.

Approach Hazard

In introducing the subject Mr. Morrow referred to a double fatality which had taken place last winter at the approach of the bridge. 'I am not saying that a new bridge would have prevented the accident," he said, "but if the bridge had been built the new approach may have been safer."

Reeve Clarke Rollins of Wollaston wondered if the bridge at Glen Miller was actually necessary and pointed to the fact there were bridges across the river at Trenton and at Frankford, both only a few miles distant. Also there would be another bridge across the river when the new four-lane highway was built.

Warden Lee Grills stated the Glen Miller bridge was a necessity as it was used daily by workers going to work at Glen Miller and also to Batawa and to the Trenton air station. "There is a lot of traffic over the bridge," he assured.

"I fully realize the importance of the bridge," Reeve Rollins said. "I said what I did only to bring out discussion. But I would like to know why no action has been taken for two years when the province would pay an 80 percent grant?"

County Engineer Larry Langlois noted the four-lane highway bridge, when built, would not be available for local traffic as this would be a controlled access highway. He said the department had told the county that to allow local traffic over the bridge would defeat the purpose of the highway.

He went on to say that plans for the proposed new bridge had been drawn to match up with the present swing span owned by the department of transport. This department "would not go" for replacing the swing span as it held this was adequate for the traffic.

Has Been Repaired

In recent years the present Glen Miller bridge has been closed periodically for repairs and has been closed twice this summer.

Reeve Verney Heath of Rawdon noted the $2,700 spent for plans for the new bridge had not been wasted and the project could be proceeded with any time council saw fit. Shortage of steel had held up the project two years ago, he said.

The road report was presented by Reeve Fred Mitchell, chairman of the Roads and Bridges Committee. The report showed that of the $280,000 budget a total of $144,463 had been spent up to the end of June.

A total of 142 miles of county road had been dust treated. About 375 tons of calcium chloride had been used to treat 102 miles with 16 tank cars of asphalt primer being used for oiling. Cost of oiling and sand cover for the 40 miles of road treated, would be about $23,000.

Damage to roads due to spring break-up was not excessive this year, the report indicated.

Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township, was a bit critical of the amount of work done on county roads in his municipalities, saying that ratepayers were not satisfied they were receiving their share considering the money paid toward the county roads.

Funds Are Limited

He wanted to know why the Queensboro road had not been dust treeated when the Cooper road had received this treatment. He was told by County Engineer Langlois there was only so much money for dust laying and all roads could not be treated. The Cooper road had been recommended for treatment by a previous reeve, he said.

The engineer went on to note that the type of bookkeeping demanded by the highways department did not permit keeping track of road expenditures by townships. With so much money spent on maintenance, there was not enough money left over for construction and it was possible a certain township may feel neglected for a year or so.

During the discussion on the road report several councillors voiced the opinion there was too much mileage in the county roads system and that proper maintenance could not be done at the time to do the most good.

Reeve Rollins stated that roads in the northern part of the county were deteriorating. He advocated hiring of extra men and equipment to get maintenance done at the proper time.

Reeve Heath said he had also held the same opinion but had since decided he was mistaken. He said it was necessary for the county to retain a regular crew of maintenance men. If the work was done all at the same time and men then laid off they would not be available another year.

"The answer to that is that you do not wait to have snowplowing done by regular maintenance men," replied Reeve Rollins. "When it snows extra men and equipment are brought out. If snowplowing is important, then maintenance is important also."

Would Transfer Road

The Ontario Highways Department will be petitioned to take over the Campbellford-Stirling development road as a provincial highway, Reeve Heath told councillors.

He admitted that the Foxboro-Madoc county road should receive priority if any county road was to be taken over, but he pointed out that Seymour township in Northumberland county was petitioning for its half of the Campbellford road to be taken over and if this was done there would be no point in going but half way.

He did not think that if the Campbellford road were taken over it would reduce the chances of the county getting rid of the Madoc road.

Here Warden Grills said in his opinion there were too many roads in the county system. "They are spread over too much and are cumbersome and expensive to operate," he said. "I believe the townships could get more work done per dollar."

Reeve Russell West of Stirling, said he would like to see the county mileage in villages reduced. The villages could better look after their own roads if they were relieved of county road rates, he said.

"Years ago," he went on "if a councillor came back from county council without having unloaded some part of a township road onto the county he lost some prestige. We are paying for that now in poorer roads."

Extensive Mileage

County Engineer Ianglois noted that Hastings had a large road mileage with a comparatively low assessment. This made it difficult to get proper maintenance without increasing the road rates.

The road report showed that $175,180 of the road budget was earmarked for maintenance with but $54,000 for new construction of both roads and bridges.

The report noted that a warning signal had been placed on the county road C.P.R. crossing at Ivanhoe. The county share of the cost will be 30 per cent of $8,000, and 50 per cent of the monthly maintenace.

Paving of the Marysville development road has been completed by the highways department and the road has been turned back to Tyendinaga township for maintenance.

The new 66 foot right of way on the Frankford east development road was staked out in May, while brushing, stumping, cutting of trees and dismantling of old wire fences was commenced by county crew. It is expected the main work of building the grade will commence shortly.

A new caterpillar power grader has recently been purchased by the county, the cost after trade-in allowance on the old machine being $16,280.

Other Report Heard

The report of the home for the aged board of management was given by Reeve Jack Kincaid of Madoc village. The report showed expenditures at the home to July 31 amounted to $46,243 with the receipts, mostly pension, amounting to $23,993.

At the present time there are 150 patients in the home of which 15 are from Belleville.

Reeve T. C. Graham of Tweed gave the finance and public property report. He said investigation of a central heating plant had been made for the county building. the estimated cost of which was $25,000. However, it was found the work could not be completed for use this fall and temporary repairs of existing boilers was made at a cost of $700.

Joseph Large of Belleville was awarded the contract for painting the woodwork at the court house and at Shire Hall. The contract price was $535.

Indigent accounts since the last session of council totalled $8,088 of which $4,672 was paid to Belleville General Hospital.

Children's Aid Society costs from January to July 31 amounted to $15,952, the most of this being paid to the Belleville society. The rate paid to the Belleville society is now $1.10 a day, a ten cent increase over the previous rate.

The Juvenile and Family Court report was given by Reeve Tracy Adams of Dungannon township. For the quarter ending March 31st a total of 41 cases were tried, 14 of them being from the county. For the quarter ending June 30th 47 cases were tried, with 30 being from the county.

IN MEMORIAM

HAWKINS. — In loving memory of our dear husband and father, William Hawkins, who departed this life August 29th, 1949.

Every day in some small way,
Memories of you come our way.
Though absent, you are ever near.
Still missed, still loved, still ever dear.

—Ever remembered by wife and daughter.
A29

EASTON. — In loving memory of our mother, Florence Easton, who passed away August 29th, 1951.

Please, God, forgive a silent tear,
A silent wish that our mom was here,
There are others, yes, we know,
But she was ours and we loved her so.
One year ago we had to part
With one we loved with all our heart;
The wound's so deep it will not heal.
Only those who have lost know how we feel.
If we could speak with mum today,
Laugh with her in the same old way
And hear her voice and see her smile
Then life indeed would be worthwhile.

—Sadly missed and ever remembered by seven daughters and three sons.
A29

EASTON. — In loving memory of a dear wife, Florence Easton, who passed away one year ago today, August 29th, 1951.

She has taken her last journey,
In God's beautiful Ship called Rest;
Away from this world of sorrow
To a home of eternal rest.
Words cannot say how I loved her,
Deep in my heart there's a pain;
God alone knows how I miss her,
As I wander along life's lane.
But a voice seems gently calling,
Dear one, be good and true;
At the end of life's battles
I'll be watching and waiting for you.

—Lovingly remembered by husband George.

TORONTO STOCKS

TORONTO (CP)—Prices slipped today in early afternoon stock market trading and only base metals held firm.

Industrials opened weakly and continued to slip and western oils slipped slowly during the first three hours. Base metals and golds fluctuated between small gains and losses.

Trading picked up slightly after a slow opening and broadened to cover a fairly wide list of western oils but share volume fell below recent brisk sessions. Volume for the first three hours totalled 1,031,000 shares.

Leading base metals issues were mixed but a number of lower-priced stocks drew good support. American Yukon, Ascot, Eastern Metals and Eureka gained pennies in active trading. Silver Miller attracted selling interest for a penny loss.

Steels, manufacturing and miscellaneous issues led the industrial decline but utilities, liquors, refining oils, banks and constructions strengthened.

Senior golds and prospects weakened while junior producers gained strength. Anglo-Rouyn, Donalda and Hugh Pam traded actively.

PRODUCE MARKET

TORONTO (CP) — Churning cream and butter print prices were unchanged here today.

Egg market prices were unchanged. Quotatoins for graded eggs in fibre cases were: A large 57 cents; A medium 51; A small 34; grade B 39; grade C 27-28. Wholesale to retail A large 62; A medium 58; A small 38; grade B 45-46; grade C 34.

U.S. to Purchase Billion Dollars Worthof Weapons

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States tentatively plans to order $1,000,000,000 worth of weapons, military equipment and supplies from North Atlantic Pact countries during the year ending next July 1.

The orders will cover planes, tanks, ammunition, electronic equipment, auxiliary combat ships and other gear, mostly for European armed forces.

No part of the $1,000,000,000, will be spent in Canada, officials said, but the armed forces probably will continue to purchase in Canada items for U.S. defence.

Informed officials disclosed the size of the new procurement program after special ambassador William H. Draper revealed in a report to President Truman that orders totalling $683,800,000 have already been placed. The $1,000,000,000 program now being drafted would be in addition to this.

Draper's report disclosed that some of the new orders will go to Britain for production of its famed Centurion tank "for certain N.A.T.O. countries."

In addition, the United States plans to contribute "slightly more than half," officials said, of the $400,000,000 aircraft production program for European factories.

Ottawa Will Not Press Charges Against Unionists

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Garson announced today no prosecutions will be lodged under a combines report charging 13 members of a Winnipeg trade union with violating the Combines Act.

Combines Commissioner T. D. MacDonald, in a report July 18, taxed officials of the Winnipeg Local No. 1 of the Canadian Bakery Workers' Union C.C.L. with breaking the Combines Act by conspiring to hold up bread prices.

Mr. Garson said today the federal government, after the issue has been put up to it by the Manitoba attorney-general's department, had decided not to prosecute.

The finding of the combines commissioner, which set up a precedent by holding union members guilty of engaging in an illegal combine, was that executives of the union violated the Act by ordering members to shut off bread deliveries to a grocery chain that had cut prices.

DRIVER ESCAPES INJURY

WHITBY (CP) —An eight-ton steam roller skidded off a railway embankment near here today, plunged 15 feet and smashed into a plum tree. The driver, Hunter McQuigge, 50, escaped with minor cuts.

Care of Drivers Will Avert Tragedies As Holidays End

The accident on the rain-slick highway at Shannonville, had been a bad one. The young boy lay pinned in the twisted wreckage of the car; his sister had been flung into the road. An ambulance rushed them to hospital, but it was too late.

In a home in the city, two grief-stricken parents were number with sorrow. "If I had only had my brakes examined before leaving on our vacation", moaned the father. His wife was silent.

The above did not actually happen. But it could.

As Chief of Police Walter Probert has pointed out, many children will be starting to school for the first time on Tuesday and are unfamiliar with traffic.

Children at this tender age, despite the utmost in safety precautions on the part of school officials, are not aware of the dangerous hazards attending a mechanically imperfect automobile or truck. They naturally expect a vehicle to stop if they venture too close while it is in motion. It should.

Garages and service stations of the city have united in issuing a general appeal to Mr. and Mrs. Motorist, and to operators of trucks and other vehicles to be sure of their car's or truck's mechanical condition. It is a sane request.

A large percentage of vehicular accidents on highways is directly attributable to faulty mechanism. This is not an accidental condition. Just carelessness. Every driver or owner of a motor-vehicle should satisfy himself that it is in first-class condition before it is driven any place where there is a danger hazard to the public.

And in addition, a little common sense when driving, and a knowledge of the handling of the vehicle is another deterrent to accidents.

All accidents, unfortunately cannot be prevented. But a large number can. And Mr. and Mrs. Driver can help reduce the great number of injuries and deaths that occur yearly because somebody was careless in not having his vehicle checked.

Remember, care and common sense may save a life. And that life could be yours, or those of your children.

Death Ends Colorful Career Of F. B. McCurdy

HALIFAX. (CP)—Hon. F. B. McCurdy, a Nova Scotia farm boy who rose to become a leading Canadian financier, died today in hospital here. He was 77.

Although shunning public life after a successful entry into the financial world, Mr. McCurdy was elected as a Conservative-Unionist member of the House of Commons in 1911 from the constituency of Shelburne-Queens.

Five years later he was named parliamentary secretary of the military and defence department and in 1918 took over the same post in the newly-created department of soldiers' civil re-establishments.

Was War Minister

He was re-elected by acclamation in 1917 as a member for Colchester and re-elected in a by-election in 1920. Then he was appointed public works minister. He was defeated in 1921 and never re-entered public life.

Mr. McCurdy started his working career as a farm hand receiving 50 cents a day. He joined the old Halifax Banking Companyy in 1890 and 10 years later opened a private banking firm bearing his name. He became the first non-resident member of the Montreal Stock Exchange and his company rapidly became one of the leading investment houses in eastern Canada.

Became Publisher

He became a publisher when he took over the old Liberal Chronicle and Star from his brother-in-law, the late G. Fred Pearson. The Chronicle and Star were merged with their long-bitter rivals—The Herald and Mail—in 1949.

A government statement following merger of the two newspapers said the Chronicle lost a substantially more than $1,000,000 in the 15 years before the merger."

While publisher of The Chronicle, Mr. McCurdy opened radio station CJCH in 1944 and retained control of it until his death.

Survivors include his widow, the former Florence Pearson. They were married in 1902 and had two sons, Pearson, who survives, and Donald, who died several years ago.

Prime Minister, Wife, Daughter Visit Orillia

ORILLIA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent and Mrs. St. Laurent arrived here today on a visit to the Martyrs' Shrine and other historic sites in this Georgian Bay district.

Their daughter, Mrs. Frank Lafferty, was also a member of the party.

Driving in an open car from their railway coach parked at nearby Medonte junction, the St. Laurents were greeted by Mayor Austin Cook and escorted through crowd-lined streets to Couchiching Park for an official welcoming ceremony.

Mr. St. Laurent's visit is strictly an informal one, a pattern which he intends to follow on the rest of his tour which will take him west to Victoria.

The Prime Minister is scheduled to visit Coldwater, Victoria Harbor and Port McNicoll and then go to the Martyrs' Shrine for luncheon.

The tour will resume this afternoon with visits to Midland, Penetanguishene and Lafontaine. The prime minister will speak briefly at each stop before returning to Midland for dinner and boarding his train for Calgary.

Cattle Show At C.N.E. Opens, Record Entry

TORONTO (CP)—Perfect weather today promised another record attendance as the Canadian National Exhibition rolled into its seventh day.

Almost 200,000 persons streamed into the grounds yesterday as the temperature climbed to 91, and the weatherman predicted more of the same. More than 1,000,000 persons have visited the fair in the first six days; exhibition officials are hoping for three times that number before the two-week show closes.

Music was the main attraction yesterday. More than 1,200 singers, dancers and instrumentalists wandered through the grounds performing on improvised stages. Competitions ranged from an old time fiddlers contests to square dance tournaments.

Cattle Show Opens

Dairy cattle, sheep and breeding horse judging opened with a record number of entries in each class. Exhibitors from all parts of Ontario have brought some 300 holsteins to the fair.

The first of three C.N.E. dog shows also started with 200 canines on display.

Some of the men and women who helped boost the exhibition to its present prominence were entertained today to mark the annual press, radio and advertising day.

Guest speaker at the directors' luncheon is the representative of one of Canada's newest media, Mavore Moore, director of CBC television.

Yesterday, Selwood Greta's Burton, owned by Stansell Brothers of Aylmer, was named grand champion Ayrshire bull while Aurchenbrain Battle Flame, owned by Ellen Bompa of Bell Corners, took the reserve title.

Holstein grand champion bull was Spring Farm Fond Hope, owned by J.M. Fraser of Streetsville, Ont. Trey Home Lochinvar, exhibited by the Grey County Home at Markdale, was reserve champion.

Williams S. Brooks' Double Romulus from his Paris farm was named grand champion Guernsey bull and the entry of Joyce Brothers, Milton, and Jack Fraser, Concord, Fraserdale Merry Admiral, was reserve winner.

First Showed in 1931

Mr. Butcher first exhibited his Jersey cattle at the C.N.E. 21 years ago when he entered four animals. This year he is back with 22 animals, 17 the progeny of one sire—Edglea Basil Butterboy.

Mr. Butcher this year carried off the grand champion Jersey bull titles at the Royal Winter Fair in Toronto and the International Fair at Waterloo. His entry was the first Canadian-bred bull ever to win the title at the international show.

Pretty Proud

"We're pretty proud of the fact," Mr. Butcher said, "that all the animals we have at the C.N.E. we have bred ourselves."

The Butchers indicated that they intend to stay in Canadian Jersey competition for a long time. Mr. Butcher's 11 - year - old grandson, Kent, son of Grant Buutcher, exhibited his first winner, Bell City Butter Boy's Fawn, first in the heifer junior calf class.

In Leicesters sheep judging, Ephraim Snell of Clinton made almost a complete sweep of the awards. He took the champion and resrve same class was Ralph Young of other major award winner in the same class wass Ralph Young of Caistor Centre, who exhibited the reserve champion ewe. Third largest winner was Emke Brothers of Elmwood.

Harvest Dale, owned by John Campbell of Georgetown, was named grand champion stallion in judging of standard bred horses. Reserve champion was Van Lee, owned by A.B. Weber of Kitchener. Harvest Dale also took the senior champion title while Van Lee was declared junior champion. Reserve junior champion was Van Har, owned by Mr. and Mrs. N. Smith of Brampton.

Grand and reserve champion general purpose mares were exhibited by Alden Craven of Ailsa Craig. Mr. Craven took firsts in every section of this class.

Skywatch Scheme To be Centred In London

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—London is to be the centre of an extended civilian aircraft spotting network reaching from Lake Erie north to include the Bruce Peninsula and from the Detroit river nearly to Toronto — almost double the size originally planned, it was announced here today.

The area to be covered by the "filter" station in London has been increased from a proposed 168 civilian spotter stations to more than 300, FO. S.L. Swanton, officer organizing the district said.

The station here will receive telephone calls from the civilian spotters, spaced every eight miles throughout the area the system to be used is to trace low flying aircraft which radar cannot spot.

Dulles Attacks 'Termites' In Government

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP)—John Foster Dulles today attacked "termites" in government and declared a greater measure of patriotism is needed among all in authority as "we look into the awful abyss of atomic and hydrogen war."

In a prepared speech the Republican party foreign policy advisor declared:

"Termites can destroy the noble edifice that our forebears built. They must be rooted out, and the loyalty which qualifies their successors must be something more positive than the negative virtue of not being a known member of the communist party."

To win the cold war, Dulles called for a greater measure of patriotism, vision, boldness, strength and dynamism.

Boston College Reports Quake In North Pacific

WESTON, Mass. (AP) — Three strong earthquakes, all under the sea were reported today by Weston observatory, the Boston College seismological station.

The station recorded one today at 7:02:23 a.m. EDT and placed it 4,140 miles northwest of Boston, in the north Pacific off British Columbia and south of the Aleutian Islands.

Another, in the same area, was recorded yesterday at about the same time.

Also noted on the station's apparatus was a strong quake yesterday at 1:06:11 p.m., 1,585 miles south of Boston. That was pinpointed as north of the Dominican Republic in the Caribbean.

New Pension Scheme For Many Workers

TORONTO (CP) — A pension scheme, which allows an employee to move from one job to another within the industry without losing his pension rights, is being put into effect by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America and employers in the men's clothing industry in Toronto and Hamilton.

The plan will apply to workers in the two cities, now numbering about 4,000. Under it, all workers with 20 years' service in the industry and 10 years' membership in the union are eligible for pensions of $40 a month at age 65.

The plan is industry-financed, out of contribution by employers of three per cent of their payroll, and is government-approved. Payments into the fund began April 4, 1950.

Retroactive to March

It applies from March 1 last and, in addition to current and future retirements, applies to those who left their jobs in the last five years because of illness, and to those who retired after Jan. 1, 1951.

It was inaugurated last night at a dinner at which 75 old-timers in the trade, some of them in their 80s, received their first pension cheques.

Reunion of Belleville Kilties Band In Toronto Recalls Famous World Tour Under Leadership of Tom Power

Forty-eight years ago this autumn, the tartan kilts of a Scottish band swung gaily to the pibroch of the pipes as it marched along Front St.

Tall, black busbies topped scarlet tunics. White sporrans swayed with the kilts.

In the van strode a giant of a man, his mace swinging to the rhythmic tempo of the pipes. He was "Scotty" MacCormack, who towered seven feet-two without his busby. Another "giant" of the band was Roderick Bain MacKenzie who measured seven-feet one.

Cheers rang out from crowd-lined sheets as the band marched along the main thoroughfare to Pinnacle Street, the point of embarkation.

Here another colorful scene greeted them.

Train coaches were flag bedecked. Crowds milled about the train and the band as it boarded the coaches. The gay colors of the tartan, the waving flags and bunting of the decorations and the cheery farewells of the crowd made a picturesque spectacle.

The parade was the forerunner of a tour that was to take the now-famous organization on a trip to England that was to culminate in a command performance before His Majesty King Edward VII at Balmoral Castle and Sandringham House.

Gift From the King

Following these performances the band was honored with the presentation of a diamond-studded baton, the gift of the King.

It was the Belleville Kilties Band, an organization that wrote a brilliant page in the musical history of this city, and won lasting acclaim in many parts of the world.

The band was organzed fifty years ago last June by the late Tom P. J. Power, former owner of the Queen's Hotel here, and later an internationally-known figure. Mr. Power took his band on its tour to Britain.

So enthusiastic was the reception given the Kilties overseas, one that echoed across the Atlantic, that the band was invited to tour the United States. They made an instant hit in the principal American cities. Tour followed tour. The band was accorded outstanding receptions wherever it played.

In 1908 the Kilties were invited to tour the world. Mr. Power with his daughter, now Mrs. Zita Ryan of this city, and honorary president of the ex-members' Association of the present day, took the band from Vancouver on its global tour.

Visited 22 Countries

Two years later the Kilties returned to Canada via Europe and New York. It had visited twenty-two countries during the tour. As far as is known this record has not been achieved by any other organization of its kind and size.

The subsequent "breaking up" of the band did not destroy the deep roots of friendship which had been formed between Mr. Power and his assistants and the personnel of the organization. An ex-member association was formed, and has lasted throughout a half-century. Members met annually at various points and relived the many experiences that befell them while on "active duty".

In 1937 the association held its reunion here, the guests of Mrs. Ryan at the New Queens Hotel. They were entertained at the Bay of Quinte Country Club and other places during their two-day stay.

A feature of this reunion was a grand band concert held in Victoria Park when the Belleville Municipal Band was augmented by several ex-members of the famous originals.

Thousands Attend

Thousands turned out to pay tribute to the men who emblazoned the name of Belleville across the world.

Another feature of the reunion was a splendid tribute paid to the memory of Mr. Power. Members presented a handsome bronze plaque to Mrs. Ryan which was unveiled in the rotunda of the Queens Hotel in simple, impressive ceremony.

On Sunday, August 31st, ex-members of the Kilties Band Association will again get together in reunion. They will be tendered a banquet in the mess of the Queen's Own Regiment, Toronto. These men from all walks of life and all parts of the United States and Canada will again relive the experiences of the past. Members of parliament, Hollywood motion picture stars, are ex-members of the band.

Three Local Members

From Belleville will go three ex-members, E. Reg. Hinchey, president of the Canadian Bandmasters' Association; Billy Grant and "Wee" Jamie Clark.

Mr. Hinchey, former bandmaster of the Belleville Municipal Band, is recognized as one of Canada's outstanding composers, whose works have been played in Toronto, Montreal and Washington, D.C., as well as all parts of Canada.

Tom P. J. Power, who organized and managed the famous Belleville Kilties Band. Ex-members will honor his memory at their fiftieth anniversary celebration being held in Toronto on Sunday.

Billy Grant is a well-known figure in city musical circles, and with his talented family has appeared in many community functions. He never relipquished his band work following the dissolution of the Kilties Band, and played with the Belleville organization for many years.

"Wee' Jamie is well known in this district. Now over eighty, the intrepid little piper has played at practically every get-together function held by service and other organizations here. His "pipe" services were always in demand.

Also with the band on its world tour was the Clan Johnstone, a singing, piping and dancing troupe who later became well known in Belleville. It was headed by the late Albert Johnstone.

Reunion Cake

When the ex-members sit down at their reunion banquet on Sunday, they will be greeted by a magnificent "Reunion Cake," the gift of their honorary president, Mrs. Ryan. The cake is three feet by two feet in dimension and is inscribed with colorful lettering with "Golden Anniversary of the Kilties Band of Belleville." The cake will be on display in the window of the Dickens Restaurant, Front Street, until Saturday night.

SUPPORT OF NEEDY PARENTS

Hastings county councillors have endorsed a resolution which calls for enforcement of the Parents' Maintenance Act under which children can be compelled to support their parents when they are financially able to do so.

It is obvious that this attitude is regarded by more than a few as an unreasonable one or municipalities would not be put to the point where they are obliged to urge enforcement of the Act. There was a time when the need for such an act would have been unthinkable. If it is a commentary on this generation that it is required today, we might well ponder why it is so.

Perhaps an aside which deals with a debate in the Senate earlier this year would help to shed some light on the situation. It was one which prompted the Financial Times to describe some remarks of Senator T. A. Crerar as "something refreshing." Hon. Mr Crerar said:

> " . . . In this connection (expanding welfare costs) it is interesting to note that in the year 1951 the Canadian people spent, on alcoholic beverages $651,000,000; tobacco in various forms $422,000,000; race track betting $55,000,000 soft drinks $158,000,000; commercial recreation $160,000,000; or a total of $1,446,000,000.
>
> "This total is almost equal to the total amount spent under the general heading of social security . . . Your committee thinks that in a young country like Canada, with its immense resources and with greater opportunity for the individual to make his way than can be found in any other part of the world, Social Security measures as a whole should be reviewed and assessed in the light of sound national development."

We suggest that in the foregoing remarks there is the whole answer to the problem of neglect and disregard of even the slightest filial obligations by young people today. And it is not in the billion and a half spent in alcohol, tobacco, betting, soft drinks and commercial recreation. Rather, it is found in the like amount that the Government is spending in social security. Who started, and encouraged, and promoted this idea that the state would take care of all from the cradle to the grave?

We well know of course. And it is interesting to see that the Financial Times goes on to refer to Senator Crerar's remarks as "the sort of intelligent comment which some elected representatives should also be capable of making."

Are memories so short that the Financial Times does not recall that until seven years ago Hon. T. A. Crerar was the senior cabinet minister of the government which fostered almost every social security enactment that is on the statutes today. They had either become law or were in the making when Senator Crerar was one of His Majesty's privy councillors.

We do not recall that he rose then to protest or question any one of them when he was an elected representative of the people. And our memory is not too short, for all that it is 35 years since the Senator first attained cabinet rank.

ANOTHER DALEY SETTLEMENT

Hon. Charles Daley, Ontario's minister of labor, added to his reputation as an effective conciliation officer last week when he settled the strike at Leamington which threatened the loss of a million dollar tomato crop in that area.

During three weeks while a canning company and union officials negotiated in vain, the tomato producers in that noted tomato belt saw crops ripening to the verge of ruin. Farmers set last Friday as the harvesting deadline and were preparing to ship their produce to other centres for processing with every expectation of taking a loss.

It was then that Hon. Dr. Daley personally took over the negotiations. In a few hours the dispute was settled. Not the least of the beneficiaries in this case have been the consumers. It was quite conceivable that this valuable crop would have been completely lost should the strikers have taken objection to the tomatoes being shipped elsewhere. The loss of such a crop would have been felt by every Ontario household in scarcer and costlier tomato products later on.

Labor Minister Daley's record for patching up labor disputes when he intervenes personally, indicates a fitness for the portfolio that few others have ever shown.

The sticklebacks found on both coasts and in some Canadian lakes frequently use their spines to attack other fishes.

The village of Streetsville near Toronto, first settled in 1820, was named after Timothy Street, pioneer sawmill operator.

JUST FOLKS

THE NOBLER SIDE

If shelter, food and clothing were
Our only needs while here on earth,
Then bread and meat and coats of fur
Would be the surest proof of worth.

If men had nothing more to seek
Than comfort down the path of years,
There'd be no mercy for the weak;
No pity for another's tears.

But, there exists a nobler side
That asks the choice 'twixt right and wrong,
And men require a truer pride
Than that of merely being strong.

We all must serve the body's needs,
But there's a debt each mortal owes
In unrewarded gracious deeds
Through which the soul eternal glows.

Heart Stops, Finger Massage Revives Patient

LATROBE, Pa. (AP)—A man whose heart quit beating 2y minutes on the operating table is recovering today, his doctors reported.

Marcus G. Riddell, operator of a candy distributing firm, expects to be back at work, with a normal heart, within a year.

Riddell underwent two operations in a Philadelphia hoslital to relieve closing of the mitral valve which helps pump blood through the heart. It was during the second operation, on July 23, that his heart stopped. Doctors re-entered the cavity to provide life-saving finger massage.

REWARDS

It is strange how people fight to attain rewards of one sort or other. Otherwise they would make no such effort. The greatest, and most valued reward for any of us, is that one which marks the achievement of our ideal, or purpose.

The trained animal won't do his tricks unless he is rewarded with something that is pleasing to his taste. I am inclined to think that many a contestant, where some reward of a special nature is offered, loses sight of the real value of achievement, putting all his energies into that mere reward. There is no reward so important and enduring, as the consciousness of that one who has done his best, and accomplished well what he set out to do, neither wishing nor hoping for any reward. Personal satisfaction, and happiness surpass all other rewards.

I recall when the majority of athletic contests were for the glory attained. Now it is largely the money that controls. So much so that the best and most worthy opponents are not always selected, and the event simmers down to a poor effort on the part of all contestants, or else with the idea in mind if performing only good enough to warrant a return match or a contest that will draw more money.

Neither the best students, nor those who have been rewarded from time to time for meritorious service, are those who later shine in life or who become most distinguished. Often it is the one that no one paid any attention to, considering him or her just average or mediocre. And think of the great ones in after life who never saw the inside of a college! He doesn't miss the rewards and medals. He is happy over the satisfaction of having been born with initiative and a desire to excel and become useful.

Admiral Peary once wrote to me and said that to have discovered the North Pole was an achievement that gave to him the pure joy of having done something no other one up to that time had done. The pure pleasure was reward enough.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

How many tons of books will, at the end of this week and next, be brought home to city and town from summer cottages and summer resorts? Tons of school books, of worthy books, of good books, of useful books—all unread.

Many of them will be school books that were to serve as the basis of an intelligent clear-cut program of summer study for hapless schoolchildren and students who didn't do very well in last May's examinations. Some were brought away to the summer holidays by the young people themselves, in an access of determination and a new resolve. Some were ordered to be brought by disillusioned parents, or at the grave suggestion of the schoolmaster. Whoever ordained their presence at the summer cottage, the school books went on a shelf somewhere, a shelf with denim curtains preferred. And there with the furtive spider they have lain until now.

Many of them were not school books, but were classics, such as Carlyle's French Revolution, a worthy book in three volumes, very helpful to read in this revolutionary age; or it might be Mavaulay's essays which, up until now, have eluded us; or perhaps it was a recent publication that got exceptional notices in Time and everybody was talking about it last winter: a book about current events. Not to have read it leaves us out of the conversation in many gatherings.

So up it came to the summer cottages or the hotel, and onto a conspicuous table or shelf it went, to wait expectantly for a rainy day. But now, with summer ending, back home it will come, unread.

Summer is not for reading. Whether a man is six or sixty, and a woman five or fifty, if their eyes cannot find something better than a printed page to look at in July and August, then there is little books can do for them.

Pangs of conscience may sting us when we, in packing up, find the books we were going to read this past summer. But to heck with them. Have we got a good brown on our hides? Have we felt the wild air go to the far corners of our lungs? Have we added two or three beads to what Masefield ,the poet laureate, calls "this string of colored days"?

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE LONG VIEW

In unwrapping some things stored in the cellar recently, I came across a number of 1939 and 1940 newspapers. The headlines were full of war news. The Nazi air force was making successful strikes, virtually unopposed. U-Boats were claiming a rising toll of merchant ships in the Atlantic. There were pictures of Hitler reviewing endless lines of menacing tanks and impeccably uniformed soliders. Mussolini, with outthrust chin and arm, was photographed on balconies and battleships. The forces of Fascism seemed triumphant in a crumbling world.

That was only twelve or thirteen years ago. Where are they now?

These old newspapers give us a lesson, at once cheerful and ironically reminiscent, in perspective. The world crisis which seemed likely to shatter our civilization a dozen years ago has passed. The armies which threatened to crush us beneath their iron heels have melted away. And now, instead, we are threatened with a new crisis, with the forces of communism seeking to dominate our crumbling world.

Human thinking tends to be in terms of the present—today's problem fills the sky. But Christianity demands that we think in terms of eternity. Only that way can we see life in its true perspective.

O where are kings and empires now
Of old that went and came?
But, Lord, Thy Church is praying yet,
A thousand years the same.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

TENSION AND THE HEART

In a recent talk about the benefit of moderate exercise, work, play, physical activity for individuals with chronic heart trouble, I said it does me almost as much good to see them enjoying themselves day by day as it does these chaps to bowl. Of course I mean bowling on the green, lawn bowls, not ten-pins. But I have urged them as earnestly to keep out of tournament or trophy contests as I have to play the game for the fun of it instead of sitting there envying the fellows who play.

It is only when they disregard the latter advice and enter such contests that I regret I encouraged them to take up bowling at all. You see, I'm as certain that tension is harmful to individuals with C V D as I am that moderate exercise, play, work, physical activity is good for them — one doesn't get tense over a game played just for the fun of it, but more or less tension is inevitable when one plays for a trophy, a prize or to maintain the standing of the club. I have watched such bowlers at play and it did me no good at all.

Tension — tightening up. Even if it is just a target shooting contest or a game of checkers played before spectators or for a trophy, there is bound to be more or less tension, tightening of the arterioles (smallest arteries), particularly those coronary arterioles which convey blood to the heart muscle itself. This is a reaction which one with C V D should avoid. C V D, cardio-vascular degeneration, is a medical term for such general heart and artery troubles as coronary occlusion, thrombosis, myocarditis, arteriosclerosis, angina pectoris, fatty degeneration, slow heart muscle failure or what have you.

Students, clerks, stenographers, teachers, professional people, white collar workers, merchants and others who live by their wits, so to speak, that is, without doing any real work with their muscles, should play some game or other or participate in some sport instead of just looking on while others play or perform. They need a reasonable amount of exercise every day and for the sake of health, happiness or contentment and longevity they should endeavor to get it, by taking two miles of oxygen on the hoof three times a day or its equivalent in any other kind of physical activity—mowing the lawn, shovelling snow, gardening, painting the house.

Such physical activity primarily steadies, normalizes and strengthens the "nerves." It is a natural sedative, whereas bromides, booze and barbiturates merely benumb the senses and the judgment for a while.

It is unfortunate indeed for one who has or imagines he or she has a weak or damaged heart to avoid daily physical activity on that account. If the heart is really weak graduated exercises is the best possible remedy for it.

QUSTIONS & ANSWERS

A Local Doctor, Eh?

Several local doctors now give complete check-ups. Can this be done locally or should one go to a place like the——Clinic? (R. M. J.)

Answer—If you mean medical or physical examination I'd advise you to go to a doctor who practises under his own name, and give "clinic" racketeers a wide berth.

Childhood Heart Murmur

School doctor told us our 11-year-old daughter has a heart murmur and should not be allowed to swim or play tennis... (F. T.)

Answer — Nonsense. Among nearly 13,000 sixth grade school children, over 4,600 had heart murmurs and only 119 of these presented any signs of heart trouble. Most murmurs in childhood are functional, temporary and insignificant. If your daughter wants to swim and play tennis by all means let her do so.

Poor Man's Insulin

Eight years ago you had an article about vitamin B as "poor man's insulin." Doctor had told me I have diabetes but that I didn't need insulin as yet. Began taking B-complex as recommended in your booklet, and it worked wonders. Now I follow a pretty liberal diet and seldom find any sugar—of course I make a daily test...(E. C. S.)

Answer—Thank you. The booklet Training for Diabetes is available to any one who sends 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope for it.

AROUND THE HOME

For that open-air BARBECUE::: bricks produce neat and substantial results. Use ½ inch iron rods or bars, set between bricks or laid on a ledge of projecting bricks. Base may be of concrete—at least 10 inches deep, placed on gravel or packed cinders. Suggested size: 3 feet 5-¾ inches by 3 feet 1-½ inches.

Two orange crates will make a neat dressing table for the cottage. Stand on end, 18 ins. apart. Brace across back with strips of ½-ins. pine, or plywood. Curtain of chintz.

Many other suggestions like these in the booklet "Around the Home Again". Write for copy to Molson's (Ontario) Limited, P.O. Box 490, Adelaide St. Station, Toronto.

WEDDINGS

VAILLANCOURT—MERAW

St. Carthagh's Church, Tweed, decorated with standards of gladioli and summer flowers, was the setting of a pretty wedding, when Miss Hilda Meraw, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Meraw, was united in marriage to Mr. Wilfred Vaillancourt, son of Mrs. Vaillancourt, of Britt, and the late Mr. Fred Vaillancourt. The Very Rev. Dean Shannon officiated, assisted by the Rev. A. S. Callaghan, cousin of the bride.

Reverend Sister Mary Caramel Rose played the wedding music and Mrs. Fred Fobert sang "Mother Beloved", "Ave Marie" and "Panis Angelicus", during the ceremony and "On This Day O Beautiful Mother", during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, looked charming in a gown of French Chantilly lace over satin with fitted bodice. The skirt was of accordian-pleated nylon net, with a scalloped lace peplum caught at the waist in front and falling into a graceful train effect at the back. Her fingertip veil of French illusion was held by a tiara of seed pearls, and she carried a mother-of-pearl Prayer book with streamers of pink Sweetheart roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Maryan Meraw, who wore a ballerina-length dress of pink lace over pink tulle and taffeta, with lace jacket and hat trimmed with pink and blue forget-me-nots. She carried a nosegay of pink roses and baby's breath.

Mr. Pierre Leger was best man and Mr. Michael Collins and Mr. Eugene Basucci were ushers.

A reception was held at Bramley's Lodge, Kanata Beach. The bride's mother received in navy sheer with white accessories and corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Vaillancourt in rose lace with white accessories and corsage of yellow roses.

For a honeymoon to western Canada, the bride chose a lilac linen suit with accessories of indigo and a corsage of yellow roses. On their return the happy couple will reside in Britt.

Sunday School Picnics

BOWERMAN'S S. SCHOOL

Allisonville—The teachers, officers and pupils of Bowerman's Sunday School met at Wellington Park recently to enjoy a picnic dinner and an afternoon of sports and recreation. On behalf of the Sunday School all would like to express their hearty thanks to all of those who gave so freely to make this an enjoyable event for young and old.

Movie Producer

Britain's only woman film producer, blonde, 36-year-old Betty Box, is in Canada to study possible film locations in Alberta. She will try to find authentic scenic backgrounds for a forthcoming movie on the Albertan oilfields, "Campbell's Kingdom." The picture will be in Technicolor and all outdoor scenes will be shot in Canada. Miss Box said Canadian artistic and technical talent will be used as much as possible. — (CP Photo.)

Women's Institute

CARMEL W.I.

Mrs. Seldon Homan opened her home on Thursday afternoon for the August meeting of the Carmel W.I. There were 13 members and six children present.

Mrs. Earl Dafoe presided over the business.

It was decided to attend the extension course "Brighten Your Home With Color", at Phillipston and Zion in September.

It was also planned to have a picnic for the W.I. members and children the last Thursday in August to be held at the home of Mrs. James Fox.

Mrs. John Homan, leader for "Historical Research" and "Current Events" opened with community singing with Mrs. Earl Dafoe as song leader.

Mrs. John Homan and Mrs. Percy Reynolds gave fine papers on the origin of Carmel public school and the names of a number of teachers that taught in the school.

Refreshments were served by the hostess and the Misses Kathleen Homan, Ruth and Jean Luxton and Sharon Cross.

A social half hour was spent.

Women's Activities

CARMEL W.M.S.

The August meeting of Carmel W.M.S. was held at the home of the president, Mrs. M. Ross. The Baby Band leader, Miss Marguerite Hicks and her little members were present and a special program was prepared for the Band and their mothers, which was interesting and which all enjoyed.

The president, Mrs. Ross, opened the meeting.

Mrs. F. Hicks, Stewardship secretary, gave a reading. Mrs. Pitman was then asked to take the worship service. A children's hymn was sung after which Mrs. Paterson read the Scripture, Mark 10:13-16.

Mrs. Pitman prepared a nice talk for the mothers and children and stories for the children. Miss M. Hicks took the Baby Band program. Shirley Dafoe sang "Jesus Loves Me". Mrs. G. Moorman gave a reading "Thanks For Mothers". Mrs. Earl Dafoe sang "Happy the Home When God is There". Refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

SALEM W.A.

Minto—The August meeting of Salem W.A. was held at the home of Mrs. M. Wickens on Thursday afternoon with a fair attendance. The president, Mrs. T. Clements presided and opened the meeting. Mrs. Harold Holden read the scripture lesson.

Business was discussed and the meeting was turned over to Mrs. H. Mayo. Mrs. Frank McGee read a short poem: Joe, Glenn and Grant Hagerman sang a children's hymn; Mrs. T. Clements read a poem after which Mrs. Lorne Hagerman gave the topic for the afternoon. This was well prepared and contained much food for thought.

Refreshments were served and a vote of thanks tendered the hostess by Mrs. F. Brown.

Food for Thought

Readers' Friday Column

By Mary Moore

Note—Please don't despair. I know you want pickles and I am giving them to you by mail and in this column as fast as two hands and one head can work.

QUESTIONS

from Mrs. George B., Mrs. H. L. E., Miss Mary R., Mrs. H. L., A. M. E., and Betty O., are either wholly answered or partially answered in the first recipe which follows

MIXED SWEET PICKLES

(Quick process)

Four medium-sized heads cauliflower (6-inch), 2 quarts 1-inch onions, 6 sweet red peppers, 50 2 1-2-inch gherkins. Wash the cauliflowers and separate into small flowerets. Peel the onions; cut peppers in 1-2-inch rings and cut these in halves crosswise after removing seeds and ribs. Wash the gherkins by scrubbing and rinsing. Soak all of these prepared vegetables in brine overnight—3 tablespoons salt to each quart water. In morning drain well, cover with cold water and bring just to boiling point and immediately drain. Boil 2 quarts mild vinegar with 2 lbs. brown or white sugar, 2 tablespoons mustard seed, 1 tablespoon whole cloves, 1 stick while cinnamon bark. Immediately pour this over the prepared parboiled vegetables which should be packed into sterile jars ahead of this. Fill to nearly overflowing and seal.

NINE-DAY PICKLES

(For Mrs. R. L., and Mrs. G. B.)

Gather or buy 7 lbs, 4 or 5-inch cucumbers, wash well and cut into 1-2-inch slices. Soak in brine in proportions of 1-4 cup salt to each quart water, for 3 days. Drain. Add fresh brine each day for 3 days longer, rinsing off old brine each day. On 7th day pour over drained cucumber slices a weak vinegar mixture, 1-2 vinegar and 1-2 water, to cover, and containing 1-2 oz. alum. Let this stand, after pouring it over boiling hot, until it is cooled to room temperature. Prepare 6 cups full-strength vinegar, 2 1-2 lbs. sugar, 1 oz., each celery seed, whole allspice, stick cinnamon. Tie the spices in cheesecloth bag. Pour this over the drained cucumber slices, bring just to simmering point, then pour into clean 2-gallon crock. Cover with plate, but be sure vinegar syrup covers all the cucumber slices. This is ready to eat in 1 week but improves with time. It does not require sealing but should be kept cool and in a dark place.

KOSHER DILL PICKLES

(For Mrs. Frank W.)

The difference between dill pickles and Kosher dill pickles is the garlic that is used in them. A popular brand of Kosher dills also contains onion and peppers—either in natural form or their extracted oils. Use about 1 6-quart basket of dill-size cucumbers—4 or 5 inches in length. Wash well and dry. Prick each end with silver fork. Put flower of dill in bottom of sterile quart jars, also a clove of garlic. Pack full of washed and pricked cucumbers. Put dill flower and another clove of garlic on top. Make a mixture of 1 pint vinegar, 1 cup salt and 2 1-4 quarts water. Bring this just to boiling point but do not boil. Pour over cucumbers in jars and seal at once. Ready in 4 weeks. Keep in dark cool place. Slices of onion and tiny red peppers may be added to jars too if desired.

MILD CORN RELISH

(For Mrs. Marion L.)

(This is a very old recipe and has all the ingredients mentioned by Marion L. that her grandmother's pickle contained. I hope it is suitable.)

One 2-lb. head of cauliflower, 2 bunches celery, 4 large cucumbers, 2 cups gherkin-size cucumbers, 6 chopped green peppers, 12 large ears fresh young corn boiled 3 minutes and cut from cobs, 1 large onion, 1-2 cup flour, 1 cup sugar, 1 1-lb can sweetened condensed milk, 1 tablespoon dry mustard, 1 teaspoon paprika, 2 tablespoons salt, 2 cups vinegar. All of the vegetables are sliced thinly except peppers which are chopped, and corn which is cut from cobs. Mix together the flour, sugar, canned milk, mustard, salt and paprika. Put in preserving kettle and add vegetables and stir until vegetables are coated with this mixture, then add vinegar, bring to hard boil and pour into about 8 sterile pint jars and seal at once.

Answers to readers' letters will be continued tomorrow.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

To elope would be only dodging the issue

Dear Miss Fairfax:

In a few months my boy friend and I plan to become engaged. I'm 18, and have been going steady with this boy for a year. He is a very wonderful person, honest, trustworthy and sincere.

The problem is that we are of different faiths, and each one of us has been forbidden by our parents to change to the other's faith, although we would be perfectly willing to. I love his parents just as much as my own, and I wouldn't want to have them hurt, and he feels the same way about mine.

When the time comes for us to gest married, should we solve the problem by eloping? We don't want to do this if there is any other way out, particularly since both of us would like to have a big wedding.—H. C.

Dear H. C.:

First, let me say that I think it would be a mistake to dodge the issue by eloping. You will never really solve your problem unless you come to some definite decisions and stand by them. Of course you don't want to hurt your parents, but if both of you are of legal age, and if both of you have given the matter all proper consideration, and avoided the impulse to do anything in a rash and hasty way, then I think you have a right to make up your own minds about what you want to do, even though your parents may not see eye to eye with you. If you did make your decision independently of your parents, the chances are that if you handled things wisely they would gradually come around and accept the decision. Few families are so selfish and narrow-minded as to hold a grudge forever against members who have acted independently, even though in the beginning the family disagreed with them.

In the next few months, before you do become formally engaged, go into this problem very thoroughly, from every angle. Go together to the priest and to the minister and get their viewpoints, and give them honest thought. Then talk everything over between yourselves and come to some very definite agreement about what you believe would be the right compromise.

When you have done all this, I think you will have done all that anyone can expect of you, and you should then go ahead on your own.

Takes her out once a month—does he care?

Dear Miss Fairfax:

There is a man who has been taking me out about once a month for the past three years. It's true it's only to a movie, and that I see very little of him in between, but do you think he would keep this up so long if he didn't care about me? He is a very bashful person, and this might be why he has never said he loves me.

I have come to love him, but I am very uncertain about what I should do, whether to keep on as we have been doing, hoping that it may come to something in the end, or date other boys and let him see that there are others who like my company.—R. B.

Dear R. B.:

Do you really think a man who is content to take a girl out no more than once a month, and who never says anything to indicate that she means anything to him except an occasional casual date, has very much real interest in her?

By all means go out with other boys, and have all the good times you can with them. You ought to have been doing this all along. If this man really has any idea of ever suggesting marriage to you, it may prod him into saying so if he thought you had other suitors, and if he hasn't any such idea, then you won't be wasting your time waiting for something that's never going to happen.

Sunday School Lesson:

What Makes a Nation Great

By ROY L. SMITH

An extremely interesting thing happened when the Hebrews came in from the desert to take over the Promised Land—a thing that has not been given much attention by the average preacher or Bible teacher.

A series of nearly 20 Canaanite cities managed to survive the invasion and continue a disturbing element in the life of the land up until the time of David, and indeed their influence continued for many years after his death. These pagan centres radiated a spirit altogether antagonistic to the spirit of the Hebrew kingdom, and David quickly saw that there could be no real unity inside his kingdom until something drastic was done.

Fortresses of Paganism

Within the life of most of us, as also within the life of every nation, there are those strongholds of evil, of passion, or of paganism which serve as sources of spiritual and moral infection, destroying the life of the individual and of the state.

The Apostle Paul once said "When I would do good, then evil is present with me also." He was finding it difficult to root up the ancient paganisms within his own soul.

The first business of any person or any government is to make war on the old, entrenched evils which have been carried over from the yesterdays and the generations gone. David was not ready to go out against the ruthless Edomites as long as unconquered cities remained at his back.

Source of Nation's Strength

David's strength as a ruler appeared when he recognized the fact that the enemies of his realm were both inside and outside his own borders. It did not cause any argument when he went out to make war on the Edomites, the Syrians, and the Moabites. It was easy for every man to see that these ancient enemies crowding in from all sides, had to be put in their places. But when David undertook to "execute justice and righteousness" inside his own realm that aroused an altogether different type of opposition. But it must be said to his credit that he waged war as relentlessly against the evils which beset his people from within as he waged war against their enemies from without. Nothing defeats a strong nation like interior evils, and nothing makes a great nation so vulnerable as the injustices it permits to exist within itself.

After God's Own Heart

Skeptics have pointed with derision at David's lust, and said, "If that makes a man after God's own heart, then we want nothing to do with such a God." And of course nothing can make such a sin into a virtue.

> The Uniform Sunday School lesson for August 31: "The Reign of David," II Samuel 5:6-25; 8-9.

But it must be remembered that David was guilty but once, that he repented for the rest of his life, and that in such an instance he sinned more against himself than against any other man. In his dealings with his people he was generous, fair, just, and considerate. It is true that he was a hard-fighting warrior, but he was also a generous enemy who treated even his foes with decent consideration if they gave him an opportunity to do so. If he found himself in the wrong, he never needed any prodding to make it right.

Fair with Subordinates

In nothing did David exhibit a finer aspect of regal powers than in the considerate and just way he dealt with those leaders who gave him their lives and their loyalties and helped him to his throne. He never forgot a friend, but he never saved a friend at the expense of the people. He divided responsibilities and powers among his loyal confederates in a way that benefitted the nation, as much as it served his own interests.

It is an amazing fact, that in all his long and tumultuous career as a king he was never guilty of being petty, he was never vengeful for his own rights, he was never convicted of putting his own interests above the interests of the nation.

Yoshida Calls Sudden Vote For Japanese

TOKYO (AP)—In a lightning move to save his political strength, Prime Minister Shigeru Yoshida today forced dissolution of the lower house of the Japanese Diet (parliament) and set the first post-occupation general election for Oct. 1.

The date is at least a month or 45 days before rivals felt they would be ready to defeat the 74-year-old, pro-United States premier.

Yoshida, sometimes called by his opposition an "American puppet," left yesterday for a rest in the mountains. He rushed back today to slam through the dissolution, in a manner some observers called a stroke of political genius.

Yoshida's influence is threatened by his predecessor as leader of the dominant Liberal party, ailing Ichiro Hatoyama, 70. Both are consider pro-western but Hatoyama is regarded as more nationalistic and more indifferent than the prime minister toward rearming Japan.

Divided Churches Fail to Resolve Many Problems

LUND, Sweden (AP) — The world's divided churches failed in their efforts to map a blueprint representatives said today at the conclusion of a two-week conference.

"We have not resolved our differences nor brought forth before the world a simple method of achieving unity," the report to the Third World Conference on Faith and Order stated.

Some 230 theologians from 40 countries assembled to see whether they could make any headway toward unity. In the main the talks were on deep theological levels, behind closed doors. The conference was sponsored by the World Council of Churches, an organization of 158 Anglican, Protestant, Catholic and Orthodox churches.

Glen Roys Flash Strong Defence Down Diesels 5-4

The sensational was commonplace last evening as Glen Roy Juniors downed CNR Diesels 5-4 in one of the most exciting ball games played in Belleville this season. It was an exhibition tilt with both teams prepping for the CASA playdowns.

Last evening's contest was the sixth meeting of the teams this year and left their srries squared at 3-3. The Diesels downed the Glens in their two meetings in the regular season, then lost the best-of-three playoffs for the pennant in two straight games. In last Saturday's exhibition game the Diesels prevailed 7-3, and last night the Glens reopened the great debate with a tremendous defensive display to cop the verdict 5-4.

The Glens came up with a fabulous defensive performance that wrecked the rambling Diesels who tried too often to take an extra base on the outfielders' arms. Their loose base running was directly responsible for their defeat.

The Diesels had a golden opportunity to score in the first inning but failed to when Hunter was tagged at the plate trying to come home on a passed ball.

Don Adams got the Diesels off and running in the second with an inside the park home run to right centrefield with Glen Young aboard on a single.

Gerry Goyer Homers

Gerry Goyer got one run back in the second with an inside the park homer to left centre.

The artillery kept booming in the third frame with John Ronsky tripling to right and scoring on a fielder's choice to restore the Diesels' two run lead.

The Glens took the lead for good in their half of the third with Wannamaker opening with a single. Hunter was safe when his attempted sacrifice bunt was thrown wide at first. Both runners took an extra base on the error and Claude Carr brought them in with a line drive triple down the right field line.

DeGray popped to the pitcher but Hull flied to left with Carr scoring after the catch.

In the sixth, Hull opened for the Glens with a single. Batchelor doubled to centrefield and Hull was thrown out at the plate trying for the extra base. Batchelor went to third on the play, and then stole home as the Diesels fell asleep at the switch.

In the Diesels' half of the seventh Rodgers opened with a single, Corbett skied a long ball to right field and then Gerry Goyer, with a rifle-like throw to second base nailed Rodgers trying for the base after the catch.

The Diesels rallied in the ninth with Glen Young leading off with a single to right field, and taking second as the relay to the infield was bobbled. Don Adams singled to right, and Young tried for the plate. Frank Donovan, playing right field for Gerry Goyer, then uncorked a tremendous throw to the plate to nail Young by five feet. Adams took second on the play and scored when Rodgers singled. Two infield outs ended the game.

Hunter went all the way on the hill for the winners walking two, striking out three, and giving up nine hits for four runs. Al Adams worked five frames for the Diesels walking one, striking out three and giving up three hits for four runs. Halloran finished up walking none, striking out three and giving up four hits for one run.

No Giants 'Miracle' in 1952 Season Say Men Who Travel With Durocher

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—The Giants' own writers gave up on them a few days ago out west, and so it may be recorded that the remarkable baseball saga which began approximately a year ago has ended.

The men who travel with Leo Durocher's athletes say they suddenly seemed to realize that lightning was not going to strike them for the second time, and the spark which had sustained them through a season of adversity flickered and went out.

The conviction here still is strong that they would have won it again if their line-up had remained intact and Sal Maglie had not sprung an ache in his back.

As for Leo Durocher, our honest opinion is that he has done a more skillful job of managing this year than he did last. Just keeping his club's spirit up and keeping it in the race as long as he did in the face of its manifold misfortunes called for ability of a high order.

The truth is that once the Giants started rolling toward their destiny last year there wasn't a great deal for the dandy little manager to do except name a starting pitcher and then stand from under.

This year he has had his problems, and serious ones, since before the race even began. Since that April 3 afternoon in Denver, to be exact, when Monte Irvin, his big runs-batted-in man, broke an ankle in an exhibition game.

After that it was Willie Mays, one of the most exciting young stars in years, leaving for the the edge of his effectiveness and Maglie hurting his back and Bobby Thomson mysteriously losing his fielding touch at third base.

If ever a pilot had to operate from day to day and improvise almost by the inning, it has been Durocher.

Durocher's $45,000-a-year contract expires with the final game Sept. 28, and he no doubt will be in there slugging to have it renewed for a period of years. President Horace Stoneham is understood to favor a year-to-year pact with his pilot from here on.

Part of Curriculm Will be Shifted To Grade Twelve

TORONTO (CP) — Grade 13 in Ontario schools will be less tough this year because part of the curriculum will be shifted to grade 12, Education Minister Dunlop said yesterday.

The change had been made by moving part of the content of several subjects, particularly history, back a year. He said he does not think there is any danger of grade 12 being overloaded, but will give students a better rounded course.

Dr. Dunlop also said that there would be a record enrollment of 832,400 pupils, a jump of 38,000 more than last year. There is, however, a shortage of 800 to 1,000 teachers, but schools would be able to manage without having to close any classrooms.

Prime Minister On 16-Day Tour Across Canada

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister St. Laurent left yesterday on a 16-day meet-the-people tour that will take him to the west coast and back.

It will be the 70-year-old Prime Minister's longest trip since the election campaign of 1949.

The Prime Minister has brief stops scheduled for three Ontario points of the westward journey—at Orillia, Midland and Penetanguishene.

Top Tennis Stars Line Sights On Grass Title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)—The 10-day scramble for the United States grass courts tennis championship gets under way today with 128 players setting their sights on the throne occupied by ferocious Frank Sedgman.

Probably the only surprise that could take place in the 71st renewal of the event would be Sedgman not winning the title for the second time in a row. The Australian Davis Cup ace has been head and shoulders over the rest of the amateur tennis world for the last year.

Sedgman and Vic Seixas, the United States' No. 1 standard bearer, get into action on the first day's play.

Frank, top-seeded among the foreign talent which embraces players from eight countries, is drawn against Alvin Bunnis of Cincinnati. Seixas is scheduled to go against Frank Okey of Rochester, N.Y.

Kurt Nielsen of Denmark, Lorne Main of Vancouver and Felicissimo Ampon of the Philippines also are to play. Only Main figures to have any trouble. In fact, he is the underdog in his match against Lewis Hoad, one of Australia's 17-year-old whiz kids.

Main's Canadian Davis Cup teammate, Brendan Macken of Montreal, drew Mexico's Joaquin Reyes as his first-round opponent.

In the women's division, Mrs. Louise Brown of Toronto faces a tough opening assignment in third-seeded Louise Brough of Beverley Hills, Calif.

U.K. Tea Ration Will be Increased On September 7

LONDON (Reuters) — Britons learned yesterday that their weekly tea ration will be increased Sept. 7 by half an ounce to three ounces.

The ration for those over 70 will be 3 1-2 ounces, also a half-ounce increase.

The Ministry of Food said the increases are due to an improvement in import stocks. The Ministry added that rationing may end soon, if stocks continue to improve.

Cheese, butter, margarine, shortening, sugar, candy, meat, bacon and eggs still are rationed.

Lax General Reduced To History Office

WASHINGTON (AP)—Maj.-Gen. Robert W. Grow, 57, was assigned to the Army's historical office today—one month after he was convicted by a court martial of writing secret information in his personal diary.

The diary fell into the hands of Soviet agents and it was used as the basis of a propaganda attack earlier this year. The army said it was taken from a hotel room in Frankfurt when Grow was on a visit.

The court martial convicted Grow of improperly recording secret information and failing to properly safeguard classified information.

Sentenced to a reprimand and suspension from command of troops for a six-month period, he could have been dismissed from the service and imprisoned for five years.

Grow was U. S. military attache to Moscow at the time the diary was spirited from his hotel room.

WD TRACTION BOOSTER
Gives You More Work Power

When you set the hydraulic lever on the WD Tractor, you can add as much as a thousand pounds of weight on the rear tractor wheels.

As the drawbar load increases, the hydraulic system uses the weight of the implement plus the weight of the soil to bear down on the wheels. Location of the implement behind the tractor gives it leverage, which multiples implement weight at the tractor axle.

It's entirely automatic. The tractor selects the amount of weight needed. And it's all a part of the complete WD hydraulic system—no extra equipment.

Stop in and let us show you how the WD will do drawbar jobs which ordinarily require a much heavier tractor.

Redmen Blast 2 Homers To Snatch 10th Inning Win From Kingston

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

THIS WIN HAD A TONY!

"I'm just wild about Harry" chortled Tony Pettitt in Megaffin Stadium Kingston last night as he saw leftfielder Eric Rank rattle his vertebrae off the left field wall twice to pull down towering drives.

"Now Harry's wild about me," he continued in the ninth as he trotted around the bases after hurling a terrific two-run homer twenty feet over Rank's head. And Huck Reeves added vocal accompaniment in the tenth when he blasted another Norm Harry drive over the same fence to give our side a snatched-out-of-the-fire 6-5 victory.

The Reds put on a repeat performance of their last win over the Monarchs. They were trailing 5-3 going into the ninth and the near-1,000 fans, imagine, were grabbing television tickets out of purses, pants and sportshirt pockets. Then the lighning struck. Tony took holt and dagnabbed if the score wasn't tied.

Then to add figurative insult to injury there strolled one Art. Wright to the pitching mound. That was it. "Master Wright" is and has been to the Monarchs what Paris Green is to the spud bug. "L'il" Arthur set the Scruttoneers on their ears, and the drama went into the fourth act or tenth innings. Huck teed off on a down-the-middle Harryan service; Marse Wright fired smoke-ringed balls past three Monarchs, and the show was over.

Now, Kingston meets Peterborough come Saturday in the last game of the schedule. If Kingston wins (wanna bet?) the Petes are tied with our side for top slot. If not, comes the play-offs which get under way in Belleville next Tuesday night in a three-of-five series.

'Tis not often that kudos are tossed the way of that much-maligned individual, the umpire. But in passing we would like to add that the work of Don Dolan behind the plate was one of the best efforts seen this season. The youngster turned in a splendid job. There were no rhubarbs, strange for a Belleville-Kingston clash, and while he may have bordered one or two calls, he came through with flying colors.

SHOULD BE GOOD

Tomorrow night, at nine o'clock as far as is known, the Glen Roy juniors tangle with the Oshawa juniors at Alemite Field in the first of their two-of-three series for the OBA junior "A" softball championship of Eastern Ontario.

Coach Bill Spafford has been drilling his charges hard with practices and exhibition tilts and feels they are in fine condition for what appears to be the severest test of their seasonal career. And Bill is taking no chances, for this Oshawa crew is said to be "some punkins" up around the Motor City, always a hotbed of softball.

The Oshawans definitely are no pushovers. At the moment they are engaged in a series with the Oshawa UAMA Brenches, a senior team, for the city championship. And you don't reach city titular series if you're "bunch of pushovers." It should be a tough hard-fought series between two outstanding junior teams, said by some observers to be two of the best in Ontario. No matter who wins they'll know they've been in a softball battle. "Up, the Glens."

PLEASE OMIT FLOWERS!

"There's many a flip twixt the Whip and the Clip" but "Tonight You Belong to Me," hummed Lord Athol Layton, with tonsil accompaniment by Lew (The Fat) Pitroscia, his man Friday.

"Quick, Watson, the Whip" growled Perfesser Sherlock Holmes Flanagan, sometimes called "Pat" because that's the way he stands when tough cards are dealt against him. "We've got a pair of jokers in a raw deal tonight, and the sooner we toss 'em in the discard the cleaner the game will be."

So it looks like a "hot time in the ole town tonight" when the Whip clashes with the Clip, with Pat and Fat looming in the background to toss out a tow-rope when the seas get heavy. There'll be no four at bridge when this quartet starts leering and grimacing at one another, and at this writing we rather pity the fifth man, whoever he is, because he will have a full house on his hands all evening.

The Clip and the Fat are still seething over the treatment dished out last Friday after that "no-contest brawl, when Pat held up Fat while Whip dealt the clip. Then the same procedure on the Clip and he and Fat lay listening to some of the "sweetest chirping this side of heaven."

So tonight there should be fireworks. There's no love lost between this foursome, and they'll be batiling to the last lap, no matter who owns it. Then there's Ray Villmer and the Masked Marvel, with Tiger Tasker and Sonny Kurgis as an appetizer.

DOING WELL!

Bill Taylor, a personable chapple and newly-elected president of OSCAR (Association of Auto Stock Car Racers) hereabouts dropped in the other day to mention that the boys of the Bayside Speedway track are enjoying some mighty successful meets. Bill has Ken Kenny for his vice-president, Albert Jones as board member, while the organization is going to appoint an Oscarette" as secretary treasurer.

Bill tells us his organization has formed a "Car Committee," the chief functcion of which is to see that all cars entered in races at the speedway are Class "B". In other words no modified cars or Class "A" cars can enter the races at Bayside.

Taylor says the organization is doing well and expects to do better. Every driver has an equal chance for honors since the races are restricted to one class and the idea seems to be a popular one.

The Carling Trophy, a handsome award, has been put up by the Carlings Breweries for annual competition and at the moment the race is close. Cliff Stillmen leads with 14 points; Earl Handley and Clare Johnson are tied for second spot with 11; Bob Colliver and Bruce Kemp have three, with Jack McCrory and Bob Byrd, two and one respectively.

The Bayside Speedway will hold a meet tomorrow afternoon instead of Monday as formerly announced Taylor said. The first heat will get under way at 2.30 on the track 200 yards north of Highway No. 2 opposite the White Church. Taylor is anticipating a large crowd to view what he believes will be the most thrilling events staged on the track this year.

Tony Pettitt's Two-Ply Smash Ties Up 5-3 Pastime in Ninth, Reeves Repeats With Winner

By Geo. H. Carver
(Sports Editor)

Home - run lightning struck swiftly in Megaffin Stadium, Kingston, last night and as over 1,000 television-hungry fans sat almost aghast, the Belleville Redmen reached deep into the fire and snatched a 6-5 victory from under the noses of the amazed Kingston Monarchs.

It was the last scheduled games for the teams and the Reds victory gives them a mathematical chance to cop first place. Kingston and the Petes end their schedule Saturday night and a Kingston victory will create a tie for the top between the Lift-lock crew and the Redmen.

The game was a near repetition of that of last Monday night when the Reds staged a ninth and tenth innings rally to edge the Monarchs by a run.

Tony "Pooshed It Up"

The stage setting was the same Norm Harry, who went the route for the Monarchs had a 5-3 lead going into the top of the ninth. Johnny Mowat grounded out. Pat Gilmour walked and was forced at second by Russ Soules. Then Tony Pettitt who had sent Rank, Monarch leftfielder, twice to the fence to haul down his towering flies, elevated his sights and drove Harry's first pitch over the wall for a two-run game-tying homer. Wardhaugh and Kelleher grounded out.

The Monarchs went down in the top of the tenth and Mouse Bush, first Red batter grounded out. Huck Reeves strode to the plate and Harry grooved a fast one. Huck leaned on it and it went up and up and over the left centre field wall for another round-tripper and the ultimate winning run.

Art Wright, the Monarchs seasonal nemesis, who took over from Mowat in the ninth, blazed his fast ball past Lenard and forced Carnegie and pinch-hitter Stan Scrutton to fly out, and that was that.

It was crowd-pleasing baseball despite the fact the teams kicked the ball around eleven times with the Reds getting six.

Used Four Pitchers

Coach Ralph McCabe used four pitchers for the victory. Bob Bunton started and was forced out of the game with a sore leg after he hurled one inning and smashed out a triple. Bill Strahan took over and lasted for two chukers giving up five hits for three runs in two innings. Johnny Mowat relieved him to start the fourth and hurled his best performance of the season for the next five innings allowing four hits for a single. Art Wright went in, in the ninth and was tabbed for a single in two innings. He was credited with the victory.

Norm Harry lasted throughout and was nicked for 10 hits. He struck out four and walked one. Bunton issued the only other walk of the game.

Monarchs scored a run in the first off McCormick's double a walk and two Redmen errors. They added three in the third when Rank and Levandoski singled in succession after two batters had been retired. Lenard smote a mighty triple to the fence scoring two and raced home on Carnegie's single through the middle.

Three Redmen errors in the fifth accounted for the final Monarch run with Lenard's second hit of the game paving the way for the score.

The Reds whittled away at the Kingston lead scoring singles in the second, fourth and fifth, then were blanked until the fateful ninth when Pettitt's two-ply blast yanked seemingly certain defeat out of the fire.

Huck Reeves paced the Red offensive with a homer and single. Mulholland, who was forced out of the game in the eighth through illness, Bush, and Kelleher got two each and "Pooshem-up" Tony Pettitt, of course hero'd the piece with that sizzling game-tying homer.

Lenard with a triple and single, Levandoski, Rank, Lenard and Carnegie with two each, were the Kingston snipers, McCormick hit a double.

The Monarchs came through with a neat twin-killing for the fielding feature of the game.

Four Yanks Quest Canadian Amateur Golf Crown

VANCOUVER (CP) — Four American belters today trek over 36 holes on the cliff-hanging Capilano course in West Vancouver in the semi-final round of the Canadian amateur golf championship.

Ousting of the last Canadian yesterday from the week-long marathon assured the first all-American final since New Yorkers Eddie Held and Gardiner White met in 1929. Last American champion was Dick Chapman of Osterville, Mass., who won over Joe Stoddard of Hamilton in 1949.

Silent Sam Urzetta of Rochester, N.Y., 1950 U.S. champion, takes on Billy Campbell of Huntgington, W. Va., a U.S., Walker Cup player, in one semi-final.

The other semi-windup puts advertising man Ed Meister of Cleveland against car salesman Larry Bouchey of Inglewood, Mass.

Urzetta and Meister looked the more impressive yesterday as they swept through the fifth and sixth rounds of this 48th Canadian amateur golf show.

Trims Four Canucks

Urzetta, 26-year-old lumber salesman, whipped Doug Silverberg of Red Deer, Alta., and Bob Gray of Winnipeg by identical 4-and-3 scores. Urzetta knocked out four Canadians en route to the semis.

Meister mastered Eddie Draper of Seattle, Washington state champion, 2 and 1 and Robert Roos of San Francisco 5 and 3. Roos, in a fifth-round match against Colin Brown of London, Ont., double eagled the par-5, 447-yard 10th when his second shot, a No. 4 wood, rolled in.

Campbell had trouble getting rid of Jim Blair of Jefferson City, Mo., in the fifth round, finally winning 1 up. He had easy sailing in the quarter-finals, thumping Gord Haskell of Seattle 6 and 5.

Bouchey had two narrow squeaks, winning both his matches 1 up. His victims were Nick Weslock of Windsor, Ont., last year's finalist, and Jack Reynolds of Vancouver.

SARNIA (CP)—Sarnia Beavers downed Wallaceburg Red Devils 10-3 before 800 fans here last night in the first game of a best-of-seven series for the CanadianAmerican Lacrsse Association championship. The second game will be played tomorrow in Wallaceburg.

Royals Need Five To Sew Up 2nd Straight Flag

(By The Associated Press)

Montreal Royals need only five more victories to sew up their second straight International pennant.

And a loss by Syracuse Chiefs will make the task that much easier for the Royals.

With 17 games left, Montreal leads Syracuse by 11 games. The Chiefs have only 13 games in which to make up for the lost ground.

Time for Rochester's Red Wings also is rapidly running out. They are in third place, 13 games off the pace. Three Montreal wins will eliminate the Wings.

All of the three top teams won last night. Royals down Buffalo 9-1 as they completed their schedule against the Bisons with a record of 16 wins in 22 starts. Syracuse whipped Toronto 3-1 for the Chiefs' 15th conquest of the Maple Leafs in their 22 games And Rochester downed Ottawa 9-4 in the circuit's only other contest.

Hamp Coleman scattered seven Buffalo hits in wrapping up his 10th mound success against three losses for the Royals.

Bobo Holloman gave up only three hits in defeating Toronto for his 14th triumph. Four of the Chief's eight hits were for extra bases, with Carden Gillenwater's triple setting up the tie breaking run in the sixth.

Indians Muff Chance To Gain By Splitting With Tigers

Detroit, Tribe's 1951 Nemesis Back to Haunt '52 Wigwam; Brooklyn Rolls Merrily Along

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The schedule favors Cleveland Indians in their quest of the 1952 American League pennant, but one disturbing factor in the otherwise serene picture is Detroit Tigers.

Cleveland is due to meet the tail-end Tigers nine times before the curtain falls Sept. 28. The marooned Tigers have a nasty habit of beating the Indians at inopportune moments.

Did It Last Year

Detroit, then in fifth place, upset the Indians' apple cart last year by sweeping a three-game set from the Tribe late in September to kill Cleveland's chances of overhauling New York Yankees.

The spectre of 1951 haunted the Indians again last night as they missed a chance to pick up ground on the front-running Yankees by splitting a twi-night twin bill with the Tigers.

Early Wynn coasted to his 17th victory in the first game, won by the Indians 9-3, But Hal Newhouser turned back the Tribe 4-1 for the 198th victory of his major league career in the second. As the Yanks were idle, Cleveland remained two games off the pace—but dropped a game in the important "loss" column.

The Indians have 27 games left to play—including 20 of their last 22 at home. The Yanks also have 27 games left but 18 of them are on foreign soil. Third-place Boston has 31 games to go but 22 are away from home.

Al Rosen drove home four runs on four singles to ease Wynn's task in the opener at Detroit. Wynn permitted only six hits in posting his seventh straight triumph over the Tigers over a two-year span.

24 For Rosen

Rosen provided Steve Gromek with a 1-0 lead by socking his 24th homer in the second inning of the second game. But Cliff Mapes homered with one aboard in the Detroit half and the Tigers remained in the van for keeps.

The Red Sox also blew a chance to gain by dropping the first game of a doubleheader to Philadelphia Athletics 6-4. Cass Michaels' three-run double in the eighth won it for the As. The second game was rained out.

Brooklyn, meanwhile, continued its march to the National League flag by dumping Chicago Cubs 9-6 to remain 9½ games ahead of New York Giants. The Giants swamped Pittsburgh 14-7 while Cincinnati edged Boston 5-4 in 11 innings and Philadelphia outlasted St. Louis 10-6 in the circuit's only night game.

Rubber-armed Joe Black, making his 44th appearance of the season, gained credit for his 11th victory for Brooklyn. Black relieved Clem Labine in the fifth and checked the Cubs on one run the rest of the way. The Dodgers broke a 5-5 tie with four runs in the seventh to win. Gil Hodges' two-run double was the big blow of the outburst.

Koslo Wins Easily

Little Dave Koslo had a picnic as the Giants drubbed five Pittsburgh pitchers for 16 hits, including a home run by Whitey Lockman and three hits each by Al Dark and Bobby Thomson.

Roy McMillan broke up the extra-inning battle at Cincinnati by singling home Hank Edwards from second base in the 11th, and in St. Louis Robin Roberts staggered to his 21st victory of the season as the Phils lambasted the Cards.

Hornets Prexy Calls Confab

Pittsburgh (AP) — John H. Harris, president of Pittsburgh Hornets, said yesterday he has telegraphed his seven fellow clubowners of the American Hockey League to discuss new regulations he considers injurious to the Hornets.

Three rules Harris wants changed are:

1. Denial of the right of parent National Hockey League owners to recall players during the A.H.L. season and playoffs.
2. Reduction of squads from 16 to 13 members.
3. Team budget limit covering in a package sum all such outlays as salaries of coaches, players and trainers, transportation and hotel bills and meals on the road.

During the 1951-52 campaign, the A.H.L. operated on a fairly liberal basis. In addition to their A.H.L. salaries, players owned by N.H.L. teams could also receive additional pay from the parent club. Such extra payments are banned this year.

PLUNGE FATAL

CHATHAM, N.S., (CP)— An 80-foot plunge at the Chatham Exhibition ended in death yesterday for 34-year-old aerial artist Peter Kourmapates.

While performing with his brother, George, he slipped from the bar of his trapeze and hurtled to the ground.

BETTE SAVES $66,000

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actress Bette Davis is $66,000 ahead today. The government said she owed that amount as income tax for 1942-43, but Judge Ben Harrison yesterday ruled in Bette's favor.

Panthers Blast London Hurlers For 14-3 Victory

(By The Canadian Press)

Kitchener Panthers blasted three London pitchers for 16 hits to defeat the Majors 14-3 in the second game of the senior Intercounty Baseball League round-robin play-offs last night.

London edged out Brantford Red Sox 6-5 in 11 innings Tuesday night.

Chuck Fedoris, the league's top hurler, allowed the Majors an early two-run lead when he gave up three safeties in the first inning. Throughout the rest of the game he scattered six more hits good for only one run.

Fedoris also contributed materially to his own cause, slamming a triple and an eighth-inning two-run homer.

Five For Five

Second baseman George Boniface led the Panthers offensively with five hits in five trips to the plate. He banged out four singles and a double.

London's big gun was Russ Evon, who won the batting crown during the regular season. He got three hits in four trips. Bob Bloxam, London first baseman who finished the game as a relief pitcher, got two safeties on four trips.

Com Church, who started on the mound for the Majors, suffered the loss. He lasted until the top of the third, when he left in favor of Tommy White. White, who pitched with a broken thumb on his left fielding hand, lasted until the seventh.

Kitchener took a 3-2 lead in the second inning and was never threatened.

The win leaves the Panthers on top with a win and no losses. London follows with one victory and one defeat and Brantford, with a loss in the only game it has played, is third.

The Panthers play the Red Sox in Brantford tonight.

Yankees Swap 4 Players, Cash For Cincy's Ewell Blackwell

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The mystery of the seven National League clubs passing up Ewell Blackwell for the $10,000 waiver price was only partially explained today as baseball executives gave their reasons for allowing the former Cincinnati ace to go to New York Yankees.

"Blackwell's through! He can't help us."

That was the concensus among the National League moguls. Apparently the world champion Yankees don't agree or they would never have shelled out some $50,000 plus four players to get the 29-year-old righthander.

Outbid Sox, Indians

Conceding that Blackwell is not the pitcher he once was, he still is far from finished, at least in the opinion of some American Leaguers. For it was learned General Managers Hank Greenberg of Cleveland and Frank Lane of Chicago White Sox made overtures for him but were outbid by the Yankees.

The Yankees gave up a pretty fair pitcher in southpaw Johnny Schmitz and three players from their minor league farms—outfielders Jim Greengrass, Bob Marquez and pitcher Ernie Nevel.

The Yanks refused to reveal the purchase price, but expressed the belief that Blackwell would prove as important an acquisition as Johnny Mize, Johnny Hopp and Johnny Sain. Those three players were plucked out of the National League in the last three years near the end of the season.

If Backwell, winner of only three games against 12 losses and currently plagued by a sore arm, should do an about face with the Yankees, there are sure to be several red faces in the National League.

Think He's Through

Explaining why Brooklyn Dodgers left Blacky out of the league, General Manager E. J. Bavasi said:

"We may be wrong but we don't think Blackwell has it any more. Besides, he has a sore arm."

Other comments:

Fred Saigh, president of St. Louis Cardinals—"We've got a lot of good young pitchers we think are much better. We want to go with them for a good finish this year and, principally, for a good start next year."

A Pittsburgh spokesman—"The Pirates thought Blackwell was through."

George Fletcher, publicity director of Philadelphia Phillies—"We are well fortified with righthanded pitchers right now."

Blackwell—"Boy, oh boy, oh boy!"

Sport in Brief

OTTAWA. (CP) —John Swann of Vancouver and Gerald Parchute of Hamtramck, Mich., joined forces last night to win the junior emn's doubles tennis title in the closing match of the Canadian junior tennis championships here.

Swann and Parchute, who had not been able to click in singles matches during the week-long tournament, ousted the United States favorites, John Maclean of Buffalo and Joe Jacinto of East Rockaway, N.Y., 3-6, 3-6, 6-1, 7-5, 6-1.

Seventeen-yearold Parchute, who started off the match with two double defaults, steadied his play and sparked the win with near-perfect overhead shots.

Jacinto took the other championship decided yesterday. The 16-year-old Filipino teamed with Joyce Pniewski of Hamtramck to win the junior mixed doubles. They defeated the Nova Scotia duo of Dave Piers, 18, of Truro, and Ann Stacey, 17, Halifax, 8-6, 8-6.

QUEBEC. (CP)—Fifteen English girls, field hockey enthusiasts, arrived here last night for a tour of the United States, confident they will win most of their games.

The girls were selected from western English counties, two from each county.

TORONTO. (CP) — Reg Hill, Indian schoolmaster from the Six Nations reserve at Ohsweken, yesterday won the Canadian National Exhibition men's open archery championshipj. Hill drove his last six arrows into dead centre of the target from 120 feet. He wound up the three-day competition with a total of 546 hits for a score of 3,672 points. Milt Obediah of Brantford, was second with 540 hits for 3,338.

WINNIPEG. (CP) — Montreal Stelcos last night handed Winnipeg United Weston a second 1-0 defeat to sweep their best-of-three Dominion soccer semi-final in two games.

Stelcos now meet the winner of the New Westminster-Edmonton series for the Dominion championship.

NEW YORK. (AP)—Dick Button, world and Olympic figure skating champion, turned professional yesterday and will appear in the Ice Capades opening in Madison Square Garden Sept. 11. Button plans only limited engagements until he completes his college education. He returns to Harvard this fall.

PITTSBURGH. (AP) —The 3,561 fans at Forbes Field yesterday didn't need to try hard to get a baseball. Pittsburgh Pirates and New York Giants between them hit 102 balls into the stands or out of the park. That's one ball for every 34.8 fans. The cost is $2.50 a ball.

Play Semi-Finals Women's Amateur Golf Tourney

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) —Four favorite daughters from Hawaii and Washington, Texas and California tee off today in the semi-finals of the women's amateur golf championship.

Victors in yesterday's quarter-finals at the Waverley County Club, the line-up read like this for today's 18-hole play:

Mrs. Jacqueline Pung of Honolulu vs. Patricia Ann Lesser of Seattle.

Patricia Garner of Midland, Tex., vs. Shirley McFedters of Long Beach, Calif.

They arrived in the semi-final stage after a round of golf that produced its share of surprises and golf good and bad.

Mrs. Pung defeated Edean Anderson, Helena, Mont., the Canadian women's open titlist, 2 up; Miss Lesser won from the California champion, Barbara Romack of Sacramento, 3 and 2; Miss Garner ousted 17-year-old Barbara Snook of Portland, 2 and 1, and Miss McFedters defeated Claire Doran of Cleveland, last year's runner-up, on the 20th hole.

Tomorrow the winners meet at 36 holes for the title won in 1951 by Dorothy Kirby. Two days ago Dorothy lost to Miss Anderson.

Mrs. Pung is 29-year-old mother of two young daughters, the wife of a Chinese fireman and a jolly soul who likes to shed her shoes as soon as possible after a match.

She will also go into a hula dance—barefoot, of course— on the green following a victory.

CRAWLS OUT UNHURT

ST. THOMAS. (CP) — George Olley, 27, of Emergy Street, London, Ont., crawled from beneath a city bus yesterday without a scratch. He had been thrown from his motorcycle by a collision with the vehicle.

Lady Champion Retains Title

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Kitchener's Mary Gray, 21-yearold Ontario ladies golf champion, successfully defended her Long trophy title here yesterday, touring the nine-hole Oxford Golf and Country Club layout for an 18-hole score of 82.

Miss Gray put together identical ounds of 41 to win again the title she took in last year's tournament in Galt. Mrs. Rose Kampman of Brantford and Mrs. Evelyn Sutherland of Woodstock tied for second with 87s.

The tournament is open to the women of clubs in the four counties of Norfolk, Brant, Waterloo and Oxford.

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

When Akoolap Oxpert takes a losing finesse he snaps his fingers and groans: "Gee, I'm unlucky. I always find the queen (or king) on the wrong side." His plans of play are haphazard.

What do I mean by haphazard? Not necessarily that he makes no plan at all. A haphazard plan is one in which everything is based on chance. Or based on chances in which the odds are least favorable.

At a contract of six clubs, sit south as declarer in this pair:

South	North
♠K 10 7	♠A J 9 8
♥A K Q	♥9 8 5 3
♦A K	♦J 7
♣K J 10 7 5	♣Q 9 2

You do not see the opponent cards. All you see of theirs is a diamond that was the opening lead from west. What you also see are the cards in dummy combined with what your south hand holds.

You know you will lose one trick to the ace of trump. The only other fear is the loss of a spade trick. Your hope of saving this possible loser in spades is by taking a finesse. But which way?

Before taking the spade finesse you will be wise enough to draw three rounds of hearts. If opponent hearts fall on these, you can sluff a south spade on the fourth dummy heart. No finesse needed.

A finesse is a 50-50 chance. Finding six outstanding cards in a three-three split is a chance of about one in two. So, taking the finesse is slightly safer than playing for a three-three drop.

However, after trumps are drawn from the opponents, nothing will be lost by playing three heart rounds. If one opponent still has a high heart, take the spade finesse. But which way?

Two fifths of the time the queen will be over the jack; only one fifth of the time under the jack. So, take the first trick with dummy spade ace and lead jack toward south king-ten and finesse.

If it does not work you lose. And in billions of deals it will lose. But in more billions it will win. And with nothing else to guide you, percentage is in favor of queen over jack. Wanna bet?

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma stopped reeding her magazine and started to fan herself with it, saying to pop, Really, William, I meen really, this heet is gassly. I dont see how you can sit there looking so unconcerned, she said.

It wont be long now before good old Winter changes the picture so nobody will recognize it, except perhaps the weather man. I was just reeding an article by an English authority, who claims that the ideal temperature for a living room is 65 degrees, he said, and ma said, How preposterous. The English are very nice peeple and I love their accent, but they have a perfect obsession about cold rooms. A tipical English household, all winter long, consists of women huddled in shawls and men wrapped in tweeds, she said.

After all, I suppose it's an acquired taste, like fox hunting, and tea and kidneys for breakfist, pop said. The sensible thing would be to start at 67 degrees and werk down, he said, and ma said, The sensible thing is to start at 75 degrees and werk up, like normal human beings who want to establish a real distinction between indoors and out.

Well, at a stretch, you might start at 68 degrees, pop said, and ma said, Now William, I'm not going to have my whole winter spoiled by dissension about the temperature of the house. I dont see how men can breethe indoors at any temperature, the way they bundle themselves up in heavy wool vests and golf socks. If you dress sensibly you can breethe sensibly, and that's my final anser, she said.

You win, my dear, but you cant say I didn't take your mind off the hot weather for a few minutes, pop said.

And he got in back of the sporting page laffing.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What a difference a hit song makes.

At least it changed the life of Ross Bagdasarian. He's the guy who was responsible for "Come Ona My House." which was driving the country buggy a year ago. His cousin, William Saroyan, also got credit for the composition, but his contribution was reported to have been slight.

Anyway, the song completely altered the life of Bagdasarian, whose career had long wavered between show business and grapes.

Ross—let's call him by his first name—is one of the Americans of Armenian ancestry settled in the warm San Joaquin Valley. He is a happy extrovert, full of the joy of living.

Sour Grapes

The lad abandoned the family trade—grapes—to follow his famous playwright cousin. Ross appeared in two Saroyan plays on Broadway: "Time of Your Life" and "Love's Old Sweet Song." Then came the war.

"After I got out of the service, I decided I would settle down in Fresno and raise grapes," he related. "I lost everything. So, I came to Hollywood."

Ross began pounding on music publishers' doors. He had written "Come Ona My House" 10 years before, but had never been able to interest anyone in it.

Finally he sent a record of the song east with a friend, who was instructed to play it for Kay Arman. Later he learned that Arman had recorded the song, and so had a new singer named Rosemary Clooney.

Hot Now

"My luck changed," Ross said. "In the past year, I've had two hit songs (the other: 'What's the use,' recorded by Johnny Ray) and acted in six pictures."

Ross said the film roles resulted from his fame as a song writer.

Although thriving in his present profession, he hasn't forgotten his old one. He manages to get the word "grape" into the lyrics of every song he writes.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SATURDAY, AUG. 30, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Easy day unless your schedule is exacting. Aspects are pleasant, problems need not worry or burden you. Ttake things in order and calmly.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Venus and other planetary positions now stress more care in personal affairs. Excellent day for seeking and granting favors, for business at social meetings.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Very favorable Mercury and Sun rays augur for prosperous plans, essential business and work. You'll be keen, busy; but don't overdo.

June 22 to July 2c (Cancer)—Your Moon's position urges patience and your innate kindliness for happier going. Whole day, however, is friendly and promises fruitful results.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo) — Should be grand day for your interests, for fulfillment of honorable desires and aspirations. But don't go to extremes in anything.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Mercury well aspected encourages study, research, any activity requiring keen mental alertness. Enjoy some free hours at a hobby or healthy recreation.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Only admonition this pleasant day is to forget self and trifling annoyances that you may appreciate the many blessings and favors in evidence.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You can improve health and outlook today being cheerful, co-operative with those who have a call on you. Don't be overanxious. Have fun.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Perhaps quiet for finances, but day on whole is encouraging and beneficial for all who think and do right. Urgent matters favored.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Saturn' aspect now advises against recklessness; unhealthy, profitable restlessness. Steady! There are fine indications for necessary accomplishment.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—This can be a day for attainment in essentials, a day for pleasant social affairs, healthy sports, hobbies, happiness in family gatherings. Do not neglect duties.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces) — Peppy, stimulating rays with your Neptune and several other planets in great array. Accomplish what you should and pray for those less fortunate. Good days ahead!

YOU BORN TODAY: Discriminating, fair-minded, quick to recover from reverses and seldom complain about your work or other responsibilities. May tend to be too critical of others; yearn to improve people and conditions. Don't wear yourself out on others' problems. Seek God's help.

Birthdate: Leo Cherniacsky, famed violinist; David Hartley, Eng. philosopher.

R.C.M.P. Unable To Confirm Tale Of Red Spy Ring

OTTAWA (CP)—The R. C. M. P. began a detailed investigation today of a report of an alleged Russian spy ring in Montreal but hit a blank wall on preliminary inquiries.

A spokesman said that so far the R. C. M. P. has unearthed nothing which could confirm the report by the Montreal Gazette.

The Montreal newspaper said in a front-page story that a well-organized spy ring, composed of refugees from Iron Curtain countries who entered Canada in the last three and four years, is operating in Montreal.

The story said that two informants, whose names had to be kept secret to protect relatives still living in Poland and Czechoslovakia, said they had been asked by Russian agents to transmit secret data on Montreal's defence industry.

The defence production and immigration departments said they had no information which would indicate that a Russian spy ring existed in Montreal.

An immigration department official said he had checked with his Montreal office and had been told that no immigrant had ever reported to officials that they had been approached by Russian agents or had been asked to spy on Canada's defence industries.

In Montreal police forces also said they have no knowledge of a group of the spies.

Two Calves Shot By U.S. Inspector On Canadian Soil

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) —An "international incident" was in the making today after the shooting of two calves on Canadian soil by an inspector of the U.S. Federal Bureau of Animal Husbandry.

Because of the foot-and-mouth embargo on Canadian cattle, U.S. inspectors have orders to shoot any animals, Canadian or American, which wander on Canadian soil and return to the U.S.

The calves were shot a few minutes after they left their mothers and wandered outside a fence. Owner Val Haynes claims the fence is 30 feet from the international boundary. Two empty shells were found close to the fence.

Haynes has protested to Washington.

In 1906 President Theodore Roosevelt set aside a 30-foot strip along the international border in the U.S. as a public domain. Canada took similar action.

Project Pygmalion

By Grey MacMillan

Copyright 1952 By NEA Service, Inc.

David Carlson nodded as he listened to me tell about breaking up with Kathy. "At least you didn't get married. You wouldn't of been happy with a mama's girl like she was, anyhow. Me, now . . ." He broke off, sipping coffee, thoughtfully. "Well, my slate is so muddied up you can hardly see it. I've been married five years now."

My jaw sagged. "I didn't realize," I faltered. "You never spend your evenings—"

"Yeah. I know what you mean"

After we'd done the dishes and had seconds of coffee, I said I'd run him home in the car, since the rain looked as though it were settling in for the night.

So we set out, the rain pelting metallically on the roof of the car. David fell into a taut silence, broken only by occasional street directions. I tried to get some music on the radio to take the edge off things but static blotted out the attempt, so I gave up, and we drove through the glistening streets.

In a congested district in an old part of town, full of boarding houses and semi-industrial buildings, David finally said, "this is it. Second ohuse on the right."

It was a three story frame building, long devoid of paint, and it bulked heavily on a lot that barely fitted in. A strip of weeds about two feet wide separated it from the littered sidewalk. Two dripping dogs had taken refuge under the broken-down wood steps. They began barking unpleasantly.

David turned to me hesitantly. "I expect Ida's asleep, or I'd invite you up."

"Oh, that's okay. I've got to get on home—full day tomorrow. Hope I didn't bend your ear too much with my troubles."

He got out of the car and stood awkwardly leaning in the door. "Your troubles!" he sighed. "They're in the past; you just have a bad time thinking about them. But me! Mine are—I can't tell you . . ."

He paused, his face glistening with raindrops in the pallid light of the street lamp. "Come on up anyways. Right now. I'll show you what I mean. You'd find out anyhow."

Uneasily, I followed him up the steps and through the front door. We climbed a flight of dusty stairs and he cautiously opened a door on the second floor. It was dark inside.

"Ida?" he called. "You home? We got company, Ida."

No response, so we shuffled in. He fumbled his way to the centre of the room and reached for a cord that snapped on a bulb hanging from the ceiling.

A double bed, its grayish sheets and pillows clawed into jumbled piles, jutted out from one wall. A bedside table was glutted with full ashtrays, medicine bottles, movie magazines, nail polish with the cap left off, bobby pins, used tissues—I dragged my eyes away.

A flap of filthy wall paper as big as a bedsheet hung threateningly over the bureau. The place smelled like an unaired beer hall. An oil-cloth topped table against one wall held the remains of a sketchy meal for two people. A half-full milk bottle, a dish of crumby butter, a torn bakery bag and assorted unmatched cups and dirty dishes.

David picked up the butter dish. "That's Ida for you; never puts the butter away. No wonder we got cockroaches."

There was a cabinet with a collection of sea shells and souvenirs on its shelves. Atop it was a tinted photograph of a pretty girl with long fluffy brown hair and bold eyes and a wide, toothy smile.

"Your wife?" I asked.

"Yeah, that's Ida all right. About five years ago. She don't look much like that now. Gained forty-fifty pounds."

"How did she happen to gain so much weight?"

"Oh, I don't know. Maybe because she eats alla time, and drinks so much beer. But she blames it on me. Right after we got married—bang, she starts with a baby. I didn't much hanker for kids—I was just 18 then—but here she was with one on the way, so I took on like I thought it was wonderful. Well, she lost it. I don't know what went wrong. Anyways, she started eating like crazy; said she had to build herself up. I told her she looked terrible and she starts crying and tells me it's my fault and if I hadn't been so anxious for kids she would be in this fix."

"Why couldn't you live with your parents for awhile, until she sort of got back to, uh—normal?"

"My dad's sick alla time, and my mom works, and her sister lives with them. They got no room. Things have been worse than ever lately, because Ida thinks I've got another woman. I told her about you, but at first she said I was lying."

I leaped up. "I'm sorry, David. "I didn't mean to interfere in your life." (But I had meant to!)

"Don't talk crazy. I would of told you about this," he waved his hand, "long ago but I thought you'd be too ashamed of me to ever invite me back again."

"I'm not like that, am I?" I said.

He gripped my hand tensely. "You mean this dump don't make any difference?"

"Not a bit. I'll go now. Drop by tomorrow."

As I drove home, I realized the innumerable pitfalls there were in this game of playing God.

U.K., U.S. Propose 3-Point Settlement Of Iranian Oil Crisis

Offer Made Personally By Churchill, Truman

WASHINGTON (AP) — Britain and the United States today proposed a three-point settlement of the Anglo-Iranian oil crisis, including a grant of $10,000,000 from the U.S. to Iran.

The offer was made personally by President Truman and Prime Minister Churchill to Iranian Premier Mossadegh.

This extraordinary personal participation by the two western leaders stressed the gravity with which London and Washington regard the possibility of a Communist seizure of power in the strategic Middle Eastern country.

The President and Prime Minister said they "sincerely hope" their proposals for action will meet Mossadegh's "approval and result in a satisfactory solution."

The three proposals were presented by the ambassadors in Tehran today.

In essence they are:

1. Submission to the World Court of the question of compensation to be paid to the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company for its property in Iran, nationalized 18 months ago. The claims and counter-claims of both Iran and A.I.O.C. are to be fully considered.

2. Appointment of "suitable representatives" for the Iranian government and the A.I.O.C. to negotiate "arrangements for the flow of oil from Iran to world markets."

3. If Iran accepts the first two points, this is proposed: (A) A.I.O.C. will release for immediate sale $20,000 000 to $30,000,000 of oil now held in Iran by a sort of legal blockade. (B) Britain will relax restrictions on exports to Iran and on Iran's use of British sterling and (C) the U.S. "will make an immediate grant of $10,000,000 to the Iranian government to assist in their budgetary problem."

Old Ferry Boat Burns at Dock In Hamilton

HAMILTON (CP)—Fire early today gutted the cruise ship S.S. Hamiltonian, burning away most of the insides of the old steam-powered side-wheeler.

A little over half an hour before the fire broke out on the vessel at her dock here, several hundred passengers disembarked after a cruise around Hamilton Bay. None was injured.

Hours after the fire, the ship listed at 20 degrees because of the tons of water poured into her by two Hamilton fire-boats and eight companies of firemen.

Started in Lounge

The three-hour fire, believed to have started in the ladies lounge on the upper deck, was discovered shortly after 1 a.m. The blaze gained headway but was confined by the upper superstructure, the steel hull and the upper deck steel framework.

All the inside of the main superstructure was burned away, along with most of the decking and interior partitions. Most o fthe fire-fighting was done from the dock, with the firemen pouring water into her.

Captain Saves Log

By a quirk the cabin of Capt. Goodwin Joshua Corson was undamaged. He managed to get the ship's log and his personal effects. He said he didn't think she'd ever see service again.

An estimate of the damage was not immediately available from her owners, the Hamilton Harbor Commission.

Built in Kingston in 1897, the ship could carry 450 passengers and 30 cars. Originally known as the S.S. Champion, she was operated as a ferry between Gananoque, Ont., and Clayton N.Y., before being brought to Hamilton in 1944.

Five Red-Built Jets Downed, 12 Others Damaged

SEOUL, Korea (AP)—The United States Fifth Air Force said U.S. Sabre jet pilots shot down at least five Russian-built jets and damaged 12 others today in violent clashes near Suiho dam and Sinuiju in extreme northwest Korea.

A swarm of 100 Red jets crossed the Yalu river from Manchuria less than 24 hours after United Nations fighter bombers in record number Friday dealt the North Korean capital of Pyongyang one of the heaviest blows of the war.

Seventy-nine Sabres engaged the Red jets — the largest Communist air armadas to appear in months.

The Air Force said one of the 12 damaged Red fighters probably was destroyed.

The fiery battle upped the U.N. toll for August to a record of 32 MiGs destroyed, three probably destroyed and 42 damaged — the best monthly record of the war.

U.N. losses, if any, were not announced. They will be covered in a weekly summary due next Friday.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) — Synopsis: The weather picture is filled with many contrasts — snow in Alberta yesterday and temperatures in the 90s in Indiana — light winds in Pennsylvania and a hurricane headed for South Carolina.

Locally, cool air covered all the forecast regions with temperatures varying from 34 at White River to the mid-40s in central sections. Near Lake Ontario and Lake Erie a layer of cloud held temperatures in the 60s.

Sunday will see showers and thundershowers spreading into northern and central sections of the province with considerable cloud in southern sections.

Papal Honors Bestowed on Five Priests, Members

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Five priests and 10 lay members of the Roman Catholic diocese of London have received papal honors, Most Rev. John C. Cody, Bishop of London, announced yesterday.

The five priests have been made monsignors. They include Very Rev. William S. Morrison, St. Thomas, and Very Rev. Edward A. O'Donnell, Chatham.

Lay awards included: Hon. Justice Maurice King, of Stratford, supreme court of Ontario, named Knight Commander of the Order of St. Gregory the Great; Mrs. P. Michael Dewan, Ingersoll, pro ecclesia et pontifice medal.

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP)—The Shinnecock Indians today start a three-day pow-wow on their reservation near here. Eighteen tribes from 10 states and Canada are expected.

Present State of Cold War 'Still Grave, Tense' Says Prime Minister

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP)—The present state of the cold war "is still grave and tense," Prime Minister St. Laurent says.

The Prime Minister, on a cross-country tour that will take him as far as Victoria, warned Canadians yesterday that if another major war breaks out Canada must inevitably be drawn into it.

But he added that if war could be presented and Canada's membership in the North Atlantic Treaty Organization was the primary safeguard against it—he foresaw a population of 25,000,000 in Canada by the year 2000.

Mr. St. Laurent talked of the security value of NATO in nine speeches throughout this Georgian Bay district. He spoke from platforms, from the curbside in small villages and once from a front porch.

In Midland town park he said grand prospects awaited Canada's youth if peace can be maintained.

"But I must tell you," he said, "and tell the American visitors who are here today, that whenever there is a big war we cannot keep out .in spite of the present situation of cold war— and it is still grave and tense—if all the 14 nations (of NATO) do what they have agreed to do, we are going to have the strength to make any possible aggressor think twice before attempting war."

Mr. St. Laurent was free, easy and genial with his audiences, many of them women and children. Here and there he swept youngsters into his arms for a hug and a kiss.

He proudly pointed out on one or two occasions that he is the grandfather of 16 children.

JUSTICE KELLOCK TO HEAD BOARD ON WAGE DISPUTE

Non-Operating Rail Unions Are Involved

OTTAWA (CP)—Mr. Justice R.L. Kellock of the Supreme Court of Canada was chosen yesterday to head a conciliation board to deal with the wage dispute between Canada's railways and their 125,000 employees in non-operating unions.

He is expected to meet informally within the next week with the other two members of the board which will attempt to mediate the contract dispute involving wage demands costing many millions a year.

Talks Start Soon

The judge, who acted as arbitrator in the parliament-enforced settlement of the 1950 general rail strike, will be chairman of a conciliation board which can't dictate a settlement but which will try to settle company-union differences. Talks will likely start within the next two weeks in Montreal.

Acting with him on the board will be David Lewis, Toronto lawyer chosen by the unions, and Paul S. Smith, Montreal lawyer named by the railways.

The unions are more than a dozen international and national groups representing the workers who do not actually operate trains. They have asked for a general wage increase of 45 cents an hour across the board. The railways estimate this would cost around $150,000,000 a year.

Want Union Shop

Other union demands are a pegging of wages to the cost of living, a union shop under which workers would have to join one of the unions, and a check-off of union dues.

The average wage now is $1.29 an hour, as decided in Mr. Justice Kellock's 1950 arbitration finding. Kellock's 1950 arbitration finding.

Informants in touch with the present dispute agree there seems little chance of another strike this time. They say the unions and railways are "reasonably close" to reconciling their positions.

They represented the two sides as being not too far apart on the wage question, but the railways were said to be holding out against union insistance on the union shop. Some sort of compromise was expected on the wage-union shop issue through the conciliation board.

No Publication On Labor Day

Monday being Labor Day, there will be no publication of the Ontario Intelligencer.

CITY AGAIN ALARMED

BAKERSFIELD, Calif., (AP)—This earthquake-jittery city was alarmed at 9:57 PDT, 12:57 a.m. EDT last night when another quake shook the city and indirectly caused the death of a woman. No property damage was reported. Mrs. Zelda Reynolds, 27, died of a heart attack.

Several Homes Struck, Damaged At Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, Ont. (CP)—Sparks flew from all electrical outlets in Edwin Little's home yesterday after lightning struck and knocked off a chimney and entered a bathroom to knock chunks of plaster from the ceiling and heavy tile from the wall.

While Mrs. Little and her eight-year-old son, Donald, stood in amazement, stove-pipe stoppers flew off the walls and the whole house was filled with a peculiar haze of various colors "almost like a rainbow."

The lightning played other pranks during the worst electrical storm this season in this area 25 miles east of Peterborough. Oscar Rannie's farm home in nearby Seymour Township was struck twice. The first bolt destroyed a radio set and burned a hole in the dining room table. The second shattered a desk.

A generator at the town power house was put out of commission and a number of transformers in outlying sections were burned out. Telephone and hydro power lines were disrupted in rural areas of Northumberland County.

Two Drowned In Napanee River, Bodies Recovered

NAPANEE (CP)—Bob Follis, 15, drowned with his eight-year-old nephew in the Napanee River yesterday when he dived in to rescue him.

Follis and David Cheeseman of Kingston were fishing near a pumping station when the younger lad fell in. Follis, who had only just started to learn to swim, plunged in to save his newphew. Both were carried away.

The bodies were recovered about an hour later.

Oil Talks Will Be Resumed Early Next Week

LONDON (AP) — An official source said yesterday. Britain and United States will try again next week to settle the explosive Anglo-Iranian oil dispute.

But, he added, the two western governments 'are not optimistic" about the outcome of the latest round of talks with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh.

At the critical meeting Wednesday, Mossadgh disappointed the British and U. S. envoys by his discouraging reception of their pro- day, Mossadegh disappointed the posals for a settlement, the informant said.

Labor Minister Gregg Says Canada Cannot Afford to Cut Down on Defence Production

OTTAWA (CP)—Canada cannot afford to cut down on defence preparations, Labor Minister Gregg said yesterday in his annual Labor Day message.

The best that can be hoped for, he said, is for another year of international high tension. However, that need not bring major disruptions to the Canadian economy.

"But we must not become complacent," Mr. Gregg declared. "No new factor has appeared in the international scene to suggest our defence efforts could be cut back."

Renew Strike Plea

The minister, who suggested to the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in Winnipeg last week that labor go easy on strikes during the defence-production period, made a somewhat-modified statement along the same line yesterday.

"No one knows what the coming months will bring," he said, "but of one thing we can be certain, a continuance of the spirit of responsibility and co-operation on the part of the two great partners in production (labor and management) will be essential if we are to maintain our high living standards and at the same time increase our military strength.

"That the Canadian worker will continue to accept his full share of this responsibility, as in the past, is a foregone conclusion."

Other Messages

Labor Day messages also were issued by Percy R. Bengough, president of the 502,000-member T.L.C., and A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which has 350,000 members.

Mr. Bengough said some Canadian laws are "class legislation" and have contributed to unemployment in the past year. The congress wanted government action to hold down "recurring unemployment which brings suffering to our people and loss of production."

The T.L.C. chief also called for the early inauguration of a national health insurance plan.

For the C.C.L., President Mosher made an appeal to bring help to under-privileged countries as a means of averting war.

"While we must be ready to defend ourselves as a nation and to associate with other nations for this purpose," he said, "defence is primarily a negative tactic. . .

"If war is to be avoided or averted, the most effective action directed towards this end is to raise the standard of living for the hundreds of millions of dispossessed peoples in backward nations."

SURPLUS CLIMBS TO $334,816,000 IN FOUR MONTHS

Considerably Higher Than Amount Forecast

OTTAWA (CP)—The federal government's 1952-53 budgetary surplus climbed to $334,916,000 in the first four months of the fiscal year. A surplus of only $9,000,000 for the year was forecast by Finance Minister Abbott.

In his budget speech April 8, Mr. Abbott estimated the year's revenues at $4,279,000,000 and expenditures at $4,270,000,000. The financial year ends next March 31.

A monthly treasury report, issued yesterday, said that expenditures, particularly defence expenditures, have been lower than estimated.

The report said that if defence expenditures in the four-month period had equalled the monthly average expenditures for which provision was made by Parliament, the surplus would have been reduced to $86,000,000.

In the period, defence and defence production expenditures totalled $439,653,000 compared with $293,544,000 in the comparative four-month period of 1951-52. Parliament authorized defence expenditures of $2,100,000,000 in the year.

In 1951-52, Mr. Abbott budgeted for a surplus of $30,000,000 and ended with one of $240,000,000.

Last Run Being Made on Old Railroad

BROCKVILLE (CP)—The old Brockville and Westport Railway today makes its last run from here to Westport on the 45-mile track it has been operating over since March 4, 1888.

To the Canadian National Railways it is another short line not paying its way. It has run up deficits of $400,000 during the last six years. Last year alone it was down $83,035.

It was originally designed to connect Brockville, Westport and Sault Ste. Marie with the Northern Pacific line, but it never went beyond Westport.

GUARD WOUNDS PRISONERS

SEOUL. (AP)—A guard wounded three Communist prisoners with one shot on Cheju Island Thursday, the Allied prisoner-of-war command said yesterday. None of Reds was seriously injured. The guard fired after a prisoner threw a sanitation bucket at him, the report said. The shot hit the bucket-thrower and two other prisoners.

Province To Rent Income, Corporate Taxes To Ottawa On Annual Payment Basis

Minimum Return to Ont. Will be $101,800,000

OTTAWA (CP)—An agreement under which Ontario will rent two of its major tax fields to the federal government for five years in return for a fixed annual payment was announced here yesterday by Ontario's Premier Frost and Finance Minister Abbott.

The agreement, which must be ratified by the Ontario legislature, brings the province an improved version of the tax-rental plan which she turned down in the 1945-46 Dominion-Provincial conferences.

Under the new agreement the province will turn over to the federal government her personal income and corporation tax fields.

In return she will receive annual payments guaranteed at a minimum of $101,800,000 yearly. The payment would amount to $137,200,000 for the 1952-53 fiscal year—but with deductions from that because Ontario will continue to collect succession duties and receive the statutory subsidy provided under the constitution.

Deal "Stop-Gap"

Mr. Frost said under current circumstances the new tax alignment is the best thing possible, but termed it "at best a stop-gap, pending the working out of a more satisfactory distribution of tax and revenue sources."

He urged the federal government to reconstitute an economic committee which functioned during the 1945-46 conferences, when the first post-war five-year tax agreements were drawn up. Ontario and Quebec abstained from those agreements. With yesterday's agreement Ontario joins the eight other provinces which renewed their pacts with the federal government for the five-year period which began April 1 last. Quebec still has not signed an agreement.

The Ontario premier said the committee should study the entire Canadian tax structure and recommend measures "which will best serve to promote good government at all levels."

Not Solution

The agreement did not solve Ontario's tax problem nor the municipal problem "which is, in turn, dependent on a shift of taxes and revenues from the federal government to the provinces and from the provinces to the municipalities."

Ontario's rapid growth had brought heavy new demands on provincial and municipal resources. "But in the face of this expansion, the tax structure has remained immobile and out of balance with the requirements of the provinces and municipalities."

Commenting on the agreement, national Progressive Conservative leader George Drew said it "solves nothing" other than small financial adjustments for a limited period. He said that in most respects it met the proposal he made in 1946 when he was premier of Ontario and in some respects goes beyond the province's offer then.

"It is to be hoped," Mr. Drew said, "that the sweeping concessions now made by the Dominion government offer some hope of a reasonable approach to the whole question of taxation and that steps will be taken which will give to the provincial governments, and particularly to the municipal councils, sources of revenue adequate for their rapidly-increasing needs."

Farquhar Oliver, Liberal leader in the Ontario legislature, said that Mr. Drew and Mr. Frost had stood in the way of Liberal demands for a tax agreement. He added that Mr. Frost's "conversion even at this late date, is to be welcomed.'

The new agreement will reduce the corporation tax levy in Ontario to 52 per cent from 54 per cent when the province's seven-per-cent levy is dropped and five per cent of it is incorporated into the federal tax.

Other taxes in Ontario will remain unchanged.

The Ontario agreement, covering only personal income tax and corporation tax, differs from the agreements with the eight other provinces, which have also rented their inheritance tax fields.

The annual payments by the federal government are figured on a formula involving population and the value of gross national production.

Announcement Surprise

The announcement at a joint press conference by Mr. Frost and Mr. Abbott came as a surprise. A few weeks ago Mr. Abbott said he did not think Ontario and Quebec would sign agreements when the other provinces were renewing theirs. The new agreements provided increased annual payments to all of them.

Mr. Abbott said he does not plan to approach Quebec's Premier Duplessis on the agreements, but will talk the matter over if the Quebec government offers to negotiate.

The agreements were begun during the Second World War to help the federal government finance its heavy expenditures. After the war the federal government proposed to continue them in the interest of a uniform tax structure and for the benefit of less industrialized provinces.

Better Offer

Mr. Frost said the new tax arrangement was better than the previous offer "but we are far from convinced that it is the best arrangement that can be devised."

"Ontario has consistently sought an arrangement which would recognize fundamental differences between the provinces and meet the needs and the wishes of our sister province of Quebec and of all the provinces without, at the same time, raising the cost to the federal government."

The premier reviewed the complex background of federal-provincial discussions on personal income tax. He said the key to solving the over-all problem of tax relations between governments was that the federal government fulfill in a practical way its proposal to make available to the provinces the revenue from a personal income tax of five per cent of federal collections.

In 1946 the Dominion income tax act was amended so that Ontario—which did not enter the tax-rental agreement then—could levy a personal income tax of five per cent of federal collections in the province without raising the level of taxation. Five per cent would go to the province and 95 per cent to Ottawa.

"Ontario had hoped that the federal government would collect this personal income tax for the province as it had done from 1936 to 1941. This, they would not do. Nor would they rent this field, except as one of the components in a package agreement.".

Collection Costly

If Ontario made her own collection, Mr. Frost said, the administration costs would absorb a "considerable proportion" of the $20,000,000 obtained.

There were other difficulties in that the federal government in some cases was collecting at the source up to 99 per cent of income tax as the income was earned and the province's share would have to be rebated. These complications made it "impracticable" for the province to collect its five-per-cent share.

Fears Safety of Children, Housewife Hinders Building of Railway Spur

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A pretty young housewife can do a lot of things to hinder the construction of a railway spur if she sets her mind to it.

They were listed by a Southern Pacific Railway official yesterday when Mrs. Fredna Pavlick, 27, appeared to answer charges that she impeded construction work.

He said that she:

1. Pulled up survey stakes as fast as the construction crew could put them in;

2. Stood in front of a grader, filled up post holes, and turned her garden hose in the faces of workers until they were forced to stop work;

3. Stood on the right of way with a rock poised to throw, and

4. Threw the rock at a man who was taking her picture.

Whereupon Judge Frank Swain issued an injunction to keep Mrs. Pavlich from interfering with the construction.

The woman's lawyer said his client did most of the acts because she was afraid for the safety of her children.

Teen-Aged Gang Broken Up By Ottawa Police

OTTAWA (CP)— Ottawa police yesterday broke up a teen-aged centre town gang called "the night raiders" with the arrest of its 13-year-old leaders and two of his lieutenants and seizure of a miniature arsenal.

The gang members have been molesting other youngsters in the district and arebelieved by police to be responsible for a number of break-ins and thefts.

In a raid on the gang's centre town headquarters, officers seized several air pistols, knives, flashlights, costumes, wigs, masks and a quantity of stolen goods.

Canada Imposes Ban on Imports Of U.S. Swine

OTTAWA (CP) —Canada yesterday imposed a strict ban on imports of United States swine and pork products to prevent the introduction in Canada of an American swine infection which "closely resembles foot-and-mouth disease."

Dr. Thomas Childs, veterinary director-general, announced that the action was taken because of the prevalence in about two dozen American states of "vesicular exanthema."

He described this disease as "a highly infectious disease of swine, which if introduced into Canada could cause serious damage to the Canadian swine industry."

"Vesicular exanthema closely resembles foot-and-foot disease" he said, "but it is entirely confined to swine, whereas foot-and-mouth disease affects cattle and sheep in addition to swine."

Dr. Childs, who played a hand in the stamping out of foot-and-mouth disease in south Saskatchewan, said Canada has never had an outbreak of vesicular exanthema.

County Council Prepared to Grant $80,000 Toward Construction of New Hospital Wing; Haig Estimates Total Cost Nearly Million

Hastings county council will be prepared to contribute $80,000 toward construction of the new 80-bed hospital wing proposed by the board of governors of the Belleville General Hospital.

This decision was made Friday at the conclusion of the August session of council held at Shire Hall this week. The $80,000 figure is based on a contribution of $1,000 per bed for the proposed 80 bed wing.

Mayor A. M. Haig, together with Aldermen Chas. L. Hyde and Harry Rollins and J. N. Yanover, chairman of the hospital board of governors, waited on county council earlier in the week stressing the need for a new hospital wing at Belleville and inviting the county to give financial assistance towards its constructon or possibly to join with the city in the operation of the hospital as a community enterprise.

Estimated cost of the new wing, according to Mayor Haig, would be not far short of a million dollars. Government grants, federal and provincial, would be $2,500 per bed each, bringing the cost to the municipality down to about $500,000.

After discussing the matter from various angles, Friday, members of county council authorized Warden Lee Grills and Fred Mitchell, reeve of Thurlow township, as members of the hospital extension committee to discuss further with the hospital board on the basis of a capital grant of $1,000 per bed assuming extension would be for 80 beds.

Admit Obligation

Councillors were unanimous in their feeling that the county was obligated in some way to assist the city financially. And the feeling was almost as strong that the assistance should be in the way of an outright contribution toward the building fund with councillors steering away from any part in the operation of the hospital.

There was a strong feeling that council did not have sufficient information for members to take any definite action at this session and there were suggestions the matter be laid over until December.

Both Warden Grills and Reeve Mitchell spoke against this intimmating the hospital board of goverors expected some decision at the current session.

In bringing the matter before county council, Mayor Haig referred to the joint committee consisting of members from city council and county council, appointed to investigate the necessity of additional accommodation at the hospital and the means whereby it could be provided.

He said this committee had reported additional accommodation at the hospital was desirable and that city council had been asked to provide funds for its construction.

He pointed out that the Belleville General Hospital was now owned and operated by the city which, since taking over the institution, had invested approximately $375,000 in renovations and purchase of new equipment. The city was also responsible for all hospital deficits.

Mayor Haig stressed the importance of a hospital in any developed community, hospitals having kept pace with the progress of medical science. "Hospitals are an essential and necessary factor," he said. "They provide the services, accommodations and facilities which have made largely possible this boon to mankind."

Need is Increasing

The need for increased accommodation at the local hospital had been apparent for several years. The Belleville hospital has a listed capacity of 131 beds, yet it is presently accommodating up to 200 patients at peak periods. This situation, he said, makes it unpleasant for the patients and makes adequate nursing care a physical impossibility.

During the past year 6,445 people were admitted to the hospital and in the same period it saw the birth of 1,272 babies.

An analysis of this total revealed that approximately 40 per cent were from the county of Hastings, 40 per cent were from Belleville and the remaining 20 per cent from other municipalities. On the basis of 5.5 hospital beds per 1,000 people which is estimated by the department of health to be an average requirement, and considering the local hospital serves a population of 60,000 people, there was a necessity for 330 beds.

The board of governors with the approval of the joint committee on hospital extension, had decided that an extension of 80 beds was urgently required. This would also entail the expansion of some of the essential services such as kitchen and cafeteria, additional operating room facilities, provision of a proper fire protected nursery, expansion of X-ray equipment and adequate stores and storage equipment.

Tentative plans had been prepared and it was roughly estimated the cost would not be far short of a million dollars. Provincial and federal government grants would reduce the net cost to between $750,000 and $800,000, the mayor said.

Suggests 50-50 Basis

"But the city cannot afford to assume this undertaking alone," the mayor stressed. "We are inviting the county of Hastings to join with us in the provision of these much needed facilities on a 50-50 basis."

Also, although the city had spent $375,000 on the institution, the mayor said Belleville would be prepared to ask that the hospital be converted into a community hospital so that all who use it could participate in its responsibility.

In closing the Mayor pointed out that a hospital is today more essential to a community than is a good system of roads or adequate educational facilities. "There is no alternative for health and any public body in today's atmosphere of social consciousness which permitted its people to be robbed of essential medical, surgical and hospital facilities would be betraying trust imposed in them," he said.

Both Aldermen Hyde and Rollins spoke briefly in support of Mayor Haig as did board chairman J. N. Yanover.

Mr. Yanover told of the overcrowding at the hospital and said it was a "serious condition and something which should not be left for debate six months from now." He asked the consideration of county council, not only for the city, but for the county as a whole.

To a question by Reeve Vincent Lynch of Marmora, the delegation told council that $1,000 per bed was the maximum grant obtainable from each government. Mr. Yanover intimated, however, that the provincial government might be persuaded to increase this amount.

Reeve T. C. Graham of Tweed wanted to know if the opening of the Trenton hospital had been considered in estimating the accommodation requirements. He was told by Mayor Haig that there had been no noticeable change in the number of patients at Belleville except in obstetrical cases. Even this demand for accommodation was returning, he said.

The various health insurance schemes, and Blue Cross hospitalization was sending increasing numbers to hospitals, it was pointed out.

No One Turned Away

Asked by Reeve Jack Kincaid as to when efforts were made to determine if a patient was indigent, Mr. Yanover said the hospital had no way of determining this immediately. Patients were admitted regardless of whether they had money.

He went on to say, however, that ward beds at the hospital were mostly filled with indigent patients and this was one of the reasons for hospital losses. The average cost to the hospital per patient was from $11 to $12 per day and the indigent patient rate meant a loss of from six to seven dollars per day.

Mayor Haig said the major loss in caring for indigent patients was for drugs. Grants for indigent patients did not cover the cost of drugs, he said.

An example of how the hospital lost money on indigents was a recent case where the actual hospital bill was for $17, while the total cost, including drugs, was $370.

Reeve George Spencer of Frankford, said it seemed to him that indigent patients were staying longer in the hospital than were paying patients.

Mr. Yanover admitted that was possible but pointed out the hospital had no authority to release patients. This authority must come from the doctors, he said.

Discussion swung around to drug costs with Deputy Reeve Harry Morrow of Sidney asking if the hospital purchased drugs at wholesale or retail rates. He was told the hospital bought drugs at the same rate as drug stores and charged a mark-up of 30 per cent for handling.

Wide Area Served

Reeve Tracey Adams of Dungannon township, asked what area was taken in with the estimate that the hospital served 60,000 people. He was told that patients came from North Prince Edward, Belleville, Hastings, Lennox and Addington and part of Northumberland counties.

Lightning Strikes, Destroys Barn Near Flinton

Damage estimated in excess of $2,000 was caused late yesterday when lightning struck a barn on the farm of Malcolm G. Wood, of Flinton, northeast of Tweed, and set the building ablaze. Because of the lack of fire fighting equipment, the entire building was destroyed and some farm implements were lost.

At the filtration plant where weather records are kept, it was reported that a total of .73 inches of rain tumbled from the sky during two downpours of cloudbust proportions late yesterday afternoon and evening. Yesterday's rainfall brought to 3.29 inches the total amount of rainfall during the month.

Telephone communications were also briefly interrupted during the afternoon storm but the interruption was not traced to the storm. According to the Bell Telephone Company, water seeped into an underground cable at the Trenton air station but repairs were completed without any serious delay in service.

The Belleville Utilities Commission reported no interruptions in service because of the storm.

POLICE BLOTTER

Apprehended while driving a car which had been reported stolen, Robt. Mills, formerly of Wellington, has been charged with car theft by local police.

Clayton R. Wilson, Bay Drive, said he had parked his car on McAnnany street after putting his groceries in it. When he returned later the car had disappeared. Police were notified and patrolmen located the car on Station street with Mills at the wheel.

Night operators broke into Duffy's service station on Front street and left again without taking anything.

Council Orders Police Action Against Unlicensed Peddlers

Trenton — (Special) — Mayor Kenneth J. Couch gave orders last night for police to crack down on hawkers and peddlers operating in town without a license.

The mayor and council were told that about half of the agents have a license and the other half ignore the by-law.

The condition was brought to light when a crippled girl was advised that she would have to pay $25. for a license to sell Christmas cards this year. Her case was reported to the town office and Mayor Couch and Councillor Norman Banfield became disturbed when the crippled girl was refused permission to sell without a license.

"There is no use of council passing by-laws without enforcing them" observed Town Clerk O. W. Larry, reporting one group of card salesmen had acquired licenses while another group had gone ahead without them.

"Sentimentally you are right" said Mr. Larry, referring to concern expressed about the crippled girl's case," but according to principle you are wrong." Mr. Larry was instructed to ask police to carry out the terms of the by-law.

Most of the council were dealing with the J. Clarke case. Mr. Clarke wanted $5.50 consideration on his tobacco and bread license, pleading that in 1947 when he went into business he paid the full $11 license for only six months' operation. This year he figured he should pay only half to compensate. Mayor Couch and Councillor Banfield felt that the council should make the adjustment. They talked about amending the by-law. The town clerk advised that other by-laws would have to be altered if any one of them were changed. "Leave the by-law as it is" was Councillor Reg. Armstrong's comment as the discussion closed.

Mrs. Jack Rupert of West street will be told that council would like to co-operate but has no authority to interfere with taxes on property. Mrs. Rupert outlined a sub-division project for the east side of the town. She wanted tax free land until her homes were sold.

"I don't think Mrs. Rupert would make that request if she knew how impossible it is for us to co-operate."

Council approved a civic welcome for Edgar Elbert, Maywood, Ill., International President of the Lions Club who is making as pecial visit to Trenton on Sept 19 If Mr. Elbert drives from Toronto he will be met by a cavalcade of cars at Brighton and paraded to Trenton with a police escort leading the way. He will be shown the town offices and be presented with a key to the city. He will be taken on a tour of the Trenton Air Station and industrial plants in town and at Batawa. He will be the guest at a civic dinner given at a local hotel.

Frank Woods, a bayshore resident, approached council for help to get his child back. His six-year-old son was taken away while he was in jail at Belleville. His house was condemned as unfit for habitation. Council was emphatic in advising Mr. Woods that they had nothing to do with the Children's Aid Society's decision to take his child.

William Lawson, suburban road commissioner, now with the R.C.A.F. at Summerside P.E.I., tendered his written resignation. A letter of appreciation went to Mr. Lawson and Jack VanAlstine will be asked to fill the vacancy.

Council will not erect Scotch light signs at both ends of the town until Department of Highways approval has been received.

Potato Prices Dip Fractionally On Local Market

Bowing to pressure from outside markets, potato prices at the farmers' market dipped fractionally today but continued out of line with Toronto prices, where potatoes are currently selling at three dollars per bushel. Producers retailing from stalls at the market here are asking $4.25 per bushel, a drop of 50 cents over last week's prices.

Despite an abundance of top-quality corn and tomatoes, prices are remaining firm, farmers continuing to receive from 40 to 50 cents per dozen for corn and six-quart baskets of tomatoes selling for 45 cents.

Peaches retailing here also showed a drop in price despite eager buying which found one truck depleted of its load one hour before noon. Good-quality peaches sold at 65 cents for large varieties, dropping to 45 cents for six quarts of "domestic" peaches.

Plums sold at 50 cents per six-quart basket for ordinary varieties while 60 cents was asked for green gages. Pears are appearing in increased numbers and selling at 60 to 65 cents for six-quart baskets.

Some farmers brought trailer loads of cantelope, ranging from the size of a tennis ball to the girth of a manhole, sold at five cents for the teenies to 50 cents for large. Watermelon were offered in quantity and ranged in price from 25 to 75 cents.

Celery, too, was in good supply, selling at 15 cents for two bunches.

Prices on root crops, together with cabbage and cauliflower, showed no changes.

Although farmers were at a loss to answer why, a 10-cent price spread separated the asking prices of medium and large eggs. Grade A large eggs were selling at 60 cents per dozen while 50 cents bought a dozen medium eggs. Producers of the eggs, hens, were being offered at 45 cents per pound, dressed. Spring chicken sold at 50 cents per pound.

IN MEMORIAM

COWIE. — In loving memory of a dear son and brother, Gordon Charles Cowie, who passed away September 3rd, 1949.

Three years ago we had to part
With one we loved with all our hearts
The wound's so deep it will not heal
Only those who have lost know how we feel.
We seem to see your dear smiling face
Through the mist of anxious tears
For a family's circle is broken up
With only thoughts of you.

—Sadly missed by his loving father, Thomas Cowie and mother, brothers and sister, John, George and Margaret. A30

WILDER. — In loving memory of our dear son, Lorne Wilder, who passed away suddenly, August 31st, 1949.

Gone but not forgotten.

—Ever remembered by mother, father, sisters and brother. A30

BOYCE. — In loving memory of our dear son, Edward Ross, who passed away August 30th, 1951.

He was a flower too sweet for earth,
Sent here but for a while;
God marked him when He gave him birth
And took him with a smile.

Student Life at Germersheim

ARTICLE 80

(Last Of A Series)

Special to the Ontario Intelligencer — I think perhaps most people have a mistaken impression of college life. I don't know why it is, but all Hollywood can ever produce about campus activities is football games, or love affairs and so people get the idea that:

(1) Students are either getting over one football weekend or getting ready for the next one.

(2) Life is one big series of dances and dates during which boy meets girl and they end up engaged.

Certainly a certain amount of fun goes on. I used to look forward very much to the weekend when Western went down and beat Queen's (they did when I was there)and the fun that we had afterwards. Still nobody seems to realize that we spent hours over our books and life was anything but a bed of roses. It seems that instead of football games we were either getting over one test or getting ready for the next.

This week I am entering my last days at a university and it's a long way from home. Fortunately, or perhaps unfortunately, I am at the only German university which can be said to possess a campus in that we have our own dormitories, a real campus, with football field and everything. You may wonder, then, what goes on here.

Student Impressions

The impression I had of German students when I was younger was that they spent most of their time in beer cellars drinking huge mugs of beer or fighting the "mensur," a sort of sword fight which used to scar up a good many of their faces. When I arrived, I found that it wasn't as bad as all that.

In fact, I have enjoyed it immensely and still got a fair amount of work done.

Most of the students live in a large dormitory with about eight to a room, so we get to know each other quite well. They have a slang of their own that is every bit as colorful as what we use at home.

In fact it was so colorful that I picked it up at once, but not before I taught most of them our expressions. Unfortunately some of these expressions found their way into the students' English translations with a resulting confusion and consternation on the part of the professors concerned.

The climax came when one student with good intentions translated "sie lag Sterben" by "She was in the act of kicking the bucket." As a result the class was treated to a lecture on the evils of picking up slang from the soldiers.

Coming and Going

We used to be rather punctual in starting the term or in getting back from holidays, but I don't think you could say the same thing about the students here.

The winter term was supposed to begin about the first of November, but it seemed to be about a month before the students finished arriving and it seemed only a few days later that they were all getting ready to leave for Christmas.

The same thing happened at the end of the term. It seemed to be the accepted custom so that even I got in a week late to begin the summer term. Since exams are held only after four terms, all those in the first three have disappeared already leaving us here to sweat it out right up to the last day.

Germersheim is only a very little town and so there is not too much to do outside the school. In fact they say here that if you want some action, go out and create it yourself. At times some of this is created right in the dormitory.

Every once in a while one of the rooms will have a party, which sometimes spreads out into the corridor, to the annoyance of those who want to sleep.

Just Deserts

The last time this happened was just recently, and several in our room decided to punish the offenders. They got up in the middle of the night, went up to the attic and brought down everything they could find, including two blackboards, an old bomb fin, and several other objects guaranteed to make noise. This was piled in front of the door, and when it was opened the resulting noise would have put Spike Jones to shame.

A decided advantage here is that there are about twice as many girls as boys. Since they live in the other wing of the dormitory relations are very close, and I must say that the girls do not do anything to discourage them.

This becomes quite a problem at dances with such a majority of girls present, since they spend half of their time sitting around waiting for someone to ask them to dance. However, the boys do not seem to mind too much since that means we can be a bit choosy in picking our partners.

Lately the Students Council decided to remedy the situation by importing boys from other universities, but we looked upon all those who came from other centres as upstarts and intruders who were just upsetting the status quo, and we were only too glad to see them leave before they did too much damage.

Funeral Football

We have a football team here which hasn't been too successful this last year, but even if they had been, I doubt whether they could have put on such a colorful display such as we have at our games back home. Sad to relate there are no beautiful girl cheer leaders, no band to play at half-time, and very little school spirit. Perhaps it is because we usually lose, but the spectators would seem to be more at home at a funeral instead of at a football game, judging from the amount of cheering which is done.

You have probably read about the weird goings-on at various American universities where boys raided the sororities to get panties, bloomers, brassieres and other sorts of girls' clothing. Well, nothing like that has happened here, at least to my knowledge. The nearest we came to it here was just before an important delegation was due to visit the school one of the boys hung a brassiere in the main corridor in full sight.

Another time two of the boys filled out a pair of panties and hung them out on the flag pole in front of the main entrance, which caused quite a bit of excitement among students and professors alike.

However, outside of that the worst that ever happens is when a group of boys decide to unhinge all the toilet doors they can find and hide them where nobody will find them for a while. Or during the winter term they would throw snow balls through the girls' windows. Still, they haven't got around to pulling down the goal posts after every football game, or other stupid things which used to be done on those football weekends.

No Student Cars

I used to remember seeing students driving up to school in new cars, either theirs or their parents, but one never sees any of that here. I don't think there is a boy in the whole school who owns a car. Most of them are relatively poor and have to get along on a minimum of money.

Added to that it is much harder to find a good job here than in Canada, and since school is not over until the middle of the summer, one cannot work as long. A students has to pay about a hundred dollars a year for fees and it costs about eight dollars a week to live in the school. You will probably say that isn't very much but it certainly is for a German student since he earns much less than we do in Canada. There is hardly any chance to get part time work and so a student cannot augment his income in this way.

Still, students are proverbially short of money, so they make the best of it, looking forward to that day when they shall be able to earn a decent wage. In the meantime, most of them work quite hard at their studies, worry about exams, look forward to the next dance, in fact are quite as human as we are.

EAR MUFFS

Imagine wearing ear muffs all summer!

Yet this is done by one father. The whole family, parents and offspring, carry a few little yellow feathers behind their ears, all year round, in much the way that a carpenter carries his pencil.

At this time of year, when migration is at its height and identification is particularly difficult because of the adults' fresh costumes and the addition of juvenile clothes to be learned, we welcome any good-sized splash of contrasting color. But chestnut ear muffs, worn by papa, and yellow pencils carried by all of them are splendid clues by which to recognize members of the Cape May family.

Meadowlarks, with white outer tail feathers and a black V on a bright yellow breast, show their badges whether [illegible] have a back or a front view on new birds are darker underneaake an on top that we can' easily tell a male bobolink in his spring costume.

A red-headed woodpecker is, of course, unmistakable, and a Canada goose flying high, is known by a conspicuous solid black neck with white sides on the head and a white V over the tail.

But when it comes to differentiating the 39 kinds of tiny warblers that are to be found in Canada as they pass through in the autumn, we find ourselves watching out for every small detail.

Songless Warblers

Songless, or nearly so, at this season, we are confused by so many wrablers that show us a flash of yellow as they flit from branch to branch. Even Mr. Cape May, with his chestnut ear muffs, appears duller than formerly.

Their greenish yellow rumps suggest Myrtle and Magnolia warblers, but neither of these carry yellow pencils behind their ears. Streaked underparts help identification. The scientific name of the Cape May is "tigrina", meaning "tiger," and there is no doubt that it is well chosen. Though the female's underparts are less distinct than her husband's, the yellow ground with heavy black streaks are definitely suggestive of a tiger. Unfortunately all the yellow is faded looking now.

There is still a short time in which to discover the Cape May warblers on their journey. They breed in the spruce forests from southern Mackenzie east across Canada, migrating, usually, before the middle of September. Their destination is the West Indies, and whether they start from northern Alberta or Cape Breton Island they will nearly all meet on the island of Hispaniola.

Stories of Famous Hymns

by HORACE B. POWELL

Golden Harps Are Sounding

Golden harps are sounding,
  Angel voices ring,
Pearly gates are opened,
  Opened for the King.
Christ, the King of Glory,
  Jesus, King of Love,
Is gone up in triumph
  To His throne above.

He who came to save us,
  He who bled and died,
Now is crowned with glory,
  At His Father's side.
Never-more to suffer,
  Never-more to die;
Jesus, King of Glory,
  Is gone up on high.

Pleading for His children
  In that blessed place,
Calling them to glory,
  Sending them His grace,
His bright home preparing,
  Faithful ones, for you,
Jesus ever liveth,
  Ever loveth, too.

Miss Frances R. Havergal, England's most famous woman hymnist, was visiting a boys' school one day with a friend.

Miss Havergal was weary and paused to rest at the school entrance while her friend went inside. While she rested, she scribbled on a scrap of paper and within a few minutes the stanzas of "Golden Harps Are Sounding," as they are found today in most church hymnals, had been made. When her friend, an editor of song collections, reappeared, he was delighted with the verses and put them into a song book which he was preparing. Miss Havergal later composed the popular hymn tune.

Miss Havergal's hymns — and she wrote many very beautiful ones — were born of a consecrated spirit. One of the best known and loved of all those in her list is the one which opens with the lines:

"Take my life and let it be Consecrated, Lord, to Thee"

She once wrote to a friend: "It does seem wonderful that God should so use and bless my hymns and yet it really does seem as if the seal of His own blessing were set upon them, for so many testimonies have reached me. Writing is praying with me, for I never seem to write a verse by myself. I always feel like a child writing. You know a child looks up at each sentence and says: 'What shall I say next?' That is just what I do; I ask that at every line He may give me not merely thoughts and power but also every word, even the rhymes themselves. Very often I have a most distinct and happy consciousness of direct answers."

OF POETS AND PROGRESS

The late Joyce Kilmer wrote some inspired lines about trees which, in verse and song, are among the most widely known of American classics of this generation.

One does not need to have the soul of a poet, however, to sympathize with the good citizens who make their homes on Highland Avenue where part of the boulevard with its splendid trees must make way for the relentless designs of urban progress. To many of them there must be some sense of personal tragedy in this loss and their helplessness to prevent it.

But these are inevitable encroachments upon private property in the expanding growth of all communities. Every day it is happening to someone somewhere as this growing province faces the necessity of making over the older scheme of things to accommodate demands of new conditions.

We are reminded of a motor trip we made some years before the war in the company of a senior engineer of the Department of Highways along North Yonge Street out of Toronto. It was a single lane highway then and it was the time of the year when the wayside was in its most resplendent autumn dress. Along this avenue of century-old farmsteads and stately maples we saw a panorama of rampant color and suburban setting which will be remembered a lifetime.

Our friend had made the same trip many, many times before and that day he made it a more indelible memory for us not because of any word of appreciation which he expressed, but rather because he was completely oblivious to it. Great and good engineer that he was he could see only the blueprint in his mind's eye which sketched every detail of the new dual highway which would remove forever this rare masterpiece of Nature's handiwork, making way in the name of progress.

So we say to the good people of Highland Avenue it is in the scheme of things that those who doubt they will ever see "a poem as lovely as a tree" do not become engineers. Engineers sees trees in terms of timber, hills and valleys in terms of cuts and fills, the wide stream in terms of suspension bridges.

These are the servants and the designers of progress. In this day, alas, progress must be served . . . and with priority.

WHAT PRICE THE DIGNITY OF MAN?

There are few things in life which confront us with greater embarrassment than the printed word in cold, implacable, irretrievable type. What can touch the conscience so quickly?

Early in life newspapermen become aware of the caprices, the ironies and the anomalies which any edition of the paper is likely to produce. But there are times when it is borne home with the most arresting impact.

Such a time was this week when two stories with European datelines made headlines on the same day. One told of negotiations which had been completed in Holland whereby West Germany will pay $822,000,000, basically in goods, to Israel and world Jewish organizations in compensation for Nazi anti-Semetic acts. The other told of a business arrangement in which Alfried Krupp is to be awarded $125,000,000 in a plan for reorganization of the Krupp industrial empire in Germany.

Krupp only recently was released from prison where he served two and a half years of a 12-year sentence for exploiting slave labor, looting plants in occupied countries, and "illegal spoliation." That this man's part in the horrendous story of Nazi infamy was as great as many who were condemned to die, is beyond any doubt. Was not the name Krupp itself the trade mark of the technological processes without which Hitler would have remained a political demagogue and whose anti-Semetism would have reached little beyond soap-box range?

This is the embarrassment of this week's cold type: To think upon it is to beggar the conscience of mankind.

The cold type leaves us no room for appeasement or reconciliation of the bare facts. One Krupp is the appraised equivalent of one-sixth of the measure of all the unspeakable deeds, and deaths and indignities which were wreaked upon the Jewish race in the name of Hitlerism . . . a vengeance without any parallel in human history.

But why can't we mind our own business. That was yesterday. Today we need the Krupp industrial empire to rearm Germany so that western civilization may be saved from the scourge of communism and oblivion.

What price western civilization . . . and the dignity of man?

A species of moss or lichen growing on rocks in northern Canada, "Tripe de Roche," was often used by hungry Indians and fur-traders.

BIRTHDAY WISH

May you grow old, and age be kind.
May you leave care and hurt behind,
And may the years give pleasures new
For those they take away from you.

Though grief must come as time goes by,
And you may sadly question why,
By all the memories you have gained
May you be heartened and sustained.

As one by one the years increase
May strife give way to tranquil peace;
May time for you new splendors hold,
May you find joy in growing old.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1932.

Police Officer William Evans, Mrs. Evans and family have returned home after spending two weeks' vacation with friends in Peterborough, Lindsay and Toronto.

Mrs. Edward Quinn, Miss Marjorie Quinn and Miss Madeline Sullivan are spending a few holidays at Toronto and Niagara Falls.

Mr. Arden Betts and son of London, Ontario, formerly of this city are visiting friends here.

Miss Kathleen E. McPherson, who has been spending the past year in Vancouver, B.C., as an exchange school teacher, has returned to the city. Miss McPherson was delighted with the beauty of Western Canada. Before returning to Belleville Miss McPherson enjoyed a cruise through the Panama Canal. Leaving Vancouver on an Admiral Line steamer she proceeded from Los Angeles to New York on the steamer "President Hoover," visiting en route San Francisco, San Diego, Chistobal and Havana, Cuba. Miss McPherson will resume her teaching duties here this term.

Dr. and Mrs. George H. Stobie are spending a two weeks' vacation in the Maritime Provinces.

30 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1922.

The superintendent and nurses of the Belleville General Hospital have arranged for a garden party and dance on the evening of Sept. 5th. A collection will be taken and the proceeds will be devoted to the National War Memorial for nursing sisters who died overseas.

Mr. William Carnew, County Crown Attorney, has been appointed to represent the Crown at the fall assize here.

Miss Beatrice Welsh is spending some time in Toronto.

Mr. Charles Adams, conductor of the Midland Division of the Grand Trunk Railway, has returned after about fifty years in railway service.

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Thrasher, Mrs. James Lake and Mr. Walter Christie motored to Toronto yesterday.

40 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1912.

Mr. Charles Westlake and family have returned to their home in Buffalo, N.Y., after visiting at the home of Mr. F. C. Sharpe.

Mr. James Worrell and family of Picton are visiting relatives here.

Mr. Harry Naylor is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. Henry Mason has returned home after a trip to Rochester, N.Y.

Messrs. Herb. Chown and Harry Elvins have returned home from Toronto.

Mr. F. E. O'Flynn is expected home tomorrow after an extended trip abroad.

Mr. Harry Fitzpatrick and son Raymond of Rochester, N.Y., are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Fitzpatrick, Church Street.

50 YEARS AGO

August 30th., 1902.

The roof of the drill shed is being repaired; it needed it badly.

Mr. Thomas Lynch has returned home from Rochester, N.Y., where he visited friends.

Mr. Cameron Brown, former editor and manager of the Belleville Daily Sun, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. C. M. Stork, manager of the local branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, is spending a few days in Toronto.

Messrs. W. H. Gordon, Merton Gordon and Harry Bryant caught a 'lunge in Mosquito Bay yesterday afternoon which weighed fifteen pounds. They also got a number of fine pike.

Yankee Curtis says that if the weeds on city streets are not cut soon the aldermen should all be arrested and charged with neglect of duty. Something should be done about this.

The Oddfellows' Band of this city will play at the Toronto Exhibition next Tuesday.

Mr. John Daw left today to visit friends in Toronto.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

All over this broad land of ours men are being constantly wanted. Men who want to work, and will—men who will first ask what they can do, not what they are going to be paid. There is always a shortage of men of calibre. Men who are dependable, uncomplaining, cheerful, and co-operative. Men who work for another as though they were that other!

There is many a lesson in that story by Elbert Hubbard, which he called "A Message to Garcia." President McKinley wanted to send a message to Garcia during the Spanish American war. They told him there was a man named Rowan who would find Garcia and deliver the message. Rowan was engaged for the errand. Landing in Cuba he travelled through the jungle, found General Garcia, delivered the message and returned to Washington.

No questions were asked by this man who merely listened, bowed, and did the job required. Such men are always wanted. There isn't a city, town, or hamlet that couldn't proudly use such a man at any time. They are really the hunted ones.

To such men we owe our liberty, our independence, and our free way of life. They had others in mind beside themselves, and so gave freely of their energies, their ideas, and spirit. The need for such men will never lessen. Rather is it increasing. There are far more such men wanted than ever answer the call.

There is always so much more personal satisfaction in doing a job well than in doing it in such a manner that it limps before the eyes! Men who put themselves into their work, and are conscientious, are really the rare ones. They are wanted far and wide, and there is a vacancy always awaiting them.

Shouldn't this one fact be a lesson to the indolent? Apparently not for they seem to be on the increase. Men are wanted in far more places than ever before. Machines have not taken work away from labor. They have increased jobs. Good men will always be wanted.

Sleeping Porch Joins Hammock In Oblivion

(From the New York Times)

'Morbid connoisseurs of the decline of some of the simple pleasures' have from time to time uneasily noted that the hammock has all but joined the snows of yesteryear, as has the wide front porch.

There is another porch that is departing, too, another porch whose absence cannot but take away from the pleasures of the summer. This is the sleeping porch, that small upstairs porch which in a happier day gave to the weary and the resting all the good sensations of camping out, while retaining the equally sound features of not leaving home.

Free on three sides to the summer's soft air and screened against the night's small life that flies, this porch had a peace that could not be found indoors. The porch seemed detached from the house while yet a part of it, a distant, adventurous place, yet home.

It fulfilled in its simple way the general need and urge for travel, for getting away occasionally from prosaic, everyday things. To step out upon it in the evening was to get away from the reading light, the telephone, the familiar wallpaper of the bedroom, the familiar furniture. It was a trip out of town.

* * *

While lying awake at night on the sleeping porch one could hear numerous sounds seeming more suitable to the Adirondacks than to the darkness surrounding the sleeping porch.

Vague rustlings whose origin could not be determined would be heard not far away, and what those moving things might be depended entirely on the strength of the imagination. Prosaic, phlegmatic sleepers on the porch could set down the sound as that of wandering rabbits, ever on a nocturnal search for unfenced in, tender lettuce.

Such sleepers rolled over and returned to the deep slumber which is the penalty of knowing a rabbit as a rabbit and not believing it a panther, a boa constrictor or a lynx. Owls, too, could be heard carrying on what to them was lunch-time conversation, and from the occasional chirp of a bird awakening from a bad dream conclusions were possible that hawks or eagles were about, looking for easy prey.

Cat fights sounded from the sleeping porch like a cage of tigers dumped suddenly into a larger one filled with hungry lions. And then there were other sounds, those suggesting safety and comfort rather than those inviting activity by the too turbulent imagination of the night.

Real pleasure could be found in such simple things as listening to the efforts of moths and other insects as they sought a crack through the screening of the porch, with fireflies seemingly as their searchlights. Imagination could picture the violent temper of misquitos as they flew against the screen, so near and yet so far away from their intended victims.

Another sound that was comforting was the even beat of a steady rain, falling throughout the night. The sound was comforting because soothing, and its even rhythm could send immediately to sleep even that imagination which heard panthers rather than rabbits.

* * *

The sleeping porch also served purposes other than being merely an outdoor bedroom for the night.

It was a place to which children could be retired during those humid afternoons of summer, when the tempers of parents and children alike bend and then finally snap. It was a cool afternoon room where sewing could be accomplished without interruption.

And, finally, it was the sleeping porch which became, by a tradition growing with the speed of light, the place where the head of the house took his Sunday afternoon nap. To lie there while the dinner slowly digested and the breeze slowly stirred the trees was to know complete peace.

It has been largely lost now, and to have traded in the sleeping porch for the picture window was not too smart an architectural bargain.

Possibility of Arson

LAKE WILCOX (CP)—Police are investigating the possibility of arson following a fire that burnt a wooden ice house near here.

Nearby residents said they heard a car leaving the scene just before the blaze was discovered.

The house, owned by Charles Crawford, stood in the middle of a large bush and flames set fire to several trees. Firemen stood by to prevent a major bush fire.

Lake Wilcox is 25 miles north of Toronto.

Letter to the Editor

Better Housing Standards Needed

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

In that series on your advertising columns dealing with 'housing'—'design'—I was particularly interested in some thoughtful references to "slums" and the basic influences and conditions from which such situations stem. Fortunately the economic climate of recent years has been of a character tending to improve the living standards of most Canadians; and this, in turn, would seem to induce an elevation in the housing standards. Nevertheless, it cannot be successfully denied that "slum conditions" are a natural fruit of or appendage to, city life generally—but major industrial communities particularly.

During the past decade or so, as you well know, many thousands of our farm homes have been electrified. It seems to this reader that the general welfare of Canada is served in a special way, as thousands of rural homes get the inestimable benefits of modernization, in the way of light and power. On the other hand, I imagine that, as yet, we have only touched the fringe of this social problem, and that the great majority of Canada's 697,00 farms, my quick guess estimate would be 500,000 are still at the gasoline or coal-oil lamp level.

The town and city "post-war housing 'headache'" has run away with all the spotlight, as usual—and far too little has been said as to what has been happening to the homes of the four million Canadians on the farms, the villages and towns, and all who are still beyond the urban pavements. In this latter respect I remember the following references quite vividly: (a)—As recently as 1941 the census indicated that the cash value of the 'farm dwelling' across Canada averaged out at $1,097; and (b)—A writer on this same theme of "Rural Housing," in one of the farm papers, warned: "There are rural slums which [illegible] black a blot on our [illegible] as our city slums, but [illegible] unwholesome and substandard farm houses are not concentrated in one area, or a few blocks, the serious defects of rural housing in many parts of Canada are not recognized."

Therefore, Mr. Editor, in pinpointing the need for better housing standards and design, I feel that your advertiser is doing worthwhile social service. I felt like saying so.

Lee Dong Ha And Lee Ho Jin Set an Example

(From the Calgary Herald)

We of the free Western world, confident of our general superiority in all things, might pause in our hustle and bustle to regard, in a spirit of humility, two Korean citizens nobody ever heard of before and probably will never hear again.

Their names are Lee Ho Jin and Lee Dong Ha, and it would be good to ask ourselves, each one of us, if we could match them in humanity and compassion if we found ourselves in a similar situation.

The story would be commonplace and sordid were it not for these two obscure Koreans.

A young Canadian soldier serving in that distant and fiercely unhappy land got drunk in the tiny village of Shin Shan, and while drunk he shot and killed an aged Korean housewife, the wife of Lee Ho Jin and the sister of Lee Dong Ha.

The charge was reduced from one of murder to manslaughter, and the young Canadian will now serve a three-year prison sentence.

Lee Ho Jin, the bereaved husband, appeared in court. A refuge from North Korea, it is not hard to imagine what depths if misery and hopelessness he has plumbed in the past year or more, only to see despair compounded by the senseless, tragic death of his wife, at the hands of a foreign soldier. Did he feel the bitterness of soul to which any human might be entitled in such circumstances?

In court, Lee Ho Jin said: "A mistake is the mother of success. Every man is entitled to make one mistake. This boy made his. My wife and I were very old. Take this young soldier, give him a better education so he may continue the fight for peace."

And then Lee Dong Ha, the victim's brother addressed the court. What bitterness and justifiable resentment did he feel towards the drunken foreign soldier who killed his sister?

"Anyone," said Lee Dong Ha, "can commit a crime when drinking. This soldier came to Korea to fight for the liberation of all Koreans and for the freedom of the world. If he is punished, he cannot fight for Korea and the free nations. Fighting is the big matter in the world today — not this private matter."

These words were spoken by the heirs of an ancient culture to the people of a powerful but young land. The simple nobility of these two humble peasants, the startling breadth of view they express, their quiet wisdom and gentle understanding of human frailty, stand as an example to us all. They remind us that to be young and strong is not all, that age and great experience can teach us many things we would be the better for knowing.

In their acts of touching compassion and forgiveness, Lee Ho Jin and Lee Dong Ha have, by example, given us the opportunity of learning something. It is only to be hoped that we, in the same situation, would be as worthy.

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words Long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

DON'T MEDDLE WITH MEDICAL PROBLEMS

From time to time correspondents send in X-ray pictures they have procured and ask me to interpret the picture for them. In some instances the purpose is to obtain a free and maybe unbiased diagnosis or opinion or at any rate a free one. In other instances the purpose seems to be to check on the value or reliability of a diagnosis or an opinion already obtained from a doctor, an X-ray technician or a laboratory clerk of one kind or another.

This is pretty silly business, an extravagant too.

I have said here many times that it is a foolish waste of time and money having one's X-ray picture taken and then running around trying to find out what, if anything, the picture signifies.

To people who have X-ray films made in order to check on the opinion or diagnosis the doctor has given I say you will get precious little satisfaction and plenty of grief that way. If you haven't enough confidence in your doctor to accept his or her diagnosis or opinion at its face value, you should change doctors. If a doctor believes he or she has a patient's confidence the doctor, never fear, will direct the patient to have whatever X-ray examination the circumstances may warrant. An X-ray picture mdae by an expert who knows what he doctor seeks is likely to ze of some value when interpreted by the X-ray expert and the doctor in a huddle, so to speak.

Although X-ray films, plates or pictures one procures from a "laboratory" or "technician" of questionable repute may be one's personal property, the courts have firmly maintained that X-ray pictures made at the patient's expense in hospital or under medical care belong to the hospital or physician, as part of the records, and not to the patient.

This is good hygiene.

In other words, if you value your health don't meddle with medical problems.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Dentists Are Hard to Teach

You were all wet when you went ashore at Tristan da Cunha and you missed the boat when you ascribed the fine teeth of the people there to their unrefined food. Dental authorities offer a better explanation—namely, that Tristan inhabitants eat no sugar . . . ———, D. D. S.)

Answer — No refined sugar, perhaps, but they eat sugar when they drink milk. The theory that lactic acid produced by fermentation of particles or sugar accounts for dental cavities is hooey, in my opinion. Even if fermentation of sugar or starch by lactic acid producing bacteria could be kept at a minimum by rigid restriction of carbohydrate in the diet, there would still be plenty of starch or sugar to maintain vigorous growth of lacto-bacilli in the mouth and the entire digestive tract—a condition compatible with if not essential for good digestion and good health. Dentists who embrace the acid theory do not explain how any one can keep the oral cavity free from lastic fermentation and remain alive.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the officials of Ducks Unlimited out in the Delta country of Manitoba points out one of the curious evasive attitudes of mind that are adopted even by people genuinely interested in the preservation of wild fowl. We flatter ourselves that the open season for ducks has been gradually reduced and narrowed down until the amount of shooting afforded sportsmen is surely at a safe minimum.

But due to the staggering of open seasons from far northern Canada down to the Gulf of Mexico, our wild fowl do not have a mere two weeks or a month of open season to face, but actually four months. The error in our thinking is that we put the emphasis on how much shooting there is for us. We should face the fact of the amount of shooting there is for the ducks. One third of their lives they are being shot at.

How can it be otherwise? The sportsman and the needy Eskimo or settler-hunter in the far north must have his pot at the ducks as freely as must the sportsman from New Orleans, or the negro puntman in the bayous of Louisiana, who likes a roast duck as much as any man. But the duck they all shoot at, born, and raised for a few short weeks in northern Saskatchewan or the fringe of the barren lands starts his journey in late August and, in easy stages, wends his way southward, to arrive in his winter home in December. And he is shot at all the way.

The fact therefore is that no matter how strictly an open season is narrowed in any one province or state, in accordance with federal control, and no matter how intelligently the season and the bag limit are accepted and enforced, the open season on ducks is four months whatever way we care to look at it. For one third of their lives, year in and year out, the wildfowl of America are being shot at by ever increasing numbers of ever more mobile and ever more lethally equipped hunters.

Ducks Unlimited should, for psychological reasons, change its name to Ducks in Extremis.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A SPIRITUAL ACHIEVEMENT

Can you hold the idea of God in your mind for one minute?

Try it sometime. It will take a tremendous concentration. Divest your mind of every other thought, even thoughts about God, and rivet your attention upon God Himself. You may at first be able to do this for a few seconds; at last for a minute. If yo uever get to the place where you can hold your mind on God for five consecutive minutes, you will know that you can be classed among the outstanding mystics of the world.

And furthermore, if you can keep your mind riveted on God for five minutes, you will find that the whole world will change before your eyes. Within your own heart you will feel as if your emotions and thoughts had been washed and cleansed by the hand of the Almighty. Your mind will be clearer. There will be a peace in your heart which fairly sings in exaltation. The very appearance of the landscape will change, as it did in the case of the boy Dwight L. Moody who, after the finger of God had touched his heart, walked out into the Boston Common and found to his amazement that it had taken on a glorified appearance.

Try fixing your mind on God—for a few seconds, then for a minute; if possible, for five minutes.

County Council Recommends Indigents' Pension Cheques Be Used for Hospitalization

A resolution calling for the pension cheques of indigent pensioners receiving hospitalization to be forwarded to hospitals to apply on their bills, will go out from Hastings county council to the proper government departments and to other county councils for endorsation.

The matter was discussed on the opening day of the county council session here Wednesday after it was pointed out that relatives of indigent patients were spending the cheques and refusing to pay hospital bills.

There was no discussion when the resolution was tabled Friday for approval of council.

It was pointed out that the old age pension cheques of indigents were previously available to assist in paying hospital bills but when pensions to all over 70 were introduced without a means test this policy had been dropped.

Council deferred until its December session a request from the Trenton Memorial Hospital for financial assistance in reducing the $25,000 deficit in its first nine months of operations.

Matter Laid Over

The matter was laid over by council when it was noted the request did not give figures showing to what extent Hastings county residents used the hospital facilities. It was moved that the matter be deferred with the clerk-treasurer to ask for figures as to how many patients, exclusive of the Trenton Air Station, had used the hospital.

Indigent hospital accounts received considerable attention from councillors, several of whom asked what steps hospital authorities took to collect accounts before they were turned over to the county for payment.

"I'd like to know if the hospital takes the easy way out in asking the county to pay before they have tried to collect themselves," stated Alderman C. T. Rollins of Wollaston. "I think the hosiptal should present a list showing when and how efforts were made to collect."

Reeve Jack Kincaid of Madoc noted there would be fewer indigent accounts turned over to the county for payment if names were published in the press. "Many of these people are able to pay," he said.

An application from Frankford village for entrance into the Bay of Quinte High School Area was laid over until a later session.

The application was made by Frankford earlier in the summer following a public meeting in Sidney township when it was understood by Frankford council that Sidney would enter the area. Since that time Sidney had instead signed an agreement with the high school area and as Frankford does not adjoin any portion of the area the village could not join the area.

A grant of $250 to the British

Peculiar Position

"Frankford is in a very peculiar position of wanting to get into the area, but cannot do so until Sidney joins," stated Reeve George Spencer. On the other hand my council will not sign an agreement with the high school area to purchase education because this would give Frankford no representation on the area board."

Warden Grills noted that the agreement signed by Sidney would allow the township to enter the high school area at any time prior to the termination of debentures. Deputy Reeve Harry Morrow said he expected if any part of Sidney joined the area, this would extend to Frnakford to enable that village to join also.

Empire Cheese Exhibition to be held in Belleville this autumn was voted by councillors. The $250 grant applies only if block cheese are shown; otherwise the amount will be $200.

No action was taken with respect to the county taking a membership in the Canadian Good Roads Association.

Grant to Fair

The usual fair grants of $150 to the local county fairs and $300 to the Belleville fair, were voted, while councillors voted to continue the county woodlot competition. A sum of $100 for expenses and judging and merit prizes of $50, $30 and $20 were provided.

Council ratified a committee recommendation to sell the Actinolite county forest to Moira Valley Authority and then turned down a motion to take up an option for the purchase of 196 acres in North Hastings as a reforestation plot.

Councillors felt that already the educational purpose of the reforestation plots had been achieved and there was no point in adding to the present plot in the Bird's Creek area.

Warden Grills noted that at recent tree plantings county councillors had taken no active part in the work. "They seem to be too busy," he commented.

Largest O.T.U. Of RCAF Located At Greenwood

GREENWOOD, N.S. —(CP) — The largest RCAF operational training unit in Canada is deep in Nova Scotia's famed Annapolis Valley at Greenwood airport.

The O.T.U. is designed for newly-commissioned officers who still have to be brought up to the required operational standards. This training is received mainly by everyday flying conditons, actual patrols and mock battles.

Greenwood airport is regarded as Canada's best for this purpose. Within striking distance of the far north, crew members are able to receive flight training in sub-zero weather conditions.

Down in their own valley they can undergo training in humid weather. The fog which often surrounds the Nova Scotia coast gives opportunity for blind and instrument flying.

Mock Battles on Ocean

Only a few minutes by air from the North Atlantic, the trainees are able to stage mock bombing raids and gunnery raids. When the Atlantic is closed in by heavy weather, the planes can revert to the Bay of Fundy on the opposite side of the airport.

A big factor favoring Greenwood is its nearness to Halifax. From that old seaport ships of the Royal Canadian Navy, planes from the Shearwater naval air base and the Lancasters of the O.T.U. stage sea and air manoeuvres.

The O.T.U. like all other squadrons at the gaint airbase, always stands by to assist "search and rescue" operations in a wide-spread search for aircraft or ships in distress.

60 Men on Base

More than 60 men usually occupy the base at one time and the course takes upwards of four months to complete.

Commanding officer of the O.T.U. is Sqdn.-Ldr. J. W. Bellis, A.F.C., of Victoria, B.C. The chief flying instructor is Sqdn.-Ldr. S. S. Mitchell of Waterloo, Ont.

Other instructors are FO. W. P. Vradenberg of Toronto, radar; Flt.-Lt. D. E. Clarke of Fitzroy Harbor, Ont., radio; Flt.-Lt. L. Coburn, North Bay, bombing and gunnery.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett Scott called on friends in Belleville and Cobourg on Tuesday.

Mrs. Grace Tryon is spending a few days in Kingston with her daughter, Mrs. William Delyea, who is a patient in the hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hartwick, of Smiths Falls, visited the latter's father, Mr. J. A. Marshall on Sunday.

Malik Rejects West Proposal For Conference

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Russia's Jacob A. Malik yesterday rejected—as expected—the western powers' proposal for a big five arms reduction conference.

As usual in such rejections, the Soviet deputy foreign minister and chief U.N. delegate laid blame elsewhere for failure to reduce the world's armaments.

Malik devoted most of his long speech before the 12-country disarmament commission to familiar rejection phrases and counter-attacks on the western powers.

Wants Russ Deal

He said that Russia insists it will deal with disarmament questions only on the basis of Russian proposals.

These call for at least one-third reduction of all big power armed forces, immediate prohibition of atomic weapons, and adoption of what Malik called continuing international control of atomic energy.

He said western Big Three proposals for stage-by-stage reduction of armed forces and elimination of atom, bacterial and other mass destruction weapons was intended only to delay disarmament and avoid prohibition of the mass death weapons.

The big five are the permanent members of the U.N. security council—Britain, the U.S., France, Russia and China. The first three are known generally as the Big Three western powers, and it was their arms ideas wrapped up in a formal proposal that Malik rejected.

The Russian, changing sharply from the jovial attitude he displayed to other delegates before the meeting began, told the commission the U.S. was trying to get world domination by proposals that would delay arms reduction "and squeeze profits out of the world by its monopolies."

French Reaction

First reaction to Malik's statements was voiced by France's Henri Hoppenot, one of the principal spokesmen of the Western Powers on the disarmament plan. He said Malik had distorted, with defamation, the statements of the Western Powers.

The attitude was not unexpected, Hoppenot said, but it stops the work of the commission now. The commission plans to make a full report of its debates to the general assembly which meets here in October.

Malik applied the war-monger tag to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and said the general was campaigning for president with a threat of making world war. His thrust was in concert with an attack on Eisenhower in Moscow yesterday by the Communist party newspaper Pravda.

No Eight Hour Time Limit On Monday's Celebration Of Canada's Labor Holiday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada will pause Monday for a welcome holiday to honor the man who carries her destiny on his ample shoulders — the laboring man.

Labor Day, providing the last long week-end of a summer that has been torrid in many areas, will see its full quota of fun-making and ceremonies. And there'll be no eight-hour limit on the picnics and celebrations.

But the modern holiday scourge of accidents on highways and elsewhere can be expected to bring its circles of sadness from coast to coast.

Practically all Canadians share with organized labor in the holiday. In contrast with the blood-letting traditions of May Day in Europe, Labor Day in North America is celebrated in an atmosphere of amity and carefree carnival.

59th Annual

Taking the lead in speech-making, meetings and parades will be leaders of Canada's 1,000,000 trades unionists. It will be the 59th observance of Labor Day, which became a statutory holiday through a bill introduced in the House of Com- Minister.

Prime Minister Sir John Thompson personally piloted the measure at the urging of Alexander W. Wright, a dynamic labor journalist who was a native of Markham township, Ont.

Wright, editor of an influential American labor journal, also was largely responsible for the United States deciding on the September observance. One faction of American labor favored May 1, but Wright stubbornly opposed the date common to European countries.

Though Labor Day originated on this side of the Atlantic, the idea of such a holiday is an old one. Records show that in the Middle Ages processions were organized by trade guilds in England and other parts of Europe. The parades showed the medieval working man's pride of craftsmanship and stressed his position in Society.

Winnipeg-Born Scientist Given Award for Whipping Menace of Magnetic Mines

By JACK GOLDING,
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Sir Charles Goodeve, the Winnipeg-born scientist who took much of the terror out of enemy minefields in the Second World War, gives the University of Manitoba a large share of credit for his achievements.

Sir Charles recently was awarded £7,500 by the Royal Commission on Awards and Inventions for his efforts against the menace of magnetic mines. But the 47-year-old scientist, who sailed for Canada aboard the Empress of Scotland Aug. 26, says he could not have perfected his system known as "wiping" if he had not studied water and electric current at the University of Manitoba. At that ime he was studying for his master's degree in science.

In an interview, Sir Charles said he would like to get one thing straight—there is not truth in the reports that he invented the "degaussing" method of demagnetizing vessels.

Minesweep Victory

What he did do was develop the "double L (longitudinal) sweep," whereby minesweepers could detonate enemy mines harmlessly. That was early in the war. The Germans didn't catch on until 1943, and some scientific journals claim this anti-mine weapon was the Allies' first major victory over the Germans in wartime science.

Sir Charles got an O.B.E. for this.

Then, on his own time, he produced an economical method of degaussing ships in the days before Dunkerque. In four days, 400 small ships were fitted with the anti-mine device. This is said to have saved the British government more than £10,000,000, and brought Sir Charles his £7,500 award.

"But I did not develop the degaussing gear for ships," Sir Charles said with modest emphasis. "I did produce the word 'degaussing.'

"It happened one night after a very good dinner. The term 'demagnetization' had been selected to describe the magnetic mine antidote but I felt the Royal Navy would never accept it.

'Frivolous Signal'

"After all, the army had its 'delousing'—so I coined the word 'degaussing' (from a man named Gauss who developed physical theories regarding units of magnetization). I sent a frivolous signal to the admiralty—and they accepted the designation."

Sir Charles obtained most of his scientific background at the University of Manitoba, leaving there in 1927 to go to Britain "because it was the centre of the scientific world." He was created a knight in 1946 and now is director of Britain's Iron and Steel Research Association.

He sailed from England this week to attend the first meeting of the Faraday Society ever held in Canada. About 200 top scientists from Canada, the United States and other countries will attend the two-day session in Toronto as guests of Canada's National Research Council.

Their subject is "the reactivity of free radicals," which doesn't mean a political study. It concerns the actions of fragments of molecules.

Blood-Stained One Dollar Bill Given Operator

MAXVILLE, Ont. (CP) —Police said yesterday a blood-stained one dollar bill found near here may be a possible new clue in the hunt for the slayer of Leonard Z. Hurd, Maxville taxi operator shot to death and robbed Aug. 16.

The blood-soaked bill was given Wilfrid Filion in change when he bought gasoline at a service station at Monkland, 12 miles southeast of Maxville. Filion turned the bill over to police. It is being sent to Toronto for analysis to determine if its stains are human blood and police are trying to trace its origin.

Hurd was shot five times with a .22 calibre rifle by a person who robbed him of more than $1,000 and then escaped in a car.

Police have since issued a murder warrant for Henri Seguin, whose name appeared on an army discharge certificate found in the back of the death car.

WEDDINGS

McINROY—MARTIN

A wedding of local interest was solemnized in the Church of the Good Shepherd, Toronto, on August 16th, when Frances Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Martin, Bala Avenue, Toronto, became the bride of William McInroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy, of Marmora.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attired in an Alice blue floor-length gown and carried a bouquet of summer flowers.

The bridesmaid was Connie McMullen, of Windsor, who wore a gown of sheer pink chiffon over taffeta and carried a bouquet of mixed flowers.

Mr. Hugh Summers, of Toronto, was groomsman.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents.

Mr. and Mrs. McInroy have taken up residence in Weston.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy, parents of the bridegroom, attended the ceremony.

SOLMES—DAVIDSON

The wedding took place in St. Paul's Anglican Church, Marmora, on Saturday afternoon, August 23, of Laura Anne, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Davidson, of Marmora, and Thomas Solmes, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Solmes, of Springbrook.

Canon J. M. Brownlie was the officiating clergyman.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Mr. Cecil Neal, was attractively dressed in turquoise blue nylon over taffeta with matching hat and a corsage of pink roses and ferns.

Miss Edna Solmes, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, attired in pink nylon with matching hat and corsage of roses.

The best man was Sam Davidson, brother of the bride.

The church was decorated with gladioli and other summer flowers.

The wedding music was played by Mrs. L. R. Rundle, who during the signing of the register joined her husband, in singing a duet.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Cecil Neal. About sixty guests were received by Mrs. Margaret Tompkins, sister of the bride, wearing navy blue and Mrs. Bert Solmes, mother of the groom, who wore grey.

Guests were present from Belleville, Trenton, Springrrook, and Millbridge.

After a trip to Sudbury and other northern points, Mr. and Mrs. Solmes will reside in Marmora.

Women's Activities

STIRLING W.I.

The annual meeting of Stirling Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. George Megginson with a good attendance of members and also five visitors.

Mrs. P. Bronson, president conducted the business portion of the meeting.

Roll call "Where I would like to spend my vacation", was well responded to bring to light numerous beauty and educational tours.

Several thank-you notes were read by the secretary.

The course for the co-operative program for the district will be held October 3rd.

Treasurer, Mrs. W. C. West, reported an encouraging bank account, also the sending of money for the silver Maple Leaf to be worn next year when the Associated Women of the World will meet in Toronto.

A sick committee was named, Mrs. Louis Rodgers and Mrs. H. Rodgers, and a bus trip was partly arranged with complete plans to be given at the next meeting.

Mrs. S. Kirkey had charge of the program. Mrs. Prior was called on to tell of her trip by car to Brandon, Manitoba. She described a colorful and adventurous journey. While listening to her travel talk, the ladies thought they too were travelling along with her, mentioning the beautiful flower gardens, traffic restrictions, hospitality of the people, both old and young, lawn socials put on by churches, also the train trip home chaperoning three children under ten years. While on her trip Mrs. Prior sent cards of greetings to members.

Mrs. H. Cooke put on a contest "Business Men's name of Stirling" with Mrs. Tulloch's group winning a box of candy.

Mrs. Kirkey gave the topic on "Agriculture" of "Bees Working in Alfalfa", which was interesting, about which the large percentage of farmers know little. There was also in connection with agriculture an exchange of flower slips and bulb roots.

Refreshments were served.

Mrs. H. Tulloch moved a vote of thanks to the hostess, to Mrs. Prior, to the program committee, and to the lunch committee.

AIKENS' CHURCH W.M.S.

Aikens—The August meeting of Aikens' W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. C. Smith. The program for the meeting was based on "Christian Stewardship," theme being "Life is a Trust." Mrs. S. Marshall was convener for the first part and took charge of the following program: Verses of scripture were read by Mrs. G. Willman, Mrs. M. Jeffrey, Mrs. S. Spafford, Mrs. W. Bush, Mrs. C. Hubble, Mrs. H. Hamilton, Mrs. P. Hamilton, Mrs. O. Pearson, Mrs. U. Perry and Mrs. C. Grills. Questions on "Stewardship" were discussed.

The president, Mrs. F. Jones took charge of the remainder of the meeting. She thanked the hostess and program committee. The September meeting to be at the home of Mrs. W. Bush. The president also asked for the new "Study Book" to be sent for and also asked the W.M.S. to remember the school for leaders.

A discussion followed on the autumn 'Thank Offering' and bazaar.

Mrs. Perry Hamilton favored with a solo.

Mrs. Smith and her assistants served refreshments.

Takes It Off

Mother's rolling pin comes in handy at reducing unwanted pounds on thighs and hips of Miss Canada who enters the Miss America contest at Atlantic City next week. Marilyn Reddick 18-year-old talented blonde from Agincourt, near Toronto, was a mite heavy in the Miss Canada contest but the pounds have been taken off. Her fame, too, is spreading. A United States marine squadron in San Diego, Calif., has asked her for a pin-up picture to take with them to Korea. — (CP Photo.)

British Jewelry Designers Get Ready for Coronation

London (CP) —British jewelry designers are fashioning tiaras and magnificent jewelry suites for formal wear, to be worn in Westminster Abbey at the coronation next June and on other state occasions in connection with the crowning of Queen Elizabeth.

The coronation is also responsible for preparation of many designs with a coronation motif to be sold at home and abroad as symbols and souvenirs.

Pearls and diamonds are combined to make some unusual tiaras. One London jeweler has designed a tiara on a base of three rows of pearls, with the addition of larger pearls and diamonds. This one is light and can be worn comfortably for long periods.

Platinum Favored

The modern tiaras are set in platinum, in contrast to older designs that were always in gold or silver. Lacy designs seen at previous coronations are also out of date. Fringe and sun-ray fashions now are fashionable.

One London jeweler is producing tiaras with a dual purpose. They may be converted in a few minutes to be worn as diamond necklaces. In turn, the necklace can be split into a double clip and earrings.

The crown motif, of course, is a comfortable one for costume jewelry to be sold in Britain during coronation year. Crown brooches worn on the lapel of a jacket, or even in the hair, will be in pearls or rhinestones.

Among coronation souvenirs silver will be used for tiny hairbrushes, cocktail sticks, tankards and sauce boats. For children there will be silver porringers with a fleur-de-lis design, and hairbrushes decorated with miniature crowns.

There will also be cake and sweets dishes in similar designs, letter openers shaped like swords and a host of others. For the younger woman there will be powder compacts with a crown design or the portrait of the queen.

And for the woman who is not fussy about an obtrusive souvenir, there are tiny charms shaped like crowns and swords, to add to a bracelet.

Fall Fashion Shows Turn Winter Spotlight on Fur

Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — Fall fashion shows in London and Paris have turned the winter spotlight on fur. Not mink and sable; but common mole, natural fox, brushed beaver, lamb and sealskin.

Throughout the world, it seems, the best customers are the working millions. So for myriads of women in London, Paris, Rome and Frankfurt, the winter fur trimmings are those that do not boost the price of garments out of reach of a moderate bankroll.

Pierre Balmain of Paris and Hardy Amies of London show the glamor effected by cheaper furs.

Mink, chinchilla, sable and lynx are used in both cities, but none achieve the unanimous popularity of mole and sealskin and the slightly more expensive Persian and Indian lamb.

Amies, designer to the Queen, lines a black corded velvet swagger with black moleskin. Balmain lines a big-sleeved, loose grey tweed coat with yellow lamb, and Peter Russell uses moleskin linings to tone with materials.

Russell favors fine Scots tweeds in everything from tiny box jackets to big travel coats—all lined with moleskin.

Loose Style Popular

Most designers use fur trimmings for loose and fitted suit jackets. Digby Morton designed a loose peg-top jacket with black sealskin collar and jut-out front trimming that gives the effect of an inner fur lining. Many fitted suit jackets have peplums completely covered or tipped with fur.

Attractive collars and cuffs include blue, grey and natural red fox. One coat with face-framing fox collar forming a deep "V" to the tight waistline, slim sleeves and flaring hem, has a 1926 line.

An olive green velour tent coat, with red fox cuffs that form a huge muff, is typical of many loose styles.

Even the Elizabethan ruff could not escape the fur influence. More than one designer produced a ruff in black or white baby seal.

Rolling Pin Is Being Used To Help Figure

TORONTO (CP)—Mrs. Harvey Reddick's rolling pin is busy rolling out a pie these days—a cutie pie, that is.

Mrs. Reddick is the mother of Mis. Canada, Marilyn Reddick, 18, who leaves this weekend for Atlantic City, N.J., and the Miss America contest.

At the Miss Canada contest, Marilyn's measurements were just a bit off perfect. The rolling pin is seeking to correct matters by taking off some excess fat on her thighs.

Miss Reddick is steeped in Canadian history. Her great-great aunt was Laura Secord, the heroine of Upper Canada who warned British troops of an impending U.S. attack along the Niagara frontier during the war of 1812. A cousin is Hon. George Prudham, federal Minister of Mines.

Marilyn also is a descendant of John Smith, a United Empire Loyalist who fled New Jersey in 1786 and settled at Grimsby. Her great-great grandfather, Thomas Ebenezer Pickett, was the first saddle-bag minister in Canada, making his circuit from Lake Simcoe to Lake Erie.

WOULDN'T QUIT, FIRED

TORONTO (CP)—Charles Leber was fired yesterday as superintendent of Lambert Lodge, city home for elderly persons. Mayor Lamport said he was dismissed for "general incompetence" after being given a chance to resign. Investigation had shown the lodge run "in a most unsatisfactory manner."

TWO DROWNED

MONTREAL (CP) —Two men were drowned yesterday when the roof of a 400,000 gallon water tank on which they were working collapsed. Yvon Aubin, 24, of nearby Pont Viau and Charles Bouchard, 23, of Montreal were shovelling earth on the tank to protect it from frost when the cement room caved in, hurling them into the water.

Dionne Quints Leaving Soon To Enter Convent in Quebec

NORTH BAY (CP)—The 18-year-old Dionne quintuplets will soon be leaving their Corbeil home to continue their schooling in Quebec.

Within the next few weeks the quints will enrol in the Nicolet Convent, located in Nicolet. Que., and operated by the Sisters of Assumption. Nicolet is on the south shore of the St. Lawrence across from Three Rivers.

The quints—Annette, Cecile, Emilie, Marie and Yvonne—received their junior matriculation diplomas last spring. Up until now they have taken all their schooling at Notre Dame Convent, a private school on the Dionne grounds.

Not Seeking Degrees

University subjects will be available at Nicolet. However, the quints at this stage do not intend to seek university degrees, their father said.

"They are going to take just those subjects which appeal to them," Mr. Dionne added. "They are going to Nicolet merely to polish up in preparation for future life."

The fact the quints are going into a convent does not mean they intend to become nuns, Mr. Dionne said.

"They have not indicated in any way yet what careers they intend to adopt," Mr. Dionne stated. "Mrs. Dionne and I will leave the choice entirely up to them."

Hope For Privacy

"We did not want them to go to a big city where there would be less chance of them enjoying privacy," Mr. Dionne said. "Nicolet is just the right size town. They will be able to mingle with the people of the town without much danger of being annoyed."

"What they need more than anything else right now is outside experience and they will get it at Nicolet."

"I sincerely hope that people will now help us to permit the girls to live a normal life," Mr. Dionne said. "They don't want to be celebrities. They want to be left alone and given an opportunity to live as nearly a normal life as possible. "They want the same chance as other girls their age and we hope the public will co-operate.'

SISTERS ALL

By Jean Love Galloway

Sign of the times, is an advertisement inserted by Eaton's of Toronto directed to New Canadians. The store has now found it necessary to take on staff a number of "shopping interpreters" to help New Canadian customers with their buying . . . It is possible for customers in the store to talk with shopping interpreters in 20 different European languages.

* * *

What Do We Know?

There used to be a lot of talk during World War II about the German people sitting pat in their homes and not concerning themselves with conditions in the "concentration" camps outside their cities and towns.

A friend, who has much to do with Canadian courts, suggests that practically nobody is the least bit concerned about the conditions in our own police offices and jails. How many of us know what type of treatment prisoners are receiving? How many of us know whether or not innocent people are being beaten up, forced to suffer under almost unbearable conditions and surroundings?

It is surprising how few people have ever sat in a courtroom when it is in session. It is surprising how few people have ever put themselves out to have a look inside our jails to see what goes on there.

It is always possible to arrange to inspect existing conditions in these places, if you go to the civic or government authorities with a purposeful curiosity. Frequently, Canadian papers carry word that jail conditions are atrocious for our times.

Too Busy

Most of the world's inhumanity springs from the fact that one-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives. People feel they are much too busy to do a little touring along the side-roads of life which lie beyond the speedways. If you do not know another suffers, if you shut your eyes to life, then there is no possibility you will ever be a humanitarian, even in a small way.

Our jails harbor the innocent waiting for trial as well as the guilty. Besides, there is no justification under a democracy for the treatment of men worse than animals in spite of their shortcomings.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Loves her—but wants a divorce.

Ever hear of a man who professed to be deeply in love with his wife, has no complaints of any kind against her and yet who wanted a divorce?

Here is the story of one such husband who tells his wife he wants her to set him free, at the same time leaving her in complete and anguished ignorance of his reasons.

Writes the wife:

"I am 21, and married to my second husband, who is in the navy. I have two boys by my first husband.

"When my first husband walked off and left the boys and me, Jimmie married me and left for navy duty without telling his mother that he had married. When she found it out, she asked him to get a divorce, telling him that I had married him for his money, which was not true. He didn't have any money, anyhow.

"A few weeks ago my husband was home on leave and came straight to me. He then went to visit his mother, and after that, he began to act very strangely. Finally he said: 'I love you, but I want you to divorce me. I am all mixed up, and after I come out of the navy, we can marry again.'

"Now he is away again, and he still writes how much he loves and wants me, but he still insists he wants a divorce. In one of his letters, he said: "This is not my heart asking for a divorce, but my head.'

"I am almost out of my mind with worry. Do you think I should divorce him, when I know he loves me and I love him?"

Do I think this wife should divorce the husband who is asking her to do so without giving her the slightest clue as to why he wants it? Certainly I don't. I think that before she even starts to consider any such request, made in such an extraordinary way, she has a right to all the facts, so that she can weigh them as they should be weighed before making her decision. What kind of person is it who would ask someone to turn his life upside down, while withholding any information that would make such a demand reasonable and understandable?

What seems most likely, of course, is that here is a dominating mother who is trying to break up the marriage which robbed her of her son; a son too week to take a firm stand against his over-possessive mother. So he decided to buy temporary peace by acceding to her demand and getting his wife to divorce him, quieting his conscience by promising himself that when he came home for good, he would then work things out in his own way.

Having a tour of duty to perform, he felt incapable of mixing it with family trouble. Get the duty out of the way first, he may have told himself, and struggle with the family trouble afterward.

That is one theory. Another, an even less savory one, is that he may have listened to, and been more than half persuaded by, stories made up by his mother which were designed to shake his faith in his wife or at least in the wisdom of their marriage. This is by no means outside the range of possibility where an evidently jealous and fiercely possessive mother is concerned.

But whichever of these two theories is the correct one, he is cruelly wronging and wounding his wife by keeping the true facts from her. It may be that, when she learns them, as she is certain to do sooner or later, she will divorce him gladly, and for keeps. But she should take no such step until he clears up the situation once and for all.

Food for Thought

Readers' Saturday Column

By Mary Moore

QUESTION:

. . .find your recipes delicious . . . I wonder if you could give me fruit cocktail for canning . . . also devilled spareribs made with catsup or tomato juice—Mrs. James B.

ANSWER:

CANNED FRUIT SALAD

(This is the only recipe I own for what you want. It is not in any cookbooks that I have or know of. So if other readers are interested in this I would be grateful if you would clip it now. The mail is very heavy and I have very little time or space for repeats.)

One-half 6-quart basket each finest peaches and pears, 5 oranges, 1 grapefruit, 5 cups water, 5 cups sugar, 1 medium-sized bottle maraschino cherries. Make a syrup of the water and sugar. Peel and cut up peaches and pears in shapes as you would for fruit salad. Cook in syrup; about 5 minutes before they are tender add the peeled and sectioned and membraneless oranges and grapefruit. At the last minute add the drained cherries which have been cut in halves. Pack in sterile jars (about 5 quarts) and seal. If desired a 20-oz. tin canned cubed pineapple and its juice may be added when oranges are. When this is opened serve as is, or add sliced bananas and seeded imported or green seedless grapes.

DEVILLED SPARERIBS

(Also called barbecued.)

In bottom of deep baking dish place layer of short meaty spareribs, cover with layer of sliced onions then pour over some barbecue sauce (see below). Repeat these 3 layers. Cover tightly. Bake at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours, uncovering during last 1-2 hour.

BARBECUE SAUCE

Mix together 1-2 cup catsup, 1 cup water, 1 1-2 teaspoons salt, 1-4 teaspoon tabasco sauce, 1-8 teaspoon chili powder, 1-2 teaspoon mustard, 1 tablespoon brown sugar. This sauce may be used on loin or shoulder pork chops in the same way, but cooking time is shorter.

QUESTION:

(From Mrs. Marion L. whom I answered yesterday with the Corn Relish recipe. . .also wants pickled pears and suggestions for uncurdling scalloped potatoes. .)

ANSWER:

PICKLED PEARS

Seven lbs. medium-sized winter pears (preferably Seckel), 2 cups sugar, 3-4 cup light corn syrup, 1 cup spirit vinegar, 1 cup water, 1-2 teaspoon whole ginger, 1 1-2 teaspoons whole cloves, 1 cinnamon stick broken. If pears are very small pare but do not core or stem them. If large pare, halve, care and stem. Place immediately in water to which you have added 1-4 cup vinegar to prevent browning. Combine remaining ingredients and heat them to boiling. Drain pears and add to vinegar-syrup and bring to boil and boil 3 minutes. Fill into hot sterile jars, filling to overflowing with boiling syrup. Seal to within 1-8 turn of tight and process in hot water bath at boiling point for 15 minutes. Drain and cool out of draughts at once.

Two things reduce curdling hazard in scalloped potatoes: (1) soak the sliced potatoes for 1-2 hour and drain them well before adding flour and salt and milk; (2) do not use flour and bake uncovered at 275 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours with milk covering surface of potatoes for 1-2 inch when started. The slow long cooking with added butter is my method—but potatoes from some areas will curdle in spite of all your care.

QUESTION:

. . .Have you a recipe for Pickled Watermelon Rind. . .we used to live in dear old Winnipeg so got a kick out of your trip. —Mrs. F. H. T.

ANSWER:

I am so glad you enjoyed me mentioning Winnipeg. I have ever so many nostalgic notes from readers who had or do live in towns I visited.

PICKLED WATERMELON RIND

Cut white skinless rind of watermelon into 1 1-2 inch pieces—you need 6 lbs. Cover with water, boil 15 minutes and drain. Combine 2 cups sugar, 1 1-3 cups light brown sugar, 1 cup pale corn syrup, 2 cups spirit vinegar, 2 cups water, 1 tablespoon ground cinnamon, 1 teaspoon each allspice and cloves, 2 lemons sliced. Heat to boiling, add drained watermelon rind, cover and boil until rind is clear—about 30 minutes. If desired spice oils may be used in place of ground spices, to taste—add sparingly and green vegetable coloring to color. Pour into about 6 pint jars which are sterile and seal.

Formal pattern for toast-proposing at wedding reception when there is a master of ceremonies

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have asked my oldest brother to act as master of ceremonies and toastmaster at my wedding reception. Will you please tell me exactly what he will be expected to do?—M. H.

First you and your brother. . . perhaps with your fiance and brother sitting in on the 'conference' . . . should decide what toasts you wish to have proposed by your brother, master of ceremonies. When there is to be a master of ceremoniees, the reception-procedure, as far as the proposing-of-toasts is concerned, follows a fairly formal pattern. The first toast is that important Toast to the Bride, and the master of ceremonies may call on the clergyman to propose this toast, or the best man, or, occasionally, a man who has been a long-time friend of the bride's family, perhaps her godfather. The groom responds to this toast.

The second toast may be the Toast to the Briddl Attendants, honor attendant and bridesmaids: the m.c. may call on either the best man (the usual custom) or the groom. If the groom proposes the toast, the best man responds to it, or, sometimes, the head usher, who is often a close relative of the bride or groom.

Then, the Toast to the Bride's Mother, the hostess of the wedding: usually proposed by a friend of the family, and responded to, most appropriately, by the bride's father.

Next, the Toast to the Groom's Mother, the woman guest of honor, proposed by a friend of the family, and responded to by the groom's father.

Note 1: There is no absolutely definite sequence for the toasts, but the procedure suggested above is representative.

Note 2: Those who are to be called on for toasts or responses should be informed ahead of time.

Note 3: Besides the set program decided on beforehand for your brother to follow, there may be, of course, some impromptu toasts proposed after these most important toasts have been given.

Usually no ring bearer in today's wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

(1) Is it proper to have a flower girl and not a ring bearer?

(2) If so, in what order do the attendants walk in the processional? In the recessional?—H.X.

(1) Yes. . .indeed it is proper to have a flower girl and not a ring bearer. As a matter of fact, today, in mose communities, it is considered definitely passe to have a ring bearer in the wedding party. Although it is proper to have a ring bearer if the bride wishes, if a small boy is to be included in the wedding party, usually he is called a "page", doesn't carry the ring, and often walks with the flower girl, preceding the bride and her father. This charming simplicity does away with the "dramatics" of carrying-the-ring. . . a procedure which all too often takes the wedding-spotlight from the bride to "the cute little boy."

(2) Processional: first, the ushers, two by two, the shortest leading; next, the bridesmaids, two by two, the shortest leading; next the maid of honor, alone; then the flower girl, alone; and last, the bride and her father, or whoever is to escort her.

Recessional: first, the bride and groom; next, the flower girl, alone; next, the maid of honor, either alone or with the best man; next, the bridesmaids, two by two, as they walked in the processional; and last, the ushers, two by two, as they walked in the proand ushers may be paired off.)

BEAUTY

Playing with the make-up box

Complexion artifice can work miracles if properly selected and make a girl look brittle and bedizened. That women are progressing along these lines is evident. The items of the beauty kit can be used so wisely and with so much restraint that they simulate natural loveliness. But it cannot be done if one makes a dash at the job, doesn't use one's head when deciding upon colors of powder, rouge, lipstick, eye shadows. There are little tricks.

It is necessary to start with a clean skin surface, which means the use of an oil, then soap and water, then a light cream. By spending a little more time than is ordinarily spent, natural coloring is whipped up and the cutaneous surface is conditioned to accept the glamorizing aids.

It is well to soft pedal in the daytime, using only the tiniest bit of rouge on the cheeks, relying upon the lipstick to make your countenance more vivid. But when you are about to fare forth for the merry evening, you can indulge your cosmetic fancies a bit more freely.

As a foundation you can smooth on a velvety type of make-up film. Sometimes a warm peach tone gives delicacy to the skin. On the oily complexion one might prefer a pearly liquid that deposits a powdery veil. If the skin is dry, a creamy foundation may be a happy choice, though it must be patted in until it practically disappears. If you belong to the baretop contingent, you must include your neck and shoulders; there is no safe stopping place.

Pure reds and blue-reds are better rouge and lipstick colors for the evening than orange-red tones. Electric lights have a tendency to drain red from orange and import an unflattering cast to cheeks and lips. Morever, blue tones in the lipstick make the teeth look whiter than orange or true reds.

If your face needs fullness, don't place rouge in the centre of the cheeks—it will have the effect of a shadow—and be sure to put a little dab on your chin in order to create an oval of color. You should, of course, use powder first, removing the surplus with a camel's hair powder brush. There will then be an even distribution.

It is the way of women to accent the upper lip with the rosy glow. But almost any face is made more appealing with a full, softly curved lower lips.

8-28
Distributed by King Features Syndicate.

Use only a little bit of rouge during the daytime.

Taxi Service In Big Demand On Pay Days

TRENTON (Special) — There may be a serious transportation shortage here this winter for people who use taxi service.

Yesterday was the busiest since last New Year's day according to two operators who reported that many people waited as long as an hour after calling a cab. Yesterday was payday at the Trenton Air Station and No. 6 Repair Depot and for the CPR employees and most of the factory workers." It seemed that everybody wanted to go someplace" one busy taxi dispatcher observed.

Where there were 25 cabs in operation two years ago only 15 taxis remain to accommodate just as many or more people. Four taxi operators went out of business leaving the same number to give service.

When the deluge of rain fell last night taxis which had been operating at peak capacity most of the day became almost impossible to find.

"If we can't give the service under summer conditions what will it be like when a foot of snow covers the ground and temperatures are down below zero" Garnet Wickens, owner of Del's Taxi asked.

Rain Spoils Jamboree

The "Queen of the Quinte" came close to floating down the bay she was named after.

When the small cloudburst hit here last night the annual Lion's Club jamboree at the government dock was in full swing and beauty contest aspirants were readying themselves for the judges. There was a great deal of confusion caused by the small flood and what appeared to be one of the Lion's most successful projects had to be abandoned. The crowd seeking cover jammed under the canopy at the dock and filled a restaurant near the bridge. Doorways all along the main street provided shelter during the downpour.

Mayor Kenneth J. Couch and a town councillor expressed disappointment when they learned that the "parade of the pretties" had been called off.

Club officials made no announcement regarding a date in the future for the jamboree.

New Fishing Twist

There was a new twist in fishing here yesterday.

A fish caught another fish and they both were pulled in by river fishermen Johnny Moon.

This happened at the favorite pickeral waters below No. 1 dam on the Trent River.

A small mouthed bass grabbed Moon's bait and struck off with it. A "moon eye" swimming nearby became an innocent victim when the nylon fishing line was drawn into its mouth and the bass circled tying the line in a vice-like noose around the moon eye's lower jaw and front fin.

When the fisherman reeled in he found he had one fish tied to the line and the other dangling on the hook.

Polio Outbreak Shows No Signs Of Slackening

EDMONTON (CP)—Western Canada's polio outbreak shows no signs of slackening. Eastern Canada is experiencing a comparatively mild year.

Already, British Columbia is on the verge of its worst polio year. Yesterday its case total was 185, equal to the count at the end of August in the record year of 1947. There have been 17 deaths in B.C. so far this year, five more than in 1947.

The outbreak, reaching epidemic proportions in the B.C. Kootenays, the Calgary and Saskatoon districts and southern Manitoba, has put a crimp in many children's activities.

It has forced the postponement of school openings in 22 western centres, and closed swimming pools Sunday schools, playgrounds and theatres to many children.

It has even affected two of Canada's big army training camps in Manitoba. Troop movements in and out of the Rivers paratroop school are prohibited. There have been 16 polio cases there, two of them fatal. The ban also applied for a time to the Camp Shilo artillery camp but it was lifted yesterday.

An example of how the east has fared better than the west is Ontario, the most heavily populated province. To date there have been 285 cases and nine deaths in that province, compared with 855 cases and 31 deaths at the same time last year.

Bank President Shot, Critically Wounds Himself

MINEOLA, N.Y. (AP) — Bank president William H. Abel, 45, shot and critically wounded himself yesterday, two days after charging a woman business executive with swindling his institution of $450,000.

Abel had been expected to come to the district attorney's office yesterday for questioning in the swindle case but failed to appear.

The reason for the suicide attempt was not made clear to reporters who spoke with district attorney Frank Gulotta after he visited Abel in hospital.

The prosecutor said he had learned new facts in the case but he did not reveal them.

Abel sent his wife and their two 'teen-aged sons, to the beach earlier in the day. When they returned they found Abel in the cellar and a .45-calibre revolver nearby.

Mrs. Lillia B. Robinson, 47, was charged Wednesday with forgery on Abel's complaint and held in $10,000 bail.

She is president of a building supplies firm.

Abel, president of the Central National Bank of Mineola, told authorities Mrs. Robinson falsified loan applications and certificates of home improvement jobs during the last four years to get money from the bank.

COUNTY COUNCIL

As extension committee member Reeve Fred Mitchell, of Thurlow, said there was no question that more beds were needed.

"I don't see any solution but to build an addition," he said. "Financing is another question but the county will have to contribute."

This attitude was also taken by Warden Grills who said the hospital was badly overcrowded. "And we must have a hospital," he said.

In Friday's discussion period Reeve Theodore Tryon of Bancroft felt sure there was a right approach and an answer to the hospital problem. He was certain the county would be fair.

County Clerk-Treasurer read answers to a query sent to other counties in the province which revealed that no counties were participating in the operation of hospitals although many had contributed building grants or operational grants to local hospitals.

Discusson swung around to drug costs with Reeve Lynch of Marmora noting it was alarming to think that $5 per day was being spent on drugs for the average indigent hospital patient.

"I do think that medical men are given too much freedom," he said. "The doctor may be right or he may be wrong—they are all human—but the costs of drugs is running into millions. It think it is time for a questioning."

Question Drug Costs

Reeve Graham said the cost of drugs was high and the cost of administering the drugs was also high. He cited an instance of being charged $6 by one doctor for a certain drug and $2 by another for the same dose. "I sometimes wonder what drugs actually do cost," he said.

Referring to the need of additional accommodation at Belleville hospital, he stated 40 per cent of the patients were from the county. "We certainly have a responsibility and I suggest that we keep that in mind."

Commenting on the cost of drugs and their use by doctors, Reeve Tryon said the doctor's decision on the use of drugs must be accepted.

"But we are turning our back on our priblem," he pointed out. "The question is whether or not we are going to make a specific grant or accept a partnership in the hospital."

Reeve Jack Kincaid said councillors should look at the matter from more than a financial point of view. He referred to the fact 40 per cent of patients in the hospital were from the county and said the county thus had a responsibility.

Reeve Earl Sager was opposed to any suggestion of a 50-50 basis, "especially when we send only 40 per cent of the patients." Neither could Reece Adams see the partnership idea pointing out that the city would grpw faster than the county.

Debate Terms of Grant

Reeve C. T. Rollins questioned the fairness of hospital grants being paid on the number of beds, claiming instead they should be paid according to the number of patients. This was the policy adopted by the department of education which paid grants according to the number of pupils attending school.

Reputy Reeve Theodore Cooney of Rawdon differed with Reeve Rollins on the system of grant payments. He said if grants were paid according to the number of patients there would be a tendency to overcrowd. He felt the county had a financial obligation in the hospital but did not like the partnership idea.

Reeve Bernard Hunt of Hungerford said he was still very much confused on the issue and would like more information. He felt the county had an obligation.

When the discussion seemed to be getting nowhere Reeve Adams suggested that as hospital loss was principally on drugs administered to indigent patients that the county assume this cost for its patients 'until something was decided on."

This brought a wave of protest from other councillors who said if anything was done it should be an outright gift. "We don't want to get involved in the operation of the hospital," was the concensus.

Returning again to the grant question Reeve Sager said the government should pay grants on extra patients not on rated bed capacity. Warden Grills doubted if the department would consent to this as it would not make for good hospital service.

"Then it should pay larger grants on construction," returned Reeve Sager.

The Warden was inclined to agree. The government is meeting educational costs by 50 per cent but is not keeping pace in its health department," he said.

Some Needs Doubted

that with the rapid increase in so- that with the rapoid increase in social services it was almost impossible to conceive the over-all problem. More and more people were obtaining health insurance plans and Blue Cross. The attitude by people that 'We might as well get our money's worth" was filling the hospitals with result that rates were rapidly increasing. He said he feared ultimate breakdown of the service would result.

Reeve Anderson of Faraday had an answer for that one. The same thing had occurerd in his municipality where numerous family groups had taken out Blue Cross and were filling the hospital. A ruling was made that patients must pay a sum of $15 on admission to hospital.

Reeve Kincaid wanted the Warden to name a committee to investigate more thoroughly and report at the next session. "We have an obligation but we don't want any snap judgment,". he said.

"I don't know that I agree to that," returned Reeve Mitchell. "The matter is urgent and we wouldn't know any more in December than we do now. We do know that a new wing is needed and we know that the county has a moral obligation."

It was here that Reeve Rollins came up with the idea of the county making a grant on a bed basis. This, he said would follow the government policy and the county would be taking no responsibility.

The idea was picked up by Reeve Lynch who suggested a figure of $1,000 per bed. "If the county went in on this basis and spread payments over a number of years, it would not be too much of a burden," he said.

There was a question of acceptance of the offer by the city however, he pointed out. The city may think it was being left to shoulder too much of the burden.

Decision Urgent

Reeve Kincaid wanted to know if the city was actually waiting for action by county council before proceeding with plans. Warden Grills replied this was the case. "We are holding up progress of the new wing unless we come up with a definite answer," he said.

This was substantiated by Reeve Mitchell who said the city could not move until the county expressed itself.

Reeve Ross Neal drafted the motion authorizing council members of the hospital extension committee to discuss the matter further with the hospital board on the basis of a grant of $1,000 per bed for an 80-bed wing, but discussion continued on the terms of payment.

Some councillors felt it would be better to pay the grant off as quickly as possible and thereby save interest, but Reeve Charles Buskard thought differently. "It's okay to pay as you go," he said, "but I think it is better to let the younger generation help pay for the services which they will be using."

Reeve Earl Sager of Madoc township also wanted payments spread over a longer period with payments not to commence until re-assessment of the townships was completed,

It was finally decided that the matter of payment was an entirely separate question and could be decided on at a later session.

Moscow Fires Real Broadside Against Allies

VIENNA (AP) —In a broadside against the Austrian government, Soviet Lt.-Gen. V. P. Svirldov gave the Allies a view yesterday of how Moscow feels about western moves to give Austria full independence and end the occupation.

At the regular meeting of the four-power allied control council the Russian high commissioner launched the most blistering Soviet attack here in seven years on virtually every aspect of the Austrian government from its members down to its school system.

Observers speculated that this was the foundation of the Russian line, should Austria succeed in getting her plea before the United Nations for a state treaty returning her to full soverignty. The Soviets have blocked all efforts by Britain, the United States and France to end the occupation and permit Austria to rejoin the family of free nations. Austria has said she will try to get the matter before the U.N. general assembly this fall.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Hollywood thought Frederick Brisson was slipping when he gave a future movie a try-out on television last year. But the producer now says the experiment was a success.

Brisson and his wife, Rosalind Russell, had a film project called Wave at a WAC." They put the story on TV in a live broadcast for the Playhouse of Stars. Now they are engaged in making the film version for theatres.

"The TV try-out proved of great value," said Brisson. "we got the kinescope, and by running it over and over we could see the flaws in the plot. We changed the entire story line.

"I don't see why the major studios couldn't do the same thing. They have hundreds of stories that have never been filmed. If they would allow these stories to be shown on TV, they could find out which ones would be suitable for movies."

Discharged Don

"I'm through with the service," says Don Taylor. At present he is portraying a Navy man in "60 Saddles for Gobi." He just finished "pleasure Island," in which he was a Marine. He was in the sub service for "Submarine Command," the infantry for "japanese War Bride" and "Battleground," marines for "Flying Leathernecks" and the Air Force for "Target Unknown" and "Winged Victory."

"You've got enough points for a discharge, boy," one wit remarked.

DRIVE-IN THEATRE

"Bomba and the Lost Volcano"

In Africa with his family on a wild animal hunt, Zoologist Donald Woods discounts a local legend that near a lost volcano in the region is an ancient city containing untold wealth. But his Tommy Ivo, meeting Bamba (Johnny Sheffield), a jungle-reared boy, finds out that the story is true. Two jungle guides, learning that Bomba knows the location of the volcano, kidnap the boys. Bomba, though wounded escapes and returns to Woods. In an ensuing gun battle, the croks escape with Tommy. They find the riches, only to be trapped when the volcano erupts. Bomba leads Woods' party out of danger and rescues Tommy from the volcano. The two crooks are killed while trying to flee.

"Fingerprints Don't Lie"

Richard Emory a young artist, is being sent to the electric chair for the murder of the city's mayor because his fingerprints are found on the murder weapon, a telephone. But Sheila Ryan, Emory's fiancee, maintains his innocence, and Richard Travis, a scientific investigator, discovers the fingerprints on the telephone have been forged. Sheila suspects Michael Whalen, the police commissioner, of being the killer. She and Travis find several sets of forged fingerprints in Whalen's room and Whalen, discovering they are on the trail, determines to leave town. He is shot by a confederate, George Eldredge, who makes it look like suicide. But Travis links Whalen and Eldredge; the latter is killed while resisting arrest; Emory is cleared and rejoins his waiting fiancee.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

OSHAWA TONIGHT

The feature of the weekend is the tussle tonight between the Glen Roy Juniors and the Oshawa kidlets. And brother, that should be a battle. The Oshawa youngsters are up in there battling for the city championship of "Campbellville" against a team of major classification.

However, pre-game reports to the contrary, Coach Bill Spafford is taking nothing for granted. He has the Glens whipped up to fine point, ready and rarin' to go. We don't know at this time of writing whom he will send to the mound but in all likelihood it will be Bobby Green, his ace lefthander.

There's one thing we like about this junior squad and that is the equality in pitching power. Bobby Hunter, bub, can really toss 'em in there and the rest of the squad are solidly behind this pair of Bobs.

* * *

Along baseball lines the only attraction that we know of is the final scheduled game between the Peterborough Petes and the Kingston Monarchs to be played in Kingston tonight and which will wind up the schedule. If the Petes win, the final standing will be, Peterborough, Belleville and Kingston. If they lose the Reds will be in a tie for first place with the Petes which will necessitate a sudden-death playoff. However, this department is not worrying too much about that.

The semi-finals will start here next Tuesday night if the Petes win this evening. The Reds will trek to Kingston on Wednesday night and the third game will be played here Thursday. And so on into the night.

Meanwhile the CNR Diesels are girding their softball loins for an unknown quality in the form of the Whitby squad which they meet next Wednesday in Whitby and back here again on Saturday. Coach Jim Ethier, Alfie Rowbotham and the "Ole Cluck" Herbie Henn all got their spokes in, and while they feel confident the Diesels will come through they are not taking any chances.

Disappointed over the failure of the Kingston Alcans to put in appearance here and who were rightly tossed out of OASA competition (Did you know that, Mike, or do I have to scoop you all the time?). The Diesels have been kept in shape via the medium of exhibitions. If they take this series they can tack on their manly bosoms crests advertising the fact they are "Eastern Ontario Champion."

In a recent round-up we forgot to mention the name Johnny Ronsky, a veteran of the softball wars, and who still comes through with outstanding performances. Johnny is a valuable asset to the Diesels equad, and his experience and ability should stand them in good stead.

ALL IN A DAY'S WORK

Cripes, what a world to live in. One day you're a champ and the next a chump.

The other day a doting mother burned the wires to this office. Her son had been the hero of a softball game somewhere or other. The team had won and "Joe" was the family Frank Merriwell.

Okay we missed it. Momma gave us the verbal works.

The next day "Joe" was in trouble with the cops. He had something or other, in fact it didn't matter much.

Again the phone wires sizzled. It was Momma again.

But, kiddies, what a change in presentation. We were the white-haired bozo—and all that stuff.

Somebody said once "what they want in the newspaper is advertising and what they want kept out, is news." How true.

Three Victories Will Clinch Flag For Montreal

(By The Associated Press)

The International League pennant race was down to a two-team affair today, and Montreal Royals need only three victories to clinch their second straight flag.

Rochester's Red Wings lost their last opportunity of catching the Royals last night when they dropped a 6-5, 11-inning decision to Toronto while Montreal was trimming Baltimore 6-1, 1-0 in a doubleheader.

Meantime, Syracuse Chief kept alive their faint hopes by also winning two. They downed Springfield Cubs 4-2 and 13-2 for their 11th doubleheader sweep of the season.

Royals lead the Chiefs by 11 games with 15 to be played. Syracuse has only 11 games remaining.

Ottawa Beat Bisons

In the other league game, a double by Stan Jok scored the winning run as Ottawa's Athletics whipped Buffalo Bisons 6-3. Lou Limmer hit his 20th homer for the A's and Jok added a four-bagger to his double. Pitcher Al Yaylien and Frank Carswell homered for the Bisons.

Montreal's double win, achieved with Johnny Podres hurling a two-hitter in the opener and Tom Lasorda a three-hitter in the second, ruined Baltimore's hopes of climbing over Toronto into fourth place.

Bob Keegan's seven-hit pitching for his 19th victory was backed up by Al Pilarcik's three-run homer in the Chief's twilight triumph. Jack Griffore also hurled a seven-hitter in the second contest and drove in four runs on a triple and a single.

Pete Pavlick's 11-inning double gave the Maple Leafs their triumph and ended the pennant hopes of Rochester.

A's Creep Up With Twin Win, As Yanks Bow to Senators And The Tribe Scalps Tigers

By RALPH RODEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians, separated by only one game in the gruelling American League pennant race, today were casting a wary eye over their shoulders at Jimmy Dykes' Philadelphia Athletics.

Jimmy's darlings are up to their usual late-season shenanigans. In the past they got hot too late but this time they have a chance to go all the way in the stretch run.

Yesterday, as Cleveland reduced the Yanks' lead to one game by beating Detroit 4-2 while the Yanks bowed 3-2 to Washington, the As swept a doubleheader from third-place Boston Red Sox, 6-1 and 7-5.

Six Behind Yanks

The sweep moved the Athletics to within 1½ games of the fading Red Sox and six of the Yanks. Six games is not so big an obstacle when you have a pitcher like Bobby Shantz.

Shantz, the major's top winner, is not the only ace Dykes has. Harry Byrd and Carl Sheib are lending a helping hand on the mound while Ferris Fain, Gus Zernal and Eddie Joost are sparking the attack.

The As have 28 games left to play, including nine with the Yanks and three with Cleveland. Nine are at home and 19 on the road.

Scheib turned in his 10th victory in last night's first game, permitting only seven hits. Allie Clark knocked in three runs on a double and two singles and Fain accounted for a pair with his second home run of the season. The Athletics pulled the nightcap out with a three-run rally in the eighth inning.

Lemon Wins 17th

Bob Lemon turned in his 17th victory for the Indians in beating Virgil Trucks at Detroit. Lemon granted six hits. The Indians led 2-1 until the sixth inning, when Luke Easter iced the decision with a two-run homer.

Home runs by Gil Coan and Jim Busby ruined the Yankees. Coan whacked his third of the season in the eighth inning to tie the score at 1-1 and Busby banged his first of the year in the ninth with Floyd Baker aboard to win the game.

Chicago Cubs defeated the pace-setting Brooklyn Dodgers in the only National League game. Warren Hacker checked the Dodgers on four hits, including Roy Campanella's 20th homer in the seventh.

Sports Roundup

By GAYLE TALBOT

NEW YORK (AP)—What almost surely will go down as the social event of the local fistic season was the going-away party given by the International Boxing Club for its retiring matchmaker, Al Weill, who is going on to bigger and better things.

Nobody was searched for knives, and Weill was presented with a watch by I.B.C. president Jim Norris as a reward for his faithful services over the last 3½ years.

Weill is not going far. As of Monday, Al will become the manager of Rocky Marciano, who has a date Sept. 23 with Jersey Joe Walcott, the heavyweight champion, at Philadelphia. Al once gave Rocky to his stepson, Marty Will, but now has snatched him back, just when the pickings looked as if they're getting good.

Al Scornful

In his speech Weill took cognizance of the base rumor that he had not exactly resigned as matchmaker for the I.B.C., but had been pushed by Robert Christenberry, chairman of the New York State Athletic Commission. This report had it that Christenberry suspected Al had been managing Marciano all along.

"You've been hearing this stuff about whether I was pushed or shoved," Al said with a proper note of scorn. "All I've got to say is that I feel I've done my duty and that I would be crazy if I didn't stop doing it to manage the boy who is going to be the next heavyweight champion of the world."

Nat Fleischer, the renowned boxing authority and editor of Ring Magazine, elicited a few ill-mannered snickers when he began his address with the bald assertion that "I'm very glad to see Al quit his job," but he pulled out of that one quite nicely.

"What I mean," Nat continued, "is that the great game of boxing needs men like Al in there giving all his attention to such a great prospect as Marciano."

Fleischer went on to say a number of good words for Billy Brown, Weill's former assistant, who, he announced, will succeed Al as matchmaker of record for the I.B.C. President Norris, it developed, was to have made the announcement, so he was left with little to say when his turn came around.

Toronto Yorkers Whip Hamilton

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto West Yorkers last night whipped Hamilton Tigers 18-10 to take a 1-0 lead in the best-of-five senior Ontario Lacrosse Association quarter-final series.

Toronto led 2-1 at the end of the first quarter, 8-4 at the half and 15-10 at the three-quarter mark.

George Masters, Jack Dorney and Tommy Love topped the Hamilton scorers with two goals each while Dorney, Love and Masters each tipped in two for the losers.

The St. Catharines at Peterborough game, also scheduled last night, was postponed to tonight because of rain.

All-American Final For Canuck Amateur

VANCOUVER (CP) — Wisecracking, cigar-chewing Larry Bouchey, a blonde California giant, today takes on immaculate quiet-spoken Bill Campbell of West Virginia in the final 36-hole trek for the Canadian amateur golf championship.

It is the first all-American final since 1929 and the first time in three years the title has gone south of the border.

Lumbering Larry, six feet, five inches and 220 pounds, squeezed out his third one up victory in a row yesterday on the forest-ringed Capilano course in West Vancouver to reach the final. His victim over the 36-hole route was Ed Meister, Cleveland advertising man.

Halts Late Rally

Campbell, U.S. Walker Cup player from Huntingdon, W. va., built a five-hole lead over silent Sam Urzetta of Rocher, N.Y., U.S. amateur champion in 1950, and finally put down a late rally to win 3 and 2.

The two finalists couldn't be less alike. The 27-year-old Inglewood, Calif., bill collector has a wisecrack for the gallery on every stroke, good or bad. He is constantly practising his swing between shots, even on the green.

Campbell, 29-year-old former West Virginia state legislator who failed this year in a bid for Congress, is meticulous and subdued. On the first tee yesterday, he stopped his backswing when he heard a camera click and said to the referee: "I want to know if this is going to happen all the way round." It didn't.

About 1,500 fans turned out for yesterday's semi-final and officials expected about 2,000 today. If there had been a Canadian in the final, the gallery might have reached 5,000, tournament officials said.

Blue Bombers Wallop Sasky Riders In Western Football Opener by 27-9

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The football competition out west is proving as rugged as everyone forecast.

Winnipeg Blue Bombers came down east this month and in a series of exhibition games mangled three of the Big Four teams, including the Canadian champion Ottawa Rough Riders.

Last night, the Bombers, somewhat frayed at the edges, won their first contest of the young Western Interprovincial Football Union season walloping Saskatchewan Roughriders 27-9. The victory, at Winnipeg, gave the Blue Bombers a win, a tie and a loss in three starts, moving them into second place behind Calgary Stampeders.

Pacing Winnipeg to its triumph was second-string quarterback Joe (Black Magic) Zaleski, understudy for Indian Jack Jacobs. Zaleski was in the signal calling spot for all but three minutes and his inspired play in the final quarters after the Bombers were down 9-8 at the three-quarter mark brought them out on top.

Junior Scores 10

Len Meltzer, hard-running product of Winnipeg junior ranks, ran up 10 points on two majors. Flying wing Buddy Korchak was right behind him with nine points on a touchdown and four converts. Outside wing Mel Embree picked up the other major. Riders' lone major came from Mike Marushak.

That game opened the week-end action in the west, which will be continued tonight with Edmonton Eskimos meeting the Stampeders in Calgary and on Labor Day when Winnipeg goes to Regina and Calgary takes on the Eskimos in Edmonton.

Back east the Big Four prepared for the first league game between Argonauts and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, on Labor Day in Hamilton. The league opened last Wednesday when Ottawa beat Montreal Alouettes 32-28.

The east's other senior loop, the Ontario Rugby Football Union, opens tonight with Toronto Balmy Beach playing against Brantford Redskins. On Monday Balmy Beach takes on Sarnia Imperials while Windsor Royals encounter Brantford at night.

Hamilton Needs Two for Title

HAMILTON (CP) — A Canadian team is on the verge of winning the Class D Pony Baseball League title for the first time since the loop was formed in 1939.

Hamilton Cardinals need only two victories to clinch the pennant despite a 7-0 loss to Bradford last night. It was Hamilton's first loss in 12 games and only slightly marred a record of 29 victories in their last 33 contests.

The Cardinals have four games left to play and hold a two-game lead over Jamestown which beat Batavia 4-1 last night.

The Cards boast the leading pitcher in the league in 21-year-old Bob Umfleet, who has a 22-4 won-lost record.

Wild Ducks in South Dakota

By JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT
(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

Those of you who read these weekly news stories may remember that last winter I wrote bout South Dakota. In fact, I ave written several stories bout South Dakota. Some of hem have been in this column nd some have been in the outoor magazines. All were written rom first-hand data and all were meant to convey one single, outtanding truth, according to the way I see things.

That lamentable truth is this — the State of South Dakota, by he mismanagement of its natural hooting facilities, is doing its est to abrogate what has been—nd could be again — a handome annual income.

In other words, South Dakota as been trying to have its cake nd eat it, too.

Briefly the story is this — a good many years ago ringneck pheasants were stocked in South Dakota, at first in the general vicinity of Watertown. The arm land and the prairies suited he birds and they multiplied enormously.

In the course of time the residents realized that the situation was getting out of hand. They ad too many pheasants. Crops were suffering and the farmers eeded help.

So the residents and the State officials invited the sportsmen of he nation to come and shoot pheasants. Gradually the word pread and the sportsmen came with their guns.

Real Trouble

It was the same old story. Turn he boys loose in a situation like hat, with inadequate supervision, and then you are in real rouble. Fantastically nigh legal imits attracted the meat-hungry — the game hogs. For the most part it was not sport; it was wholesale slaughter.

The out-of-staters broke down fences, drove their cars through corn fields and soy beans; they shot thousands of birds. Moreover, they shot and took with them any variety of livestock that they could stow in automobiles — calves, sheep, poultry, pigs, everything.

Gradually the pendulum swung the other way. Farms were posted and new regulations were established. Pheasant shooting was legal only from noon until sundown and out-of-staters were forbidden to shoot ducks. In addition to the regular state twenty-buck shooting licence, they instituted "transportation permits" for each county. Early-season shooting was reserved for the residents and non-staters were admitted only after the cream had been skimmed. They made things as tough as they could for the non-residents who still persisted in coming to South Dakota.

Took the Hint

Reluctantly the nation's gunners took the hint. No longer did they come to South Dakota in droves. The supply of birds had been so reduced that the shooting was only passably good. Legal limits were cut down to the point where it was hardly worth the candle to travel that far for the amount of shooting to be had after arrival. So, as I say, the out-of-state licence sale fell off.

The duck law, which prohibited non-residents from shooting waterfowl, was the straw that really broke the camel's back. Instead of being pleasantly occupied in a duck blind each morning, there was nothing for the non-resident to do but loaf around camp each day until noon. Then he could go out and shoot pheasants, assuming that he could find any.

When the hunters stopped coming, the dollars they brought with them stopped coming also. The annual influx of sportsmen's money, which ran well into the millions, dried up to unpleasantyl small proportions. What, then, to do about it?

I have before me the tabulations of the results of a poll which was "put before a representative cross-section of voters throughout the state." These results are interesting. Here are the questions and the results of the voting.

"Do you favor or oppose permitting non-resident hunters to shoot migratory waterfowl in South Dakota?

Their replies grouped according to residence:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Favor	64%	67%	98%	38%
Oppose	29	26	2	50
Don't know	7	7	—	12
Total	100%	100%	100%	100%

At the present time South Dakota law bars non-residents from shooting migratory waterfowl in the state. Many persons feel that this restriction prevents the state from collecting revenue from visiting hunters. Do you think South Dakota should or should not change the law to allow non-residents to hunt in the state?

The vote:

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Should	72%	73%	95%	49%
Should not	27	20	5	51
Don't know	1	7	—	—
Total	100%	100%	100%	100%

If you favor permitting non-residents to hunt in South Dakota, do you favor allowing as many hunters enter the state as wish to or do you favor limiting the non-resident hunters to a specific number?

	Total	City	Town	Farm
Limited No.	44%	76%	11%	50%
Unlimit. No.	56	24	89	50
Total	100%	100%	100%	100%

You will note that the farmers don't care to have out-of-staters shooting "their" ducks. Conversely, the folks who live in towns, handy to the shooting and missing sorely the non-resident dollars, are overwhelming in favor of extending full courtesies to out-of-staters.

Unfriendly Farmers

If you go to South Dakota you will find a certain amount of animosity reflected in your dealings with the farmers who, of course, control the pheasant shooting. At least, that was the way I found things last year.

The only way that we could find any shooting worth while was to hire a farmer to go along and act as guide. He could get us in behind the unfriendly no-trespass signs.

When South Dakota realizes more fully that sportsmen's dollars are nice things to have, maybe the authorities will temper their regulations so that conditions are attractive to out-of-state gunners.

First off, they should repeal that duck law and let us have our morning's duck hunt.

They should let us hunt early in October, while the weather is still reasonably warm. It is not much fun hunting pheasants in blizzards and sub-zero temperatures.

They should widen the legal limits enough to make the shooting worth travelling a thousand miles or so to enjoy. No sportsman worthy of the name enjoys slaughtering birds but he should be allowed a daily limit wide enough to give him a half day of good shooting.

Of course, this is only one man's opinion. However, it is based on the personal experience of three hunting seasons.

South Dakota, as it was when I first shot there, was a lot of fun and well worth the long journey. The way I found things last year certainly would not prompt me to spend the time and the money for a return trip.

Sport in Brief

TORONTO (CP)—Brantford Redskins of the senior Ontario Rugby Football Union will be allowed to use Al Dekdebrun as their quarterback this season, Toronto Argonauts announced last night.

Bob Moran, president of the Big Four club, said that if Dekdebrun returns to the Big Four next season he will be obliged to come back to Argos.

Argos thus ensured that Dekdebrun will be able to complete his required four years in Canadian football to qualify next season as a non import.

Dekdebrun, who led Argos to their 1950 Grey Cup championship, was dropped by the club in mid-season last year because coach Frank Clair said his passing arm had "gone dead." Argos refused to release him until now even though the other Big Four clubs had waived on him

The former Cornell player said at his home in Buffalo he will definitely play for Brantford if released.

TORONTO (CP)—Mal Whitefield, the United States Olympic track star who was due to appear in track meets at the Canadian National Exhibition today and Monday, came here yesterday but he didn't stay long.

The Olympic 800-metres champion from Columbus, O., spoke briefly with a C.N.E. representative shortly after his arrival and soon after was on his way home.

Officials said the U.S. Air Force technical sergeant's appearance here was cancelled through a disagreement regarding "expense money". They declined to say what amount was involved.

The officials said Whitefield had been refused extra money earlier in the week. They said he apparently came to Toronto hoping the C.N.E. management had changed its mind.

FOREST HILLS (AP)—Favored stars boomed through their opening matches in the United States tennis championships with ease yesterday while officials fretted over a stomach ache belonging to Ken McGregor, champion of Australia.

McGregor, who is ranked second only to his stalwart teammate Frank Sedgman on the foreign seeded list, said he intended play his first-round match today against Calvin MacCracken of Tenafly, N.J., but he held out little hope he would be able to serve overhand.

Sedgman squashed Alvin Bunis, a scared youngster from Cincinnati, 6-1, 6-0, 6-0.

Of the three Canadians entered in the men's singles, only Brendan Macken, seeded No. 12, saw action. Macken defeated Joaquin Reyes of Mexico, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2. Henri Rochon of Montreal and Lorne Maine of Vancouver play their first-round matches today.

GALT (CP)—Galt Black Hawks announced yesterday that Robert (Red) Hamill has been re-appointed coach of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A team.

Hamill, former member of the Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League, last year coached the Galt team to third place in the 10-team circuit. Hawks lost out to Toronto St. Michael's College in the playoffs.

Working with Hamill will be Bob Wilson, chief eastern scout for the Chicago team. Wilson will make his headquarters in Toronto, and divide his time between Galt and the Belleville Hawks, Chicago's junior B farm club in eastern Ontario.

The Galt team this year loses six players through the age limit and all are expected to get a trial with the Chicago club at its Pembroke camp. They are Pete Conacher, Mike Buchanan, Jack Price, Jack Hill, Tom Fyles and Bill McIntosh.

ATLANTIC CITY, N.. (AP)—Jersey Joe Walcott, world's heavyweight boxing champion, will move into Atlantic City Sunday to start heavy training for his title defence against Rocky Marciano at Philadelphia Sept. 23.

Walcott winds up three weeks of preliminary workouts at Hawkinsville, N. J., this weekend.

Walcott said yesterday:

"I have put in my hardest licks for the fight. I ran three to five miles every morning and walked five to seven miles every day after dinner.

"My legs are in excellent condition and that is all I have to worry about. I weigh about 201 and expect to weigh 195 for the fight.

"Chopping down over a hundred trees has also strengthened my arms and toughened my hands."

LONDON (AP)—Promoter Jack Solomons yesterday gave Joe Maxim 15 days to name a date for his defence of his world light-heavyweight title against Britain's Randy Turpin.

If the champion from Cleveland does not come through, Solomons said he will apply to boxing commissions throughout the world to declare the title vacant and name another opponent for Turpin.

Maxim was suspended indefinitely by the New York Athletic Commission last Tuesday for not honoring a contract to fight Turpin Sept. 23.

DUQUOIN, Ill. (AP)—A world's record for trotters was broken twice yesterday by a pair of stablemates—Star's Pride and Florican. Both horses are owned by Arden Homestead stables of Goshen, N.Y.

Florican, driven by Del Miller, turned the first mile of the $5,000 free-for-all trot in 1:57 2-5, beating the mark of 1:57 3-5 made by Victory Song of Springfield, Ill., in 1947.

On the second trip, Star's Pride, with Harry Pownall in the sulky, sped home in 1:57 1-5 to break the record for trotting stallions, either in a race or against time, and the mark for trotters of either sex.

Whip, Pat Flatten Clip, Fat In Team Embroglio at Arena

By GEO. H. CARVER
(Sports Editor)

The Whip and Pat murmered "That is that"
As they glanced down on a littered mat.
Then something moved, did a sidewise flip
And lo, behold 'twas the Lip and Clip.

Yes, kiddies that was it.

Last night in Memorial Arena there were so many people cluttering up the ring that a couple of Yanks in the audience yelled "We're the delegation from Minnesota." They thought it was an American political convention.

Anyway by the time the statuary in the ring had shown some sign of life it was discovered that Whipper Watson and "Doc' Pat Flanagan had smeared the hated Lord Athol Layton and his pugnacious bodyguard, Lew Pitroscia (if you read this, Vic Bagnato, we're only kidding) much to the gratification of 1,600 of the faithful.

Lou Godder was present. He was dressed in white and to satisfy your curiosity, he was the fifth, sixth and seventh man in the ring, the guy that did the semaphoring, gesticulating and soto vocces.

We Wonder

Yup, people like that are sometimes known as referees, although we often wonder what the I.Q. of the faculty of the College of Applied Pachydermy is when they graduate such types. Oh, Sammy did a job all right but we wondered why he took time out to get into a discussion over the Iranian oil question with Whipper Watson in one corner while the Clip and Fat were belaboring the bejabors out of Pal Pat.

Sammy was really in a tough spot. These pachydermic bozos have no idea of sportsmanship. In fact the Damon-Pythias spirit that is apparent in this brotherhood of the ring was definitely outstanding last night.

Dag nabbit, no sooner did Sammy pin a rassler in the corner and ask him what he thought of Hog's Back in the fifth at Saratoga, than the opposition would get together, nail the foemen against the ropes, chop his chops, juggle his jugular and do a general grease job on the sweating chassis.

All-in-all the Whip and Pat had a good evening. True they spotted the Clip and the Lip a couple of points but generally speaking they were the better of the two. Pat at one time did a couple of drop-kicks that would make a grid star go green with envy while the Whip was whipping across the Layton plate like a big league hurler.

But 'Is Nibs, egad was in there chopping like a true son of judo. "Fatso" Pitroscia heaved his abdomen in the general direction of everybody and should get a pension from Layton for heroic action above and beyond the call of duty."

The loyalty of the crash clan was terrific. No sooner did a hated foeman disturb a lock of the enemy's hair than his squire was in there beside him advertising "Slickem" hair tonic and raising "Old Ned" with a stranger clad in white.

In any event the Whip and Pat stole the show from the Clip and Fat. So that is that.

Ray Villner, the rasslin' dynamo name, staged a terrific battle with Masked Marvel but dangit, he was judged a bad boy and his naughty actions against the holier-than-thou Mask earned him a disqualification.

Sonny Kurgis and the ferocious Tiger Tasket battled to a thirty-minute draw in the opener.

Panthers Win Two in Row

BRANTFORD (CP) —Kitchener Panthers last night scored their second straight win in the senior Intercounty Baseball League round-robin playoffs, defeating Brantford Red Sox 9-6 by getting five runs in the seventh inning.

The defeat was the second straight for the Red Sox in the playoffs. They previously had been beaten by London Majors 8-5.

The Red Sox have two more games to play in the round robin. They play at Kitchener tonight and at London Monday night.

Kitchener's five-run outburst in the seventh sent Russ Tallevi to the showers. He was relieved by Fred Parker who gave up two runs in the ninth. The Panthers also scored in the first and fifth, getting one run in each frame.

The Red Sox were leading 4-2 until the seventh, on single runs in the first and fourth and two in the sixth.

Play in Semi-Final

KITCHENER (CP)— Stratford Nationals and Elmira Reads will play a five-game semi-final series in the Intercounty Baseball League intermediate playoffs. The opener is in Stratford today.

In the other semi-final bracket, the Fergus-Hespeler series, now deadlocked at two victories apiece, will be extended to a best-of-seven.

COBALT BOMB

OTTAWA (CP) — The first cobalt bomb to be built by Atomic Energy of Canada Limited left here yesterday in a sealed box car on its way to a Vancouver cancer clinic. Within a year the new crown company expects to be turning out a "bomb" a month for use in the treatment of cancer.

Look in the section in which your birthday comes, and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FOR SUNDAY, AUG. 31, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Seek to know the right answers from the right sources; don't hesitate to review, double-check. Remember church services.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—When others oppose, and affairs seem generally to go awry, don't become either discouraged or touchy. Strive the harder.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Be careful with criticisms; being quick to tell others what you think about their behavior is for Gemini to exterminate for good and harmonious living.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Today is just the sort of period for promoting better understanding and good fellowship, to create at least the disposition for agreement. Don't be stubborn.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Please note Gemini and Cancer, and while hazards to a successful day may not be the same, the recipe does hold good generally.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—We all like a compliment once in a while, and many do better with praise than criticism. In this world none can expect all applepie order. Smile.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Think things over first; review procedures and possible contentions. Being diplomatic helps, if you aren't violating good principles. Prayer important.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Seize upon just opportunities—those that will not compromise with right nor hurt another needlessly. Use today for a better tomorrow and week. Pray.

November 23 to December 22 Sagittarius)—If your day is free, enjoy true relaxing that revitalizes energy, strengthens you for work ahead. If you must work, do it willingly, smilingly.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Do not tend to feel sorry about the past nor that you have been slighted. Waste no time mooning. Forward with a prayer!

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Better days than this one? Yes, but everyday can, should, record an advance as Aquarians are so capable of doing when he (she) organizes his (her) abilities.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—If others don't have things their way, nor feel the sort of freedom they like, neither will you in many respects. But this is an excellent reviewing, researching, rebuilding time.

YOU BORN TODAY have many abilities, varied talents, a wealth of will power. Place yourself outside you, try to see how others come by their opinions. And observe that there are good successful ways not always in line with yours. Have more than one interest, different from your daily routine. This is the birthdate of many famous writers, including Theophile Gautier, French novelist.

FOR MONDAY, SEPT. 1, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Moon and Saturn only planets favorably aspected this inteersting but not all friendly day. Hard work, handling tools, machinery, mining, steel among most sponsored.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—Neither all favorable, nor hindering tendencies. Be thoughtful, alert and you can get best possible out of endeavors. Difficult tasks, dealing in lumber, steel, machinery highly favored.

May 21 to June 31 (Gemini)—And your day not all encouraging but neither is it unyielding. Much is up to you, what your urgent duties are. Don't be overoptimistic; you can have sound results.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Your Moon in fine aspect, also Saturn: most favorable, stimulating combination under which to work, particularly for personal interests.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—Mild day, helpful for plans, laying out schedule, conferences, business meetings. Very good rays for miners, steel work, all handling with care machinery, tools, etc.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo) — Caution stressed in matters requiring keen judgment, legal, government and political interests; but day on whole is amenable to conscientious efforts.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Mild for private affairs; generally excellent for industrial matters, trades, machinists, plumbers, builders, railroad and transportation employees, foresters, farmers, the military.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—Day especially favors interests requiring sturdy perseverance, long - term investments, building up new enterprises; dealing in machinery, tools, minerals, metals.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Exercise considerable caution in financial undertakings, legal matters. But day is generous and progressive for urgent, essential work.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn) — Excellent Saturn rays now give you the break over many of us. Your specific interests, business connections and friendly social affairs highly sponsored.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius) — Uranus configurations here, warn against spasmodic tries at this-and-that; encourage regular, systematic tempo for occupational and other duties for best results.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—Familiar daily routine and activities for which you have training top today's sponsored Care urged in delicate and artistic matters.

YOU BORN TODAY: Remarkable talents, strong characteristics; can succeed to high degree in profession or other calling if you take things philosophically and do not constantly worry over your welfare. You are artistic, entertaining, plus solidly capable and dependable. Birthdate: Rex Beach, novelist.

FOR TUESDAY, SEPT. 2, 1952

March 21 to April 20 (Aries)—Could be more encouraging for material interests but maybe this is well, it will revive new interest. Day urges unselfishness, honest effort.

April 21 to May 20 (Taurus)—As for most, today says turn more thought to family, intimate affairs. It can be done without neglecting business or other matters.

May 21 to June 21 (Gemini)—Where extra work and thinking is required, do it cheerfully; don't relax too quickly. May be tendency toward recklessness. Avoid sarcasm.

June 22 to July 23 (Cancer)—Take things in stride. There are matters that could upset your plans if you don't watch out. Retrench where you should till more encouraging aspects prevail.

July 24 to August 22 (Leo)—"A little with contentment is great fain" is excellent motto this not wholly rpomising day. Do some research, review mistakes and gains; get set for better days.

August 23 to September 23 (Virgo)—Go about usual chores calmly; don't let outsiders bother you. Behind the cloud there is a bright and happy period. Chin up!

September 24 to October 23 (Libra)—Might try toning down exuberance; do curb any excess activity. Day will be better soent if you take the happy-medium road.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio)—You could make a fine record if true to your Sign's best traits. A little daring in business may well be the difference in day's gains.

November 23 to December 22 (Sagittarius)—Make no unnecessary changes; be especially careful in business affairs. Don't tear down unless you can rebuild better.

December 23 to January 21 (Capricorn)—Generally auspicious outlook. Be sure you select the right (conservative) road. Extremes, unpremediated action often tempting and harmful.

January 22 to February 20 (Aquarius)—Unless urgent, do dig up unnecessary matters; let well enough alone in general. Attend to important things first in smartly consistent way.

February 21 to March 20 (Pisces)—May find it extra good going plus favorable news during day. Also helpful aid where least expected this somewhat unpredictable day. Heart interests in favor.

YOU BORN TODAY: Innately steadfast, honest, sincere. Excellent reasoning faculties, often critical but always the friend of those who need merited assistance. Use well your ability and diplomatic qualities. Should take things with more ease; have confidence, too.

Birthdate of: Henry George, author, political economist.

Why We Say--

"BORN WITH A SILVER SPOON IN HIS MOUTH"
$
7-2

. . . Didn't wait

It was once the custom for grandparents to give a child a silver spoon at his christening. But children in rich families already had silver spoons from birth, so the expression "born with a silver spoon in his mouth" originated.

WEST HUNTINGDON

Members of Tweed S.A. Band Provide Musical Treat

West Huntingdon — The Endeavors Sunday School class enjoyed a musical treat on Thursday evening when members of the Salvation Army band of Tweed, under the leadership of bandmaster Archie Sinclair and the newly appointed lieutenants, Brown and Peterson, supplied the entire program, which consisted of band selection "Onward Christian Soldiers"; prayer by Lieut. Brown; Scripture reading, by Miss Easter Sinclair; recitation "Albert and the Lion," by L. Paterson; cornet solo, "I'm a Child of the King," by Joyce Sinclair; vocal solo, "The Love of God," by Lieut. Brown; Instrumental quartet, "God is a Spirit," by Joyce Sinclair, cornet, Estler Sinclair, horn; Archie Sinclair, Jr. cornet and Lieut. Brown, euphonium.

Message on "Church"

Envoy Sinclair gave the special message, based on the word "Church" this was a timely message and was directed mostly to Christians urging them to think of what said letter in the word church means.

Euphonium solo by Lieut. Brown "Silver Threads"; March, by the band, "Gladness"; instrumental duet by Lieut. Brown and Peterson. Several band selections, Instrumental duet by Lieut. Brown and Joyce Sinclair. Closing number by band, "Abide With Me."

Mr. Philip Carr voiced the appreciation of the class to the visitors for their outstanding program.

Following the regular business of class and benediction, the wiener roast and other refreshments were served in the Orange Hall. At the close the visitors again entertained with the singing of choruses and old fashioned hymns.

Project Pygmalion

By Grey MacMillan

Copyright 1952 by NEA Service, Inc.

The next afternoon I was shopping when I ran into Miss Mitford. She taught me English Lit. in high school, and she was my favorite teacher. She hadn't changed except for being a little heavier and grayer and I took her to a nearby restaurant for tea.

She brought me up to date on a number of my old classmates and then I asked: "Did you ever teach a boy named David Carlson—six or eight years back?"

"Indeed I did!" she exclaimed, setting her cup down abruptly. "I was his homeroom teacher in tenth grade. He quit school in May that year, and it was a blow to me. How do you happen to know him?"

I told her briefly. She listened with acute interest.

"It's funny, your mentioning David," she said reflectively. "Because I was thinking about him just recently. There are many cases of bright young boys who hate school. But David is, by any standards, exceptional. The day he left school he came to me at closing time and said goodby so sweetly, such a big, manly-looking chap. I sat there at the desk after he'd gone and just cried. I thought I'd failed, somehow."

I poured her another cup of tea and said. "You're discouraging me. You tried and failed."

"Well, possibly the years have improved his home situation. He did have very real family troubles, and I think that's the main reason he couldn't adjust to school. The father drank, and sometimes got put in jail, and the home was held together by the mother. He never had a chance, you see. And he got married so young! To a girl three years older than he was—Ida Sommers. Wore spike heels to school, you know the type. Impudent little thing. Knew all the wisecracks."

"I can imagine," I said.

"Well, at any rate," she continued, "I was shocked to hear type. I'm no geneticist but I knew type. I'm no geneticit, but I knew the quality of David's mind.

"One night about a year ago I was coming home from a movie with my sister and her husband, and I saw David. He was with a crowd of loud, ill-dressed men and omen, who were straggling along the sidealk, taking up most of the room. He looked me full in the face, a long, desperate sort of look. But he didn't speak or give sign of recognition, and the incident has rather haunted me at times since."

When David arrived that night he had a package with him. "Here," he said. "This is to replace that glass I dropped last night when I was drying dishes"

"Don't be a dope. I have seven more."

"It's the principle of the thing," answered David. Then, ingenuously, "But I didn't know what an expensive thing I was dropping. A buck and a quarter for just a glass!"

"That's called a footed tumbler," I corrected. "Kathy and I picked out the pattern years ago. Gave them to each other for birthdays and such. I've got eight goblets too."

He took down a teacup and held it up curiously. "This here cup now, I guess it was expensive too?"

"That's English bone china, and yes, I guess it was. I didn't have to buy it, though. Mother used it for years, and gave it to Kathy and me when she moved to California."

He was hot on the trail now. He held up a spoon next, turning it this way and that handling it with gentleness and respect. "Sterling silver—that much I do know. But how much would just a spoon like this cost?"

I told him and he wrinkled his brow. "And yet you eat off it every day!"

"There's no point in having things if you don't use them."

I picked up the silver cake knife and ran my fingers over it.

"This silver was going to be my wedding present to Kathy. I bought silver with my extra money that came my way. Now I have a complete service for eight and no Kathy."

David ambled around the room pricing each item. I jumped him. "Oh, come off it, David. The cost doesn't matter."

"I guess not, but I can't help comparing the way you live to. . . Tell me something, Hector. How much money do you make?"

When I answered frankly, he looked incredulous.

"You're kiddin'! I make more money than you!"

His voice was anguished. He flung himself into the reading chair and stared around the apartment, frustration clouding his eyes. Finally he muttered "you live so nice!"

I brought him a cup of coffee. "And you want to know how I do it?"

"Yes!" He looked at me humbly. "I'd like to know how to spend how to spend money."

For the rest of the evening, I tried to tell him. It was an interesting conversation, to me, because I hadn't ever analyzed how I did spend it. Frugality is so habit-forming. He listened as though every word was a pearl of wisdom, and I had to watch myself to be sure I didn't overstate or understate facts.

When the subject got around to clothes, he insisted on going to my closet and examining every item. "You know," he said, "I'd sure like to have me a gabardine raincoat like yours. Would you go with me and help pick one out?"

So I became his shopping guide.
